1979: year of David

As 1979 draws to a close, it's a time to remember the events which touched our lives in Jensen Beach during the year.

The year was one of growth, in population, in inflation, and, for some, in community spirit.

If only one single event of the past year had to be cited as the one most commonly shared by our residents, it has to be Hurricane David, which blew into town on Labor Day, spoiling the original plans for a St. Lucie Inlet festival, but, thankfully, sparing our lives.

The cane was tame compared to some of the blasts which have hit in pervious years, and as it hit at low tide, we were spared flooding. But the winds ripped off roofs and toppled thousands of trees, and in the wake of David, it seemed everyone not only had stories to tell, but also found the ordeal had brought them closer to neighbors and fellow residents.

The St. Lucie Inlet festival was belatedly held and Governor Bob Graham came as the featured guest.

Plans were announced for a new Senior Citizens Center, new businesses popped up, and long awaited improvements to the Savanna-Commercial intersection, as well as to the St. Lucie inlet began.

The annual Fourth of July show was, as usual, spectacular, and a variety of other annual events for residents and tourists were well attended.

Everyone has their own memories of 1979, but for those making news in The Mirror, the following is a month by month recap:

JANUARY

The Jack Eckerd Corporation announced plans to build a new drug store along Commercial Street at the west end of Sunview Road.

A U.S. Court of Appeals turned down an attempt by conservation attorney Martin Hoider to halt work on Florida Power and Light Company's second nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island.

The Martin County High School basketball team swept three games in a tournament in St. Petersburg and moved into first place in the state rankings.

The northbound span of Roosevelt Bridge in Stuart was closed for several days, causing massive traffic jams. The closure occurred when a report was disclosed that severe corrosion of steel supports for the drawspan had been detected.

The Jensen Beach Fire Department began sending out 1,100 letters seeking financial support for its annual fund drive.

TV3 Mirror scooped the dailies in announcing that a river chase scene for the James Bond movie "Moonraker" would be filmed on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

Maxine Bailey was reelected as president of the Jensen Area Samaritans.

The Evinrude Foundation presented a $10,000 check to the United Way fund of Martin County.

Crowded conditions at Martin Memorial Hospital were relieved when the fifth floor of the hospital was opened for use in mid-January.

Sewall's Point commissioners voted to obtain right-of-way and pave a 100-foot long segment of South River Road. The action means one more link will be completed of what commissioners hope one day will be a second through street for the peninsula portion of the town.

Florida Institute of Technology received a $98,000 Florida Sea Grant to expand its marine training program.

Local runners Dave Cameron and Jim Shearer participated in the 26-mile long Orange Bowl Marathon, with Cameron finishing 267th and Shearer coming in 679th in a field of more than 1,800 runners.

Governor Bob Graham recommended a route for the missing link of I-95 which shows the super-highway running east of the Florida Turnpike in south Martin County, and well west of the 'Pike' in the northern part of the county.

After fears of drainage problems were eased, the Sewall's Point town commission granted a certificate of occupancy for Harbor Bay Plaza.

A nine-year-old Jensen Beach youth was critically wounded when a companion carrying a shotgun tripped, discharging the gun into the boy's face.

The Jensen Beach Garden Club celebrated 20-years of service to the community.

FEBRUARY

The Jensen Beach Post Office made page one of the Miami Herald when that newspaper ran a story about complaints of poor service at the post office.

Florida Power and Light Company began moving power poles out of the way to make room for planned improvements in the intersection of Commercial Street and Savanna Road.

Golden South airlines began offering commuter service out of Fort Pierce to several major airports in the state, and officials said they hoped soon to include a stop in Stuart.

Reidar Waaler, an 84-year-old Jensen Beach resident and winner of a Congressional Medal of Honor for an act of bravery in World War I, died.

The Martin County Taping Studio moved its operations from Stuart Middle School to the Highlands Plaza in Jensen Beach.

West Palm Beach postal officials refused to consider an investigation of alleged problems at the Jensen Beach Post Office.

The quick response of the Jensen Beach Fire Department and the Jensen Area Samaritans was credited with saving the life of a Riverside Village woman during a fire in her mobile home.

Jensen Beach race drivers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton drove a nearly flawless race in their Porsche 911 at the 24 Hours of Daytona, earning a third-in-class, seventh overall finish in the marathon event.

U.S. Congressman L.A. Skip Bafalis announced he was calling for an investigation into alleged morale and service problems at the Jensen Beach Post Office.

Keith Craeger and his son, Robbin, sailed out of the Anchorage Marina in Rio to begin the next leg of a journey by sailboat to trace the route Sir Francis Drake when Drake circumnavigated the world. Craeger and his wife, Barbara, had crossed the Atlantic in their boat several months earlier.

Work began on a 650-foot long dock at Florida Institute of Technology. Once completed, the dock will be home port for FIT's research vessels.

Motel owners in the area reported the tourist season was booming.

Jensen Beach resident Sydna Budnick was named valedictorian at Martin County High School.

MARCH

A huge crowd turned out for the fifth annual God and Country Day ceremonies at Florida Institute of Technology.

The congregation at Trinity United Methodist Church celebrated a move into their new church building.

A gas crunch was experienced by motorists, but was not on the same scale as that which occurred several years earlier.

The Martin County Fair attracted large crowds, continuing its reputation as one of the most popular events of the year in Martin County.

Music lovers enjoyed a bluegrass festival at Florida Institute of Technology.

A St. Petersburg firm turned in the apparent low bid for the St. Lucie Inlet improvement project by bidding the job at $7.2 million.

The shortage of docking space at local marinas was described in a page one story as reaching a crisis stage.

Plans for Sailfish Point on the southern tip of Hutchinson Island were announced by Mobil Oil Estates officials, who said the development will be one of the most luxurious on the east coast.

The Martin County High School basketball team overcame a four-point deficit in the last minutes of a game against Lakeland High School to capture the state AAAA basketball crown.

More than $90,000 was raised during the social event of the year - the annual Martin Memorial Hospital Ball.

Jensen Beach Fire Chief Joe Luciano made an appeal for donations to the department, saying that while expenses have swelled, funds haven't matched the pace.

Overcoming a handicap of working with a comparatively low budget, Jensen Beach racers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton motored their Porsche 911 to a first-in-class victory at the 12 Hours of Sebring road race.

The eighth annual Blessing of the Fleet attracted a record number of boats.

APRIL

A gas shortage which was felt to a minor degree in March worsened in April, resulting in many stations operating for only a few hours a day and in frequent closings on weekends.

Local residents expressed little concern for the safety of the nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island in the wake of an accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania.

Martin County commissioners threatened to hold up approval of a huge Midport project planned by General Development Corporation in Port St. Lucie unless the county is to be compensated for the expected influx of people using the Jensen Beach causeway and county beaches.

High winds and extremely dry conditions hampered firemen from throughout the area as they battled a blaze that claim about 500 acres of

Motorists get belated present with opening of new I-95 link

Motorists got a day-late Christmas present when a new link of I-95 was opened in St. Lucie County Wednesday morning.

The new section of the super high way, about two miles long, extends the road from SR 68 (Orange Avenue) to SR 70 (Okeechobee Road) in Fort Pierce.

Though the new link is not very long, it is one that will bring a lot of convenience for motorists, because now they can get off I-95 at SR 70, go less than a mile west, and get on the Florida Turnpike. Prior to that, traffic going to and from the turnpike and I-95 was funneled down the dangerous, two-lane King's Highway.

No ceremonies accompanied the opening of the new link. Instead, workers simply removed barriers and let the traffic through.

The next progress slated for I-95 is the awarding of bids for construction of three links of the road to take it from SR 70 to the south St. Lucie County line. Those bids are expected to be awarded in January, with a bid for a strip of the road from the county line to SR 714 in Martin County expected to be awarded in about six months.

Federal officials have approved the environmental impact statement for the remainder of the missing link in Martin County, but it will be a race against time to get the road built before federal funds for interstate projects expire. Local legislators have pledged to keep up pressure to insure the missing Martin link will be built.

Chamber plans coffee

The first in a series of "Monthly Member Coffee Club" meetings was announced this week for the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, according to Dick Campbell, president.

The first meeting will be held Tuesday, January 8, in the new Frances Langford Evinrude Little Theatre, formerly the chapel auditorium, of Florida Institute of Technology. The coffee will begin at 7 a.m., with a program presented at 7:45 a.m. The meeting will end at 8:15 so that merchants can have time to get to work, Campbell said.

The program, featuring Don Stoghilet of the FIT staff, will explain to the Chamber members the impact of FIT on the community, and the future growth plans of the college.

FIT is sponsoring the coffee-pastry-juice event, which is open to members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

NEARLY READY - The new professional center at the intersection of Commercial Boulevard and U.S. 1 is nearly ready for occupancy, and the firm of Hartman, Tilton & Wilson announce its plans to move in their new quarters in January. The insurance agency, a Stuart National Bank branch and the accounting firm of Christian W. Bentele will occupy most of the building. Richard Grandfield of Stuart is the architect. Bois Construction Inc. are contractors.

Boy and woman die in accidents

A five-year-old Jensen Beach boy and a 33-year-old Port St. Lucie woman were killed in two tragic accidents which occurred locally on Christmas eve.

Christopher M. Martino, 5, of 4170 N.E. Hyline Drive, Jensen Beach, was killed Monday morning when an All-County Sanitation garbage truck backed over him.

The accident occurred at 9:30 a.m. Monday as garbage truck drive William Knight, 35, Port Salerno, was backing the truck east in the west bound lane of Cheri Drive, about a block from the child's home.

The boy was riding a bicycle east in the westbound lane. L. C. Anderson, 50, of Stuart, was riding on the back of the garbage truck and Florida Highway Patrol troopers say Anderson turned around and spotted the boy immediately behind the truck. Anderson jumped from the truck in an attempt to grab the boy, but failed to get him out of the path of the truck. The truck backed over the youth, killing him instantly, and also backed over Anderson's leg.

Anderson was not hospitalized, however.

Florida Highway Patrol troopers Randy Stringham and Bob Dees investigated the accident and charge Knight with improper backing and driving while his driver's license was under suspension.

The Martino child and his family had just recently moved to the Jensen Beach area.

Though the family had not been living here long, area residents expressed their sympathy by passing the hat to help pay funeral expenses. One woman said she didn't know if the family needed the money, but said the neighbours felt they had to do something to express their sorrow.

At 6:30 p.m. on Christmas eve, an accident at the intersection of U.S. 1 and SR 707 claimed the life of a Port St. Lucie woman.

Sharon C. Carnell, 33, of 1985 Avanti Ave., Port St. Lucie, was a passenger in a truck reportedly driven north on U.S. 1 by Arvil Ray Perkins, also of Port St. Lucie.

Though Stuart Police officials listed Perkins as the driver of the truck, he has reportedly said he was not the driver.

Stuart Police officers Doug Brown and Max Brady report that Perkins ran a red light and his truck was struck by a car driven by Grant Shaffer of North Palm Beach. The impact knocked Perkins and Carnell out of the truck, and both were taken to Martin Memorial Hospital. Ms Carnell died at 7 a.m. Christmas day from head injuries.

Perkins, who received head and face injuries, was reported in stable condition on Thursday, Dec. 27.

Stuart Police officers are asking anyone who may have been a witness to the accident, or anyone who may have any information pertinent to the accident to contact them.

The two fatalities bring the total number of persons killed on Martin County roads this year to 20, 13 more than last year.

Sixth boat show is set for Jan. 11-13

The field of candidates for the job of Jensen Beach Postmaster was narrowed to five.

Scores of friends of Sally Latham turned out for a fund raising party at the Hilltop House in Fort Pierce, and about $2,700 was raised.

AUGUST

It pointed out that each year FIT turns out about 100 students who complete an EMT course, but can't volunteer to serve their community because of governmental red tape in getting state certification for the students.

SEPTEMBER

Hurricane David, the first big blow to come this way in years, swept through Martin and St. Lucie counties, it's eye passing over Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie. The hurricane arrived on Labor Day morning and resulted in extensive wind damage. Winds were estimated at 90 miles an hour, with some saying gusts reached 110 to 120 mph. No lives were lost and no serious injuries were reported, but many homes lost portions of their roofs, trees everywhere were uprooted, and boats at several marinas were sunk. Damage was particularly heavy to the Florida Institute of Technology dormitories, to the Outrigger Resort, and to the nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island. At motorhome parks on the island, several motorhomes were overturned. Still, hurricane experts agreed we were very lucky and cautioned residents not to be complacent if another cane strikes, as David was considered a light-weight puffer.

Attempts to save the life of a beached pygmy sperm whale took the day-long efforts of marine patrol officers and volunteer swimmers, but the whale died en route to Sea World.

Fred Meeker announced a Hardees hamburger restaurant would be built along Commercial Street on land he sold to the fast-food chain. If built, it will be the first fast-food restaurant in the area.

Al Kovar was selected as the new Jensen Beach Postmaster.

The Ralph Evinrude Foundation donated $75,000 for improvements to Langford Park.

TheIzaak Walton League sponsored another successful annual kids fishing tournament at the Jensen Beach causeway.

Florida Institute of Technology opened its new school year on schedule, in spite of having to house nearly 400 students in area motels while repairs continued on David-damaged dorms.

The Mirror continued its tradition of being among the also-rans in the Great American Raft Race in Port St. Lucie.

Two persons died and seven were injured in a grinding three-car crash on SR 707A.

OCTOBER

A court ruling spelled the end of legal resistance to the construction of a second nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island.

The Jensen Beach causeway was packed as hundreds of residents and visitors turned out for the annual Leif Erikson Day celebration.

Martin County School superintendent V. James Navitsky soothed fears of North River Shores residents that their children would not, at least anytime soon, have to be transferred from Jensen Elementary to Parker Elementary.

Rains came, but spirits weren't dampened when thousands turned out for the St. Lucie Inlet Festival, a big bash to celebrate the long-awaited start of work to improve the hazardous inlet. Governor Bob Graham was the featured guest.

The annual Halloween Carnival at Jensen Elementary was termed "the biggest success ever."

Maggy Hurchalla became the first woman to serve as Martin county commission chairman.

NOVEMBER

Veterans Day was observed by both young and old citizens in Jensen Beach.

An open house and dinner at the Rick Carroll home, was a highly successful fund raiser for the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

St. Lucie County commissioner George Price assured residents of Indian River Drive that the commission will seek to maintain the low-density residential character of the drive.

Martin County commissioners voted to authorize the sale of $5 million in bonds for developing a north county wellfield and beginning a water system.

A deluge of rain fell for two days and resulted in extensive flooding of many Jensen Beach areas. Seven homes along Hyline Drive were flooded.

A 14-car smash-up at Daytona International Speedway, including the Porsche 911 of Jensen Beach racers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton, brought their racing season for 1979 to a dismal close, and clouded their plans for the 1980 season.

Martin Memorial Hospital was cited in a Mirror story as an example of full community cooperation.

FIT students began preparations to move from their motel rooms into refurbished dormitories.

DECEMBER

Fourth graders at Jensen Beach Elementary proposed nine solutions to the Iranian crisis, their favorite choice being to kick all Iranians from our nation but 60, and to hold those 60 as hostages until the Iranians return the 50 American hostages.

A plan was presented to reorganize Golden South airlines, grounded by financial problems in November.

Ground was broken for a new wing at the Elliott Museum.

The last detour erected for the road improvement project on Savanna Road and Commercial Street was lifted, as the project nears completion.

Lenny Laden, creator of the Galloping Grannies, died while performing on stage at Indian River Community College.

Richard Campbell, editor and publisher of The Mirror, was installed as president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

A plan to reorganize Golden South airlines was withdrawn and it looks like the airline may remain grounded until legal problems are solved.

County officials learned that the amount of local funds required to participate in a federal beach renourishment program may be too high for restoring all public beach areas.

In spite of predictions of a high voter turnout, only 54 of about 1,000 Ocean Breeze Park residents turned out for the town alderman election. There were three unopposed candidates.

Former Jensen Beach resident Paul Budd returned for the holidays and got in a good visit with Ron Johnston, a man whose life Budd was instrumental in saving when he organized a fund drive for him in 1968. Johnston suffered from kidney failure, but today is healthy, happy, and the owner of a kidney donated by his sister.

The new year, more of the same

Everyone becomes philosophical in the beginning of the year. Thus, so must we, too.

This is the end of the decade of the seventies.

We entered it in war, and it looks like we may enter the 1980s on the brink of war.

1970 was a time of concern for the boys in Viet Nam. It took several years for Richard Nixon to stage the return of the troops, and salvage a small bit of respect from the debacle.

1970 was a time when the students rioted in the streets. That ended soon after the decade began, due to the change in mental direction of the Nation.

As the ten year period progressed, we saw the materialistic society emerge, the time when the people thought more of themselves, discounting even family, to get "mine."

While it was an emotionally discouraging time, it was also an enriching time. Culture took an upward bound in books, plays and motion pictures.

In Florida, Claudius Kirk, the first governor of a Republican nature since Reconstruction, made every other state in the nation smile with his outlandish antics in 1970, to be followed by two very serious governors who brought respect back to the office.

In 1970, County Judge Mallory Johnson called the Martin County jail a "rat hole," and "delapidated and antiquated." The people answered the call of Commissioner Bill Owens with approval of millage to build a new jail in the 70s.

In 1970, pine trees were dying on the Jensen Beach Causeway, their roots exposed by wind-blown waves of the Indian River. They are still dying, only ten years later it is trees ten and twenty feet landward from those that died before.

It was in 1970 that Claudia Ross, a fledgling reporter joined the Mirror. She died as an investigative reporter in Thialand a few years later.

In 1970, The Mirror suggested that the traffic problem on Commercial Street from SR 707 to the FEC railroad tracks be solved by making it a mall, with two new streets created to the south and the north. Traffic is still a problem on that street.

Back at the turn of the last decade, the Corps of Engineers were reporting that the cost of improving the St. Lucie Inlet would be as much as $3.5 million. He complained that the county was beginning another study of the inlet, which would raise again the price. Ten years later, we are just getting started on what will probably cost the public $8 million.

Martin County Schools officials were talking about organizing a new study center at the former Jensen Beach Elementary School on SR 707 in 1970. Today, that school is a brilliant example of hard work, proper use of federal funding, with state and county funding and an environmental center that all can speak of with pride.

Opening the 1970 season, the Corps of Engineers opened the St. Lucie locks, ruining fishing in the St. Lucie estuary. Fishermen were furious. It took many years, but in 1979, the Corps had moved to a careful distribution of the overflow from Lake Okeechobee, and the fishermen can be thankful for the effort.

In 1970, the state was saying that septic tanks were to be phased out in favor of large sewage plants. In 1979, the state is encouraging smaller sewage plants, and septic tanks.

The county commission in 1970 called for a study of Jensen Beach Causeway to decide where the bulkhead would be put to protect the causeway from erosion. In 1979, the Jensen Chamber was calling for completion of the causeway bulkhead to stop erosion.

The Atomic Energy Commission agreed to hold hearings on the local nuke plant on Hutchinson Island. Ten years later, the hearings, and all appeals, were concluded. Did anyone ever think why their electric bills are so high...almost as high as the reams of paper it took in ten years of public hearings.

In the "people come and go, but some stay" department, ten years ago, Jack Sheridan won the General Development Corporation award for sales in Port St. Lucie. Today, Sheridan is head of the Florida sales division of GDC as a vice president.

In 1970, speakers were debating the route of I-95 through Martin County. They are still doing it.

Also, in 1970, the county was asked to seek the widening of the east and west relief bridges on Jensen's Causeway to allow the Indian River to flow more smoothly. It wasn't done, and a few weeks ago, The Mirror called for the same thing...ten years later.

To top it off, in 1970, the census takers were being accused of bungling the proper audit of population in Martin and St. Lucie Counties. It will the same in 1980.

RESOLUTIONS
by
ALLEN F. BREWER
With another year before us
RESOLUTIONS are the "thing".
Let's supplant the faults of yesterday
With the hopes the New Year brings.
Let's forget about "what might have been",
Of thoughtless words we've said,
The 80's will be brighter.
If we think and use our head.
It doesn't take much to resolve,
The problem is to do it,
Each day if only we will plan
Ahead, we'll never rue it.
May yours be bright.....

Rouge decade

A New Year's here. It's 1980,
A year which looms both dire and weighty.
Inflation has its greedy hooks
On all our checking-savings books
With gas price aiming toward the stars
We'll need a horse to pull our cars.
It's driving every Jane and Jamie
Ayetollah Cockamamie.

But cheers, my dears, allay the gloom,
We needn't give it living room.
We've stood before, and still we stand
Though times and tides, in Jensen land
Through hurricane, through boom and bust
We've always shoveled up the dust.
And, cleaning up whatever mess
We've headed back to happiness.

So hoist on high a New Year's toast
To all the guys we dig the most:
From Robert Abt to Edward Zimmer,
May health and fortune be on "simmer."
To faithful Helen Richardson
May all your Chamber work be fun.
(How else, with Richard C. as boss?)
He rolls, and never gathers moss.

May Joe Bombers have "Chase Fun"
With seads of fish for everyone.
To Caprise, Erma and her Joe
May rivers of good living flow.
For Parsons, our Mary and Pete
May 'ns ring up profits sweet.

To Walker, Al, and Wally Redit
A year piled high with blessed credit.
To Father Coffey and his Mary
A parish extraordinary.
To Maxine Bailey, Nellie Cook
And all the others in "SAM's" book
A cup of thanks-and make it double-
For helping others out of trouble.

To Chief Luciano and his crew
A second firehouse, big and new.
To Ransom, Pop, and Norrm Tilton
A building boom as vast as Hilton.
For Wilson (Bob) George Mack et al,
A Lions' share of luck befall.
May every day be luck-imbued
For Ralph and Frances Evinrude.

On Harriet Elko and her Joe
And ACE, let goodness flow.
For Friedrichs (mike) and Richard Punski,
For Barbara Torow, Bet Zaemmitt,
Harvey Schlemmer, Robert Mayer,
Lavima Redd and Stanley Hyer,
Stan Wolkowski, Jensen Travel,
Let months to come your cares unravel.

To Brockmanns, Ursula and Fred
Here's far more than your daily bread;
For Roland Merrell and his Jane
More joy with heron, tern and crane.
To Dottie Chicks and M. Monroe
A cheer New Year is without the snow.

To Mary Killer, all the Scouts
A year unmarred by woe or doubts
To Ed and Bob, to Skipper Towl
May Sewall's make the good tomes roll.

To Janet Hutchinson and staff
(Not stopping Emeline, by half!)
May Elliott's Muse stay in the act
And keep our history intact.

May Gene Hoke, with the help of Ruth
Keep OB bright with sparks of youth.
May fortune shine on Mitchell, Ron,
Our pet financial paragon.
Our list is long, too long, I fear
To wish you all a Great New Year
But please accept this "ideal" to fun
And joy each day, til '81.

Dick Campbell

New Year, and much hope

What do we look for in the year 1980?

There must be hope, hope for a number of things.

The people of Jensen Beach must have hope for those things that can mean the most in the quality of life we experience.

In Jensen Beach, there must be an answer to the continual erosion of the ocean beaches and the Jensen Causeway.

Since the causeway is a man-made island, in the middle of a mile-wide lagoon, those who built it must have known that Mother Nature is the kind of gal who would object to less than the free flow of water north and south.

Thus, she would have to push hard to remove that which would defile the natural beauty that she created. By the same token, we need the bridge across the river, so we must try not to make Mother Nature too angry by offering some kind of sop to her.

The first step would be to recognize that the water must flow freely, without too much interruption. That means the east and west relief bridges should be lengthened, with the river free to flow in the onset of tide. This would reduce the sandbar obstruction at the bridges. It would also reduce the amount of strong smelling dead bacteria and plankton that makes Indian River Drive and Sewall's Point Road an ever ripe sewage system each summer.

The second step would be to recognize that Mother Nature is an angry lady who finds her river blocked by a mass of land that she did not put there. If we let her know that the concrete the steel bulkhead we erect along the banks of the causeway is permanent, she might be easier on us.

The bulkhead should be completed on the causeway to protect the fast eroding landfill that is there, and to protect a valuable, and treasured, recreational asset to the entire two-county area.

The area to the east of the bascule span on the Frank Wacha bridge should be planned for bulkheading, as the present county park is becoming inadequate with our growth. Its development is a necessity for our future planned growth.

Both a recreational and an environmental plan should be completed for that portion of the park so that we take care of the needs of citizens as they arise.

Getting the people from their homes to the park is also a problem.

The county commission should, with the help of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, solicit free rights-of-way to extend bike path and sidewalks to the causeway. This year the county should endeavor to get from the "Crossroads" to the causeway completed in the bike path plan.

This will take the understanding and the gift of all land owners along Indian River Drive. We have done it before, and, with the help of the land owners, we can do it again.

The bike path route through Jensen Beach is growing, a little at a time. If we just take a strip at a time, the county can keep up with the cost of improvements as rights-of-way are available.

Completion of the bike path north on Savanna Road from the V.F.W. to Commercial Street, then up Sunview Road to Skyline, south on Skyline to Commercial, and east to Indian River Drive means that the bike path-sidewalk offers safety to that point.

Perhaps this would be the year to work on the Commerical Street to Causeway section on Indian River Drive. Then the bikers would be able to get from the VFW to the causeway in comparative safety.

Of course, the Commercial to Crossroads section is a demon. There have been several deaths along that narrow stretch of road in the past, and the number of owners along that road would make it difficult to get all rights-of way donated. The county doesn't have the money for both rights-of-way and sidewalk, so that means that the rights-of-way would have to be donated if we are to increase safety and give our residents greater access to both businesses and recreation.

This does not even take into account the four miles of A-1-A down Hutchinson Island, a bike-path necessity.

Nor does it take into account the need for proper planning of access on the strip of land from the shopping area at Savanna Road and Commercial Street to U.S. 1. It is impossible to accept the entire three miles of road being commercial development. It would be a good move if the master plan called for off-highway access roads to residential and shopping areas, access roads that include bike paths.

With the master plan hearings in January to consider such matters, it is hoped that the county will heed the need for good planning and provide for those embellishments of good planning.

It would seem that our hopes for the new year are concentrating on recreation and traffic patterns. That is true, but, then, that is a primary consideration of the county commission, and that is our governing body.

It will be interesting to see what happens to our hope in the coming year.

Food or guns

BY CONGRESSMAN SKIP BAFALIS

Would you help feed a man across town who was spending all his money on guns so he could rob his neighbors?

Of course not. It makes no sense to take money out of your pocket to feed someone capable of feeding himself, but who'd rather spend his money on guns to be used against his neighbors.

Yet, if the U.S. Senate has its way, that's what you're going to be doing.

When the House of Representatives passed its version of the foreign aid bill, it wisely included a provision arming direct and indirect aid to Vietnam.

I say, wisely because the evidence is clear the Vietnamese can feed themselves.

They can, but they won't. And they won't because they're busy sending their troops into Laos and Cambodia.

Even the Vietnamese vice director of the Economic Institute of the Commission for Social Science admits it.

"You could say we can feed our own people this year because we produced all we need: 12.5 million tons of rice," Le Vinh was quoted as saying in the Washington Post. "But we cannot feed the people. We had to put our rice to other uses."

"Now we have to give more food and spend greater amounts on military. More of our foreign currency is reserved for the military," he said.

Yet, even though Vietnam is starving its own people to support its military adventures in other, less powerful Southeast Asian nations, there are those in the Senate and in the White House who feel we should take up the slack in the Vietnam rice bowl.

In fact, the Senate voted decisively to delete the House restriction against U.S. aid to Vietnam.

Why? The reason given was a reluctance to tie the President's hands in the conduct of foreign policy.

That's why the House included the restriction in the first place, just as it did restrict aid to Cuba, and several other nations whose policies serve only to promote world tension.

Unfortunately, however, the Senate opposed those restrictions too. Only the ban against direct aid to Cuba remains. The ban against indirect aid was lifted by a 50-44 vote, so that the World Bank can do what the administration knows the people will oppose — funneling U.S. tax dollars to Castro.

How to keep resolutions

If you're like most folks, you've probably made a list of New Year's resolutions for 1980.

And, if you're like most folks, you'll probably break most of those resolutions within a week or two.

Lots of people resolve to lose weight, to go on a health kick by exercising, or to do any number of other things to improve their physical condition. And, if the resolutions aren't made for improving one's health, they're usually for improving oneself in other ways, such as resolving to take a night course in college, to tear up credit cards and become fiscally solvent, or to learn a new hobby.

Sometimes, the resolutions we make extend beyond ourselves. We resolve to be more caring to our fellow man, to exercise more patience, to get along with those who in the past year have bugged us, or to volunteer time toward some public service project.

I don't know exactly why so many people fail so miserably at keeping their resolutions, but they do.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not excluding myself from the group of folks who fail to keep resolutions. In fact, I can't think of too many resolutions I've ever kept.

That's why I decided a few years back not to bother making any more resolutions.

I figured life would be much more enjoyable that way. By not making a resolution, I couldn't break one, I told myself. I reasoned that I could avoid the almost inevitable sense of failure for not living up to my expectations, and at the same time get to feel downright smug when others broke their resolutions.

To a degree, it worked as planned. There is something diabolical in us all which makes us take pleasure in seeing others fail to achieve goals we know we'd have trouble achieving. Nobody likes to see someone do something better than they can do it. So, when others failed to achieve the noble goals they'd set for themselves, I gloated.

But there was an emptiness to the gloating. I discovered it's hard to feel smug about someone else's failure to achieve a goal when you know your lack of failure is because you didn't have a goal to shoot for. To paraphrase an old adage, I found it's better to have tried and failed than never to have tried at all. Or, in simpler terms, nothing ventured, nothing gained.

So, I went back to making resolutions. And back to breaking them.

This year I'm trying the foolish custom again, but with a difference. This year, I'm making sure to sprinkle in a few easy resolutions with the hard-to-keep ones, so I'll at least be able to retain some sense of accomplishment when I break the hard-to-keep ones.

The secret is to resolve to do things you normally do anyway.

For example, one of my resolutions is to complain about the weather everytime it rains when I have a day off.

Another is to gloat about our glorious weather in south Florida every time I write or speak to my cold-country loving sister in law, Jean, in Mystic, Conn.

Still another resolution of the I-do-it-all-the-time-anyway variety is to complain frequently to Dick Campbell about the task of having to write a column each week. That one, I know I'll keep.

In addition to those type resolutions, it's always good to include at least one resolution which you really hope you'll break. Then, when you break it, you'll feel good instead of bad. In that vein, I resolve to write a column every week.

CELEBRATED FOURSOME –The presence of well-known actor Richard Lake, who did Christmas narrations during the evening, drew a crowd of 750 to Elliott Museum Christmas Eve carol sing. With Lake, (second from left,) are Elliott Museum director Janet Hutchinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lanese of Jensen Beach. Mrs. Lanese, a sculptor, will have a collection of her works on display at the museum during January.

APPOINTED –Alan Lavoie has been appointed director of marketing and sales for Ocean Village. Lavoie has been active in real estate marketing, sales direction and management in South Florida and Puerto Rico for more than ten years. During the past year and a half he has been sales director for Boca Bayou, in Boca Raton. Prior to that he was sales director for several other major condominium and single-family developments in the South Florida area. A 1964 graduate of Athens College, Athens, Alabama, Lavoie holds a degree in Business Administration and has extensive experience in a broad spectrum of sales management, training and forecasting.

Travel Along with
Stan Smith & Helen Engebretsen

Everybody loves a bargin and a charter can be such a bargain. It costs less than practically any other form of air transportation. But the traveler gets the same amount of comfort and attention as in any other category of flight. People on the charter simply pay less per seat because the seats are bought all in one block. Bulk purchase of many things is less expensive and charter seats are no exception. Then, too, charters conform to the law of supply and demand. When enough people want to go somewhere, a charter flight can be born. Scheduled flights, on the other hand, have to leave an schedule regardless of how many or how few people are booked.

Whether you're looking for a bargain charter or need airline tickets quickly for a business trip, it makes sense to rely on the expertise of a professional. When you are ready to travel, JENSEN BEACH TRAVEL SERVICE, 1900 N.E. Commercial St., Tel. 334-1300 and GALERNO VILLAGE TRAVEL 5571 S. Federal Highway, Tel. 286-3600, are ready to assist you. There is never an extra charge for their service. So, don't stand in line waiting for tickets. Give us a call and your tickets will be ready and waiting for you. You'll like our personal attention.

TRAVEL TIP:

Group Inclusive Tours require a minimum group size, mandatory land packages, have a specific length of stay and must be booked and paid for in advance.

LIGHT FANTASTIC—Among the dancers sharing the floor at the Holiday Out Christmas party last week were Betty Lally and Sonny Granstroff, both of who were taking time out from their committee duties for a whirl or two. Mrs. Lally's gown, of Santa-red and white trim, was one she picked up in Tunis on a world tour.

Ocean Breeze

BY ERNIE CURWEN
334-6736

The holidays are over, a few with a sigh of relief, but for most it was with a little bit of regret, as they'd had a wonderful time For Ocean Breezers there was something doing about every night and further more many had visitors, and best of all their grandchildren and 'greats' had a chance to see grandpa and grandma at home in the Florida sunshine

Even the weather man was cooperative in supplying plenty of that good ol' balmy Florida weather, so when the visitors have to go back to the frigid northland, they can take back a good Florida tan. Although there were not returnees listed, there were plenty of visitors and they sure were enjoying the park: kids bicycling around; moms and dad feeding big 'Blue' the stately herron; mom gasping as a cute little lizard darts by her foot, and dad getting fishing tackle ready for the 'Blues'; also some wanted to know where are those whopping big roaches, kind-of-hoping they wouldn't see any. In fact they were having a 'ball'.

PARK EVENTS

A WALK & SING started the holiday activities at 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 21, when Walt & Betty Osgood and Bernie & Alma O'Neil gather a group of 75 to sing Christmas carols at the homes of 20 'shut-ins'. They marched and sang all around the park from 7 to 9 p.m. with many folks coming out of their homes to join in the singing and applaud. It can truly be said that a good time was had by all, shut-ins and singers alike.

THE CHRISTY DANCE was next, Sat. Dec. __, at 8:30 in the Clubhouse. The hall was trimmed with green as usual, with tree and fireplace on the stage and the ladies wore their long gowns, so they made a pretty scene as they danced. Then, there was entertainment and 'Oh Boy' was it good. First the "Of Smoothies": Joe & Ann Ballinghoff; Merle & Lillian Bender; Lee & Betty Brunt; and Jim & Leslie Winnergrin gracefully danced and intricate waltz. Next, the "Honey Dos": Merle Bender; Bert Dandy; and Jim Winnergrin, as pretty robust ladies, sang with appropriate gestures, "Sugar in the Morning" (It was so good, they'll surely do it again). Then, there was the Joke Tree with Santa Junior distributing the gifts, to make it a most enjoyable affair.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT was next on the schedule, Sun, Dec. 23, 7 p.m. at the Shuffle Courts. More than 100 gathered to hear and sing the carols, to John Leybacks HIFI PA system. There was a overflow crowd and then for those who missed Ed Pettit's slide show of his train trip through Mexico, there was a rerun at the clubhouse It's been a busy time ofr all OBPers

KID'S XMAS PARTY never fails to go over big for the little ones and grandma, who watched and snaped a dozen pictures. There were games first, then there was a lunch prepared by Orlee Eckland, served by Helen Nylan at the table trimmed by Joe and Ada Wisser. Next the 14 kids received gifts from Santa (Dick Aumiller, as usual).

CHURCH SERVICE in the clubhouse was very well attended, as the PA system started at dawns early light to get the CBpers up and ready. As usual, Ralph Orth gave out the programs with Rev Milton Frances conducting the service and Kathleen Cooley was soloist.

A NEW YEARS PARTY, 9:00 p.m., Mon. Dec. 31, will wind up the holiday activities. This is where the 'gals' get a chance to wear their new long gowns and the 'guys' wear ties and jackets. The feature, as usual, will be the secret initiation ceremony, so that newcomers can become true blue OBPers.

CAMERA CLUB members, last week, Dec. 20 enjoyed a hodge-podge of President Nina Zigelbeiber's slides. They gave the folks a chance to see in pictures the gorgeous peacocks, Ralph used to have at the park entrance. No meeting Dec. 27, but on Jan 3, Program Mgt. and Vice President 'Squirky' Garside will show part one of "Best of Hawaii".

SHUFFLERS had a busy week, although there were no league games, here is Indian League standings: Sp. Lakes, 24; Stuart, 23; OBP, 22; P. St. Lucie, 20.

Turkey shoot was a huge success, due to efforts of Ted Witmer, who supplied turkeys, chickens and other prizes and to Irma Fair who was in charge of Country Store, of donated goods and money. Santa (Guy Fusco, twinkling eyes peering through a white beard) arrived in electric cart to distribute oranges and candy canes.

Ladies winning chickens: Pearl Wheelock; Evelyn Groves; Ruth Phelps; Ida Wisser. The men: Al Colby; Ken Smith; Peanuts Cunningham. Men's Singles: Ralph Bailets and Ladies Singles: Grace Blow. Novice Winners: Ed Pettit and Lou Mayer. Silver Dollars won by: Minnie Bremer, Margret Hindman, Chris Radict, Bun Miller and visitor Turkey was won by Evelyn Hillman and perfect scores by Grace Blow, Pearl Wheelock and Pete Hillman ended a perfect day. There was free coffee and fruit cake throughout the day, served by Olive Witmer, George Lebon and helpers

There was also an "Xmas Silver Dollar Special" for Buckaroos with Bunn Miller, P.T. Mathy; Charles Fair; Cyril Mathy; Ray Stewart; Bill Jones and Geo LeBlon the winners.

RAMBLING AROUND

Evelyn Figueiredo, 2 Almond St. Well you read all about her last week, but through an over sight her name was never mentioned (see if you can figure it out!).

Joe and Lillian Fulford of 18 SW 7th have guests from their home town of Bloomington, Ind. Lillian's sisters and their husbands: Charles & Betty Fipps, and Richard and Joan Gose. Richard and Joan motored on for a couple of days in Naples, visiting some friends, but will be back here to continue their visit, as they love the park and the very friendly people, and the sunny Florida weather. They thank all OBPers for being so nice to them.

Berman and Kate Murphy, 6 NE 4th Ave come down here for the winter from Norfork, Va. where they have a home and garden of 200 prize winning Azaleas. They were originally from Crewe, Va. so you can well image that Jt was Lucher and Mary Weeks and sister Emma Neblett who enticed them to come here. They have 3 sons, married, and there are 6 grandchildren. One son in Newport News, Va. works for General Electric and the other lives in Grand Rapids, Mich. and works for Westinghouse. This son will be coming to Key West this month on business and plans to stop off for a visit.

Harold and Rosemary Reid, of 6 Areca are down here from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and report Harold's remarkable parents are doing quite well, everything considered, but are not quite up to a trip down here this year. Remember, last year Raymond at 97 was going on his 3-wheeler to shuffle courts every day. Raymond, 98 years, and Lillian 90 years, celebrated their 77th wedding anniversary last September.

They live on the 20th floor of a high-rise and have a wonderful view of the Cedar River bluffs. Raymond still paints landscapes from pictures and Lillian still presents to him their 3 day (they eat their noon time meal in the first floor restaurant). Their other son, Kenneth, who lives in Cedar Rapids had the folks for Christmas dinner, so they were well looked after. They would like to hear from their OBP friends, you're now here; Nick Leyback and his wife Edna; Nick is a superintendent of a machine shop, so must take after his dad, who is the part, "Mr. Fix-it".

Maybe it was the starlit tropical night, maybe it was just the spontaneous Holiday Out camaraderia, whatever the special ambiance, the Christmas Eve candle lit procession of carolers through the streets of Holiday Out was beautiful.

Much credit goes to Jim Allen, President of the Lot Owners Association and to Bob Black who assisted him. They delivered bags and candles to the Black Captains, who in turn, distributed them to every lot on the Park. When you realize that means 1072 bags and 1072 candles placed and lighted at dusk, it gives you an idea of the task.

Our Park truck led the procession of carolers. Aboard were the musicians, George Barns, accordionist, Roy Parker playing the banjo, Dick Scarpulla sax and Jean Taylor autoharp. They were great and so were the carolers who sang the beloved Christmas songs with sweetness and reverence.

Guests from far and near have flocked to Holiday Out to be with their family to celebrate Christmas. Del Brown's sister and brother-in-law, Lil and Larry McCaig, came from Georgetown, Mass. Annie Bennett came from San Francisco to be with her mother and father, Pinney and Zoe and Morris and Dee Brink's daughter Bonnie, came from Harrisburg, Pa. to be with them.

It was a happy holiday gathering for forty good friends in the north end of the Park who shared an al fresco Christmas dinner.

CHAPTER OF AARP

BY ERNIE CURWEN
Tel.334-0754

The happiest Americans are Seniors

holiday time, a happy time of and the Seniors seemed to feel that way, as they really forgot about the exasperating "mileage" problem; rampant ever increasing health costs $1 per gallon gasoline. But, talk of course, and a lot of the talk as why the seniors as a group the happiest, according to a survey.

survey, "The Happiest Who They Are" by Pro- Angus of the University of pointed out some very things and gave the plenty of food for thought. In place it showed that as a nation's seniors were the of all age groups, and the ing thing is that in 1957, the of that day were the least of all groups.

Memory, the survey shows 1957 (22 years ago), this same people (the then 40-59 age p), were the least happy of all. tried to figure out, why our seniors who as they often say, "the had-it-made" and were unity, were not happy as a weren't they about to retire al Security and savings to their golden years a thing of joy? now that they have found their security, no matter how you cut it, stretch until the next check and inflation has made their savings buy less than one did in 1957, it would seem group didn't have much to be about, don't it? However, they are the happiest of the lot. These are the folks that took the Great Depression and two World Wars on the chin and came back for more, so perhaps now they know they have what it takes to 'make-it' in this turbulent world and as many are living on borrowed time (so as-to-speak) feel that every day they wake up to, is a good one; so as a group they are the happiest, with hope instead of fear of the future. Or did the survey include too many of the $1000/$1500 per month retirees, to give a slanted view of the feelings of our present day seniors? Are we really as happy as the survey shows, your views on this will be appreciated.

Now to go a step further and maybe find out if the doings of the past few years have given the seniors anything to be happy about; we will examine past issues of the Mirror. It is noted that this column has recorded many very beneficial items along with column after column of gripes, and it might be interesting to reminisce a bit "by-the-years."

Starting in 1975, a local AARP chapter was formed to get the ball rolling. At first, it was mostly organizing problems, such as finding a meeting place for a 250 attendance. Then, picnics were held; Bulletin and Defensive driving classes were started, and to buck inflation a car-pool was considered and a food buying Coop was discussed (neither got off the ground). And, then when there were only 2000 chapters (now over 3000), their political clout was being considered.

By 1976, the chapter was getting down to business. Health costs were heldeg, by AARP Ins.; members participated in Swine Flu effort; had tree planted in Clare Park; had floats in Bicentennial parades; told city council that $125 per month was not low cost for 1960 retirees. Elderly crime was starting to be a problem and Sheriff Holt urged seniors to report suspicious actions. Bus travel was active.

By 1977, there was a column heading "Good News is Scarce". Hospital costs were getting completely out of hand (rooms $100/day). Congress doing nothing but giving themselves a 30 percent increase in pay. There are now 26 million elderly and they don't get much attention compared with the 14 million Union Members, who can tell Congress and the public what they want and get it.

In 1978, things began to happen. It was remarked that AARP wasn't a 'pressure group' as their motto is "Serve and not to be Served", so this is what they did in 1978. It was time to get a Senior Center started, so they had Motorcade and let the public know seniors were around in vast numbers; sold McDonalds Coupons to net $1650; started Buy-A-Block building drive and sold 600 at County Fair, Sent Lika Williams to Silver Haired Legislature; opened Blood Pressure clinic; obtained $2.00 bill project (seniors using only $2.00 for a month, like Ocean Breeze Park did with silver $1 years ago). Also, 3 bus loads of them had a 'ball' on trip to Busch Gardens and Kapok Tree.

So, it looks as though, regardless of the 'griping' seniors have had a lot going for them in the past few years and that may be why a survey showed them to be the happiest age group.

CHAPTER EVENTS

The installing meeting of Chapter #2223 of AARP was held Thur. Dec. 20, 1:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, when Asst. AARP State Director George E. Schubert 'swore-in' the 1980 officials (Jan. bulletin will have list of names).

The crowd was relatively small, because of many holiday activities, however, President "Chic" MacIntyre moved the meeting along briskly to an early adjournment for refreshments and a holiday social hour. The meeting started with Ethel Tucker, giving the invocation and asking for a moment of silent thought in respect for the American hostages held in Iran.

The different committees reported their activities and here are some of the high lights.

Doris Cass, now Chm. Membership as well as Treasurer, reported that there were close to 760 members and reminded members that the low $1.00 per member per year dues should be paid before Jan. 1, 1980. Lucy Prohaska had 20 Call Girls present, each displaying their group number on cards large enough for all to see, then during the social hour the individual members could get acquainted with their own 'call girl'.

Frank Edwardson, Chm of "Do-it-Yourself" (with help) reported that now he has 3 helpers, but since WMCF spot announcements stopped, he has not had many requests. If you need help, call 283-0473.

Boyd Amith, Editor of the Golden Eagle News Bulletin reports that he now had an Asmoc. Editor, Rosa Dahlberg (334-0357), but even so, if the committee chairmen didn't do better, there would be a skimpy bulletin, as only 1½ pages of copy had been turned in, against a promised 11 pages. Sorry to say your correspondent was one of the late members. But; WOW! what an excuse. You see he had been assigned "coming events" instead of his usual "Vox Pop", and a phone is needed to confirm "Coming Events". However, telephone company bureaucracy had fouled up transfer of service to new location for weeks, with servicemen finally ready to make connection Sat. Dec. 22, but 'central' hadn't tied-in the proper lines. Now, promised for Dec. 27, too late for Jan. Bulletin.

Al Cammisa, Chm. Insurance committee is back from taking care of settling estate business up north and can be reached for help on your insurance problems by calling him at 283-5455.

FSL's "Super Coach" Grove presides over IRCC tennis kingdom

Special to The Mirror

Indian River Community College's women's Tennis Coach, Adelia (Dell) Grove could have quit long ago.

She enters the 1980 season this spring. Grove will be in her ninth season at the helm.

Also the Fort St. Lucie resident is the only women's tennis coach the junior college has ever had.

Grove is a native of Columbus, Ohio, came to IRCC as an instructor of Physical Education, after receiving her M.S. in Physical Education and bachelor's degree in Education from Florida Green State University, in Ohio.

Dr. Herman Heise, asked Grove if she would like to start a tennis team. It was that simple. So, from a teacher of beginning tennis, Dell Grove got her baptism into the world of coaching.

She had good reason to quit, though, especially after an 0-18 record in the school's first two seasons of extramural tennis, 1968 and 1969. By even the most patient of standards, the win-loss percentage was discouraging. No team was fielded in 1970 or 1971, so one might say Grove quit.

Wrong!

In 1972, the first intercollegiate tennis team for women entered competition. From 1972-74, the Pioneer women struggled, posting a 5-25 record, waiting until 1974 to win their first match. Again, perhaps retirement from the coaching ranks should have been contemplated. Not so.

The beginning of Indian River's incredible success story in women's tennis was just around the corner. The Pioneer program turned sharply around in 1975, as Grove's netters went 17-3. That's a winning percentage of .895, impressive by any standards.

State and national recognition was the next hurdle. The 1976 squad boasted a 15-3 record. More importantly, the school tasted its first nation-wide recruiting successes. The Pioneers placed second to Florida Junior College in the Florida Junior College Championships, then fourth in the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Championships. The same squad won the national championship of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, a title they are no longer eligible for.

Remember, just two years earlier, Indian River was winning its first-ever tennis match, and was a mere 3-7 on the season.

Since 1976, the Pioneer women's tennis team has never finished lower than fifth in the NJCAA Championships, usually dominated by the "warm-weather" schools of Florida and Texas. In 1978, Grove's squad enjoyed an undefeated season, going 17-0. But they failed to bring home the big prize, the NJCAA National Championship.

That is probably the one title that Grove would most cherish. Maybe this year, or even in 1981? Who knows? However, be assured that any team coached by Dell Grove will be in the heat of the battle to capture the team championship.

Individually, several team members have earned All-American honors. Kelly Ferguson is still IRCC's only two-time All-American, copping the awards in 1977 and 1978, while Debbie Pescitelli (1977), Kathy Viehe (1978) and Heather McCarrol (1979) have given Grove a steady flow of award-winning talent.

Probably the most impressive, if not unusual, part of this success story is that Grove has absolutely no competitive tennis background. In fact, she does not even play on a regular basis. Then why so much success in coaching?

"I consider myself to be very organized," she explains. "We practice and drill on only those things that are absolutely necessary for success. And I'm always with my team during practice."

Adelia Grove's greatest honor came just this past summer, when she served as the Head Women's Tennis Coach for the United States entry in the World University Games in Mexico City. Before this coach is through coaching, you will probably hear about many more IRCC tennis successes.

She is indeed a "Super Coach."

Rinaldi third in tourney

Small's Point tennis prodigy Kathy Rinaldi finished third in last week's Junior Orange Bowl Tennis Championships in Miami, in the girls' 12 and under division.

The small-12 year-old Rinaldi advanced unbeaten into the semi-finals of her event, where she bowed to the number one seed, Lillian Drescher of Coconut. Rinaldi was the youngest semi-finalist, as others included Drescher, Karen Seguso of Sunrise, Florida, and Erin Ashar.

Rinaldi defeated Ashar in the consolation match (for third-place), 7-6, 6-2, after losing a closely-contested semi-final struggle to the more experienced, favored Drescher, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4.

The Junior Orange tourney is one of the most prestigious junior events in the world, drawing most of the top players. It is a part of the massive Orange Bowl Festival, which comes to its climax tonight (Tuesday) when the University of Oklahoma faces Florida State in the annual Orange Bowl football game (7:30pm, approx.).

Kathleen Horvath, of Hopwell Junction, New York, beat unseeded Patrizia Murgo of Italy in the girls' 16 under final, 7-5, 6-0. Miss Horvath is only 14 years old.

Globetrotters cancel show

If you're wondering why this is New Year's Day and the Harlem Globetrotters are not at the St. Lucie County Civic as promised, it is because the scheduled performance was cancelled some time back.

According to Civic Center officials, the Globetrotters cancelled the holiday show during December, opting for some rest before their game in West Palm Beach on January 3 (Thursday night).

The world-famous Globetrotters, playing without the services of retired center Meadowlark Lemon, will be at the West Palm Beach Auditorium Thursday. Game time is 7:30pm.

Quick Strike

MOST OF THE TIME when Santa Claus comes to town for a visit, prior to Christmas Eve, he walks around, greets everyone, then leaves. But when Santa visited the Ocean Breeze Park Shuffleboard Club's "Turkey Shoot" last week (prior to Christmas), he was somewhat delayed by the plans of Irma Fair. It seems that Irma decided to get very friendly, very quickly with Santa (top), and no one can accuse her of not enjoying herself, as her smile (bottom) indicates.

PW & Sons turns back Aycock's challenge, 3-1

BY DONNIE WILKIE

For all of the first half and much of the second, Aycock's Gang gave PW & Sons undefeated and untied, all they could handle. But Richie Lord's goal midway through the final half broke the underdogs' spirit, and PW & Sons went on to notch a 3-1 victory, in an Optimist soccer Upper Division game played at Langford Park last Saturday (December 22).

The two Upper Division teams had entered the pivotal contest tied in the standings -- though Aycock's had played an extra game -- but the breakthrough left PW & Sons with a 3-0-0 record, two points (two are given for a win, one for a tie) better than their challengers and three ahead of third-place Winner's Circle (1-1-1).

Lord, who had been held in check by the Aycock's defense, got an opening, with the score tied 1-1, when goalie Kevin Kinch lost possession of the ball after making a save. Lord, who was legally in front of goal since he had been part of the play, alertly reached the ball, outmaneuvered Kinch, and scored the go-ahead goal.

Kent Moegerle later added an insurance goal for the winners, who have scored 20 times in their three games, allowing only four goals.

The game started as if it would be a rout. Eddie Justice's quick shot found the back of the net with less than two minutes expired, and PW & Sons led, 1-0. Most of the spectators sensed a repeat of PW's earlier games -- scores of 10-2 and 7-1.

But, suddenly, Aycock's Gang became tough. Their attackers soon had the ball at their opponents' end of the field, and with ten minutes played, Ed Richardson tied the score for Aycock's. The teams battled evenly for the rest of the first half, and broke away for intermission still deadlocked.

Even after Kinch's mistake had given Lord his opportunity and PW & Sons the lead, Aycock's looked to be the aggressors. The squad, now trailing 2-1, missed several chances to tie the game. Moegerle then sealed the game with his tally.

In other games played last weekend (December 22-23), Clemons Realty edged Action First Realty in a Lower Division game, 1-0; Bandy Universal nipped Ernco in the Middle Division 3-2; and Hartman Real Estate shut out Baum Realty in another Lower match, 1-0.

Washington is third

If you happen to see either Wilbert Washington or Larry Kosakowski floating somewhere above the clouds this week, there is a good reason.

They have been hanging around with some pretty classy company lately, as the most recent Mirror high school basketball statistics prove.

Washington, a 6-foot, 4 inch junior forward for Bill Wright's undefeated Fort Pierce Central Cobras, is third among area scorers this week, with the scrappy Kosakowski, a forward for the John Carroll High Rams, in the fifth position.

Washington's ascent to the top of the stats may be the sign of the times in Martin and St. Lucie Counties, as the Cobras (8-0 heading into last week's West Orlando Optimist Classic) are beginning to raise some eyebrows.

MCHS's Navaretta looks for a quick rebound

After going six games without a loss, and not always looking like an undefeated team, Martin County's soccer Tigers may have been asking for it.

If they were, they got it.

"We may have been a little cocky," admitted MCHS Head Soccer Coach Pete Navaretta after his team dropped consecutive games in the Boca Raton Christmas Tournament, losing to Plantation, 2-0, and to Coconut Creek, 3-1.

David Smith scored the only goal of the tournament for the Tigers, who dropped to 6-2-0 with the losses.

"We just didn't play well at all against Plantation," Navaretta explained, "but we settled down by Saturday (the second game). That second game was very competitive. There were two very good soccer teams on the field.

"We got beat by a team that I felt was substantially worse than us," he continued. "But all in all, we did fairly well considering that four of our starters were not there."

Guy Carbonneau, Dennis McDonald, Pat Oteri and Danny Killane were away for the Christmas holidays. There are no injuries on the team, and all of the starters will be on the field when the Tigers open up the New Year with a game Friday at Lake Worth-Leonard.

"I can understand that (going away for the holidays)," said Navaretta. Against Plantation, it probably wouldn't have mattered if they were there or not, but I wanted to keep playing anyway. I wanted to see what we could do in a situation like that. Overall, I was pretty pleased."

Navaretta's Tigers did manage to get into a brouhaha before the tourney was over. Billy Orazi was ejected from the second game, against Coconut Creek, with Martin County leading, 1-0, after allegedly protesting a hand ball call by an official made in the penalty area. The entire episode angered Navaretta.

"We had the game well in hand, and then that happened," he said. "After that, we had to play with just ten men, and you can't get away with that against a good team like Coconut Creek."

After the Leonard match, Martin County will visit powerful Miami-Southridge Saturday, followed by a third away game, against West Palm Beach-Twin Lakes next Tuesday night (January 8). The Tigers won't be back at Tiger Stadium until they begin a series of three consecutive Friday night home games, hosting Boca Raton, Palm Beach County's toughest side, on January 11.

"The second part of our schedule is much more competitive than the first part," added Navaretta. "That's the way I planned it. Everything is pointing toward the district tournament.

"We'd have to be considered one of the favorites in the district, along with Coconut Creek, Coral Springs and maybe Cooper City."

Our $19.95 "Calcudome" football Christmas

Donnie Wilkie

No, it's not a Buck Rogers Spaceship, it's not a Mean Joe Greene Superdoll, it's not a tricycle or even a bicycle.

It's not a toy gas station, a Barbie doll, a model airplane, a race car set, an Evel Knievel-Snake River Canyon jumping mibile, or even a choo-choo train.

It's just a football game.

No, not the standard football game you would associate, with your jammed, leave work, run around the town, spend every nickel, call the doctor, I'm getting sick Christmas list. It's not electric, it has no parts that can get lost, and it doesn't involve a bunch of cards or dice.

It's just a little, pocket-sized machine. And it cost my father just $19.95.

The name of this contraption is "Tudor Games-NFL Electronic Football," which is slightly misleading since the game on the machine and the one you'll be watching on television this weekend are two entirely different pastimes.

If I've totally confused you, or if you're looking for a place to throw The Mirror while you run out and buy one for yourself, wait just a darned minute.

I'll explain.

It started on Christmas Eve, when Dad brought into the house a small, wrapped package labeled "To the Wilkie's, from the Dallas Cowboys (my favorite team), the Miami Dolphins (Mom's), and the Oakland Raiders (Dad's--by the way, what happened to the Raiders on their way to the Super Bowl?)".

Obviously, Santa knew who we were rooting for.

When I opened it, I discovered a calculator-type machine, with either a ninety-yard field, or a drunk man's version of a hundred-yard field (As it turned out, it was a nine-yard field. Every time the ball carrier advances to the end, he starts over again from the beginning).

Once it's turned on, the game's object becomes clear. There is one bold, red dot and five little, dimmer ones. The idea is to manipulate the bold dot so that it gets around the five dots, which are machine-operated.

I said one vital word-- "around." After one quick game, it becomes increasingly evident that, although you'd think a big, strong dot could run over a weak little dot, you just can't do it. And that makes it difficult, especially since the little dots often gang up, surrounding you and leaving you with no other option.

The buttons are simple enough. One moves the bold dot forward, another moves it to the right, and another to the left. Another button puts on display the down, yardline and yards to go, while a fifth exhibits the score and the time remaining. A sixth button is the last resort. It's for a kick on fourth down.

Rumors have it that there will soon be a seventh button, which will provide for you the accurate time of day in all of the world's time zones.

The reason I say it's a "different game" is because you cannot quick kick, call time out or even pass. On fourth down, you only kick-- you don't know whether "kick" means punt or field goal until the machine tells you afterward. It's just that one poor dot trying to avoid being trampled by those five hungry dots.

I know, "All this," you're screaming, "for just $19.95?" You're too stunned to move, otherwise you'd be in the store searching up and down the aisles.

Between Dad and I, the machine got no rest. Until Mom discovered it. "You're still playing that dumb game? (I call it the "Calcudome," a field inside a calculator-type dome)?" she muttered that first night. Now Dad and I fight it out for the next stint on the game-- after Mom's through.

The moral of all this is that while all the lavish present that go with the so-called "celebration" sit under the Christmas tree, untouched-- while I haven't worn my new shirt, while the jacket I got was too small, while all the after-shave and Mom's collection of frying pans sit unused in their places-- a tiny, pocket-sized machine has commanded our attention to the point of no return. I can't even drive home without thinking about it all along the way.

Anyway, a late Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to everyone!

Fred Chase

Here's the ex-coach's Martin County diary, game-by-game

"We're kind of like the new kid on the block— We don't get anything until we show we deserve it."
—Fred Chase, September 6, 1979

September 6, 1979
Martin County rolls up 321 yards, in debut as Chase-led squad, in a 37-6 thrashing of Palm Beach Gardens. The Tiger defense is awesome, allowing only 11 yards. Cliff Benkes kicks two field goals, while David Deakins catches two option passes for touchdowns, both from Sherman Conrad.

September 15, 1979
A swarming, gang-tackling defense gives MCHS its second win, 17-6 over Forest Hill Conrad tosses two more option passes for scores, again both to Deakins. "I was really impressed with our team spirit," says Chase afterward. "But I hope the other games are easier than this one."

September 21, 1979
It is is perhaps the easiest Tiger win in years. MCHS mashandles Twin Lakes, 48-12. Anthony Mitchell rushes for 88 yards, scoring two TD's. Chase is most impressed with the officiating, saying that one of them "came up to me and said this (the Tigers) was the most well-mannered group of young men he'd ever had the pleasure of working with."

September 29, 1979
Chase, the Tiger faithful, reporters—everyone is shocked. Walter Duncan grabs a desperation 75-yard pass with four seconds remaining, giving Lake Worth a 28-21 victory over the Tigers. Says Chase: "We don't have anything to be ashamed of. We were beaten by a very good football team. This is where we find out just how good we are. A good team can come back from a loss." The game, or the pass, haunts Chase and the Tigers all year. While Martin County wins every one of its remaining conference and district games, so does Lake Worth. The Trojans, by virtue of the pass, win the District 11-AAAA championship.

October 6, 1979
"That was one terrible effort," remarks Chase. "Not just on one phase of the game, but in every phase." MCHS wins upsetlessly, beating Melbourne, 21-3, but Chase is right. The game's only bright spot is Deakins, who becomes for 300 yards in total offense, including eight pass receptions for 161 yards.

October 13, 1979
In a driving rainstorm, on a night where most people care only about the third game of the World Series, the Tigers "get the job done," whacking Lake Worth Leonard, 38-0. Martin County's lately uneasy defensive unit "becomes solid again" as Mike Vaccarella, Greg Wright and Holland Houston batter the Lancers over and over again. Mitchell gains 95 yards rushing, and Crane adds two TD's. "Our offensive line did a great job, too," says Chase. "They've really regrouped to play solid football."

October 20, 1979
Perhaps too many players are gazing at Homecoming Queen Kim Geraghty. Whatever the problem is, Sam Crane's fumble with 2:14 remaining, with the Tigers threatening to take the lead, allows Vero Beach to sneak off with a 10-7 verdict. Bill Mareon's 29-yard field goal decided the game. Vero is one of the few teams that will line up "physically bigger" than the Tigers during Chase's reign. Says Assistant Coach Bud Beakes: "I have no complaints. We gave up weight up front, but we still had parity." Martin County fans fear a total collapse the following week, against what appears to be a near-invincible Fort Pierce Central team.

October 27, 1979
"We beat the number two team in the state last year at Satellite," screams Chase, "but that win wasn't half as sweet as this one!" It is his brightest moment as a Tiger. MCHS stands a 22-21 decision over the mighty Cobras in Fort Pierce, as Deakins hauls in a 30-yard pass with just four seconds left. Beakes' field goal had put MCHS ahead, 16-14 with 7:21 to go, but another bomb against the suspect Tiger pass defense and a 5-yard run by Vernon Phillips forced the harried comeback. It is Martin County's first-ever win over nine-year old Central.

November 2, 1979
MCHS fights off a tough Glades Central squad, giving up two TD's in the final quarter but winning the game, 28-13. Deakins catches two more TD passes, and scores a third time on a reverse. Eddie Davis picks up a fumble and returns it 36 yards for a fourth Tiger score, in only his second start as a defensive back.

November 10, 1979
In what amounts to a typhoon, Martin County slips, slides and sloshes its way to a 27-6 win over Boca Raton, closing the regular season at 8-2.

November 11, 1979
"We owe it to the community to hold a post-season event in Tiger Stadium," proclaims Chase, thus creating the "Tiger Bowl." Fort Lauderdale-Bowie is invited to the bowl, to be held November 30.

November 23, 1979
If FP Central-MCHS wasn't Chase's brightest moment, then this is. November 25 is declared "Fred Chase Day" all over Martin County. The coach accepts numerous gifts at the Tiger Bowl, though the Nova Titans accept the biggest one— the game— as turnovers kill Martin County, which officially finishes 8-3 on the season.

September 7, 1979
Injuries would be the key in 1979, and the hurts did not wait long to appear. Rucky McGehee, Ron Parker, Chris Cherry, Larry Moreno and Chip Rice— all Tigers who miss part or most of the opening game with assorted ailments. Despite all of this, the team wins, 14-7 over Satellite, Chase's old school. After the game, though, Chase discovers all four tires on his van have been slashed with knives; later, his daughter's rabbit is found beheaded in his yard. Was it fans from Satellite out to get their former coach? "No," says Chase, "they don't do this at Satellite. This is pure Martin County." It is, perhaps, the beginning of the end for Chase at MCHS.

September 21, 1979
The bubble that nearly burst against Satellite now explodes. In the rematch, with memories of the pain still fresh in their minds— Lake Worth 20 Martin County 0. "What we've got is 63 of the nicest guys you'd ever want to meet. That's just what we were tonight— nice," moans Chase. "It's my fault for not knowing who had it and who didn't. But I bet I find out in a hurry, now." Later in the season, looking back, Chase will admit that the various incidents after the Satellite game "kept me from doing my best job as a coach. It took me three or four weeks to even recover."

September 29, 1979
No recovery in sight. Vero Beach soundly whips the Tigers, 26-6 in the Citrus Bowl, but the officiating is curious, to say the least. Referee Ron Lucas draws the force of Chase's anger. "That guy hated me when I was at Satellite, and he still hates me. The first two (Vero) touchdowns were given to them in any event. Chase and Lucas were at each other's throats from beginning to end. Lucas and his crew made an ultra-quick getaway from the Bowl, and the Tigers were 1-3.

October 5, 1979
By now, injuries have crippled what were state championship hopes at the beginning of the season. Now, Chase and his team fight for respectability. Steve Rich, David Garrett, Eddie Davis and L.C. Mitchell, none of whom have ever carried the football in a varsity game, man the backfield with its only healthy member, McCaughey, at quarterback. This makeshift crew produces a 13-6 victory over Boca Raton. The ball-control offense brought about by the injuries is a success. "I don't know where my brain has been," says a searching Chase. "I've been trying to make my personnel fit a system, rather than a system fit my personnel." This diagnosis, more than anything else, turns the tide for the Tigers, who win five of their last seven games.

October 12, 1979
This isn't one of the five. Highly-touted FP Central struts into town and shows why it is undefeated, whacking the Tigers, 34-7. The score could have been worse, but in all fairness, MCHS played a respectable game. Chase drew criticism for sticking with his ball-control attack in the second half, behind 27-0. Asked if he thought he could come back using it rather than a steady stream of expected passes, Chase said sarcastically: "No, I didn't intend to win the game. Couldn't you tell?"

October 19, 1979
Mitchell, Davis and David Jensen score TD's in Martin County's neat, 20-0 whipping of Forest Hill, a team that has scored only seven points all season. "We're starting to get the ball control offense going, and we're not making crucial mistakes," Chase says later.

October 26, 1979
Davis nets 77 yards in 17 carries, scoring two times in a 28-12 Martin County win over Eau Gallie. "Davis was fantastic," remarks the coach. "He gave us a great, great game." The Tigers overcome a quick-striking Commodore team which produces both touchdowns on big plays. Chase: "We didn't do anything differently tonight— We were just more consistent."

November 2, 1979
The Tigers don't do anything fantastic against Palm Beach Gardens, except win, 14-7. An interception return on a pass to nobody by McCaughey gives Gardens its touchdown. There were ten penalties and 17 fumbles in the sloppy game, causing one writer to observe: "The highlight of the first half...came at the 6:00 mark, when it ended." Mitchell scores on runs of three and 23 yards. Game is marked by a rash of dirty tactics by Gardens' players, one of which prompts Chase to run onto the field, look the offender straight in the eye, and say "That's why you're 2-6!"

November 9, 1979
Martin County earns the respect of the state for something besides basketball, bowing stubbornly to top-ranked Merritt Island, the eventual state AAAA champions, 14-6. Most Tigers, as well as Chase, feel a moral victory. "Our defensive line played as well as they ever have," he declares, and the stats back him up. MI could get only 91 yards in a scoreless second half.

November 16, 1979
The records fall. In what many believe will be Chase's last game at Martin County, the Tigers swamp poor Twin Lakes, 38-0, as Tony Harris gains 339 yards rushing, by far a new standard. Controversy reigns over whether Chase deliberately tried to "run up the score," and he later admits he did, due to some of the Rams' actions both before and during the game. "If it seemed like I was running up the score, it's because I was. I wanted to make it as high as possible," he says. In general, the coach is happy to see the season end.

November 17, 1979
There certainly will be no Tiger Bowl. Such a proposal is not even thought of. "I'd like to thank all of the Martin County fans for all the pennies they threw at me during the season," says Chase, in perhaps a parting shot. "I don't know whether I'm staying or leaving," he comments. Most observers feel that he will not be back, though. "I'll just have to sit down and do some thinking."

December 16, 1979
...The thinking is over.

Otis Johnson

Part III of the former Tiger's story

Last In A Series
BY DONNIE WILKIE

When former Martin County High School basketball player Otis Johnson finished his second season as Head Basketball Coach at Charlton County High in Folkston, Georgia, he had been just about everywhere.

He had played for a junior college, Broward Community, as well as two university teams, Florida State and Stetson.

He had been in the professional ranks, even if only for two brief stints, with the Golden State Warriors, once when they were the World Champions, and later when they had been dethroned.

He had played basketball in Europe for most of a season, seeing about as much of that continent as one can see.

And he had been in the coaching ranks for three years, including one as a Student Assistant at Stetson under the current coach, Glenn Wilkes.

He had even followed Martin County around the state of Florida, as they were winning the 1978-79 AAAA high school championship. He attended several of the playoff games, including the Martin County-Daytona Memorial battle in Daytona, which is rumored considering the following:

All throughout the summer of 1979, rumors circulated around the state's basketball clan concerning Johnson's coaching future. Most observers agreed he would be leaving Folkston, despite a very good relationship with the school.

The three schools mentioned most often were Mainland, Cocoa, and Orlando Jones.

"I was offered the head coaching jobs at Daytona Mainland, Orlando Jones and Cocoa High," confirmed Johnson after the recent Ohio State-Stetson game in Deland. "I had actually accepted the Cocoa job, but then I decided at the last minute to back out of it."

Remember, these were schools with money making programs and tremendous reputations asking for Johnson's services. If there had been any doubt before, there was no longer. A Martin County man had made it big.

"I must have had 20 people come to Folkston while I was coaching there, from Martin County," Johnson recalled. "It's amazing. They remember you. Most of them were just passing by on vacation and wanted to say hello. One time, Fred Silvers' wife (Silvers owns a Jensen Beach trailer sales business) sent me a couple dollars and some books, while I was in college, just to help out."

It is for that reason that Johnson had decided to come home.

I feel comfortable in the state of Florida."

And his true "home" was Stetson.

"Let me tell you, I love it here. Everyone is so nice and friendly. Even when I played here (1974-75), it was my most enjoyable experience. I wanted to tackle the high school job when I was still young, so it was right for me. But I felt that this was the time to move on."

So when the assistant coaching post opened up at Stetson, Johnson jumped at it.

Those decisions (Cocoa, Mainland and Jones) were ones I had to wrestle with," he explained. "But this one was easy. I didn't hesitate for a second. From this position I can move up or down, and at my age I've got a lot of options. This is a great job-- one that hundreds of other coaches would jump at."

"When it came time to make the change, I called Don (Wallen, the Martin County coach) and we talked about it. That's the guy I talk to whenever there's a decision to be made. He knows what I'm all about. I've been loyal to Stetson, and I like this program, so I took the job. I'm being paid for what I enjoy. I feel I've paid my dues. I will continue to pay them as I set my goals."

"All of the assistant coaches here have moved on to their goals," he noted. "In Folkston, I had a very good situation. But this was just irresistible."

Now he sits on the Stetson bench, directing the present and, perhaps, even the future of others who are like he once was.

Only occasionally does he rise from that position, but when he does, it is with purpose. Not one to erupt in anger, he gets his point across with a mere flick of the hand or a few simple words. Then, he sits down again.

Another in the Johnson family like that-- the quiet type-- is Moses, who sometimes borders on the edge of stillness. He contains himself both on and off the basketball court, and he is smart.

"Moses developed good study habits, probably as far back as first or second grade," said Otis. "Sometimes, when I was home, I'd walk into his room, and he would be asleep with his school books over his face. When he heard me, he he'd jump up and start looking at the book, because he wanted me to think he was studying. He always did his homework."

At Martin County, Moses was generally regarded as the smartest player on the court, even through the state championship drive of 1978-79. Most observers were willing to pick Johnson, not 6-foot, 8-inch big man Charles Jones, as the player most likely to succeed in college.

Only time will tell.

Moses is at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, an odd place to be considering Otis is at nearby Stetson. Moses signed with the Mocs before Otis joined the Stetson staff, and although Otis won't say a word about it because of NCAA regulations concerning tampering, it wouldn't be far-fetched if Moses decided to transfer in the near future.

"With the coach they've got (Hal Wissell), they'll keep things in perspective," says Otis. "They know the difference between basketball and school books."

"His whole situation is fine. He's in a state where he can stay relatively close to home. If he wants (and he often does) he can drive home for the weekend. That's important. He won't get lost in the shuffle."

At last report, Moses was averaging about 12-15 minutes of playing time per game at Florida Southern College.

Brother Otis, meanwhile, is averaging about 24 hours of enjoyment per day at Stetson.

"We've got some good young people here," he said, "and if we can bring in about two or three good prospects this year, we'll be at the stage we want to be at (a Division I contender). Then, maybe with another 23-4 record like the one we had when I played her, we'll get an invitation to the NCAA tournament."

Otis Johnson led the 1974-75 squad to that 22-4 mark, but the Hatters were left out of the NCAA draw, primarily because they didn't have the reputation of a UCLA or a Notre Dame.

Perhaps the most fitting conclusion to this story would be if Johnson decided to stop "moving on." If he stayed at Stetson, and one day took over as Head Coach, leading his team into the NCAA playoffs, where he was once denied entrance. The following comments may encourage such a conclusion:

"Does it sound like I'm pure Stetson? If it does, it's because I am.

"This is what's been dealt to me, and I'm just letting nature take its course. I've been very fortunate in every respect during my entire career. It's been a trip.

"Every day I pinch myself just to see if I'm still alive."

QUESTION
How and where does rust start?

ANSWER

Rust starts anywhere. Rust is formed by the union of oxygen in the air with iron or steel by a process called oxidation. Moisture is an important agent in producing the change. Anywhere you have unprotected metal parts, oxygen, and moisture, you can - and probably will have - rust, but rust may not always be ev dent. Rust can form inside hollow metal parts, below metal surfaces, and inside hidden seams.

Marine Sanitation devices required

After January 30, all vessels with installed toilets must have a Coast Guard certified Marine Sanitation Device (MSD).

Vessels 65 feet in length and less now have a certified Type I, II, or III MSD. Requirements vary somewhat for vessels over 65 feet in length.

Type I and II units treat the sewage before discharging it into the water. The Type III device, which includes holding tanks, incinerators, and recirculators, do not allow the overboard discharge of sewage.

Vessels which lack the space or power to operate an MSD may choose to charry a portable toilet. These regulations do not apply to vessels without installed toilet facilities or vessels that have removed their installed toilets and substituted portable devices. For further information contact Commander (be), Seventh Coast Guard District, 51 S.W. 1 Avenue, Miami, Fla. 33130.

Macrame is offered

The new Macrame class starts January 9, on Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Classes will be held at the Stuart Recreation Center. This class is sponsored by the Adult and Community Education Department of Martin County Schools. Registration will be the at the first class meeting.

For further information on this or any other class sponsored by the Adult and Community Education Office, please call 287-6400, ext. 131 weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Local students publish home-learning booklet

Jeri Prinkey, a Lenoir Rhyne college junior from Port St. Lucie, and Kim Richardson, a junior from Eden, have published a booklet of home learning activities for families with hearing impaired children. Jeri is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. John Ward Prinkey, Jr.

The 59 page booklet was a project for an education course taught by Dr. Donald G. Hayes and contains language development activities for children from pre-school age through the ninth grade.

Included in the work are games, suggestions for creative play, and seasonal crossword puzzles. Word sheets and illustrations accompany most of the activities.

There is also a section on signing to help parents better communicate with their children. "That information is very important," says Miss Prinkey, "because the other activities rely on good communication between parent and child."

The Lenoir Rhyne booklet has been distributed to a number of teachers at the North Carolina School for the Deaf in Morgantown, and it is also available to the general public. Interested persons should contact Dr. Hayes at the college.

"We hope the booklet will help hearing-impaired children learn," comments Miss Richardson.

Martin Memorial Hospital

A voluntary non-profit community hospital

Martin Memorial Hospital Association, Inc. will always strive to provide the highest possible equality of health care services consistent with cost standards which are reasonable and justifiable to the public residing in the service area. These services shall be provided without regard to race, religion, national origin, or ability to pay.

Martin Memorial Hospital Association, Inc. is a area medical center providing a widening range of hospital and other health care services as such services become medically and financially justified in the service area. The Corporation has established its service area as all of Martin County and the southern portions of St. Lucie County which are a part of the communities of Port St. Lucie, Spanish Lakes, River Park and Beau Rivage.

Cardiology

Martin Memorial Hospital has the most modern and well-equipped cardiovascular laboratory in this five county area, including West Palm through Indian River Counties. Our Cardiovascular Lab specializes in non-invasive procedures (those procedures which do not involve invading the patient's body with tubing, etc.). These non-invasive procedures are typically painless, accurate and have no side affects. They can be performed on an out-patient basis and help reduce the cost of health care. These procedures would include such tests as the ability to picture the heart, the heart walls and it's valves, the ability to diagnose obstructions in arteries or veins in the extremeties or in those that go to the head. We routinely do echo-cardiography in one and two dimensions, exercise treadmill tests, holter rhythm studies and peripheral and cerebral vascular diagnostic studies. The Lab is an excellent example of modern medicine being used to provide diagnostic services at a reasonable price.

Oncology

Martin Memorial Hospital is pleased to announce the opening of a new Oncology Unit. This unit is designed to give improved care to cancer patients. Since many of the treatments for cancer are highly specialized and involve the use of powerful drugs, the entire Nursing staff working in this unit will have completed a three-month course of instruction in areas of cancer Nursing, the disease, it's complications, and the pharmacology and administration of chemotherapy agents. The unit is designed not only to provide treatment for the cancer patient, but also place a great emphasis on family counseling to help overcome the many psychological burdens which the diagnosis of cancer imposes. We are optimistic that the creation of this new unit will help move Martin Memorial Hospital towards a goal of being the community cancer center for this area.

Pulmonary

The Pulmonary Department of Martin Memorial Hospital has the lastest and most up-to-date diagnostic and treatment capabilities. The equipment available makes it possible for physicians at Martin Memorial Hospital to diagnose and treat pulmonary problems in the latest and most up-to-date methods. Examples of this up-to-date capability include:

— The latest pulmonary function testing equipment. This is computerized testing equipment which can determine with extreme accuracy the extent and nature of lung disease.

— Pulmonary Stress Testing Unit. This unit can measure the overall degree of fitness of patients and help determine the extent of pulmonary impairment and to measure changes in pulmonary fitness.

— A co-oximeter which can directly measure carbon monoxide levels in the blood and it's effect on oxygen availability. This allows the physician to accurately judge the need for oxygen therapy. This equipment is the most sophisticated of it's kind available.

Message from the Administrator

Guy N. Cromwell

Fiscal Year 1978-79 was a busy one at MMH. Several units of our on-going construction program were completed — a new fifty-bed patient floor, a new eight-bed Intensive Care Unit and renovation of Obstetrics, Pediatrics and many service areas. The exhaustive task of preparing a Long Range Plan for medical services was also started.

Fiscal Year 1979-80, however, will not be one of relative inactivity. A construction contract for Phase III (ancillary services) of $1,000,000 has been adopted by the hospital's Board of Directors (with immediate commitment for comprehensive outpatient services in the Pt. St. Lucie area). In addition, MMH will stand its bi-annual review by the JCAH for maintenance of quality care!

We are especially appreciative of the active support of our Auxiliary (volunteers) — and look forward to another year of service to our patients.

Guy N. Cromwell

An Opportunity for Giving

The approach of a year-end is always an appropriate time to take stock of your personal affairs, and to plan your giving. We hope that, if you have not already done so, you will include Martin Memorial in your planning.

The expanding size, new services, and new equipment which enable Martin Memorial to offer more sophisticated and efficient health care are very costly. Ours is a voluntary, non-profit community hospital that receives no tax support, so we must look to our friends in the community we serve for continuing help.

There are many different ways in which you can give to help support Martin Memorial besides outright gifts of cash. You might consider securities, real estate, or personal property such as books, paintings, and antiques of value. Deferred gifts are often the ideal solution for donors who wish to contribute to the hospital while living, but do not wish to relinquish income. Such deferred gifts could include charitable trusts, pooled income funds, charitable gift annuities, or deferred payment gift annuities. Other gifts can be made under a will, such as a bequest, an insurance policy, or a testamentary trust.

All gifts to Martin Memorial Hospital are income and estate tax deductible, giving you the advantage of benefits the Federal Government has provided to encourage charitable giving.

If we can be of help to you in planning your charitable gift, or if you would like more specific information about any of the above methods of giving, please call Administrator Guy N. Cromwell, 283-5200.

GOING FOR A RECORD—Erik Matus hopes he will have ridden this sail powered surfboard from Riviera Beach to Freeport, Bahamas by the time you read this paper. He was to begin his adventure Wednesday morning, and was hopeful of arriving in Freeport before dark. Right now the Guinness Book of World Records has no wind surfing category, but Matus is hopeful they'll create one and that his journey will be the first entry listed in the category. ## DeBartolo may speed up plans for regional mall

Plans to build a regional shopping mall at the intersection of U.S. 1 and SR 707A may have been moved ahead of the anticipated schedule.

In the early 1970s, the Edward J. DeBartolo Corporation, the nation's number one builder of shopping centers, announced plans for a gigantic "Stuart Mall" facility at the U.S. 1 SR 707A intersection. Back then, plans called for up to 882,000 square feet of leasable shopping area in one large enclosed mall.

Regional planners and county commissioners reviewed the original plans, and the plans were close to decisive votes when the 1974 recession apparently caused the firm to shelve the plans.

But in June, 1979, the firm erected a large billboard to announce intentions to build the mall. The sign proclaimed the name of the mall would be Stuart Square, but when a Mirror reporter pointed out that there was already a shopping center in Stuart with that name, the name on the sign was changed to Gold Coast Square. Apparently, someone told the DeBartolo officials that the mall site is located in an area known not as the Gold Coast, but as the Treasure Coast, because later the sign was changed to announce the mall would be known as Treasure Coast Square.

In June, a DeBartolo publicity woman, Ruby Kelly, commented that she could not then give out any information about the mall plans, but said she would be sending out an announcement "soon." That announcement has still not come.

On Tuesday morning, WMCF newsman Sammy Yates announced a story that DeBartolo officials were going to accelerate work on the mall plans and that they should be ready to have some plans to present to local officials within six months. Yates interviewed a Dr. Howard Biel at the firm's Youngstown, Ohio headquarters, and Dr. Biel said the proliferation of other, smaller, shopping centers in the area indicated the market may be ready for the large mall.

When Yates was asked about his conversation with Dr. Biel, he said Dr. Biel told him that no firm committment had been made, but that companies such as Burdines, Sears, Pennys and Lord and Taylor had voiced an interest in locating in the mall.

An attempt was made to contact Dr. Biel, but his secretary said he was out of town. And, another secretary said Ruby Kelly was on vacation for the week. That secretary referred the call to the office of Vince DeFranko, also of the Youngstown office. But DeFranko was out of town and the secretary said nobody else in the office would have information about the mall. She suggested a call to Doug Pertz of Altamonte Springs. Pertz is the regional operations facilities manager for DeBartolo.

A secretary for Pertz said he was on vacation and that nobody else in the office had heard of the proposed project.

Joe Banfi of the county planning department said Tuesday he has had no recent contact from DeBartolo officials.

FIT is $21 million annual asset - Tealey

BY DICK CAMPBELL

With each student at Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach, spending $7,000 each year for goods and services in the Martin-St. Lucie County area, the multiplication factor of three means that $21 million dollars a year is circulated in this area.

This was the thrust of Dean Tim Tealey's presentation to 25 members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce coffee Tuesday morning at the college. The coffee was the first in a series of monthly coffees planned by the Chamber.

Chamber members expressed interest as Tealey unfolded the story of the growing college campus. From the original 350 students that first attended the new campus in 1972, the number has grown to 1,000, and will rise to 1,500 capacity for the present campus.

Programs, too, have grown. Where first only an associate (two year) degree and a bachelor degree in oceanography were offered, now there are many programs, with concentration on applied technology in many areas besides oceanography.

Tealey outlined the new outboard motor repair program made possible through grants from government and industry. He said the new marine would enable FIT research vessels to operate more efficiently locally from the 600 foot dock.

"The quality of our students is high," Tealey said, with 85 to 90 percent having jobs before graduation, and associate degree grads earning an average $10,000 to $12,000 a year and bachelor degree holders commanding $16,000 a year.

The 84 acre campus has a value of $7 million now, has 43 on the faculty, with support personnel of another 70 persons, making it the largest business in Jensen Beach, with a budget of $3.2 million annually.

"We are now a town and gown community," Tealey added. He cited the fact that students are in demand for part time work in the area, and said, "People who used to resent students coming to community are now welcoming them."

Tealey said the students volunteer for ambulance duty as emergency medical technicians, as volunteer firemen, and through their naturalist society help to clean beaches and keep the environment protected. They are also active in blood bank drives.

"They take an interest in the community," he added.

He praised the increase in locally donated scholarships by businesses, service clubs and individuals as being encouraging.

Community interest in FIT has increased with the use of the FIT library, the free concert series offered by the school and the use of meeting facilities at FIT.

For the future, Tealey projected a new science building, and completion of already developing athletic facilities. There is also another dormitory in the planning stages.

He added that an expansion program in student recruitment would be made to South America and Europe, citing those areas as a rich resource in the future of FIT.

Chamber members were hosted at the coffee by FIT.

IMPACT—The financial impact of Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach, on the economy of the two-county area was explained to members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce at a coffee on Tuesday morning by Dean Tim Tealey, head of the college.

JB Fire Dept. kicks off drive

The annual drive for community financial support gets underway this week by the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, with the mailing of more than 1,100 letters to residents of the area.

The letter explains the need for continued financial help from the community in order to maintain the quality of fire protection which has been afforded residents since the department was organized.

All funds received, Fire Chief Joe Luciano emphasizes, are used for the purchase and maintenance of equipment. Thanks to wise purchasing and volunteer refurbishing of used trucks, the department now has nine pieces of rolling stock for fire fighting purposes, but the cost of parts replacement and gasoline has continued to soar during the past year.

Chief Luciano and Lt. Nick Flora, who has headed the mail-out drive, point out that the community's support has enabled the department to give residents a high quality of fire protection. The improvements made over the past two years have also given the Jensen unit a better rating, which has meant a savings in fire insurance premiums for homeowners.

Luciano especially hopes to reach newcomers to the area through the drive.

"If you don't receive a letter, that means we don't have your name and address," the chief said.

The volunteer department is an economy for the taxpayers in many ways, he noted.

"If we had to have a paid department, taxes would double," he told The Mirror. He cited the case of Fort Pierce and St. Lucie County, where the fire department has a tax percentage of some $3 million.

of veterans, all expert in the field. Some of them, like Ed Sprague with 18 years of service, Ernie Baker with 12 years to his credit, Assistant Fire Chief Will Bowman and Don Wilkie have had as much experience and training as most professionals.

In addition, the department encourages younger men to come into the volunteer program. It now has two junior firemen, Jack Giannini and Bill Capel Jr., who are in training, and will become full fledged firemen when they become 18.

The men all work hard at keeping equipment in top shape, the chief said, but necessary items do wear out and have to be replaced.

It used to cost $150 for a new nozzle," Luciano said. "It's now $340."

During the past year, the department has covered 62 fires, and has already answered three calls since the first of the year. They are also hoping that, with the completion of the Commercial Street-Savanna Road intersection, the county will get started on the promised new fire station on Savanna. Two trucks will be kept there, to give better protection to the fast growing communities in the west part of town.

The chief won't put a figure on the goal for the funds needed.

"We only hope they will be as generous as they have been in the past," he said.

He also invites everyone to stop by and familiarize themselves with the department, located on Palmetto Drive. Visitors will be welcome Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and until noon on Saturday.

DRIVE UNDERWAY—The annual appeal for funds to support the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department is underway this week. Getting the 1,100 letters of appeal ready for mailing are, from left, Volunteer Fire Department Secretary Ernie Baker, Lt. Nick Flora and Fire Chief Joe Luciano. The department depends on community financial backing to maintain the excellence of service it has been supplying homeowners over the years, without raising their taxes.

Matus attempts sailing surfboard to Bahamas

BY BOB FRYER

"If you happened to be cruising through the Gulfstream last week between Fort Pierce and Jensen Beach, you may have noticed a rather unusual sight: a man, all alone, sailing merrily along on a 12-foot surfboard.

So what if the Gulfstream runs eight to 10 miles offshore and the swells were nearly half as tall as the Board is long" For Eric Matus, the trip from Jensen to Fort Pierce and back last week was just a warm-up for a much bigger goal

And by the time you read this, Matus may just have accomplished that goal

On Wednesday, Jan. 9, Matus plans to ride his 12-foot-long "Sailrider" from Riviera Beach to Freeport, Grand Bahamas In doing so, he also hopes to earn a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records

Since October, Matus has been practicing for the trip, and depending on the wind conditions, the journey may take less time than some of his practice runs

Already, he's made a number of trips out to the Gulfstream, in both light and heavy winds, and recently he rode his "Sailrider" for nine non-stop hours

Matus planned to leave Riviera Beach between dawn and 8 a.m. Wednesday, and said it "should take about six hours with a good wind or up to 12 hours with a real light wind" to reach Freeport

If the winds are good, Matus says he can expect six to eight foot seas, but he says he would prefer that to no wind and light seas

Accompanying Matus will be Bill Donoue, owner of Barnacle Bill's Sail Emporium of Jensen Beach, and Chuck Carnes, a Certified Public Accountant from West Palm Beach who hopes to be an Olympic contender in the Tornado class of sailboats later this year Donohue and Carnes will be riding on a catamaran Also going along for the trip will be Kerry Firth, a local freelance public relations writer, and the captain of a 35-foot sportfishing boat

The sportfishing boat will do the navigating, and Matus will simply follow its course, Donohue explained

The trip is being sponsored by Barnacle Bill's, Hawaiian Tropic suntan lotion, Sailrider, and G-Cat International

On Monday, Matus gave area members of the press a brief demonstration "of how to ride a "Sailrider", and spoke quite confidently of his chances of making the trip to Freeport. He said the main deterrents to achiving his goal would be bad weather and sharks, and he discounted both. Matus, a 28-year-old former student at the Jensen campus of Florida Institute of Technology, said preliminary forecasts projected winds from the south to southeast, with little chance of a storm. He said he did not expect any sharks, said if any followed him, they would probably tire of the chase before long, and said if he fell off his Sailrider, he could quickly get back on it before he could be attacked

Just for insurance though, Donohue said the boat captain will bring a rifle along

Matus will wear a wetsuit to protect himself from possible cold weather, and will carry along extra pieces of rope and other materials in case he has to make repairs along the way

"Once he leaves, we won't touch him until he gets to Freeport, unless something happens, and we have to abort the trip," commented Donohue He added that Matus will wear a backpack with bottles of a gluecose solution in them, so he can sip the liquid for nourishment and energy along the way

Basically, the Sailrider is a surfboard with a sail attached to it The board has a center daggarboard two feet long and a small "skeg", both of which will help him steer the board Aside from some slight reinforcement of the board, it's just like one Donohue sells in his shop The retail price is $749

Matus has 10 years of sailing experience and says after the trip he hopes to teach sailing and windsailing lessons He said he dropped out of FIT to prepare for the trip to Freeport, but says he plans to return at a later date to continue courses in aquaculture

Currently, there is no windsailing category in the Guinnes Book of World Records, but Donohue said Firth the boat captain and Carnes will serve as independent observers so all criteria can be met to have the trip entered in the book if a category is opened "They said if enough interest is shown, they may open up a category for windsailing If so, there are four or five records he could go for," Donohue said

Jensen youth is victim of attack by bulldog

Animal Rescue League officials have impounded a pit bulldog following an attack by the dog on a 13-year old Jensen Beach youth last Thursday

Sheriff's Deputy G C Dempsey reports that Michael Nugent, 17, of 1285 Silver Maple St., Jensen Beach, was walking in front of the home of June Spring, 330 Commercial Street, when the dog attacked around 11:15 a.m.

Nugent was treated by Dr Jose Chang for minor puncture wounds to his left shoulder, and the dog is being held for 10 days to determine if it has rabies

The dog was attached to a long leash, and it was apparently the leash which allowed Nugent to push the dog off him and get away

The dog, Babe, is 10-months old and is the sister of another pit bulldog, Poochie, which attacked the four-year old son of Mrs Spring in December

Poochie is owned by another family That dog was being held for a rabies check, but Animal Rescue League manager Luther Edmonson said Poochie will soon be returned to the family it came from under an adoption agreement. He said Poochie has been neutered, and that under adoption terms, the League has the right to go back and check on the animal. "If we're not satisfied, we can take it back," he said, adding that the family can not give away, sell or trade the dog

Edmonson said that on Friday, there was another pit bulldog attack reported, this time in Golden Gate south of Stuart He said that attack marks the fifth reported dog attack in the last month

League to air city issues Jan. 15

The comprehensive plan being developed for Port St. Lucie and the revision of the city charter, to be voted on in March, will be discussed by members of the Port St. Lucie Civic League at the group's annual meeting, scheduled for Jan. 15 at Sandpiper Bay.

A slate of new directors to replace those whose term expired at the end of 1979 also will be chosen.

President Cal Graeser said that both the comprehensive plan and the charter referendum are of vital importance to the city's future. He stressed that the general public is urged to attend the meeting, which will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 15, in the Club Room at Sandpiper Bay.

Ted Bowers, vice president of Planned Management Corp., Tampa, who heads the team developing the plan, will make a detailed presentation on the project to date.

Civic League officials will discuss the proposed changes in the city charter, most important of which would change the election of council members from a citywide to a district basis.

The nominating committee will offer a slate of candidates for directors and nominations also may be made from the floor.

YOUR DEPRECIATION DEDUCTION

QUESTION: I recently purchased a small apartment building and it occurred to me that I might be better off if I do not take a deduction for depreciation in the next few years. My thinking is that, if I took the depreciation deduction, I would create the potential for a larger capital gain. It seems to me that this will all catch up with me, and I could have a huge capital gain when I sell. What do you think of the idea of not taking the depreciation deduction to minimize my capital gain — good idea?

ANSWER: Bad idea. Our tax laws provide, in effect, that if you do not take the deduction for depreciation which is allowed or allowable, then, when the time comes to sell, Uncle Sam will calculate the amount of depreciation which should have been taken. By loltering your logic, you would be shortchanging yourself. First, you would not get the advantage of a depreciation deduction which would reduce your current ordinary income. Because ordinary income is the income which is taxed at the highest rate, you will be missing the boat each year that you don't take the depreciation deduction. Further, because Uncle Sam will calculate the amount of depreciation you should have taken, your strategy will fail, and you will end up paying the same capital gain had you taken the depreciation.

When you think through the logic of the depreciation deduction, any tax dollars that you can save in the current year are certainly more valuable than dollars you would have to pay further on down the road as a result of capital gain. And, in addition, only 60 percent of your capital gain is reportable as ordinary income at the time of sale.

I hope that this will help you to rethink your strategy.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by:

To a gutsy lady

I have now met "true grit." It's built into Hildy Laden.

Dear friend Eve Caldwell, who has been an oft-to-welcome houseguest of mine for the past few days, joined me on a shopping trip, Saturday, and we'd decided to cap off the day with dinner at Henry Solomon's newest Gentleman Jim restaurant on South U.S. 1 in Stuart.

We'd been seated in the beautiful new dining room, and were oohing and ahing over the elegance of the decor when, much to my surprise up walked Hildy and Beth Gray of the Nostalgia Follies troop.

Seeing Hildy there was such an unexpected pleasure because I thought she was still in the north. As nearly everyone in the area is aware, her unforgettable husband Lenny Laden, that creative and dynamic promoter of talent among the area's seniors, died a short month ago. When last I saw her, Hildy was going north to be with relatives, and with only sorrowfully vague plans of returning.

When can I come to see you I asked her.

Any time," she replied, "but I'm going to work Monday.

And where? With the Nostalgia Follies, of course.

What's more, she's been drafted. Those wonderful people, who had learned their lessons in show manship from Lenny - with Hildy's help - over a period of nearly seven years, had feared the whole program would fall apart without the guidance and tutelage of their beloved leader. But in the course of those years, they'd become immured with essence of show biz. "The Show Must Go On."

And who better to put at the helm than Hildy, who has worked side by side and arm in arm with her late husband, giving her all with the same zeal and dedication?

At first, immediately after Lenny's death, you could feel the frustration and sense of loss and bewilderment among the Galloping Grannies and the whole Nostalgia team, the big question looming: Who could ever replace him?

No one. Hildy will be the first to tell you, can ever replace Lenny. But she and she alone is the Mrs. Right to carry on for him.

Everything is falling into place," she told me with her never-say-die gamin grin. "I guess it's meant to be.

God bless you, Hildy, and Godspeed to the whole gutsy crew. I'm sure Lenny, wherever he is, is smiling happily over your decision. And so are we.

Harking back to the new Gentleman Jim's - it is by far "Gentleman Henry's" best yet. The amiable Mr. Solomon, who has become an important name on the dining-out scene up and down the east coast, has done himself proud in this latest venture.

In an interview with him a few years back, when he opened the facility in Fort Pierce, I learned of the perfectionism in the restaurateur's make-up. His first emphasis, of course is on the quality of the cuisine. But second only to that is in creating an aura of friendliness between staff and patrons.

I always enjoyed going into the Fort Pierce G-J's, because I knew cute little Margaret, with her crazy hats and turn of the century attire, would mother-hen me with personal attention to my wants and needs throughout the meal.

Now, in Stuart, Henry appears to have used the same stroke of genius in picking his waiters and waitresses. Our gal, who was also doing her thing for the other tables filling up fast around us, still managed to give us her personal attention at frequent intervals to make sure we were happy and well-fed. We left feeling we'd gained a new friend.

Henry Solomon, in this arena, is a very smart man. Too many Florida restaurants, even the most expensive and supposedly the most exclusive, are becoming nothing but food troughs, at which waiters and waitresses grudgingly allow you to gather. Friendliness, cordiality and personal concern are the ingredients which bring customers back, and with the growing competition, potential return patronage dies on the vine without them.

In looking around the dining room that evening, I was fascinated to see several Jensen Beach, Fort Pierce and Port St. Lucie people among the patrons. No doubt they, as we, were there for the first time to give the new G-J's the once-over. If they were as lucky as we were in the excellence of service, I'm sure they'll be back. I know I will.

While I'm a born night owl, during the past year I've seldom found it possible to hold out against Morpheus long enough to take in the Johnny Carson show. But with the company of Eve, another incurable night person, in the house, I began staying awake long enough to enjoy the ubiquitous John, and I'm so glad I did. Because now I'm an activist in his latest crusade.

The sand under Johnny's shirt this time was implanted by a miserable and heartless individual who canned Bert Parks from his Miss America toastmastership - the sole reason being that Bert had the bad grace to reach the age of 65.

For as many years as most of us can remember, Bert Parks and Miss America have been synonymous - one could never be complete without the other.

"Last year, when Bert was 64, he was just fine," said the irate Johnny, himself no teenager. "Now he's had his 65th birthday, and he's too old."

Johnny's not going to let this injustice go unnoticed. He's programming with t-shirts, buttons, and requests for cards of protest from his viewing audience. If half of those millions who watch the Tonight Show follow through, Atlantic City is going to sink into the ocean with the sheer weight of mail alone.

And I'm adding mine to the stack. In the unlikely event you haven't been watching, why don't you, too? Let's show 'em the strength of Grey Power by sending "We Want Bert" missives to Miss America Contest, Arcade Bldg., Boardwalk, Atlantic City, N.J. 08404.

We'll show 'em, by George. Along

Support the firemen

The once a year drive for funds by the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department is now under way. It is a once-a-year drive. The firemen mail letters to all residents hoping for a good return.

There is always a good return.

We have supported the volunteer fire department concept for many years, and continue to do so. The firemen are a great bunch of well-trained men who give of their time and talents to provide top notch fire protection to Jensen Beach.

The people of Jensen Beach and Hutchinson Island also appreciate the quick response of the firemen, a response that, with the excellent equipment made possible by previous donations, has enabled the insurance rates of all residents to be lowered.

We urge all residents and visitors alike to respond to the firemen's request for donations with a monetary gift as large as possible.

Send donations to Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, Jensen Beach, Florida 33457.

The Mirror returns

I guess it depends upon the time. Back in 1965, The Jensen Beach Mirror changed its name to The Mirror. The change was greeted with all kinds of hoorah from the residents of Jensen Beach.

"What are you trying to do? Isn't Jensen Beach good enough for you? We must have our own name on the newspaper," they said.

We changed the name back to The Jensen Beach Mirror a year later.

However, times change.

At present, we are trying to cover many towns as the demand for the newspaper grows and the coverage area changes. We have requests for coverage from Hutchinson Island, from Stuart, from Sewall's Point, and from North River Shores. Our sister publication, The Port St. Lucie Mirror, has the same requests from Eden, Walton, Eldred and all of South St. Lucie County.

The amount of bookkeeping, just to keep the two publications in the good graces of the post office, was fantastic, and impeded the service we wanted to offer all who read The Mirror.

Thus, this week, recognizing the need for change, The Mirror is now "The Mirror."

The Port St. Lucie Mirror, started in 1971 as a pioneer newspaper for the southern part of St. Lucie County, ceases to exist except as a part of "The Mirror."

The Jensen Beach Mirror, started in 1961 as the first newspaper in Jensen Beach, also ceases to exist, except as a part of "The Mirror."

Each community will continue to receive the same coverage, with as many pages changed as our news permits.

We are reinstituting our slogan, used for the first fifteen years of publication of The Jensen Beach Mirror: "All the News That Fits in Print."

That slogan was established because we didn't have enough advertising to handle all the news that came from our reporters and our correspondents. We fit in as much as we could.

We still can't fit it all in and stay alive economically. Thus, the return of our motto.

We have closed our other offices in favor of bringing all our facilities under one roof in Jensen Beach. In the future we may be opening sub-offices, but for the present we hope to continue our growth in a manner that we can control all facets of publication. It will probably cause a few weeks of some confusion, as our reporters and our salespersons get used to the idea, but we hope that we are able to maintain the quality of product that has made The Mirror one of the all-time prize winning newspapers in Florida history.

This week we are beginning a feature that has taken the entire life of Sally Latham for several months. It is a wrap-up of the past ten years in this area. It cannot be possibly run in one issue (economics, you know) but will be run in a series as long as it takes to do a proper job in recapping the decade.

More such special features will be run in The Mirror in the future.

Our scope is broadening, our directions changing to meet the challenge of the decade ahead. The 1980s will see a completely new Mirror.

We hope you like it, for much thought and planning has gone into the product you will receive in the mail or from the newsstands in the future.

Jack Kofoed is dead

One of Florida's most respected writers, Jack Kofoed, is dead at 85. He died peacefully on December 27.

As reported by The Miami Herald: "Like an old automobile, he just wore out."

Kofoed was a columnist for the Herald since 1944, and had retired last spring. His column appeared on the left side of the comic pages. When it was retired, only Jim Bishop was able to fill the shoes of the crusty veteran.

He wrote 13 books, more than 1,200 magazine articles and some 17,000 newspaper columns, according to the Herald story.

"Kofoed brought a deep feeling column to the half-million Herald readers each morning. He called a spade a spade, and didn't mince words when he was angry. Yet, his concern for the needy would bring a column that held sympathy and brought relief to the afflicted.

Jack Kofoed will be missed by all who loved his writings.

The shaft on beaches

We have been had again.

It looks like the federal government will not allow beach renourishment unless Martin County pays half the cost. This is after the government told the county that if the ocean access strips were acquired, a 70-30 ratio of federal-county renourishment funding would prevail.

There is a history of the federal boys telling us that we should do this or that, and then backing down and placing the full cost on local taxpayers.

It just isn't fair.

I'll Keep Jensen Beach

Talk of the town

BY ROBERT B. MACAULAY
Menominee Herald Leader (Mich.)

The Age of Innocence is still with us. Consider a recent development in the Florida State Legislature where a rider was attached to a politically popular tax bill in the closing moments of the legislative session. The rider provided that henceforth counties would be required to publish delinquent tax notices in daily newspapers, rather than in weeklies as is now the custom. By itself that would not have generated much attention except from the weekly newspaper publishers who are deprived of an important source of revenue. What did attract attention is that the rider was attached by the House Majority leader Sam Bell, Daytona Beach Democrat, who is an attorney.

Now, by sheer coincidence, Mr. Bell is a member of a law firm which has among its clients the Daytona Beach News Journal, a daily newspaper. When the storm broke after the news came out that the state's 140 weeklies were being clipped to the benefit of the daily papers, Mr. Bell became indignant. He said the News Journal had no influence on his actions. The reason for putting the tax rolls in the dailies was to "provide wider dissemination of the rolls", even though they are published only once a week. Mr. Bell infers his only interest in assisting the business to the dailies is to make things easier for the citizens. The spokesmen for the News Journal had the same reaction, while at the same time admitting they had for a long time urged this move, also "for wider dissemination."

For an example of just how innocent this whole thing was, let us peek at a quote from Herbert Davidson, publisher of the News-Journal. Are you ready? here it is: "The amendment came as a complete surprise to us. We were quite surprised."

Not being a Floridian, I am not familiar with the laws of conflict of interest in that state. But somewhere in the recesses of my mind I find a nagging thought that if Mr. Bell is not suspect of conflict of interest, he at least is highly suspect of committing a moral lapse by using his high office to the advantage of a client of his law firm. And as for Publisher Davidson who was "quite surprised", the thought occurs to me that he had better keep a closer watch on his law firm. The next surprise might not be so lucrative.

Until recently, I held Walter Cronkite in high esteem.

For years, Cronkite has won poll after poll as the newsman most trusted by the American public.

That all seemed plausable to me. He's an amazingly talented broad caster, and his grandfatherly appearance invites your trust.

But during a recent CBS special on the American Presidency, Walter blew it by making a remark by which I simply can not abide.

What did he say?

Walter was talking about the changing role of the American Presidency, of how the aftermath of Watergate has reduced the powers of the President, and of how the job of President borders on the impossible. Then, he delved into a commentary about the relationship between the press and the presidency.

That's where he slipped up.

He said, "The presidency and the press: neither of them can operate without the other. They are inseparable."

That sounds reasonable at first glance. But on closer scrutuny, it just doesn't wash.

Sure, for Walter, the presidency and the press are inseparable. And the same is true for many journalists of Cronkite's caliber.

The White House press corps is legion, and that press corps depends heavily on the presidency for something with which to fill the pages of newspapers and radio and television broadcasts throughout the nation. Likewise, the president could hardly get along without the press, though I imagine every modern day president has wished at times that he could.

But what Walter overlooked in making his statement about the Presidency is the vast numbers of small, hometown newspapers, such as The Mirror, which give absolutely no coverage to the presidency.

In one fell swoop, Cronkite excluded The Mirror, and thousands of papers like us which devote their news space entirely to local events, from the journalistic fraternity.

At The Mirror, if an event takes place north of White City Road or south of Stuart, it's rare you'll find it in our pages. And, we not only survive without the President as a news source, we thrive without him.

That's not to say we don't need national news. Like millions of others, we at The Mirror do our best to stay informed of what's happening on the state, national and international level. We read the major dailies and watch the evening news on television. But you won't read about Jimmy Carter in our pages unless he pays us a visit, just as we paid no heed to Gerald Ford until he visited this area last Sunday.

We recognize that the Walter Cronkite's of the journalistic world have a vital job to do, but we ask, Walter, that you not forget us. We are as much a part of the journalistic world as you are.

In the pages of The Mirror, you're likely on any given week to find a photo of the latest whopper of a fish some local angler caught, or to read of the work our civic and service organizations are doing. We carry news of local governmental bodies, of business promotions, of church events, of happenings at the many mobile home parks in our region, and of the doings at our local schools. We run feature stories on the interesting characters who call Jensen Beach or Port St. Lucie home, and we tell you about the many cultural and social events which take place here.

What we offer is something the big dailies and Cronkites can't offer: local news.

We take our job seriously, and feel we do it in a professional manner. Some of us don't even have aspirations to become "national" newspersons, and don't look upon the job of reporting local events as a stepping stone to reporting state, national or international events.

Our job at The Mirror is to become as much a part of the community as we can. If we do that, we've done our job well.

Many of us do not long for Walter's job, and I'm sure there are many journalists like myself who take exception to the notion that because we do not cover the President, we are not a vital part of the journalistic profession.

We respectfully submit that there are times when the big league newspersons would be better off reading a local newspaper than reporting what Lyndon's stomach scar looks like, or what Gerald had for

Ford blasts Carter policies

Ex-president Gerald R. Ford criticized the Carter administration both for its foreign policy opening the door to the current mid-east crisis and for inflation on Sunday at a press conference held at the exclusive millionaires' community of John's Island.

Calling the Iran-Afghanistan hot box "the most serious since World War II," the trim, tanned former president implied that the tinderbox created by the holding of U.S. hostages in Iran and the subsequent military occupation of Afghanistan by Russia needn't have reached the point with which the country is now faced.

"The whole scenario might have been different had I been president," he told his audience of newspaper, radio and television representatives. The foreign policy might have been different."

During his tenure as president, Ford had been tested on his capabilities in international crises when Cambodian Communists siezed the U.S. Merchant ship Maydguez. Political observers recall, that Ford immediately dispatched U.S. air, sea and ground forces to recover the ship and rescue its 39 crewmen.

Ford blamed part of the current crisis on the military policies set by President Carter shortly after taking office.

When Carter became president, his first action was to reduce our military capabilities," Ford said. "We would be better off today if we had four B-1 bombers a month coming off the assembly line."

The country, he said, should even now be equipped with a much larger navy and weapons system.

On the subject of inflation, Ford called the Carter's economic policy disastrous and catastrophic.

When I took office on Aug. 9, 1974, inflation was 13 percent and the prime rate was 12 percent," he recalled. "We had it reduced to 4.8 percent when we left. Our policy not only reduced inflation, but we were in the process of reducing unemployment. We handed them a balance economy on a silver platter and they blew it."

In his brief 20-minute conference with the visiting media, Ford fielded questions on several subjects, the Number One question being "Will you run again?"

In September, I said I would become a candidate only if the people mandated it or if some unforeseen situation arose," he said. "So far, no such unforeseen situation has developed."

Ford has been placed on the ballot in the Massachusetts primary. He has until this Friday to have his name removed. He made no positive statement as to whether or not he would do so.

At the moment, I intend to stand by my initial decision," he said. "I'll probably take it off."

On the re-establishment of the draft, I have reservations about the draft. If the military recruiters do their job, it should not be necessary. I am hesitant about it."

On the announced Republican candidates: "I will neither criticize nor support any of the present candidates. Reagan is now in the forefront, but that does not have to mean he will get the nomination."

On the proposed taxation of Social Security income now before the Congress: "I saw no reason for introducing such a program during my administration, and I see no reason for it now," he told The Mirror.

On the Afghanistan crisis: "The U.S. must act affirmatively. The Soviet Union must understand the United States means business."

He has confidence, he added, that all our allies in the Western world will stand behind whatever action the United States takes.

Ford's reason for being at John's Island was two-fold: he and Mrs. Ford were there as guests of Bill White, a John's Island resident who was a member of the now-famous "Kitchen Cabinet" which met there on the eve of the resignation of President Richard Nixon. The Fords were also the big drawing card at the $300 a plate campaign fund-raising dinner which followed the press conference.

PSL ; a good investment

BY MICHELLE NASPINSKI

It is not "news" to anyone that property values in Port St. Lucie are going up, but the extent of that increase was a surprise even to St. Lucie County "property appraiser" James Bass, who revealed Tuesday that Port St. Lucie has experienced a 687 percent increase in the just value of real estate over the period from 1971 to 1979.

"Port St. Lucie is a fast growing city as evidenced in the figures," said Bass. "Ft. Pierce doesn't even compare with it. It just doesn't have the growth."

The just value figure, which represent the total property tax roll prior to exemptions, has grown from $39,800,600 in 1971 to an incredible $313,289,870 in 1979.

The increase in property value has been consistent throughout the 70's, with jumps no less dramatic from one year to the next. The just value figure for 1972 showed a sizable increase at $48,872,820 but even this seemed insignificant when contrasted with the 1973 hike to $85,132,050.

1974 saw the total property tax roll figure jump to the three digit million category with $109,128,280 and in 1975 it jumped again to $175,110,590. 1976 was a leveling off year, as property value climbed tremulously to $184,904,910 but this too was a temporary lull as 1977 figures hiked again to $234,872,710.

The property tax roll rose slightly in 1978, with $261,462,980, but the decade closed at a dramatic new high, when figures hit the three hundred million mark with $313,289,870.

Despite the city's rare fortune of continuous property values escalations, Port St. Lucie's millage rate has remained steady.

In 1971, millage was fixed at $3.10 per each thousand a property is assessed to be worth. This figure was retained until 1975, when it was lowered $2.085 per every thousand. In 76 and 77 saw the millage drop ever lower as it was fixed for these years at $1.75 and $1.50 respectively.

The $1.50 figure remained steady until 1979, when electors voted to increase the millage to $2.46, in order to finance city-wide garbage and trash collection.

Revenue figures, which the city collected with property taxes, also showed a sizable increase in the nine year period although the weight of the jump was primarily experienced in the last year of the decade.

Property tax revenue for 1971 registered $112,891 and made a modest jump to $196,848 in 1972. A significant increase was realized in 1973, when revenue jumped a hundred thousand to $238,951.

Reasonable revenue growth continued through 1974 and 1975, with $298,181 and $341,575 registering respectively. Revenue fell in 1976, however, to a substantially lower $300,221, paralleling a nearly 25 drop in the millage rate.

The slack in revenue packed up in 1977 with $324,163, and again in 1978 with $375,520. The really awesome revenue increase, as a result of the increased millage rate came in 1979, when the city collected some $708,645 in property taxes.

Bass reported that revenue increased 502 percent from 1971 to 79, as opposed to the 687 percent increase in the just values of property.

Port St. Lucie was affected by the same inflationary trend as the rest of the country, commented Bass, "but this is a really active market, prices are continually fluctuating upward."

As building department records show construction to be up, it is likely that property values will do the same. Whether or not the 80's will boast of increases as monumental as the past decade, however, is subject to a number of variables.

Still, there is room for expansion-70 square miles of it. And Port St. Lucie remains, at the close of its second decade, a good investment.

MORNINGSIDE—The new Elementary School for Port St. Lucie is progressing well, according to Dr. Nolan Skinner, St. Lucie County Superintendent of Schools and Dick Stebbins, architect for the project. So far the structural systems, the exterior walls and the poured concrete slab are completed. The school is expected to be finished in mid-summer 1980, and should be open to students in September of this year. (Photo by Michelle Naspinski)

Boating classes offered

Flotilla 59, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, will start its course in Boating Skills & Seamanship on Jan. 15 at the Martin County High School Student Union Building.

Classes are scheduled Tuesdays and Thursdays, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and will cover 13 subjects plus a final examination. Graduation and a special program complete the course on February 28th.

Subjects taught are of interest and importance to all boat owners and those about to become proud owners, by a qualified staff of Flotilla 59 members", states newly elected Flotilla Commander for 1980, Frank Walsh. He strongly recommends this new updated course to boaters as the knowledge gained no only insures getting more enjoyment form your boating activity but more important, insures safer boating for every one aboard.

The subjects to te taught are: The Safe Way to Boating Enjoyment; Boater's Language and Trailering; Boat Handling; Legal Requirements; Rules of the Road; Aids to Navigation; Piloting; Marine Engines; Marlinspike Seamanship; Sailing; Weather; Radiotelephone; Locks and Dams.

The increase in boating activity in local waters, with now over 5000 registered in the county, emphasizes the need for safe boating - from proper equipment to adequate knowledge of the Federal, State and County laws. In 1979, Flotilla 59 members, while on patrol duty or requested by the Coast Guard, assisted 156 boats. Many of these assists could have been avoided if the owner had been more knowledgable in one or more of the subjects to be taught.

The course is free except for a textbook and class material cost of $7, couples $10. Enrollment will be from 7:00 to 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 15, prior to the first session. All members of the family are welcome. For information call 283-1027 or 283-1035.

Brief strike at nuclear plant

A brief strike by quality-control workers at Unit II of the nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island has ended.

Employees of U.S. Test Company of Hoboken, N.J. refused to show up for work last Thursday, apparently angry that contract negotiations, due to be completed in December, had still not ended. The workers test components at the plant as they are completed, and are members of Pipefitters Local 630. It was an unauthorized strike, and the workers were urged to return to work on Friday.

CROWDED BEACH--There is no denying that "the season" has hit Jensen Beach, as multitudes crowded the shoreline over the Christmas holidays. The best indicator that the majority of beachcombers were not natives, however, was the white glare that reflected off their northern skins. It's a dead giveaway every time! ARTIST'S SKETCH of the commercial complex approved by the Martin County Commission for construction on the north side of A1A at the intersection of MacArthur Boulevard in Hutchinson Island. The facilities, to be built by Indian River Plantation, include a two story office building (foreground), a 5,000 square foot grocery store and a combined gas station and auto wash.

County okays plans for grocery, offices and gas station

The Martin County Board of Commissioners today approved plans by Indian River Plantation Company to build a commercial complex consisting of a grocery store, office building and combined gas station-car wash on the southern end of Hutchinson Island.

Construction of the complex, to be located on three and a half acres of company land on the north side of A1A directly opposite the entrance to Indian River Plantation, will start immediately and be completed late this year, according to Plantation president F.L. "Pete" Nebhut, Jr.

Noting that the section of A1A in front of the planned complex was recently widened, Nebhut predicted the availability of food and fuel services would help reduce the flow of traffic between Hutchinson Island and Stuart.

He said the grocery store will have 5,000 square feet of floor space and will stock a full line of meats, produce, dairy products and canned goods and will also feature a gourmet food department. "It will be like an old fashioned corner grocery," said Nebhut, "and will eliminate the need for a lot of Hutchinson Island residents to drive several extra miles to do their food shopping."

Nebhut said the office building will be a two story structure with 8,000 square feet of space and will be located at the rear of the property, bordering a heavily wooded county preserve which will not be disturbed. He said the building will house offices for Indian River Plantation resort and development personnel, a print shop, storage facilities, and additional offices for Maddox Construction Company, which will build the new complex.

The gas station will consist of a glass-enclosed automatic car wash and pumping area, but will not be equipped for major mechanical or other repair services, according to Nebhut. Like the grocery store, the station will be operated by personnel on a lease arrangement with Indian River Plantation.

The three building complex was designed by Stuart architects Fenton, Hoon and White. Total cost of the project will be about $750,000.

Who can receive benefits?

BY BRUCE FERGUSON
SSA Field Representative

Did you know that under certain circumstances a child may qualify for a social security check based on a grandparent's work under social security?

Or, that a divorced woman whose ex husband has died may qualify for a social security check based on his record? Or, that a dependent parent may qualify for social security based on a deceased son's or daughter's work under social security?

If you didn't know about the above social security benefits then you are probably one of those people who think of social security simply as a program that pays retirement benefits to older people. You are probably unaware of the benefits payable to disabled workers and the dependents of retired, deceased, or disabled workers.

The fact is, more than a third of the 35 million people currently receiving social security benefits are the dependents of retired, deceased, or disabled workers. Benefits for dependents have been payable since social security benefits were first paid in 1940. They are designed to help prevent poverty and economic dependency within the society by enabling a worker to provide for the day when he or she can no longer support those depending on his or her earnings.

What you don't know about social security can hurt you. An application for benefits is necessary before they can be paid. People who are unaware of what social security benefits are payable risk the loss of benefits.

At the very least they lose the opportunity to use the information in their family financial planning.

Just for the record and for your future financial planning, here is a list of cash benefits that you currently payable based on your work under social security:

- Benefits to wife or husband 62 or over.
- Benefits to wife under 62 who's caring for worker's child under 18 (or disabled) who's getting a benefit based on the retired or disabled worker's earnings.
- Widow or widower 60 or older.
- Widow, widower, or surviving divorced mother if caring for worker's child under 18 (or disabled) who is getting a benefit based on the earnings of the deceased worker.
- Widow or widower 50 or older who becomes disabled within 7 years after worker's death or within 7 years after he or she stops getting checks as a widow or widower caring for the worker's children.
- Divorced wife or husband at 62, or surviving divorced wife at 60, or disabled surviving divorced wife 50 or older if the marriage has lasted 10 years or more.
- Children including natural, adopted, and step children.
- Children living with their grandparents, under certain conditions, on their grandparent's work record.
- Dependent parent on a deceased son's or daughter's record.

Generally a marriage must have lasted at least a year before dependents of a retired or disabled person may draw monthly benefits. Survivors can get benefits in most cases if the marriage lasted at least 9 months.

The benefits for children may amount to 50 percent of the worker's basic benefit if the worker is retired or disabled, and 75 percent if the worker is deceased. For spouses the benefit may amount to 50 percent if the worker is retired or disabled, and up to 100 percent if the worker is deceased.

There is a family maximum which may amount to as much as 188 percent of the worker's benefit.

Are locals joining the gold rush?

BY BOB FRYER

Depending on who your source is, you can get conflicting stories as to whether or not local residents are joining the nationwide trend to jump into the fast-paced gold market.

While local bankers who offer the service of arranging gold purchases say they haven't seen much activity lately, one local stockbroker says he has seen a lot of activity lately.

Gary Blum, assistant cashier at First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart says recently, "there has been more of an increase in selling than in buying. I think most people are taking a profit."

Blum added that many of the folks now selling their gold are those who bought it when the price of gold per ounce was in the high 300s and in the 400s.

The selling trend became noticeable just recently, Blum says, when the price of an ounce of gold topped the $600 mark.

When asked if he felt the price of gold would peak soon, Blum said he wasn't sure. However, he said economist Howard Ruff, author of the best-seller, "How to survive during the coming bad years", seems to have started the gold rush when he began advising investors to get into the gold market. That was when it was in the $200 range. "He is now saying to get out of it. However, the folks who were saying last year that the price would top $500 before 1979 was over are saying it's going to keep going up," Blum said.

"In my opinion, it's all a psychological market," Blum said, noting that gold prices don't seem to be any longer attached to other traditional factors. He said it used to be that when the value of a dollar went up, gold's value dropped, but he says it seems now that both can rise at the same time.

Blum was asked if recent local gold purchases had been made by big or small investors. "At today's prices, I don't know if there is such a thing as a small investment," he quipped, then added that most local purchases he had arranged for local investors have been in quantities of five, 10, or 15 Krugerrands. Krugerrand is a brand name of a gold coin minted in South Africa which is sold by the gold dealer in New York which the bank arranges purchases from. He said one Krugerrand is basically one ounce.

Blum did say that the bank can arrange purchases for customers who want to buy smaller quantities, such as just one ounce, but he said the price per ounce is a few dollars higher if purchased in quantities of less than 10 ounces. And, if you expect to buy gold at the prices quoted on news broadcasts, think again.

Blum said the bank charges a flat-rate of $10 for arranging purchases and that a four percent state sales tax must be added to the price. He said the procedure for a purchase through the bank is to contact the bank and have an official get a quote on the quantity of gold desired. Then an order is placed and the gold is sent to the bank, where the purchaser can pick it up.

A check with the Jensen Beach Bank and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County indicates both institutions do not deal in gold. And, when an official at a bank in St. Lucie County was asked about the local gold market, the woman said the bank does arrange purchases, but that the service is one that's not being pushed. "We do it for our customers if they want it, but we aren't encouraging it," she commented, adding that she did not even want the bank mentioned as a source for buying gold. She said gold and silver purchases have been "very nil."

The rise in the price of gold has been meteoric. Blum said as recently as Oct. 17, 1979, he was arranging purchases of gold at $298 an ounce. He said on Tuesday, Jan. 8, the price he was being quoted was $673 a Krugerrand for purchases of 10 or more and he said for less than that, the price would probably be around $675 or $676.

Even so, the jump in silver prices has been even more dramatic, jumping more than 300 percent in the last year. Blum said many persons seem to think silver will soon become a hot item for investors.

Herb Haughton, president of Port St. Lucie Bank, said that his bank decided a few months ago, when talk of the gold rush began to spread, to offer the service of arranging gold purchases.

Haughton said the service offered at his bank is to arrange purchases of gold certificates from Citibank. He said that instead of sending the gold to the customer, Citibank issued a certificate that it is holding the amount of gold purchased in the name of the purchaser and that the certificate is recorded as a bank deposit.

Haughton said it takes a minimum purchase of $1,000 to buy a certificate, but once that amount is bought, gold can be bought in increments of $100.

He explained that since the bank simply acts as a purchasing agent and that the actual transaction is recorded in New York, there is no sales tax charged on the gold. However, he said the fee for buying the gold is three percent of the purchase price for quantities of less than $50,000, two percent for $50,000 to $100,000, and one and three quarters percent for $100,000 or more.

One advantage to certificates over purchase by ounces is that with certificates, fractions of an ounce can be bought, once the initial $1,000 minimum purchase limit is met.

Haughton said so far, however, there have been very few inquiries on the local level about buying gold or silver. He said he feels the gold market is strong now because many of those who own gold are holding onto it, thereby creating a shortage in gold for sale, and, in turn, driving the price up.

He said his bank does not arrange silver purchases, but noted that "this seems to be the working man's metal to buy, since the price is so much comparatively lower than gold."

Gordon Nearing of E.F. Hutton in Stuart said there has been "a lot of activity" lately in the gold and silver markets lately, and in commodities in general." He said, however, that it is a risky business if you don't know what you're doing.

As an indicator of just how volatile the gold market is, he noted that New York gold closed Tuesday at $610 an ounce, down $24 an ounce from the previous day. He said silver was running around $32 an ounce.

Lately, there have been reports of a nationwide increase in the theft of gold and silver items. However, Martin County Sheriff's spokesman Jessie Taylor says there has been no noticable activity in gold or silver thefts in recent weeks. "The thieves seem more interested in the green stuff," he said.

Medical needs survey is Saturday

The Health Coast Containment Committee (HCCC) will conduct a 'Questionaire' Survey, Sat. Jan 19, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at various shopping centers (3 or 4 couples are needed for a few hours at the Jensen Beach, Winn Dixie Shopping Center). It is called the "Medical Needs Assessment Survey" and will try to determine: size of household; general family income level and type of health insurance carried.

There will be a meeting of this HCCC, Tues. Jan 8, and at that time it will be suggested that the survey include 3 additional questions: Do you find athe present health services adequate; If so, are they within your budget; If not would you be interested and use such things as: A walk-in clinic; A day care center; A prepaid health service plan; or what do you suggest. (Other ideas" Tel. 334-0756.)

You can well imagine what the seniors were chewing about last week, it was all Afganistan and Iran with the threat of $2.00 gasoline completely forgotten. It went somewhat like this.

Spry and salty, Capt. Joe had cornered a small group and told them loud and clear, "Carter's condemnation of Russia and sanctions were great, but a week or more too late. News media told us over a week ago that Russia was massing troops, why didn't he warn her then?"

"Oh he did; mildly", replied Ethel the 75 year old gal who reads everything in sight, "but, if the warning had been too strong and they ignored it, Carter would have been out on a limb again, as a paper tiger. As he couldn't be sure Congress would back up any drastic actions"

"Ya, that's modern democracy for you, have to wait for the horse to be stolen before we can lock the barn door", added Jim, as he jabbed his cane at a spot on the floor, "we wouldn't put up with that back in World War I days, by damn".

Even before the 'by damn' was sputtered, Ethel had to butt in with, "Did you notice President Carter saying, he'd learned a lot about the Russians in the last week and now finds they are not to be trusted. Well now, us seniors found that out right after Stalin broke all agreements made with 'FDR' at Yalta 35 years ago; and then the Berlin Wall, Detente, Salt I, Helsinki and UN Charter. If he'd ask any senior, we could have told him, don't trust a Russian Communist any further than you can throw an elephant".

So, to end this discussion, Capt. Joe concluded, "It may all be for the best, now Carter and Congress may see to it that USA is strong enough in the Indian Ocean and elsewhere to discourage any Russian take over of Parkistan and Iran; he'll sure have the backing of the seniors".

Gold at $400 an ounce is no longer a small time collector's item, but how about stamps, they are as good as gold at times and lots of fun to collect and to compare with other stamp collectors. There is a club that meets once a month in Port St. Lucie, but some local collectors would like to have a Jensen Beach Club. All interested stamp collectors, get in touch at 334-5244. Do it now, not tomorrow.

bill to have Federal Budget limited to less than 20 percent of the Gross National Product by 1983. That would mean a 2 trillion GNP would mean a Federal Budget of not over 400 Billion. Kind of pegging it to inflation but at least it is 'pegged' and won't run wild. Seniors better let the senator know what they think about this, as it will come up for vote soon. Also, Senator Stone calls the seniors attention to a bill, that after Dec. 31 will prevent the patient from being liable for items billed medicare by the hospital or skilled nursing care unit, that erroneously listed.

Some seniors experienced difficulty with the new 'check-out' system at East Ocean Blvd. Winn-Dixie. Most were amazed at how easily and quickly the items could be 'scanned' and 'rung up', that was good ol' progress. But, they missed the individual article pricing (even if often it was skipped). As some elderly found it quite an effort to crouch down for a squint at the faded or poor contrast labels on the lower shelfs. Seniors should ask the store manager to have large and clearer sign lables put on the shelves, especially the top and bottom ones.

CHAPTER EVENTS

There was another excellent health movie just before the AARP picnic, Thur. Jan 3, at Langford Field. By 9:30 a.m. 25 had gathered to see the Mental health movie, 3rd, in a series of 6. CMac (President MacIntyre) first outlined the scope of the movie, pointing out that mental health was no different from physical health in that it can be treated by drugs and therapy and successfully treated in most cases.

Next the group was asked to answer some questions, and their answers were found to be right more often than not. Here are some of the more interesting answers: An older person having a heart attack may behave irrationally; Decline in intellectual abilities is often the result of a specific disease; Poor nutrition can lead to intellectual impairment. Since 1964 there has been a steady reduction in the number of aged patient in mental hospitals; Sex life after 80 is rarely possible; Older persons are capable of learning new tricks; less than 5 percent seniors over 65 are living in institutions.

After the movie, Mr John M. McDermott, Director of Indian River Mental Health Clinic, explained some points and answered numerous questions. He pointed out that, although there was a charge for their services it was based on ability to pay. He invited anyone, to drop in for a cup of coffee and a chat, right here in Stuart at 4 Camden St. or tel. 283-7070.

The next Chapter affair will be the Board ExCom meeting, Thur. Jan 10, at 2 p.m. (note change in time). All members should attend to vote on a new standing rule regards active' and 'associate' members.

Then, the following week, Thur. Jan 17, the Regular Monthly meeting will be held at 1:30, First Presbyterian Church, North River Shores. There will be a special program. A member of the Tri-County Rehab. Center with his seeing-eye dog will explain how the handicapped can be productive, and he is a wonderful example.

Don't forget, Health Movie, Respiratory Diseases, Feb 7, 9:30, Langford's.

AARP sponsored classes are going full swing. 55 Alive Mature Driving starts the 1st and 3rd Mondays of each month, 9:00 a.m. at First Federal S&L Jensen, for info. call Leon LaRoche, 334-0416. The good ol' Defensive Driving class starts the first Sat. of each month, in the Environmental Center, Jensen, for info. call Colleen Watts, 287-6400, Ex 131. Then, there are the swimming classes every Sat. 9:30 a.m. at the High School Pool, info. call "CMac" 283-7639.

By the way, quite carefully I try to list the phone numbers where information can be obtained, but often folks come to me, with that old idea of having one clearance number for all senior activities, as they have a problem remembering the different numbers and never remember to save the paper. Well, I'll try it again, remember I asked-off a year ago, as there were more calls than could be handled, but now I'll try it again, as I now have an extra phone on my desk, and a phone jack in my dinnette (most calls come at meal times you know). So, if you need info on any of these activities call 'Ernie' 334-0756.

The Delray Chapter Bulletin (exchange) shows they have some activities that we don't. Weekly "Bingo" with a note, "Don't bring best or rusty cans"; They are reminded to pick up their 'Vial of Life' at next meeting.

Faces and places of sports in 1979

There were many exciting and fun-filled years in sports in the 1970's, but the best may have been saved for last.

On the lighter side, (pictures described from left to right, top to bottom on page) Jensen Beach's Billy Mang leads the charge (left in picture, shirtless) in the pushball game at halftime of the Martin County High Powder Puff game. The Juniors won both games, winning 6-2 in football.

A new star emerged on the tennis scene in Sewall's Point's Kathy Rinaldi, a 12-year-old who won all four major 12-and-under titles (the Grand Slam) and drew the attention of one Chris Evert Lloyd (inset).

McArthur was the champion of the girls' 15-15 District softball tournament held at Langford Park, one of many such events at the park.

David Bocchino dazzled the Civic softball league with a no-hitter in the title tourney, then led First Federal's junior team to second place in the state 16-18 event.

MCHS girls' basketball coach Dan Alley relaxes, but only after securing a commanding lead against Fort Pierce Central, while Don Wallen (inset) led the MCHS boys' team to the state AAAA title.

Bob Sonza of Indiantown made lots of faces, especially when his Firebirds were finally dethroned as champions of the MC Junior Football League by Port St. Lucie Hurricane David tore through Langford Park in September, leaving lights and light poles scattered about.

Frank Hughes guided First Federal in softball, then coached the Offense in the Civic All-Star game. His team lost in the last inning, 6-5.

JB Razorback' Richard Cady helped defeat Palm City in the jamboree with this touchdown run.

Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton, local race car drivers, had a long, hard season. Tilton finished sixth in GTU points, but Bond was eleventh and the boisterous Bleacher Bums provided even more than moral support during MCHS' run to the title. Leading the charge are Jensenites Dean Tucker (56) and Chuck Fulton (to his right).

Unbeaten Fran Con faces Ernco, disciplinary problems

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Fran Con Construction may be battling two opponents tonight (Wednesday) when they take the field against Ernco in a Jensen Beach Youth Soccer game at Stanford Park. Ernco (2-2) and themselves.

While Fran Con's high-powered offensive attack has trampled the rest of the Middle Division in the first six weeks of the 1979-80 season, the front runners may be getting themselves into hot water with yellow warnings and red (game misconduct) cards.

In Sunday's 6-0 romp over unmanned Fischer Olds Cadallac, one Fran Con player was ejected from the game and three others issued yellow cards. Under the rules set up by League Commissioner Ted Bretas, a player who receives his second yellow card OF THE SEASON is automatically suspended for the next regular game.

Also, any player who receives a red card (ejected from the game) is also suspended for the next game.

Thus, when Fran Con meets Ernco tonight at 7pm, it will be without the services of Jeff Burkey, who was given the red card, and will have no less than SIX PLAYERS on the field with yellow cards in their past, meaning that another for any of the six would leave Fran Con at a disadvantage in their coming games.

With tough Certified Carpet Cleaning (3-1), only-loss a 4-0 setback against Fran Con) once again breathing down their necks, the leaders certainly need all the firepower they can field.

"We want to discourage any kind of misbehavior," Bretas has said throughout the season, "so we made those rules. We want to teach the kids to play soccer, not to misbehave."

The worst part about the whole thing is that Fran Con might be able to still win without some or all of the players they're that strong," added Bretas, who has worked hard to balance the teams.

Ernco played a brave game against Fran Con Sunday for 12 minutes. Then, the fireworks began. It was almost as if after the bubble was burst, it poured goals all over the field.

Clark Collins broke the deadlock, and Brian Polhemus soon followed with a second tally. After that, three goals, all before halftime, were rifled past the Fischer Olds goaltender. Laurie Henry, the leading scorer among the many girls playing in the league, posted the third, and Collins followed with the fourth - his second. Just before the half, Shawn Archeo made it 5-0.

Fischer Olds switched goal keepers in the second half, but took away any offensive chances it might have had in doing so. Sean McGlynn scored the half's only goal, making it 6-0, so at least the losers were spared the dubious distinction of being the easiest Fran Con mark - TNT hit the dust, 9-0 against the awesome leaders four weeks ago.

In all, Fran Con has scored 23 times in four games (almost six goals per game), while allowing just one, a goal by Mark Dieffenbach that actually put Fran Con BEHIND Sandy, 1-0!

Polhemus and Henry lead the scoring parade, with six tallies each, while Collins had five. Both Polhemus and Collins have scored in every game, with Polhemus' three-goal hat trick against TNT in the team's opening game standing as the best one game performance. McGlynn has three goals, Richard Billings two and Archeo one.

"I don't know whether it's that the other team falls behind and starts provoking them, or whether they just get ahead and start messing around," said Bretas. "But with six players having yellow cards, they had better watch out."

So should future Fran Con opponents, if they haven't already discovered that.

It's not Bos? Then who could it be?

The Lower Division leaders in Jensen Beach's Youth Soccer program found a new way to win Sunday; without Bob Bos.

It seems that in a division where only 24 goals have been scored in 12 total games, Bos has thoroughly dominated all comers. When Hartman Real Estate scores, Bos usually scores.

But the youthful kicker gave way Sunday to a brother act - Richardson and Richardson, John and Ed, that is.

After Bos' early goal gave Hartman an early lead against Stuart National Bank, it appeared as if for the fourth consecutive week, Bos would score all of Hartman's goals. But late in the first half, Jason Pittman netted a shot for the upstart Bankers, and suddenly the cry was issued for "more Bos!"

Instead, it was John Richardson who did the honors, ripping home a shot in the second half for the only goal of the twenty minute period and a 2-1 Hartman win.

And that was only half of the story. A day earlier, John's older brother Ed capped a wild Aycock's comeback with a goal late in the second half, giving Aycock's Gang a 4-3 win over Winner's Circle in an Upper Division tilt.

The last time a non-Bos goal had been scored for Hartman, Johnathon Polhemus registered the only tally in a 1-0 win over Baum Real Estate, a victory that sent Hartman on its winning ways.

Since then, Bos has beaten Action First Realty, 2-0 (as did Hartman) and Baum, again 1-0. Even he is human, though, as evidenced in his (and his team's) 4-2 loss to Clemons Realty two weeks ago.

The setback temporarily put Clemons within two points for one game of Hartman in the Lower title chase, but Hartman's triumph Sunday, coupled with Baum's 1-0 upset of Clemons, once again established a four point difference between Hartman and their closest pursuers, Clemons and Baum, each with five points.

In the Upper Division, while undefeated and untied PW? Sons took the weekend off, second-place Aycock's had to fight for its life against the determined Winner's Circle side.

Winner's Circle has been tremendously improved since the season's start, thanks to League Commissioner Ted Bretas' "balancing" initiative. Left winger Tom Beert and Midfielder Kent Hughes, brought in to strengthen the struggling team, have done just that, and they came within an eyelash of helping them to a major upset win.

Timmy Ouelette, one strong player they already had, scored the game's first goal, but Bruce Tucker countered for Aycock's Goals by Mac Lowry and Hughes gave Winner's Circle a commanding, 3-1 lead at the half.

But with a wind and sun advantage in the second half, Aycock's came charging back. Tucker did most of the damage, scoring the second and third goals of his three-goal afternoon and tying the score at three-all. It was then that Ed Richardson jumped into the scene, stealing the show and the game for Aycock's Gang.

In other action, Carpet Corner moved from the ranks of the winless and the depths of the Upper cellar to third place, knocking off Angelo's Plumbing, 4-1. Steve Huffaker broke a 1-1 tie with Carpet Corner's final three goals, one on a penalty shot. William Massey added the fourth, while Angelo's goal was an "own goal," or a goal as a result of a deflection off a Carpet Corner defender.

Tony Baker scored four goals, giving him ten in his last three games, as Ernco smacked TNT Appliances, 4-1, in a Middle Division game. Baker was through with his work by the time TNT got on the board, though any score by the division's last place team is significant - they have scored twice this season.

Kirk Haynes got the goal to prevent a shutout. He has now scored both of TNT's scores.

Finally, David Phipps scored in the first half to lift Baum Realty to a 1-0 win over clemons, in a Lower Division contest.

Witmer duo wins CEC doubles title

Ted Witmer of Ocean Breeze Park and Henry Eigenraugh of Ridgeway recently combined to bring home the Central East Coast District's Any Doubles Amateur shuffleboard championship, in a tournament played in Cocoa.

OBP's Witmer and Eigenraugh held off the challenge of Tom Brandon and Bill Ponder, both from Trailer Haven, in the final match. Hazel and Jim Lucas were third, while Jack Cline and Pete Martello finished fourth. The Lucas' are from Trailer Haven, while the fourth place team is from Ridgeway.

In the consolation bracket, the Spanish Lakes duo of Hack Purse and Walt Dorin was beaten in the final by Holiday Estate's Arlton France and Paul Howard. Finishing third were Ted Arras and Paul Winters, of Trailer Haven, while Lil Kruger and Gussie Muldrow took fourth place honors for Trailer Haven.

Several members of the Ocean Breeze Shuffleboard Club will be competing in next week's amateur and professional singles championships at Fort Pierce. All members of the Central East Coast District are eligible to compete.

FAST ACTION—The county road department was way ahead of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce. Chamber directors voted Monday to ask that the crosswalk at Jensen Beach Bank be moved to a safer location in the center of the bank. Tuesday morning, workers were repainting the crosswalk. The well-damaged crosswalk sign was taken to the county road department for reconstruction. (Photo by Dick Campbell)

Bike path priority is set by Chamber

Acquisition of the necessary easements from Palmer Road to the Jensen Beach Causeway for construction of a bike path was approved as the first priority of the new year by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Dick Campbell asked that the bike path easements take first priority, and board directors agreed at the Monday morning breakfast meeting of the group at the Village Corner.

"If we do one thing this year," Campbell said, "we should attempt to get the easements that will allow the county to complete the bike path from Palmer Road to the causeway."

County Commissioner Frank Wacha, attending the board meeting, said that the county would build the path if the easements are given. He asked Campbell to work with the county attorney to get proper legal descriptions needed for the easements.

A deed to the property would not be needed, Wacha said. Just an easement without deed for from ten to fifteen feet would give the needed land for the bike path.

The easement would be located on the east side of the road.

Campbell said the first three property owners he contacted indicated they would be pleased to give the easement to offer both cyclist and pedestrian safety on the narrow road. He declined to name the prospective donors until all property owners are contacted.

In other business, the Chamber board:

AGREED to hold breakfast board meetings for the next six months. The meetings would be held at the Village Corner at 7:30 a.m. on the second Monday of each month.

APPROVED holding monthly coffee meetings, to begin at 7:45 a.m. the first Tuesday of each month.

PLANNED the Jensen Beach Art Festival for March 1-2, to be held at Langford Park.

RAISED dues, effective July 1, from $50 to $60, with half year dues at $30. Contributing memberships were held at $10.

SET February as the month for a membership drive to pick up any members not yet paid and solicit new members for the Chamber.

APPROVED seeking the donated services of an architect to design an effective plan for the remodeling of the Jensen Community Center.

PLANNED participation in the God and Country Day celebration, with William Keele, III the Chamber's member of the committee.

ACCEPTED a $31,738 budget for operations in the new year as prepared by Treasurer Gene Greenwood.

SET a mail campaign for funding of fireworks in the Independence Day celebration.

Chamber asks changes in comprehensive plan

The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce was to present suggested changes in the north county comprehensive plan today (Wednesday) at the county administration center.

Chamber members were notified of the special meeting of the county commission at the Chamber board meeting Monday morning by Chamber president Dick Campbell, who had been notified of the meeting the previous Thursday by the county attorney's office.

In the Chamber position, it is being asked that the north county plan's land use section be keyed to and coordinated with the transportation section, that the regional park design be tied to the development of a well field for future water supply in the area south of Commerical Street, between Savanna Road and U.S. 1, and that zoning categories for development along Commercial Street be changed to remove the designated "commercial" and replace it with graded multi-family densities to either side of a center point from a commercial center at the proposed bisecting road on the plan.

Also, the county will be asked to require feeder roads for access and egress from developing properties to lessen the impact on Commercial Street.

Variety Show auditions

Auditions for the Annual Benefit Variety Show, sponsored by the Martin County Association for Retarded Citizens, will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, Jan. 29 and 31, beginning at 7:00 p.m. at the Palm City Recreation Center. Talent of every kind, singing, dancing, instrumental comedy, amateur or professional, are all sought for this annual event. Anyone interested in performing in the show or assisting in the production, is urged to come to the auditions.

This year will mark the 22nd annual performance of the popular show which presents a wide assortment of talent. Master of Ceremony for the 1980 show will be Jack Sterling, TV and radio performer who has wide experience in show business.

All proceeds from this show are used to help retarded children and adults in this community. Presently, the Association is making plans for a group living home for retarded adults who need semi-independent living facilities and the assurance of support and guidance when their families are no longer available to provide assistance.

Sewall's Point gearing up for 1980 elections

At a recent Sewall's Point meeting, the proclamation of elections, to be held in March, was announced.

To date, four individuals have put their names on the slate to run against the only remaining incumbant, Mayor Ed Gluckler. They are: H. Dole Hoffa Jr., William E. Barton III, Gilbert Strubell, and Dana de Windt.

The terms of Commissioners Earl Crawford, Ed Gluckler, and Robert Russell expire in March. Commissioner John Guenther resigned effective Dec. 31, 1979, leaving a vacancy for the completion of his unexpired term until 1982. Commissioner Clinton Towl will holdover with a two year remaining tenure. This leaves three openings for four year terms, and one for an un-expired two year term.

Candidates are required to designate the length of office they're filing for, however, if no one files for a two year term, the office shall go to the fourth largest vote receiver.

If more than eight individuals sign up to run, a primary election will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 26. The regular election will take place Tuesday, March 4, with the polls open from 7:00a.m. to 7:00p.m. at the town hall.

The continuing problem of the South River Road right-of-way was discussed at length. Town commissioners were attempting to reach an amicable settlement for property at the end of Palmetto with the four property owners, all present at the meeting to voice their opinions in regard to this stalemate. One late arriver to the meeting, property owner Eric Holly, sat down and asked "what have I missed" to which town attorney James Knight replied "we sold your land." Holly laughingly said "well, that's progress." Holly went on to explain that his son plans to build his home on one of the lots in question, and that the additional required set backs imposed by the new road would not only reduce available building area, but make further property resales difficult as well.

Other residents commented on additionally incurred problems by the proposed road, such as loss of tropical trees, indigenous only to the Sewall's Point area, as well as a homeowner's well, presently believed to be located under the road site.

Attorney Knight pointed out that "we are at the point where the commission has to make a decision. All four people involved in the most difficult part of the road are here giving their opinion. We must quickly take a position." Commissioner Russell asked town engineer Dick Hellstrum to draw working plans specifically showing where the wells and trees are located in an attempt to work with and around existing structures. Mayor Glucker stated that, "we've meandered all the way up the line around trees," to which Hellstrum nodded his head in agreement and added "I have a life long hex put on me by a resident, and it's worked."

Toward the end of the discussion, property owners seemed willing to work with the commission towards a 15-foot property settlement, evenly taken from each owner. Commissioner Russell stated that, "15 feet is more equitable to all concerned."

Initial response to J.B. Fire Dept. encouraging

Although letters just went out last week seeking financial support for the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, Fire Chief Joe Luciano said Monday that the initial response has been very gratifying.

"People have already started to send in their responses, and this makes the firemen feel very good. It makes them feel appreciated, and for that, we are appreciative," Luciano said.

More than 1,100 letters have been mailed out, and a special attempt is being made this year to reach newcomers to the area. Luciano says if you have not received a letter, please contact the department to get on the list.

The volunteer department has nine trucks and faces growing maintenance and operating expenses as the cost of gas and hardware soars. Luciano has not set a specific dollar figure as a goal for the fund drive, but says he is hopeful residents will be generous, as the cost of a paid fire department would be far higher than the cost of a volunteer department.

In past years, the community has supported the department, making it possible for improvements in the last two years that have resulted in a better fire insurance rating for many local residents. Luciano says he is hopeful that the community will once again pitch in to help the department, and comments that in addition to financial donations, volunteers are also welcome.

Maggy wants to know what county is doing

The one goal of county commission chairperson Maggy Hurchalla in the coming year is to find out what the county has done, is doing, and plans to do — and get it all in writing.

This was Hurchalla's message to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club at its meeting Monday at Poor Bob's Restaurant.

"I cannot be in agreement with the commissioners on every issue, but I feel that this is one issue on which we are all united," she said.

The chairperson pointed out that in the past there was no written information, codified, that would tell the county commission what had been done.

"If a county engineer left for somewhere else, he took with him much of the information in his head. We haven't had that information available in the past," she said.

The three major areas of concern to Hurchalla are roads, flooding and the budget.

"We just found out what we are going to do," she said of roads. At a meeting with the Department of Transportation in Ft. Lauderdale, the commission followed through road programs to find their status.

State and federal monies are available for primary roads, and the county met with the DOT to learn the status of each project, including U.S. 1, SR 707 and the causeways.

The 46-year-old Roosevelt Bridge, admittedly in "bad shape," needs over a half-million dollars in maintenance work to put in good shape.

On the Warner Creek Bridge, at Beacon 21, the state must replace it, but has no right of way to detour traffic during the estimated six to nine months it would take to build the new bridge. The same is true of the small wooden bridge near WSTU that flooded a foot and more in recent rains. Right of way is needed to bring the road up to grade and stop flooding of the half-mile of SR 707.

That right of way would have to be obtained before the DOT would consider the project.

While the county increases communications with the DOT, practical realities of necessary county funding must be considered, she stressed. Hurchalla cited the projected 3,500 units that had already been approved in the Martin County section of Hutchinson Island.

Those units were based upon a bridge being built to the island from either Midway Road or Walton Road, in St. Lucie County. But, the bridge would cost $25 million and the DOT does not have bridge funding.

"The DOT said it would take 20 years to build such a bridge," she said, adding, "It might be necessary for the county to build the bridge from secondary road funds."

Hurchalla said that the public, the commission and the press should all be aware of the update on projects every three months so that the projects can get proper support.

Next Monday, Kiwanians will hear State Rep. Chuck Nergard speak on

Letter campaign might bring traffic designs

Five problem areas of traffic control might receive action from the Martin County Commission and the Florida Department of Transportation if a letter campaign of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce is effective.

The Chamber board of directors approved requests for action on the five areas at the monthly board meeting Monday morning at the Village Corner.

The areas include: Realignment of the crosswalk on Commercial Street in front of the Jensen Beach Bank. The present location caused a rash of accidents in which autos pulling out of the bank would hit the crosswalk sign. It is recommended by the board that the crosswalk be moved to in front of the entrance to the bank.

Installation of a left turn signal of ten seconds or more for north bound traffic on Indian River Drive at Commercial Street. Autos pulling into Restripe Ricou Boulevard to provide left and right turn lanes east bound at Indian River Drive. At present autos have no directional lanes and traffic often is bottlenecked there.

Provide parking striping at the Indian River Drive side of Poor Bob's Restaurant to move delivery trucks off the northbound lane of the drive, and easing the visual hazard for autos coming off Causeway Blvd.

Installation of the "Jensen Beach" directional sign at A-1-A, removed by workmen in the past. The sign directs visitors headed south on the inland highway to Jensen Beach and is an important part of the local information cycle, according to Chamber directors.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha, present at the director meeting, suggested that the letters would assist both the county and the DOT in providing better traffic

WATER STANDS—Despite dry weather, this water stands in the ditch alongside The Paint Shed and Gold Coast Tire on the newly widened Commercial Street. Drainage must be moved to the east, instead of the west, and a drainpipe is planned to carry off the water.

Wayne Stacy named new pastor at North Stuart Baptist

Dr. R. Wayne Stacy, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Austin, Indiana, has accepted a call from the North Stuart Baptist Church to become its second pastor and will be installed in February.

The first pastor, the Rev. Robert E. Lee, retired in September and moved to his home state of Tennessee where he engages in part-time seminary teaching and interim pastoral work. Currently serving as interim pastor of North Stuart Church is Dr. R. Paul Caudill, pastor emeritus of the First Baptist Church of Memphis, Tenn. and Visiting Professor of New Testament at Palm Beach Atlantic College. The Rev. Walter P. Rogers, Jr. is continuing as Associate Pastor and Minister of Youth and Music.

Dr. Stacy is a native of West Palm Beach and spent most of his youth in Pahokee. His wife, the former Cheryl Bushin, is a native of Belle Glade. They have a three year old son, Justin.

In 1973, Dr. Stacy graduated cum laude from Palm Beach Atlantic College where he received the Jess C. Moody Religion award. In 1976 he received the Master of Divinity degree and in 1979, the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky where he was Garrett Fellow in New Testament and instructed in New Testament and Greek.

In addition to the First Baptist Church of Austin, Indiana, of which he was pastor while attending seminary, Dr. Stacy has served at Crossroads Baptist and Central Baptist Churches in West Palm Beach, Chosen Baptist Church in Belle Glade, and First Baptist Church in South Bay, Florida.

CONDOMINIUM CONVERSIONS

QUESTION: I have been thinking seriously about investing between $50,000 and $100,000 and am looking for an apartment building to convert to condominiums. I understand that the process of purchasing an apartment and then selling it to individual unit owners can be quite profitable. My question is this: What type of building should I look for in order to maximize my opportunities?

ANSWER: You are correct in observing that the process of converting apartment buildings to condominiums can be quite profitable. In addition, this process serves a very useful social service by providing ownership of housing to people who are losing many dollars in rent payments.

The type of property which best lends itself to conversion to condominiums is usually a building which is above average in construction and location. Although many properties have been converted in other than triple-A locations, or of construction which is not first class, generally the better buildings lend themselves to more rapid and successful conversion.

Try to look for a building where you would expect a reasonable percentage of the existing tenants to purchase their units. Some conversion experts cite 30 percent or better as a guideline. Also look for a property in an area where there is a relatively high demand for rentals in proportion to the supply. In addition, look for an area where the turnover of apartments is relatively small each year, indicating a stability of tenancy in the area.

Other guidelines to consider are the availability of good sized rooms, adequate closet space, and, in areas where such amenities are expected and demanded, a property with extras such as a swimming pool, tennis courts, tenant storage, and the like.

Your overriding goal, however, should be to acquire a property which can offer the public ownership of good living space and can compete successfully with other existing housing.

Overdue from Benton Harbor, Ed and Val Callahan finally arrived for the winter, after a malicious attack on their trailer. Driving south through Seymour, Indiana, they stopped at a restaurant for dinner. Upon returning to their vehicle and moving only a few feet they realized something was radically wrong with the trailer. Upon inspection they discovered two trailer tires had been viciously slashed. The police were very sympathetic but due to the lateness of the hour and the weekend evening no replacement tires were available. Consequently they faced a 19 hour delay before resuming their journey.

Here since the first of November and retired from his own business, Domestic Air in Stuart, William Heger and wife Polly have purchased a lot in Indian River Plantnig on making this their winter residence and returning to Franklin, North Carolina for the summer months they are looking forward to meeting new friends here in Venture 3.

Venture Three "Bowlin For Fun" had 17 persons attending last week. Marie Russell had men's high series with 468, also high game with 181. Corn Lee Irwin had ladies high series with 449 and Lucille Balowski had high game with 175. We are glad to see Lu and Steve back with us for the balance of the winter. A new comer was George Mahaffey. His wife along with Bill Thompson's wife made up the cheering section. Ward Irwin didn't make it as he took advantage of the nice weather and spent the day fishing. Frank and Jane Nolan along with Dorothy and John Berry had a rousing good time. Lu Russell and Lala Torregrossa were vying with one another to see who could get the lowest series but they still had too much of the holiday spirits. On one occasion Lu even threw the ball backwards through her legs for a "believe it or not"!!! Scotty Hiner received a new ball for Xmas present and was really grooving it down the lanes. George Sterling, Bud Knoebel and Mel Hiner were busy pouring cement and helping neighbors — sorry you couldn't make it boys — see you next week!!!

Driving south to Miami last week were Clyde and Lola Bonar, to visit with friends for a few days. They had a delightful trip down and back.

He is the Business Manager for Porsche Audi in Atlanta, Georgia. He also has a store in Dallas as well as a traveling store traveling Vans with which he attends all horse shows throughout the U.S. selling English Riding Apparel imported from far off England.

Scott Lee and Hazel (Pete) from Tampa spent a few days this past week with the Shavers. She is Lester's only niece. Scott is the retired District Manager for the New York Life Insurance Company.

Stuart National Bank has unveiled a new gas-miser program.

Conceived to meet astronomically escalating gasoline prices head on, the program should also save customers a great deal of time, travel and inconvenience.

"Our gas miser program will ease the burden of the high cost of transportation on our customers," said Jack R. Williams, president of the Stuart National Bank. "By combining the use of our banking services through the mail and by telephone, our goal is to dramatically reduce the number of visits an individual must make to the bank."

A recent change in banking regulations that permits the automatic transfer of funds from savings to checking accounts now allows Stuart National personal account customers to move funds between accounts merely by signing an automatic transfer agreement.

"This means that our customers, through the use of the automatic transfer agreement, may write checks without having to make a trip to the bank to personally transfer funds."

Planning compromises

No one will ever be perfectly happy with the comprehensive plan for Martin County.

Developers and speculators want the highest prices possible for their acreage. Thus they would like to have the plan reflect the highest potential value for their properties. Make everything commercial.

Common, every day folk don't want to see the area grow too much. They think we have enough people and businesses here. They have their homes, and want as few potential new residences and businesses as possible, so they want the lowest possible potential value placed on other people's property. Make everything two acre estate.

Somewhere in the middle is a good plan.

Quiet, peaceful Palm City is like Theran, Iran. The residents are loudly protesting potential development of Martin Downs, with residential units of 3,000 plus, and acres of commercial zoning for business.

They accepted the million-dollar-plus highway that made access to the property and the turnpike easier, but want the developer to cut down on his potential return on investment. The developer wants as much as he can get, of course.

Somewhere in the middle they will get together.

At issue in all development is the totally inadequate road system that Martin County Commissioners have inherited from years of bad planning.

The new boulevard leading to the turnpike begins a couple blocks west of the Plam City Bridge, a two-lane, high-level bridge that is already clogged with traffic. Residents rightfully ask how the potential 30,000 persons will get across the river. The county says it can't afford another bridge in the forseeable future.

Those 30,000 people are coming. They want somewhere to live, and, in the beginning they won't even concern themselves with how they are going to get back and forth from shops and services of Stuart. Yet, the county will pass the plan, and say to the state, "Hey, here's a good looking plan." The county will ignore the bridge.

The county is also planning a new bypass road to get people off Palm Beach Road and to the beaches faster. At the same time, the City of Stuart and the county are planning to make East Ocean Boulevard four lane to get the people to the beaches faster and handle the thousands of shoppers going to the proliferation of shopping centers along that badly clogged road.

At the east end of the road is a two lane bridge. And, another two lane bridge awaits those who make it over the St. Lucie River to get them over the Indian River.

It is like pouring water into a funnel. If you get too much water, the funnel overflows.

East Ocean Boulevard is already overflowing. Traffic backs up for miles at a time during the rush hours.

The county has no plans for additional bridges. No money.

The compromise will be long lines of traffic and hours of waiting for the cars that are funneled into the bridges.

However, the county will pass that part of the plan and send it to the state, saying, "Hey, here's a good looking plan." Then, the county will ignore the need for two more expensive bridges there.

In Jensen Beach, the road system is basic, and will not even come close to meeting the needs of the residents and visitors five years down the road. It isn't even handling the needs now.

About the only way the strapped county can try to meet the needs of today is to encourage a little giving on the part of property owners for rights-of-way to get roads.

The new two-lane bridge across the Indian River at Jensen needs a mate, but the county has no money to do the job. Traffic that is dumped into Martin from St. Lucie County's high-density Hutchinson Island will be forced to wait hours on end to get into Jensen Beach, or face the prospect of trying the already overloaded Stuart bridges to get to town.

The slipshod traffic plan backs up traffic at the entrance to Jensen's beaches park, on the east, at Indian River Drive on the west end of the causeway, and at the drive and Commercial Street.

Luckily, the county got the money to improve the intersection of Commercial Street and Savanna Road...and the long awaited job has relieved some of the traffic, and will relieve more whenever the delay-prone job is finished.

This is not all the fault of the county. It is operating under antiquated funding by the state, and just doesn't have the money to do the job.

Thus, all planning takes a back seat to the obvious needs of the county. The plan must be compromised by the realities of finances.

There is no black and white in planning. It is all shades of grey wherein the actual plan must defer to the cold, stark reality of where the money comes from for the solutions to problems.

Perhaps we should call it the Compromise Comprehensive Plan.

A truly local publication

A beautiful book was brought into the office while my back was turned last week, hand-delivered by its editor, Kathy Weckley, director of education at Indian River Community College.

I was particularly thrilled to receive the volume, "Indian River Cuisine," not only for its content but for the magnificent art work. The cover, a stunning Florida scene, was done by old friend Beanie Backus, acknowledged dean of Florida artists, and much of the glorious photo art separating the sections is the work of Fred Meissner, husband of my particular guardian angel Peggy, general manager of The Mirror.

As a matter of fact, leafing through the whole 532-page cookbook is a culinary stroll with friends, many of whom I can personally attest as some of the best cooks the Treasure Coast has to offer. While I'm not the proper one to review a recipe collection (my own system is the WITH—or Whatever's In The House—method), I know from past personal pleasures that these contributing Escoffiers know whereof they speak. I have been at their tables and tasted

Take, for instance, Sara (Mrs. E.D.) Haughton, who for years has divided her time as active leader in Ibsen the perfect hostess. The same can be said for Kathryn Woolford, prominent in Fort Pierce garden circles and active in the Pelican Yacht Club. Both of them have given the secrets of their favorite cheese puffs, in the d'oeuvres department. And on the same page Nilla Putnam, yet another long-established civic and social leader in the Fort Pierce area, tempts us with her cocktail cookie recipe.

Other talented kitchen artists whose goodies I've tasted include June Carlton Vest, widow of Col. Hugh Vest, Dot Gortner, Olive Peterson, Peggy Berg (wife of Dr. Leonard Berg and director of the Fort Pierce Art Gallery), Mrs. Robert Terry, Jean (Mrs. Charles R. P.) Brown....

How well I can vouch for two others—Isabelle McClintock and Kitty Scott! At the News Tribune, Christmas just wasn't Christmas without Isabelle's rum balls, and Kitty kept us well supplied not only with delectables but with flowers from her green-thumb garden. One couldn't go wrong with the advice of these two.

Kathy and her committee have done a masterful job of providing food recipes for every possible taste. The variety of source material runs from the well known and loved Nick Midelis, of Hilltop House fame, to the chef at Le Pavillon, and from Roselyn Carter in the White House, Mrs. Robert Graham in the Governor's Mansion to Kay Nergard, wife of our own state representative Chuck Nergard.

One of the biggest contributors is Carra Adams, wife of former Supreme Court Judge Alto Adams. Many's the time I have trampled Carra's fare, and marveled. She has a way of turning the most ordinary vegetable dish into a Cordon Bleu creation. Carra believes that the table setting is an important part of the meal, and dining in the Adams house is not merely a gustatorial treat—it's an Experience.

Men as well as women have offered their secrets to the pages of Indian River Cuisine — among them Ewell Menge, director of the Fort Pierce Utilities Authority, Earl Rauleson (both of whom vie for fame with their swamp cabbage), The Honorable R. Dale Patchett, state representative from the Vero area, Nick Midelis and Tom Durkin, former confrere on The News Tribune, and Robert Watson of the Wayside Inn, to name a few.

The Treasure Coast Greek community has done a fair share of sharing, among the wide variety of foods — Irene Crist's Spanakopeta (spinach pie), is one of the fine examples — while Melody Streeter goes Oriental with Chinese Casserole, and Mimi Clerke presents a luscious-sounding French "Bouillabaisse a la Parisienne."

Other contributers I can vouch for personally include the gracious and venerable community benefactress Dorothy Binney Palmer, whose hospitality I've shared in her second floor aerie amid birds and squirrels at Immocolee, the charming and hospitable Regina Bishop, Mrs. Robert Terry, Beverly Cambron, Martha Rogers, to name but a few.

It's a beautiful book, one you'll want to send as a gift to your favorite aunt in California or your pet sister in Maine. It's not just for the region — it's for everywhere.

Little things mean a lot

While we were talking about traffic at the Jensen Chamber of Commerce meeting, the subject of "little things" came up.

"You can help me by letting the various people who are in charge of these areas know that you want this or that. I keep checking with them, but the list of needed items is long, and it takes them some time to get to them," said County Commissioner Frank Wachs.

The list for Jensen Beach is not that long, but those "little things" would mean a lot to the safety of people in the community. So, the Department of Transportation, the county commission, and the county engineer and road department are being contacted.

There are major problems with parking along side Poor Bob's Restaurant. Large trucks making deliveries block off a portion of the street. Autos turning right from the causeway sometimes have to pull out into the left lane to get past the trucks.

Also, autos turning left onto Indian River Drive cannot see oncoming traffic if their vision is blocked by the trucks.

It is necessary to have deliveries made to the restaurant, so the trucks must park there for short periods. But, there is no parking marking that would move the trucks closer to the building and out of the right hand lane.

Thus, the Chamber is asking that such marking be provided.

The crosswalk in front of Jensen Beach Bank is dangerous. The county provided a crosswalk sign, and the bank agreed to put it out and take it in each day, but as soon as it is put out, someone drives over it. The sign looks like it has been recovered from the center of a demolition derby.

The problem is that the crosswalk is in the wrong place. It would be safer directly in front of the bank entrance, instead of at the driveway on the west end of the building.

All it takes is painting the road with the new crosswalk. Then the sign would be safer, and the pedestrians would be safer. Also, fewer autos would hit the sign.

Just a ten second left turn light at Commercial Street and Indian River Drive would really move the autos out of the narrow northbound lane and open it to movement of more traffic. As it is now, autos trying to turn left into Commercial Street back up, and when more than four cars are in the lane the entire road is blocked for through traffic.

The real answer to this would be to have left turning autos move to Ricou and go around the block. But, the immediate answer would be to have that ten second light to open the through lane. The DOT would have to install the sign and approve of it.

Heavy traffic has Ricou Boulevard tied up with east bound autos. It would be a simple matter to restripe the road to move autos into the right or left turn lanes to get out on Indian River Drive. It's just a little thing, but would move more traffic.

Quick action by Southern Bell is promised by Stuart manager Glenn Sutton in replacing the "Jensen Beach" directional sign removed by Ma Bell workers when they were laying cable along A1A on Hutchinson Island. Sutton said his office would contact the DOT about the sign to see if it can be replaced as soon as possible. The Chamber is writing a letter to the county and DOT at the same time asking for the sign there and on the northbound side of A1A.

They are just little things, but they can mean a lot to the residents and visitors in this area.

There are probably many other little things that the Chamber of Commerce can persue to make life safer for the people of this area. Anyone who has something in mind can call the Chamber office at 334-3444 and have the request taken up by the board of directors. In obvious situations, fast action can be achieved.

The county and the DOT cannot be everywhere and see everything. It is up to the people to help out.

We'll begin with the four items above, and move on from there.

Computer age is dawning

Computer games were the rage at Christmas presents last month, and from what those in the computer industry are saying, that was just the tip of the iceberg.

In the coming decade, industry leaders say the use of computers by the public for a wide variety of tasks will become commonplace.

"Simon" and "Merlin" and the host of other computer games that found their way under the Christmas tree last month will, in all likelihood, soon become regarded as very primitive toys compared to what the next generation of personal computers will be doing.

It was considered a technological breakthrough of massive proportions when scientists learned to place a few hundred bits of information on a tiny, wafer thin, computer chip. This brought on the wave of pocket calculators and computer toys that are now becoming commonplace.

But now, they're cramming thousands of bits of information on those chips, and industry leaders say it won't be long at all before they're not only placing millions, but even a billion, bits of information on a chip.

For mathmeticians, it means making Einstein-type calculations a simple matter of pressing a few buttons.

A computer is already saving hundreds of thousands of dollars in fuel costs at a Miami hospital by monitoring the hospital's heating and cooling system and turning the system off and on in various parts of the building as needed.

It is expected that in the not too much more energy-efficient as a result of having computer chips monitor their activities.

In automobiles, the computer will become used on a widescale basis to control fuel consumption, monitor dashboard instruments and even lock and unlock doors on voice command.

By the end of the 80s, computers may be well on their way to replacing the printed novel. Instead of reading a novel, folks will simply pack out a book title, punch a few buttons, and relax while a computer reads the book to them. And, industry leaders say that through the use of television, cable and telephone systems, the resources of the best libraries in the nation will become available to virtually every one.

In the newspaper industry, computers are already performing tasks undreamed of 10 years ago, and no doubt the ones in use today will be obsolete 10 years hence. Indeed, it's not too unthinkable that future man will not only have his novels read to him, but will also hear, rather than read, his newspaper. Think of the trees that would save.

The household appliances that have glutted the market in the past 25 years have made the performance of necessary chores vastly simpler than they were. And in the not too distant future we may have robots to do many of the things we now loathe doing.

Who knows where it will all lead? Computer experts see a bright future in store for us.

For the most part, I agree with them and I'd scarcely welcome a robot checkbook, and read a good novel to me.

But in some senses, living in a more highly computerized world is a frightening prospect.

With the new wave of computers, future generations may find there is really no reason for learning to read or write, add, subtract, or multiply, as that will all be done for them. Already, elementary school teachers are saying they are having a rough time teaching kids how to tell time from a conventional clock, as the use of digital clocks have made the task of figuring out what numbers the big hand and little hand are on seem unnecessary.

Perhaps future man won't need to know how to read a conventional clock, or how to read or write or add, just as today the vast majority of folks need to know nothing about farming, in order to eat. Everyone has their specialized field, and we swap the dollars we receive for performing our special tasks for the good produced by persons specializing in another field.

That's all just fine so long as it works, but it also means we are becoming increasingly interdependent. And increasingly vulnerable.

The age of the self-sufficient man seems already to have passed, and, in the case of oil, for example, we're finding that those in control of a highly-needed commodity can exercise far greater control over our lives than we would have ever bargained for in a simpler age.

If computers are to become a major part of our lives in the future, let's

On the subject of welcome giftbooks, one winding up under my Christmas tree is another local product — a collection of the poetry of Allen F. Brewer.

Allen, a quiet and sensitive man, is a frequent contributor to The Mirror, but seldom allows his presence to be known around the newspaper offices. As a result, I wasn't even sure what he looked like until lately.

But I've long been an admirer of his talents. In simple and unaffected verse, he has a way of making us all more aware of our blessings and our obligations to the country which has so richly endowed us with them. He is a spokesman for the hearts of all thinking and appreciative Americans.

His slender but stirring little volume, entitled Sand Dunes and Sea Oats and Other Poems, also bespeaks his love of Indian Riverland—its richness of natural beauty, the wealth of its history and an appreciation for the pioneers who settled it, including the people of the "Red Gods."

And, while not branding "progress" as a villain, many of Brewer's works contain a gentle but persistent warning of the lasting damage it can do if allowed to be applied carelessly. The title poem, a masterpiece says it all and well.

Many of the included poems have been previously published in larger newspapers and magazines, but we're proud to be able to say that most of them first reached the public eye through The Mirror.

Grannies will kick up heels

The spirit of showmanship will have it finest hour Saturday evening, when the Galloping Grannies stage their annual Nostalgia Follies at Spanish Lakes, where the now famous vaudeville troup was born some seven years ago.

It will be a particular triumph both for its members and for the community, because it will be the first performance since the death of the senior variety group's founder, Lenny Laden, who died at the helm last month.

Lenny's wife Hildy, who has been the late impressario's partner and co-director, is bravely keeping up the pitch and tempo of enthusiasm which has always made the Follies a sure hit. And thanks to that spirit of confraternity which seems to be shared by "old pros" everywhere, she is getting outside help. Stepping in to lend a professional hand is Gordon Walsh, who will help Hildy direct as well as becoming part of the act.

"I'm not trying to take Lenny's place," Walsh told The Mirror at rehearsal this week. "Nobody can do that. But I've been around with them so long I feel I can help."

Walsh, known as "Gordy" to his confreres, has been in show business all his life, a trumpet player, he began in the Big Band era with handsmen like Bobby Sherwood, Ted Fiorito and Johnny Long. He has also been involved on the national scene with the stage and radio.

"I've been in 43 stage plays and six movies," he recalled.

But radio has been his first love. He was on that well remembered "With the FBI in Peace and War," later moving to Washington to join the Voice of America. Gordon Walsh's voice was heard in nearly every country behine the Iron Curtain.

He came down to Florida on leave from VOA 16 years ago, and "loved it so much I stayed." He began with WSTU, later moving to WIRA in Fort Pierce where he was announcer and news director for nine years. He has also been with FTP Y-99, and for the past three years has had his own advertising agency.

Also lending an expert hand at the Saturday performance will be Cookie Brown, whose piano talents are known and admired throughout the area. Cookie will accompany the performance on the piano.

As one spokesman noted, in watching the rehearsal, "it is a tribute to Lenny, and a tribute to Indian River Community College, that the show will keep rolling, no matter how much we miss him."

BIG SHOES—Gordon Walsh, popular local advertising executive and former musician-entertainer, volunteered to take over Lennie Laden's direction of the Galloping Grannies. Laden and Walsh were long-time friends before the untimely death of the entrepreneur. With Walsh in rehearsal are Laden's widow, Hildy, and pianist Cookie Brown. (Sally Latham photo)

WSTU radio announcer dies in accident on Saturday

An accident on Port St. Lucie Boulevard early Saturday morning, Jan. 12, claimed the life of WSTU radio announcer, Jeff Weber, 27, of [illegible] Degouves St., Port St. Lucie.

Florida Highway Patrol troopers Randy Scrugham and Lou Ericson report Weber was driving east on Port St. Lucie Boulevard about three miles west of U.S. 1 at 2:40 a.m. Saturday when his car crossed the center line of the road and struck a westbound car driven by Donald St. Onge, 20, of 1430 S.E. Sanctrice, Port St. Lucie. After striking the left side of the St. Onge car, Weber's car ran head-on into a westbound pickup truck driven by Joseph Giannini, 19, of Leilani Heights, Jensen Beach.

Giannini was admitted to Martin Memorial Hospital and St. Onge was reported uninjured.

The accident marks the second traffic fatality recorded in St. Lucie County this year.

No wind no record

BY BOB FRYER

Although he didn't make it on his first attempt to sail a 12-foot long surfboard from Florida to the Bahamas, it looks like local resident Matus will try it again.

Matus was hoping to sail from Singer Island to Freeport, Bahama on Wednesday, Jan. 9 and earn a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records for doing so.

But Mother Nature just wasn't cooperative and the attempt ended about four hours after it began.

In addition to shooting for a Guinness record, Matus was making the attempt to promote Sailriders, a firm which makes surfboards with a sail attached and to promote Barnacle Bill's Surf and Sail Emporium of Jensen Beach, the local Sailrider distributor.

Matus had been training for the attempt since October and two days before he climbed on his Sailrider and set out for Freeport, he seemed highly confident he could do it.

Bill Donohue, owner of Barnacle Bill's still feels Matus can accomplish the feat. But not on a day like last Wednesday.

He left about 8:30 a.m., after the newsmen took photos and it took him until 9:30 just to clear the surf. There was an offshore breeze, but we just thought it was a heat occlusion, and that we'd get the winds we wanted once he got away from the shore," Donohue said.

Donohue noted that according to the U.S. Weather Service, the conditions were to be ideal for wind surfing to Freeport. "They said we would have 15 to 18 mile per hour winds, and that's just what he wanted. But once he got offshore we just drifted north. There wasn't even a puff of wind, so around noon I said, 'Okay, Eric, climb aboard,' Donohue said.

The failure to accomplish his goal was highly disappointing to Matus, Donohue said, adding, "He's been in seclusion ever since then, but I expect to see him today."

Donohue said he feels Matus will make another attempt, but did not know just when that might be. "If we had left last Friday instead of last Wednesday, we could have started at 8 a.m. and been sipping rum at the Atlantic Hotel in Freeport by 6 p.m. because the wind was good that day. There is no reason why he can't make it, but next time we'll do it on a day when the wind is good. We had to try last Wednesday because that's when we told the press we'd do it. Next time, we'll do it more in tune with the weather," he said.

While Matus was struggling on the Sailrider, Donohue and a friend were following along on a catamaran and a chartered sportfishing boat was there to navigate the course and to provide observers. Donohue said the absence of wind was so bad that the sportfisherman had to tow his catamaran in.

Myers named vice chairman for George Bush

State Rep. William G. Myers of Martin County, M.D., has been named regional vice chairman of the Florida George Bush for President Campaign, state chairman Tom Kleppe announced today.

"Doc" Myers has been one of George Bush's original supporters among state legislators, Kleppe said. "With his vast knowledge of political people, his willingness to formally join our campaign gives us a distinct advantage."

Dr. Myers, 49, has been active in politics and public service since moving to Florida from Pennsylvania in 1961. He has served on the Martin County Republican Executive Committee and was a state committeeman to the Republican Party. In 1978, he was elected to the House.

Also, he was a commissioner of Martin County from 1969 to 1972, and again from 1976 to 1978. He was chairman of the District Nine Advisory Council in 1977 and 1978, and was a member of the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council those same years. He is a member of local, state and national medical associations.

He and his wife, Carol Ann, live on Sea Grape Lane.

Camera Club enjoys trip to Hawaii

There is hardly a shuttered up home to be found, looks like all of us are here and we sure hope so, when we try to break into the Indian River Drive, traffic pattern. By the way, how about another try for a signal light!

Then, when we have to line up for gasoline, we kind-of look forward to the summer, when the snow birds have taken all those problems back north with them. But, it really is worth all the turmoil to have all our friends, both new and old, right handy, so we can enjoy being with them everyday.

Here are some items folks have asked about, so I will bunch them all together. The AARP Tax Aid will start Tues. Feb. 5, in Jensen, there will be a Blood Pressure Clinic, Fri. Feb. 15, still need 2 couples to help out with Health Survey in front of Eagle's, Sat. Feb. 16; there will be an Ol' Time Movie, Wed. Jan. 16, at Environmental Center. (For details see the AARP Column).

PARK EVENTS

Tag & Bake Sale was unbelievably successful, it had the greatest number of items for sale, the largest crowds ever and the most prizes for the raffle drawings. The total taken in was more than last year and donated to the Greater Jensen Area Samaritans Ambulance Association.

The crowds had lined up long before the 1 p.m. opening time and when the doors opened there was a tremendous surge and instantly the clubhouse was jammed, as everyone headed for their particular point of interest. While the folks waited, they had a chance to view one of the new ambulances that was set up near the clubhouse rear entrance.

The mad scramble went on for hours with OBPers and strangers lugging prize 'buys' until soon it was time for the drawing of the raffle tickets. Tammey Lawley of Jensen Beach drew the following: Color TV, Nina Zgelhofer; Algan, L. Irish, Ed Schaubach, and Mary Collins. Winners of 10 grocery baskets: Nan Campbell, Ben Beyer, Dorothy Biddle, M.E. St. Onge, L. Mikesell, Ed. Schaubach; A. Russell, Ann White, J. Innis; and M. Barnhart.

A Square Dance Party was held at the home of Jim and Ellen Nixon, Tues. Jan. 8, with the following attending: Len and Mary Ann Blanchard, Art and Sue Bygd, Ernie and Marion Curwen, C.V. and Margret Donnell, Joe and Mal Luptak, Claude Kipple, Bud and Jan Klear, Gerald and Jeannette Morse, Jim and Ellen Nixon, George and Ila Mae Nunn, Frances Reese, Walter and Doris White. It was a pot luck affair with the Nixon's supplying the 'Sloppy Joes' and others bring 'soup to nuts' with plenty of rich cake and ice cream. So, after eating a wee bit too much, they took a 'walk-it-off' stroll, before assembling at the clubhouse for a night of square dancing. It was such a happy, lovely affair, they now want to do it again.

Camera Club members, all 98 of them, more than enjoyed V.P. Sparky Garside's part II of his trip to Hawaii. It was superb, the slides were sparkling and colorful and the commentary was sparkling and smooth. Now, 'Sparky' will present Charlie and Hazel Olsen, Jan. 17 and their slides of Colorado and Canadian Rockies, then for the Jan. 24 show he will present Tom and Dorothy Elliott with their trip across Canada. Pres Nina Segelhorst needs a slide show for Jan. 31, anyone with 100 or more good slides please get in touch with Nina at once.

The Feb. program has been arranged, so here is the schedule, per Feb. Program Chairman, Ernie Curwen: Thur., Feb. 7, Central America, by Ernie C.; Feb. 14, Seattle and Washington State, by Jim and Dorothy Gun; Feb. 21, The Art of Staining Glass, by Ed Petitt (also, he plays the organ before each meeting); Feb. 28, Galapagos Islands and Amazon Jungle, by Ernie C.

Secretary Freda Peterkin warns us that the annual dinner is coming up in March, and it's for members only. However, it is not difficult for the newcomers to become a member, just see Freda with a $1.00 bill and you can become a member for as long as you live in the park. The members do come and go; Freda wonders how many can remember back 'when' the club had technical sessions on how to take good pictures; field trips for nature studies; a darkroom for controlled film processing and the Club belong to the Professional Photographers and exchanged slide shows with other clubs. Who remembers other interesting club doings?

Shufflers of OBP still doing exceptionally well. Last week the Indian River team won 8/2 from Ft. Pierce to put them in a first place tie with Spanish Lakes. The Central league team held its own with a 2/2 score.

The Any Doubles tournament here (Jan. 10-12) had a bunch of winners. Main event, Bill Jones and Evelyn Groove; Guy Fusco and Ella Lee; Pearl Wheelock and Fran Runyan; Irma Fair and Kathy Schillare and then for consolation: Ines Bailets and Earl Burbank; Guy and Kit Garside; Bert and Evelyn Dandy; Jim Ellithorpe and Peanuts Cunningham.

HOSPITAL

Len Brunt of 8 NE 9th St. is home recouperating; also, Art Lewis, of 1 Arborvitae is home, enjoying the sun on his patio, and Claude Burks came home Sat. Feb. 12.

Dick Hoke, ExOBPer is in the Martin Memorial Hospital and Elsie Rife, of 6th St. ept. is still in the hospital.

CARD WINNERS

Duplicate, Jan. 13: Mike Dryer and Val Wells; Ness Moore and Flora Derr; Wilo Vetzel and P. Mathy, tied with Lura Mayer and Marie Bozel for third place.

Contract, Jan. 8: Irene Burgess; Ginney Whitehead; Fran Ruyant; John Mackey; Ethel Wilmot.

Pinochle, Jan. 7: Gladys Baier; Bobby Beaucleark; Ness Moore; Marcella Geither; Ruby Wagner.

Pinochle, Jan. 10: Maude Van Marter, Edna Strominger; Gert Gartner; Bobby Tucker; Sam Bono.

Pinochle, Jan. 12: Clara Cuddy; Ralph Ortt; Lila Chrmann; Anna Hazle; Ed Sheleski; Marge Sharp; June Malpers; Thelma Cuddy; Helen Ries; Maude Van Marter.

RAMBLING AROUND

Bill and Helene Ramden, 8 Cocoa Dr. came back here between the holidays with their grandson Keith Hamden from Mount Clemens, Mich., where there was one inch of snow and 20 degree weather when they left.

Keith who is in his third year at college spent most of his time at the beach working on a 'tan' to flaunt, when back in college. One day, while looking them over, he found a girl he had known back home and before he knew it, he was at a New Year's party with her.

Edna Strominger, 23 NW Almond St. reports that 35 'regulars' and guests had a mighty fine time at their pot luck New Year's party in Clement Hall. They had the traditional sauerkraut and pork feed with some left over from Christmas 'turkey pie'. So, as usual, they had a great ol' time playing cards between eating and lunching.

Ethel McDowell, 9 Cypress has just graduated from high school, at a spry old age of 74. It seems that back in 1922, she had to drop out to see about getting married (that's what they did in those days). So, when Adult Education offered a diploma course last August at the Middle School in Stuart, Ethel enrolled, as she needed the high school diploma in order to get credit for all her college subjects. So, congratulations Ethel for again proving, "it's never to old to learn."

C.V. and Margret Donnell, 1 Areca, came down here 7 years ago, after they had both taught school in Ohio for years. They had overnight visitors recently. First daughter, Janet Bugoci with sons Chris and Bruce came down from Oak Park, Mich. for 10 days. Then, as they left in the morning, granddaughter and husband Linda and John Birchmeier arrived from St. Louis, Mo. in the afternoon. John is an Electrical Engineer, while Lina is in Law School. They have been down before, so knew all about 'beaching' a lot so they would have a good tan to take back to Michigan.

George Hunter, 41 SE 5th Ave. came to OBP last year from the Eastern Shores of Maryland by the way of Cedar Pointe, Stuart. When his wife died last year, he found #1295 Cedar Pointe too large, so came here and is very glad of it, as he finds the folks 'of so friendly'. George for 40 years was a distributor for the Royal Typewriter and had 15 years of traveling, so is very content to staying 'put' now, with his many beautiful antiques. He did a lot of fishing up Staten Island way, where he had a chum running tug and fishing boats, but now he spends his time shuffling left handed.

Nativity acclaimed

A giant 17 piece Nativity scene installed in St. Martins de Porres Church in Jensen Beach has drawn widespread critical acclaim this Christmas season.

Poured from the largest ceramic molds available, the majestic set of figures is the gift and work of a group of parishioners and other area residents.

More than a year ago the undertaking was proposed by Ginny Heggie of Stuart, but there was insufficient time to complete the work for Christmas, 1978. This year the project was launched early and the display, which required two months to finish, was in place Dec. 15.

Each of 17 ladies commited herself to one figure. The group purchased the greenware, cleaned, fired and decorated under the supervision of Barbara Geisz and Marlene Schaumburg, professional instructors at Rio Ceramics, where the work was done. One of the pieces, a 3 foot long camel that had to be poured in two sections, was contributed by Helen Kappert of Jensen Beach and Mrs. Geisz stain finished it.

Larger Nativity sets often are made of plaster or papier mache but St. Martins' is entirely ceramic. Its value has been appraised at between $1,500 and $2,000.

The ceramic donors and workers involved were Linda Pacacha, Barbara Newman, Ginny Theisen, Sally Whitehouse, Sharon and Ginny Heggie, Alma Conway and Ann Spring of Stuart; Vicky McKeever, Helen Kappert, Theresa Yaklich, Gaky Cammack, Pat Kelly and Frances Herman of Jensen Beach; and Ginny Monti, Aurelia Grindrod and Dottie Satonyo of Port St. Lucie.

Another team, composed of Janet Carnett, Ruth Petrone, Dolores Tshudi, Frances Seaman and Jeanne Bauer, provided the backdrop of sky, hills and lighting.

Construction of the creche, or representation of the Nativity scene in the stable at Bethlehem, was performed by Don Whitehouse, Lou Petrone and Charles Carnett.

Hobby Show Feb. 5

Mary and Romeo Richer have returned from a week's cruise on the Caribbean Sea.

Mary has a "lovely" sun burned back to show she had a wonderful time. Their friends, Gordon and Gert Emery of New York were also on the cruise with them.

Who almost "stole" Jeanette's Bingo money Soc? You have to watch him Jeanette. Also who washed her glasses, the better to see the Bingo cards, and won two games?

Barbara Stymeton of Michigan was a guest at Bingo. Fray Johnson, Slyvia Huggens and Hazel Brown shared the jackpot Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Womer are new residents on Fourth Street. Joe and Charlotte are also newlyweds and come from Michigan. Residents of the Park welcome you and invite you to take part in Riverside activities.

Fray has unlocked her door and is again taking part in Park going-ons. She finished upholstering her couch. Very nice too.

Anne Baker was taken to the hospital early Sunday morning. Details unknown.

Watch your step, the dogs are back. Mr. & Mrs. Remi Rathy, 3rd Street, attended the Univoyal Retirees' party at Avon Park. Theres brother, Mr. & Mrs. H.L. Kerckhave, Arcadia, her sister, Mr. & Rs. Cliff Dryle, Cape Carol, and her daughter, Fran Shaffer, Fort Myers, also attended. Her sister, Tally Groveel, Mishawaka, Ind., who is staying with the Rathy's also attended. The Vander Beke's also attended the Retirees' party.

Riverside lost two fine residents when George and Betty Frantz moved into their new home last week. Hope to see both in the Park often.

Mr. & Mrs. Francis Karker have purchased and moved into the former Frantz mobile home, just across the street from their former mobile home.

Riverside Village Hobby Show and Bake Sale will be held Tuesday, Feb. 5 at 1:00 p.m.

Proceeds from the Bake Sale will be donated to the Jensen area Samaritans (ambulance fund). The public is invited.

Most railroads abroad have complex schedules of special fares, day-night and "sleeper" rates. In general, plan on paying more for fairly luxurious sleeping accommodations than for a plain "couchette", which is really little more than a lightly padded bench where one can stretch out. Light blankets and pillows are provided. However, never dispose of the ticket after the conductor has punched or marked it. It may be necessary to show the ticket again in order to leave the station platform at destination. Consider buying railroad passes through a travel agency before leaving home.

Health cost containment survey planned

This is the time of the year for questionnaires, as in a lot of cases they are mandated by the funded project. It is really a great idea for getting grass roots information back to the "Folks in High Places", but in some cases they are so complicated and involved, that seniors lose patience and toss them into the circle floor tile, and others have come to me for assistance. So, here is what some Seniors have to contend with.

There is a Health Planning Council Questionnaire of 35 questions to be graded "H"(high), "M"(medium), "L"(low). Here's a sample. "Epidemiology— This is concerned with disease surveillance; investigators; trend analysis; and evaluation of potential disease problems". They want to know if it should have "H, M or L" priority.

Then, the Gray Matters 50 buestions that have to be graded in a "1", "3", "5" order of importance. Here's a sample. "A person caring for an older person can never leave the house because the older person needs constant care and there is no one else to provide it." Give it a "1, 3 or 5" rating.

The advice given to those who were frustrated, was like this. Answer those that you can, the best you can, even if it is only one question. Then, make a note that you think a simpler, shorter questionnaire would probably get a better return from the senior population. However, don't discourage the idea of questionnaires, as it is what we want and need.

Now, our local Health Cost Containment Committee is to have a questionnaire survey, Sat Feb 16 at the different shopping centers, and this questionnaire won't be too long or confusing, probably just 3 or 4 yes or no answers is all that will be required. (Still need 2 couples to sit at a table in front of Eagle's (J.B.) for a couple of hours — tel. 334-0756).

Don't forget, Blood Pressure Clinic, Fri. Jan 18, 9 to 11 a.m. at Langfield, by the Martin County Health Dept. nurses. There will also be nutrition counselling for those on restricted diets.

It's that time of the year again; income tax return time, and again AARP Chapter 2223 will supply a free tax aid service for the seniors of Martin County. The schedule will be as follows:

Dick Weiser (334 6142) the Coordinator for Jensen Beach, announces the following. Starting Tues. Feb. 5, every Tues. & Thur. 1 to 4 p.m. and every Wed. & Fri. 9 a.m. to noon, at the Anchorage Hotel Office, 1012 NE Anchorage Ln. (Rio), until Apr. 15.

Marie Martin (286-0790) the Coordinator for Stuart, announces the following. Starting Mon. Feb. 4, Mon. thru Fri. 9 a.m. to noon, at the Stuart National Bank on East Ocean Blvd.

A loyal reader and AARP member Marcia reuell has called the seniors attention to a bit of entertainment that is right down their alley, so as to speak. It's an "Ol' Time Movie" (silent?) program, on the 3rd Wed. of each month, 8 p.m. at the Environmental Center (next to OBP). The first one, Wed. Jan. 16, will be "Charlie Chaplin", etc. It is part of a Community Education program and Jay Jarrett, the director, can give you the details (334-1263).

A check was made on the progress of the Log Cabin Senior Center at Langford Field and as most know, there has been no progress. But, Roger Nickles of the County Commissioner's office, who is coordinator of the project, reports that there are donations to get the logs' side walls set up, but they can't obtain any log lifting equipment (construction industry is booming). There are funds available to complete the center once the walls are erected and already they have $1500 of equipment in storage. Roger said he would contact Frank Wachs to see if he could get some action. If seniors write to Frank, it would let him know; the seniors are watching and waiting; and not too patiently, as 6 months ago it was promised for Jan. 1, 1980.

The seniors have been talking up a storm: health costs; inflation; $1.25 gasoline, as usual; but that's getting monotonous, so I'll just remark that "Afghanistan and the embargo" were the principle items discussed and President Carter's get tough policy had their approval, even those with farms in the north country. I'll listen better and report more next week.

CHAPTER ACTIVITIES

The Board ExCom meeting of Thur. Jan. 10 got a late start, at 2 p.m., as meeting place was being used by another group for luncheon. But, once started, as there was a quorum, it took care of the following items:

Vial of Life project was discussed by Pearl Wyse, Health Chm., and the board OKed it. Pearl explained that the vials would cost 17¢ each, then information slips and refrigerator door stickers would be needed. She is to find out how the Delray Beach Chapter handled the funding. Also, the Police, Red Cross and Ambulances will be asked for support.

The Martin County Fair will be held, Mar. 10-15, noon to 10 p.m. Mon. thru Sat. and Wendy Morris, Chairman of Booth Committee reports that the chapter will have the same spot as last year. The booth construction committee consists of Wendy, Frank Edwardson, Al Tucker, Bob Maurer, Lyle Burden and Doris Cass. The theme for this year will be "BUY-A-BLOCK A MONTH" and pledges will be taken at the booth, along with distributing AARP and Senior Citizen Information. Volunteers will be needed for manning the booth, those interested, tell Wendy 334-3339.

Doris Cass, Treasurer and Membership Chm. reminds the members that their 1980 dues must be paid or they will be dropped as delinquents and taken off the Bulletin mailing list. So, pay your $1.00 per person at the Jan. 17 meeting or send it to Doris, P.O. Box 1836, Stuart, Fla. 33494.

Ruth Woodruff, Chm. of program committee reports that Mr. Folly, Mr. Jones and Seeing-eye-dog of Tri County rehab. Center are all ready for the Jan. 17 meeting. Also, Ruth says Sheriff Hall and Lt. Bill Scott (Defensive Driving Instructor of other years) will give a talk and demonstration on self protection and personal safety at home, in the street and in the car. This is worth while, these days.

Senior Center Chm. Bob Maurer, explained the Buy-A-Block-A Month program and pointed out with 800 members it might be possible to have donations of $9600 per year coming into the fund. That's dreaming of course, but even a 20 percent participation would give about $2000 per year. This was tried out 2 years ago and one lady still pays her $1.00 when we meet.

It was found (by Ruth Woodruff) that the Quality Inn (where Board meets) has a dinner and musical entertainment every Friday and Saturday night. The Indian River Music Major Students act as waitresses and then put on a wonderful musical program. So, Verna King, Chm. of Travel Com. is going to see about having Senior Citizen night, might even arrange for the senior citizen courtesy buses, as many seniors have a night driving problem.

Although this year's Tax Aid program is "off and running" arrangements for next year's is being worked out, by appointing Dorothy Stokes as Chm. of the 1981 Tax Aid project.

The question of having 2 classes of members was discussed, but no action was taken. It was thought that by having active and associate members, it would be easier to get a substantial group of workers together and thereby getting more projects under way. Active members would have full voting rights and associate full privileges, except voting. One of the good workers hinted they might switch to assoc., so the matter was hastily tabled.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

Wed. Jan. 16: Ol' Time Movies, 8 p.m. at Environmental Center, on Indian River Dr. next to Ocean Breeze Park.

In the Super Bowl, it's Pittsburgh, UT and Detroit

BY DONNIE WILKIE

...Sunday is the big, big day ... the day [illegible] Super ... though this year it may have ... to ... Don Kirscher's Rock... ...ion Sunday morning, an ... Bowl football classic in July ... Server button on the ... keypath, or simply an NFL ... between the Pittsburgh ... the Los Angeles Rams.

Nevertheless, decided ... and semi-pro experts alike, in an ... to build up this classic ... That's what they said ... when it paired the NY Jets in ... "Dirty Dozen" if you may, how many do you think fell for this propoganda?

Well, one person picked the University of Tennessee.

Once again, let me refresh your memory. It's Pittsburgh against Los Angeles, and you've got to pick a score. There's no hedging in this poll!

Bill Wright, FP Central basketball coach: "I'm going to watch the basketball game (TwPaul and LSU)." Check.

That's right, folks. A bunch of wise guys.

Wright again: "Oh, okay! Pittsburgh's just too strong for them, that's all. LA'll get their ten points at the end of the game, after it's 27-0 and the Steelers are boarding the team bus!"

Pittsburgh 27 Los Angeles 10

Bill Mang, qualifications unknown: "Pittsburgh, because I'm from Pennsylvania. Besides, there's no comparison between the two leagues."

Pittsburgh 24 Los Angeles 6

Hamp Elliott, local radio announcer

Super Bowl XIV

Los Angeles Rams vs. Pittsburgh Steelers at Pasadena, Cal.

Local TV: Channels 4 and 34, 6pm

"Because of the home field advantage. Pittsburgh by seven. What I mean is that's why the score will be so close. It'll be low scoring because of LA's defense. (The Broken Leg Boys)."

Pittsburgh 20 Los Angeles 13

Bob Barta, President of PSL Athletic Association: "They're the most well balanced and powerful team in football (the cheerleaders or the Steelers?). Pittsburgh's got the best receivers in the NFL, outside of San Diego. You've got a solid quarterback in (Terry) Bradshaw, and (Vince) Ferragamo may get a case of the nerves."

Pittsburgh 24 Los Angeles 10

Mike Leatherwood, IRCC basketball coach: "I think LA can play defense against Pittsburgh, but the question is if they can score. If Ferragamo has a good game, I think the Rams can win. It's not a sure thing."

Pittsburgh 17 Los Angeles 14

Bob Morgan, Coach of junior football PSL Saints: (Lower Division) "Is there really a choice? I would rather see LA win, but it won't happen. If Bradshaw deals a hot hand, nothing can stop the Steelers."

Pittsburgh 24 Los Angeles 10

Jim "Bum" Evans, Coach of Martin County champion Upper Saints: "Pittsburgh is awesome compartitively awesome as the Port St. Lucie Saints (C'mon Bum!)."

Pittsburgh 27 Los Angeles 3

Phil Farinella, FP Central football coach: "If the Rams couldn't score more than three field goals against Tampa, then they won't score enough to beat Pittsburgh. And their defense will be tested, too. You can't let Bradshaw duck under the rush and stand there all day. The only thing LA's got in their favor is that when Pittsburgh's lost, it is because they turned the ball over, and you never know when that will happen. Maybe Chuck Noll can get some snow and ice on the field!"

Pittsburgh 21 Los Angeles 10

Frank Fitzpatrick, JB Lower junior coach: "It would be hard to pick against them. The Steelers are the toughest team in football. The one team that could beat them was Houston, and they got beat a while ago. I think it will be a boring game--then again, when I think it's going to be a boring game, it's an exciting one!"

Pittsburgh 34 Los Angeles 14

Herb Seal, JB Upper coach: "Pittsburgh's gonna outlast them. The second half is their's. Then again, I'm not making any predictions after the football season this year. (Seal's team was 1-7)."

Pittsburgh 27 Los Angeles 10

Mike White, coach of the Lower JB Sharks: "I'm rooting for UT (Tennessee, I told you there was one). Who are they playing--Pittsburgh or LA? Dallas was the only team that could have beaten the Steeler, and they blew it. The sky's the limit..."

...Pittsburgh 31 Los Angeles 6

Pete Hawanits, local sports columnist (We scooped the very paper he works!): "Oh, I don't know about that. You know, I've got my column coming up. Okay, I think I know who will win."

Detroit by 17?!

P.S. from Hamp Elliott: "If nobody picks Los Angeles, say that I did."

They're all yours, Hamp.

"We (Central) believe in our defense. That's what this team is built around. It's what we always talk about--playing good, solid defense."

--Wayne Titus, FP Central

Titus' defensive skill a weapon in Central arsenal

BY DONNIE WILKIE

There's always one.

On every good high school basketball team, there's always at least one player who goes totally unnoticed while his teammates bask in the sunlight of victories. While college recruiters nervously pace around area gymnasiums in search of the one big "superstar," our hero merely buckles his belt, goes out on the court, and continues to do the job for which he receives little acclaim.

Everyone who follows Fort Pierce Central's Cobras should know about Mike Toomer. Wilbert Washington. Together they form the area's strongest one-two punch since Martin County offered Walter Campbell and Charles Jones in 1976-77.

Few will hear of Wayne Titus when the subject of big-time, major college ball comes up. Titus, a 6-foot-2, 175-pound senior guard, is a quiet, unassuming young man who is content to let his actions speak for him.

Titus is well known inside Cobra circles for his glowing defensive accomplishments, but he received virtually no attention area-wide until recently, and only then because of his improving scoring average. However, no Cobra plays defense like Titus, and his reputation in that area is unquestioned.

"I've seen a lot of players who get charged up for one particular defensive assignment," says Bill Wright, Titus' coach at Central, "but Wayne's out there every night. He's not fooling out, not hacking, and not swiping. He's out there making that other guy work, every half of every game."

Titus' defensive assignment usually is Curtis Redden and adjacent to point guard Luther Sandifer in Wright's offensive scheme, but defense is his first concern.

"I don't think I can stop someone from scoring ANY points," comments Titus, "but I don't want to give up anything easy. If I make him work for what he gets, I've done my job."

Both Wright and Titus agree that playing good defense and how many points your man scores are often two different things.

"He always gets the other team's highest scorer, or best player," explains the coach. "Being a good defensive player doesn't mean your man isn't going to score. A good shooter will get his points. It's just making your man take a few more shots or just work harder for those points."

Nevertheless, points are few and far between when Titus is defending.

Already in the still young season, he has held Key West's Ty Washington, who burned Central for 36 points a year ago, to just 11 at Key West. Terrence Allen, the area's second leading scorer behind North Shore's Derek Harper, could do no better than 16 against the scrappy Titus in Central's 80-64 conference win over Palm Beach Gardens. Last year, he even posted a shutout, zapping Key West's point guard, Denny Clark, now at the University of Hartford.

"I really try to keep my man down to ten points or less," says the ambitious Titus. "A lot of times, if my man scores in the high teens, Coach Wright will make a smart little hint to me the next day, and I know I have to do better (as was the case when John Carroll's Tonny Guzzetta scored 18 against him early this year). My teammates help me out. They figure when there's a tough player to guard, I can handle him. That gives me more confidence."

Yet all the while, Titus' offensive output has improved.

"I don't think my defense affects my offense a whole lot," he continues. "It does sometimes if I'm up against a guy that likes to run, because then I get tired quicker.

"We (Central) believe in our defense. That's what this team is built around. It's what we always talk about...playing good, solid defense.

Titus, though, is the unerowned champion.

"A lot of times in practice," he laughs, "whoever I'm guarding will complain and, tell Coach Wright he doesn't want Titus guarding him!

"The toughest guy I've had to guard this year was Ty Washington. He played with a lot of contact. I felt like I held him down (11 points), but he's always coming at you. He didn't hesitate. He just did it. Either you

Oullette's seven goals topple PW & Sons, 7-2

Before the game, Timmy Oullette walked up to Les Kneifel, the coach of the undefeated Upper Division leaders in the Jensen Beach Optimist Youth Soccer League, PW & Sons.

Oullette proceeded to tell Kneifel that he would score no less than three goals (commonly referred to as a "hat trick" when his team, Winner's Circle, faced PW & Sons Saturday afternoon at Langford Park.

The boastful youngster was right, twice.

Oullette tore into the suddenly inept PW & Sons defense for seven goals Saturday, a league record, and he and his teammates were rewarded with a 7-2 victory over the first place squad.

The 3-0 score at halftime showed Oullette's promise to be a good one, but when the second half began, he merely picked up where he had left off. Before PW & Sons could blink an eyelash, the score was 6-0 all on Oullette's goals!

PW & Sons (now 4-1-0 and no longer in first place) countered with two tallies late in the final period, on boots by Richie Lord and Kent Moegerle, before Oullette added the lucky seventh to round out the scoring.

Meanwhile, Aycock's Gang, which has piled up nine points via three wins and three ties, assumed the division lead when they zapped Carpet Corner, 3-0, then battled Angelo's Plumbing to a 1-1 standoff.

Needing a win to tie PW & Sons in the standings, Aycock's got superb goaltending from Scott Reynolds in recording the shutout of improving Carpet Corner. Jackson Cargill scored

FANCY FOOT—Mac Lowry tries to control the ball early in Saturday's Upper Division game between Winner's Circle and undefeated PW & Sons. Lowry's team, Winner's Circle, got seven goals from Timmy Oullette to rout their opponents, 7-2, and drop them out of first place in the division. Aycock's Gang, with a win and a tie last week, took over the lead in the closest of the three Optimist Youth Soccer races. (Photo by Donnie Wilkie)

Professionals miss chance to clinch PSL title

BY DONNIE WILKIE

The Professional Drapery Service (PDS) could have clinched the championship in the Port St. Lucie Slo Pitch softball League Sunday, but after winning the first game of a double header, lost in the nightcap to Gold Shield Agency, 17-13.

The four-run upset was the perfect way to end a season as far as winning manager Tony Valicenti was concerned, but it forces the Professionals to try again in their quest for the title.

"We wanted at least to be a spoiler," Valicenti said of his team's desires. "You have to remember, we beat the Pros three out of four games this year."

The Pro's had defeated third-place Citizen's Federal in the first game, 16-9.

Because of the second-game loss, though, the team, which has led the league ever since a nine-game winning streak broke a 1-3 slump at the start of the season, must face Foster Wright Construction, the last place squad, Friday night at 7pm, in Sportsman's Park. If the Pro's win, they win the league championship, but if they lose, it would mean a tie at 13-7 with the Florida Home Finders, and a playoff game, perhaps as early as this weekend.

SOCCER- John Geraghty turned in a sparkling performance in goal for the Martin County High School soccer Tigers last Friday night, as the locallers trimmed Boca Raton, 3-0. David Smith scored the Tigers' first goal on a deflection, and later added another while Dennis McDonald also tallied. Geraghty stopped two penalty shots in recording the shutout, and helping the booters improve their record to 9-3.

WRESTLING- Fort Pierce Westwood ended Martin County's dual meet winning streak at four with a stunning, 38-29 victory over the Tigers early last week, but the locallers came back to smash two weekend foes. Six wrestlers were moved up from the junior varsity team for the match, as coach Jose Campo expected a blowout, but the fired up Panthers proved otherwise. MCHS bounced back, trouncing Leonard, 42-14, on Friday, then ripping Coconut Creek, 42-14 on Saturday.

SHUFFLEBOARD- Ocean Breeze Park moved into a first place tie with Spanish Lakes last week in the Indian River League, plastering Fort Pierce, 8-2, while Lakes was tripped up by third place Stuart, 6-4. In another match, Vero Beach defeated Plantation Manor, 9-1.

RUNNING- Diet Pepsi and PB Junior College will sponsor a 10,000 meter run at John Prince Park in Lake Worth Saturday morning. Runners can pre-register by calling Tom Mullins (965-1616) or showing up at JPP Saturday between 7:30am-8:30am. Registration is $5.

FREE THROWS- Mike Wallen, the son of Martin County High School basketball coach Don Wallen, advanced in the National Elks' Free Throw contest with a victory at the district level. The younger Wallen, who attends Parker Elementary in Stuart, will travel to the state shootout at Polk Community College in Winter Haven.

JAI-ALAI- The Fort Pierce Jai-Alai Frontoe continues to make improvements, as the 1980 season is less than a month away. Major additions include a new scoreboard and trifecta betting, in which a bettor selects which of the eight teams will finish first, second and third, in order. Other improvements include a new public address system, and a freshly decorated lobby, with a better program and boutique area. The season begins February 13 at 7 pm, and concludes September 20, with no action in April.

TABLE TENNIS- Stuart's Stan Morest finished third in the recent Over 70 division at the U.S. Closed National Championships. Oliver Nichols, the Over-70's eventual winner, defeated Morest in the semi finals, 21-15, 21-18.

BASEBALL- Two members of the Indian River Community College baseball team were selected in last week's major league winter draft. Catcher Mike Redish, of Needham, Mass., was taken by the Seattle Mariners in the second round (the 31st player overall), while pitcher Ed Wogan, a six foot, one-inch right hander in his first year at the school, went in the sixth round to the Baltimore Orioles. Reddish is a solid hitter, while Wogan sports a sensational curve ball.

MID-WEEK MENU- In wrestling tonight (Wednesday), Boca Raton is at Martin County and FP Central is at Lake Worth. Thursday action includes girls' basketball games between Central and Vero at the Indians' gym, while Glades Christian visits John Carroll. A pair of important Suncoast East boys' basketball games highlight Friday's preps, as Lake Worth Leonard visits Martin County and Central is at PB Gardens (and conference scoring leader Terence Allen). Kings Academy is at John Carroll. In soccer, Miami Pace is at Martin County, and King's also meets John Carroll in Fort Pierce in a girls' cage contest.

were ready to stop him or you weren't."

Titus never played organized basketball until he entered the high school level. Instead, he boxed as a welterweight in the Fort Pierce Golden Gloves program. He carried a lofty reputation in that sport, as well, though he won only three of his five bouts in inter-city meets.

"Most of the time, the coach sent me up against someone with a lot more experience (usually the toughest). Most of my fights, even in the gym, were like that, but he felt I could handle it.

"I haven't given it up totally," says Titus. "I don't know what I'll do later. But while I'm still in high school, I want to play basketball. That's why I quit boxing."

Wright feels the boxing gave Titus a big edge defensively in basketball.

"He's a good defensive player because of his past athletic experiences," he remarks. "Being a boxer, it helped him because a boxer's stance is similar to a defensive player's stance. You need to keep a low center of gravity and try to eliminate a lot of wasted action."

"If it helped me," counters Titus, "it is because it taught me to stay on my toes, keep alert and keep moving. You've always got to be ready."

As a sophomore, Titus started in 18 games under then-coach Roger Wrench. It was an experience that he feels was of great significance.

"I got a chance to play against guys like Moses Johnson and Charles Jones from Martin County," he reflects. "I figured if I could do good against them, I could do good against anyone. It really helped me."

Central is off to its best start in years, 10-1 at this writing, and Titus feels the joy ride can continue right through the tough Suncoast East schedule, but only if the Cobras work.

"We got tired at the end of the Gainsville game (Central's only loss), and a lot of things happened that don't usually happen. But we didn't think anyone could beat us. We hadn't planned on losing at all this year, and that loss did something to us. We all decided that we had to practice harder, from now on, so that if we lose, it won't be because of a lack of practice or lack of intensity. We've worked too hard to let that happen."

As emphasized earlier, Titus is not a major-college prospect. But there is no reason why he couldn't fit into a smaller program.

"He's definitely a prospect," claims Wright. "But he needs to work on his ball handling and dribbling, because he may have to switch over to point guard. He's a second guard right now, and too many college coaches feel that's the easiest position to fill.

"I like him, though. I like him because he gives me an honest effort every day at practice and he's a real nice kid."

Jensen could be running capital

Though Jensen Beach boasts it's the Sea Turtle Capital of the World, a good argument could be presented for claiming another title: that of running capital of the world.

In last Saturday's Orange Bowl marathon Jensen probably had the highest per capita ratio of entrants [illegible]. There were 2,107 runners in the [illegible] marathon event, and six of [illegible] were from Jensen.

None of the local runners won the grueling event, but all six finished it, and that in itself is quite a feat, as hot and humid conditions forced 900 of the entrants to drop out of the race.

According to all of the local runners who could be rearched for comment, the heat and humidity were oppressive.

Turning in the best time among the Jensen runners was Dave Cameron, who finished the course through downtown Miami in three hours and 10 minutes. Other Jensen runners and their times were: Dr. Bill Goering of Florida Institute of Technology, three hours and 21 minutes; John O'Connor, head cross country and assistant track coach at Martin County High School, three hours and 36 minutes; Ken Rickson, a Jensen Elementary School teach, four hours, 21 minutes; Jim Shearer, a doctor's assistant who works in Indiantown and lives in Leilani Heights, four hours, and 30 minutes; and Gary Hawken of North River Shores, four hours and 55 minutes.

All six runners are members of the Martin County Runners Club, and they were joined in the marathon by at least two other area runners. Steve Shields of Stuart finished with a time of four hours and 57 minutes and Mel Good of Stuart competed, but no time was available for him.

The marathon was won by Ken Misner, 30, of Tallahassee, who set a blistering pace of two hours, 18 minutes and 31 seconds.

The event Saturday was the third annual Orange Bowl Marathon, and was also the third time Cameron, a car salesman for Fort Pierce Toyota, has entered. Though he chopped about 25 minutes off last year's time, he didn't sound too pleased about the race.

Like last year, this year's marathon was a scorcher. The temperature at the start of the event was 72 degrees, and by noon it was up to 81. The humidity was in the 90s.

"The whole thing is ridiculous. It's just about impossible to run in that kind of heat and humidity. It probably took about 15 minutes off everybody's time," Cameron said.

He ran the first half of the race in an hour and 24 minutes, but says the heat and humidity just took its toll in the second half. "I picked up 35 positions in the last six miles, but I didn't increase my pase in the least. It's just that people were dropping out exhausted," he said.

The only other runner of the six locals who had ever competed in the Orange Bowl Marathon was Schearer. Last year he finished in four hours and nine minutes, considerably better than this year. Shearer could not be reached by press time for comment on Saturday's race.

Rickson, 28, a kindergarten teacher at Jensen Elementary, said he entered the marathon "on a whim." He said he, "hadn't been running anywhere close to that mileage" in the past, as most of his runs around the roads of Jensen cover about six or seven miles.

"I just figured I'd try it, and if I went 10 miles and couldn't go any further, I'd just stop," he said.

At around the 20 mile mark, Rickson said he could really feel his energy depleting, so he started a combination of walking and running, and only when he reached the 24 mile mark did he feel he might be able to finish.

Both Rickson and Goering said the crowds along the course were very helpful. "They'd look on the program for our numbers when they saw us coming, then they'd call out our names and urge us on," Rickson said. He said next year, he'll prepare himself better for the event.

Goering, 35, said the crowd was helpful by providing ice and liquids along the way. For Goerng, it was his second marathon. He entered one last year in Melbourne and said by the time he finished that one he was "very ill." But he said he "felt pretty good the whole way" on Saturday.

Hawken said he didn't get any blisters or cramps from the marathon run, but said the last six and a half miles were very tough. He, like Rickson, combined walking and running the last miles.

Coach O'Connor could not be reached for comment on his effort Saturday. All of the runners contacted said they'd probably enter next year's event, and judging from the number of joggers one sees on the streets these days, the field from Jensen may well increase next year. That is, if the runners don't get run over by cars or injure themselves on road shoulders as they warm up for the run. Several of the runners said bike paths are badly needed to provide for safer running in Jensen Beach.

first, deflecting a Paula Geier shot into the goal for a quick first half lead. Ed Richardson and Bruce Tucker scored in the second half for the winners, who had to fight off a sustained Carpet Corner threat in the first ten minutes of the second half.

Tucker gave Aycock's a 1-0 advantage in their Sunday afternoon match with Angelo's, but Dan Meyers tied the game late in the opening half, and the two teams fought evenly throughout the final 35 minutes.

In Lower Division action, Action First Really got goals from Brian Lupinacci and Daniel Strauss to upset first place Hartman Real Estate, 2-0. Nethertheless, Hartman maintained a lead in the division, though Clemons Realty, a 2-1 winner over Stuart National Bank, and Baum Realty, a 2-1 victor over Action First earlier in the week, are close behind.

Hartman's 4-2-1 record (nine points) places them two points ahead of Clemons and Baum (both 3-2-1). Action First (2-3-1) has five points, while Stuart National is far behind at 1-4-0.

Kirk Haynes scored three times, as TNT Appliances finally exploded for its first win of the season, a 4-1 conquest of Bandy Universal. The loss all but left Bandy out of the Middle Division title chase, with only four points, but then again, no one really seems to be in one.

Fran Con Construction continued to literally massacre the rest of the division with a 6-0 trouncing of helpless Ernco. The leaders built a 5-0 halftime bulge, scoring at will, before coasting in for their fifth straight triumph. In five games, Fran Con has scored 29 times, while allowing one goal.

Certified Carpet Cleaning appears to be the only team with any kind of a prayer of catching Fran Con, but a 3-3 tie with Fischer Olds set their hopes back considerably. Ken Gary scored all three of Certified's goals, while Michael Ladlaw, Chris Strausbaugh and Pete Doersamhicked home scores for Fischer, which battled back from a 3-1, second half deficit for the tie.

In the Middle Division standings, Fran Con (5-0-0) leads Certified (3-1-1) by three points, while Bandy and Ernco share third at 2-3-0. Fischer Olds is 1-3-1, and TNT pulls up the rear at 1-4-0.

In the Upper Division, Aycock's is 3-1-3, one point better than PW & Sons (4-1-0), with Winner's Circle (2-2-2) still in the hunt just three points out of the lead, and Carpet Corner (1-3-2) and Angelo's Plumbing (1-4-1) trailing the pack.

Merchants moaning more about rubble, drainage

RUTTED MARL—It is not a landscaped bank that lies in front of the new Eckerd Drug. It is rutted marl and rock. But, the contract for the completion of the intersection of Commercial Street and Savanna Road calls for mulch and seeding whenever the cleanup period is completed.

BIG PUDDLE—The elevation of Commercial Street at All Sweet Bakery has created a pond that stands in the middle of the bakery's parking area. Here, a pedestrian bypasses the dammed up pond.

MORE WATER—Motorists driving into Gold Coast Tire drive through standing water. The tire company's manager would like to know if the new drainage system works, but can't get the construction firm to clean out the swale entrance to see if it does drain.

Pete Lapilato stood on the concrete entrance to his new office building, looking over a sea of brown sand, a rubble strewn ditch, and the rocky edge of Jensen's pride, the new Commercial Street widening project.

His gaze was mixed frustration, anger and bewilderment.

Over three months ago, Lapilato, owner of Colonial Construction, opened his new office building, next to The Paint Shed. He has a permit to pave his parking lot, but the county engineer won't "let him until Dickerson, Inc. puts in a drainage pipe along the edge of the road.

"Look at that. Just look at that. I can't do anything," Lapilato moaned.

With most of his life earnings in the building, the popular local contractor needs the income the extra two stores in his building would provide. Mortgages do not wait for drainage ditches, and he has not been able to rent the inaccessible store space without a road entrance and parking lot.

"They were supposed to drain the water across Savanna Road to the west, but now they say it can't go that way. They are going to dump the water in that lot up there, and later on they'll try to figure out what to do with it," he said sarcastically.

Fred Keller walked out of the entrance to The Paint Shed. His business has grown over the past three years in Jensen Beach, and he recently grew enough to move into the larger building that sits next to Lapilato's building.

To get into Keller's parking area, customers must drive down a sharp embankment.

"If I put two ten gallon cans of paint in your car you would scrape the bottom going out," Keller said. He pointed to standing water in the rough ditch, saying, "That shouldn't be."

Though the drainage is supposedly complete, except for the pipe that will take water out of Lapilato's area, giant pools of water stand in front of Gold Coast Tire Company.

"It's not draining at all," said Cal Jones, manager of the tire firm. "I can't even get them (Dickerson) to come over and sweep the gravel off the dip to find out if there is a dip for drainage."

Jones faulted the entire improvement plan for raising a road that was already too high.

"If they wanted to take the dip out, why didn't they just lower the rest of the road? Now we have high ditches that flood."

Jones said that the water, which has always been a problem in the entrance to Gold Coast Tire, was the same as before the improvement project.

Water is also draining from the road into All Sweet Bakery, forming a non draining pond in the center of the parking area, with nowhere for the water to go.

The Jensen Beach Garden Club has not yet taken action on the destruction of their small planting area at the Sunview-Commercial intersection. It is now a garden of rubble, rocks and gravel strewn about, with one hardy cactus fighting for life, peeking out of the limestone.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha said he has been trying to get the job completed.

"To see water standing in ditches during dry spells and running away from the outfall shows we have some engineering problems," Wacha said. He added he has been contacting the county engineer and Dickerson, Inc. to get the job completed.

"I am concerned about the entire job," he said.

The county engineer, Ed Greenemeyer, admitted that Dickerson, Inc. was "very busy," and predicted that the cleanup work on the project would be done soon. He said that the project was figured to be completed by the second week of January, "and we are just about there now."

He admitted, "Time wise we are not where we should be, but there have been delays by new entrances not in the original plan that set us back, and they (Dickerson) keep lingering on."

As for Lapilato's problem, both Greenemeyer and Wacha said that the contractor recognized that he started his project after the planning for the intersection was done.

Greenemeyer said that the water problem caused by Lapilato's fill for his business building had changed the water flow so that they had to put in the pipe to carry the water to the pond on the American Legion and church properties.

"That (fill) stopped the water flow," Greenemeyer said.

Mirror photos of the area from Savanna Road to the area east of Lapilato's property indicate that there is much clean up and draining to do. The ditches are deep and rutted, strewn with large and small rocks and gravel from the construction phase.

The street is a mess.

Greenemeyer said that contract provides that the swales be seeded with mulch to hold the sides. That will probably be the last phase of the project for Dickerson. Though he seemed certain that it wouldn't be long, the county engineer admitted, "I have no idea when" the project will be finished.

FUTURE PARKING—The fill at right waits for the completion of installation of a drain pipe that will carry drain water east from The Paint Shed and Pete Lapilato's new office building to the swamp behind their properties. Engineers say that the fill caused the water to change course. It was supposed to have flowed west to Savanna Road.

Samaritan season opens

BY NELLIE D COOK

This heading may sound strange but every year Ocean Breeze starts the drive for funds for the Jensen Area Samaritans. They in turn are followed by other parks condos etc all working to make the continued ambulance service possible financially.

Sunday Jan 13 Ocean Breeze put on their eighth annual drive by having their Tag Sale

To describe the sale as in itself a big undertaking so lets just say it was the biggest and best yet for the Town-sters Wheels.

The doors opened promptly at 1 p m and the countless people who had been standing in line literly rushed into the large Recreational Hall that for this one day each year has a display that must be seen to be believed. You name it they had it

I would not be exaggerating if I told you one could furnish a modest home from items for sale! There were pots pans silverware, dishes, irons, coffee pots, and all kinds of ,electric appliances including a few used T V sets In need of tools" luggage new and used clothing, jewelry, books galore, drapes, bedding, shoes, handbags lamps mirrors a table of novelties, and on and on!

The ladies of O B are noted for their baking A real art with them, and their long table 25 30 feet long could match any bakery window with their cakes pies cookies breads, and rolls It was all there At this point someone asked if I had been out the north door, no but I would go Out there was a display of tables chairs, smaller items of furniture not to forget a number of mail away beds

Back inside toward the stage were racks of clothing One could be outfitted from the display of ladies new and used clothing

The stage had items to be raffled, a new color T V set with stand, bushel baskets of groceries, a micro wave oven and two beautiful afghans hand made by park ladies Boxes of fresh picked citrus were also for sale So you see what you missed if you were not there.

The Samaritans, as is customery had their newest vehicle, new 611 out front for inspection by those interested The crew if needed, were Pres Bailes Jean Schlemmer E M T and Bob Schlert E M T who incidently is our building manager this year A few other Samaritans were among the crowd renewing old and making new friends

It might interest you to know that Ocean Breeze First Sale in 1973 netted $1 008 00 and in 1979 $3 631 00 The 1980 total is expected to surpass the 1979 figure

Of interest to our residents in the Jensen area might be that our runs and transports for 1979 1st quarter, January 1 to March 31, 294 Second Quarter April 1 to June 30, 298, July 1 to Sept 30 226 and Oct 1 to December 31 245 A grand total of 1063

JUAN MERCADAL

Classical Guitarist to perform at FIT Friday

Juan Mercadal internationally renowned master of the classical guitar will perform in concert this Friday evening, Jan. 18 in the Frances Langford Eisenrude Little Theater at Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach.

The concert will begin at 8:00 p.m. This outstanding program of the F.I.T. Performing Arts Series is open to the public free of charge, and lovers of fine music are cordially invited to attend and bring guests.

Features in the varied program will be works by Purcell, Scarlatti, Bach, Coste, Sor, Albeniz, Granados, de Falla, Villalobos and others.

Juan Mercadal was born February 12, 1915, near Havana. Showing keen interest in the guitar at age two he would lie on the floor listening to his father and his father's guitar teacher, rather than playing outside elsewhere. He was educated at Escolapios College then at the Mateu Conservatory, Havana.

Performing with the Havana Symphony at age 15, he has since performed extensively in nearly every medium throughout North and South America, and has been Professor of Music at the University of Miami, School of Music since 1965, making his home in Miami with his wife, Iris, and children, Juan, Enrique, and Ana Iris.

A cultivated virtuoso of the highest order, Mercadal promises to provide a distinguished performance.

Concertgoers are also reminded to plan for future concerts of the current series, including The Miami Chamber Trio Feb. 22, The Chamber Collegium of Palm Beach Atlantic College, March 22, and Susan Cohen Pianist, April (time to be announced).

Presently manager at Stuart National's East Ocean Boulevard branch, O'Neill, who is an assistant cashier, will move to the new office in early 1988.

The Northside office is located on U.S. 1 near SR 707A about a mile south of the St. Lucie County line. It is the first financial institution on U.S. 1 in Martin County north of the Roosevelt Bridge.

BEWARE! the "RUST MONSTER"
He works 24 hours a day

QUESTION

If rust can start anywhere, including inside parts, then how can a body repairman detect all the rusted areas?

ANSWER

He can't! He doesn't have X-Ray vision, so it's impossible for him to detect rust that has started in hidden places. A body shop operator can not be held responsible for a rust condition which was undetectable at the time of a repair. Because of this, rust may appear at any time, even within days of when a vehicle was refinished.

Rough seas claim two

BY BOB FRYER

Martin County Sheriff's officials said Tuesday afternoon that they were in the process of confirming the identity of a man believed to be the second drowning victim of a boating accident Saturday afternoon.

An 18-foot open aluminum boat carrying five persons capsized in rough seas off the St. Lucie Inlet Saturday afternoon. Later that night rescuers found the body of 15-year-old Walter Johnson III of 232 Kentwood Drive, Port St. Lucie.

A search for the boy's father, Walter Johnson Jr. was conducted on Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and at 10:15 a.m. Tuesday Sheriff's Corporal Bill Pakonis found the body of a man in the surf about two and a half miles south of the inlet. A spokesman at the Sheriff's Department said it is believed that the body is that of Walter Johnson Jr., but that the man's wife had not yet arrived at a local funeral home to make a positive identification.

The Fort Pierce Coast Guard station received a call at 3:40 p.m. Saturday from the captain of a boat know as The Lady Love. The Lady Love reported that a boat had capsized about half a mile offshore and that three people were in the water and two more were believed trapped under it. A 41 foot cutter from the Fort Pierce station was diverted from another patrol to head for the scene, and one minute later, the Lady Love reported that it had picked up the three persons who were in the water. They were identified as William Johnson, 17, of 232 Kentwood, Port St. Lucie, and neighbors Ron Sargnt and his son Roy Sargnt.

At 3:45 p.m. the Lady Love requested assistance from the Coast Guard Auxiliary boat High Hopes, captained by Arnold Wiechmann, but that boat reported conditions in the inlet were too rough to make passage.

A short time later a Florida Marine patrol Boat reported it could not get out the inlet to assist.

However, by 4:28 p.m. the Coast Guard cutter, still enroute to the scene, reported receiving a radio transmission that the three survivors had been transferred to the High Hopes and that they were being taken to the Sailfish Marina.

Coast Guard Auxiliary official Von Jourdan said he was not on duty that day, but said another auxiliary brought blankets and towels to the survivors at the marina, as they were reported wet and cold.

The Coast Guard cutter repoted sighting the overturned boat at 4:38 p.m. south of the inlet, but also reported it could not assist, due to shallow water. At that time, the cutter was diverted to assist another boat which had reportedly overturned in the St. Lucie Inlet.

A few minutes later the cutter reported sighting the second boat, but was unable to assist due to inlet conditions and the depth of the water. However, the Florida Marine Patrol reported it would assist.

Then, at 5:06 p.m. the cutter was diverted to a boat reported in destress off Jensen Beach. The cutter searched for that boat but could not find it, then returned to the area of the Johnson boat to begin making a systematic search of offshore waters for the missing persons.

The first of two Coast Guard helicopters dispatched to search for the two missing persons arrived at 5:10 p.m. At 5:40 p.m. the co pilot of one of the copters was lowered into the water and checked under the capsized boat for victims. He found none.

The search continued, and involved Martin County Sheriff's officials in boats, on foot on the shore, and in a plane, Hobe Sound and District II firemen, Department of Natural Resources personnell, and Florida Marine Patrol officials, as well as the Coast Guard.

Sheriff's press officer Jessie Taylor said that at 9:50 p.m., Lt. Randy Terrin of the Coast Guard found the body of Walter Johnson III in the surf, south of the inlet.

A search for the boy's father continued that night until about 10:45 p.m., then Sheriff's and Marine Patrol officials continued it Sunday, Monday and Tuesday until Sheriff's Corporal Pakonis found the body believed to be that of Johnson Jr.

Though the weather locally was nice on Saturday, Captain Von Jourdan of the Coast Guard Auxiliary said the sea was rough due to groundswells. "You can get bad groundswells from storms hundreds of miles away when the weather here is nice, and that's apparently what got them in trouble," he said.

"It was really rough that day," he added.

The inlet has claimed scores of lives over the years, and after years of fighting for funds for improvements to make the inlet safer, those funds were finally approved. Work on the inlet improvement project began in the latter part of last year.

Nergard outlines measures to hold the line on taxes

BY BOB FRYER

State Representative Chuck Nergard of Port St. Lucie addressed the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday and told what he and other state legislators are doing to hold the line of taxes.

Nergard noted that last year the state had $850 million in surplus funds, and he said some of that money should be coming back to taxpayers.

A total of $350 million of the state's surplus was left in banks for use as a Rainy Day Fund. He explained that about 25 per cent of the state sales tax revenue is generated by the tourist industry. Should tourism in Florida drop significantly due to fuel problems, Nergard indicated the $350 million would be used to pay for services normally paid for out of sales taxes.

The state representative said some of the remaining surplus funds will go to education, to make up for a 1.25 millage reduction in property taxes that the state had been charging counties as their local required effort to support educational programs. "This means that when you got last year's tax bill, it was probably lower than the previous year, even though the value of your home most likely went up due to inflation," he said.

The balance of the surplus funds will likely be recovered by homeowners with homestead exemptions who have lived in the state five years or more. Nergard explained that in March, voters will have a choice of voting for or against a referendum that would increase homestead exemptions from $5,000 to $25,000 for residents living in the state five years or more. He predicted that the measure will pass with little opposition, and said as a result, the tax bill for many persons will drop. In order to make up for the anticipated loss of state revenues due to the expanded homestead exemption, the surplus funds will be used. He said the referendum would provide about $120 to $160 in savings to many property owners.

Nergard said that the referendum also provides that in the future, the legislature will have the authority to approve a bill to give some sort of rebate to full time residents who rent, rather than own a home. However, he said that a renter rebate is not guaranteed by voter approval of the referendum.

In addition to the referendum, Nergard said he is working on another form of tax relief. He said he has proposed a bill before the legislature to rollback the millage rate counties can assess to property owners.

He said the court decisions have ruled that county property assessors must assess properties at 100 per cent of their value, less about 12 percent for transactional fees. This means each property in the state should be assessed, for tax purposes, at 88 percent of its value. But, Nergard said the statewide average for property assessments is now only at 67.5 percent. His bill proposes that there should be a millage rollback in each county equal to the amount of extra revenue that would be generated by upping the assessment rate to the required 88 percent.

When asked how senior citizens can be expected to live on fixed incomes with the rapid rise in inflation, Nergard laid the blame for inflation on the federal government and said there is little the state can do about it. He said not too many years ago $1,400 in silver dollars or in paper dollars would buy a car. Now, he says, a person would be hard pressed to make a downpayment for a new car with paper currency, but he said $1,400 silver dollars could buy a man three new cars, a year's supply of gas, and a trip for two to Hawaii. He said the federal government is responsible for the decline in the value of the dollar, and also blamed the feds for legislation which makes it more beneficial for persons to live together than to be married. "Unintentionally, the federal government has done much to enact legislation to hurt the family unit," he said.

During a question and answer session, Dr. Stan Wampler asked what could be done to improve the educational system in the state. "I have to pay my kennel help more than you're paying teachers. In Martin County, a teacher with 15 years experience can only make about $16,000. Truck drivers with little or no experience are making $20,000 a year," he said.

Nergard agreed that teachers need more pay, but he said the average resident of the state just doesn't feel that way. He said one thing he has done to improve education is to work on a program to aid students in grades 1-3. He said over a three year period a total of $69 million will be spent in efforts to reduce the student teacher ratio to 15:1.

In response to a question about the progress, or lack of it, being made on I-95, he said the state Department of Transportation is expected to let bids for construction of three new segments of the highway in February. Those sections would extend I-95 from its present end at Okeechobee Road in Fort Pierce to the south St. Lucie County line. He said he hopes that within two years, another section can be built to extend the road to an interchange in Palm City. And, he said he and other legislators from the area are working to keep the work timetable for the road in on schedule so the remainder of the "missing link" of the road can be finished before matching federal interstate funds run out in 1986.

Rio Firemen are conducting door-to-door fund campaign

The Rio Volunteer Fire Department has begun a door-to-door campaign to raise funds for a new fire truck.

Each year the department conducts a fund drive to raise money for equipment, and this year the primary item on the department's shopping list is a new, Class A pumper truck.

Art Eitnier, president of the department, says the new truck will be capable of pumping 1000 gallons of water per minute. He said the new truck should help lower the fire insurance rating for Rio residents.

A total of 1,500 letters are being hand-delivered to homes and businesses in the area. Eitnier says no specific goal has been set for the fund drive, but says any amount residents and businessmen can give will be appreciated. And he says the operation of the fire department on a volunteer basis, rather than on a paid, professional basis, as is done in St. Lucie County, means that local taxpayers pay far less for fire protection than St. Lucie countians.

Currently, the largest pumper truck the department has is capable of pumping 750 gallons a minute. Eitnier said when the 1000 gallon a minute pumper arrives, an old, 500 gallon a minutes pumper will be retired from service.

Recently, the boundaries of the department's service area changed, so the firemen will be knocking on some new doors. The area covered by the Rio Department includes the east side of U.S. 1 south from Britt Road to the Stuart city limits, then follows the St. Lucie River east ward to Media Street, then to the arch on SR 707. Additionally, the department covers all of Hutchinson Island south of Islander 12 to the St. Lucie Inlet.

The department has approximately 25 members, and they're all highly dedicated," says Eitnier.

Included among the members are seven Emergency Medical Technicians, one state certified fireman, and about seven persons trained in the Civil Defense medical self help program. Additionally, most of the firemen are certified in Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation.

Some of the men are qualified to handle hazardous materials, and most are qualified to operate the "Jaws of Life" mechanical rescue device which is included among equipment on the department's rescue unit.

Eitnier says the department is still in need of volunteers, but says, "We're sort of like the Marines. We need a few good men."

Actually, you don't have to be a man to join the department. There are three women volunteers in the department, and each is a welcome member. The women are Lillian Gass, Vivian Heaslip, and Betty Schlerf. Their husbands are also members, with Bill Gass serving as chief.

The need for funds this year is perhaps greater than it has been in past years. That's because, like most everything else in the past year, the cost of equipment has gone up due to inflation. Eitnier said the new pumper truck and equipment for the truck will cost about $68,000 to $70,000. "Everything about firefighting is costly, the boots along cost $50 a fireman, and it costs about $300 a person to fully equip a fireman," he said.

Eitner said he and the rest of the Rio firemen are greatful for the support of the community in past years, and that they're looking forward to continued support.

LETTER STUFFERS—Members of the Rio Volunteer Fire Department have been busy lately preparing 1,500 letters for hand-delivery to area residents. The letters are requesting funds to help operate the department. This year, the main item of the department's wish list is a new, 1000 gallon a minute pumper truck. SKIMMING ALONG—This model hydroplane was one of several boats the Treasure Coast Racing Association had on display at a pond opposite Port St. Lucie City Hall Sunday afternoon. The association was formed a few weeks ago and already there are 41 persons on a waiting list to join. Model boating is growing rapidly in popularity in this area, and the local group feels they may soon have the largest club of their type in the nation. For more details, see story and photos inside.

Land use plan awaits transport facts

The Martin County Commission accepted comment on the north county land use plan, and then shelved it, along with plans of other areas, awaiting for other elements of the comprehensive plan of the county to be completed.

Once the key transportation, and other elements are completed by county hired planners, the elements will be meshed into a finished product that would be sent to Tallahassee planners for comment.

Appearing before the commission last week, Jensen Chamber of Commerce president Dick Campbell asked on behalf of the board of directors that the county key the transportation plan to the land use plan before referring it to Tallahassee, that the parks and recreation element recognize the regional park and well field suggested for the area south of Commercial Street, and that suggested zoning along Commercial, from Warner Creek to US 1 be changed from Commercial designation to gradients of multi family or professional buildings. He also requested that Commercial Street in the three mile stretch from Savanna Road to U.S. 1 be a limited access road with all development required to include feeder roads for access to Commercial Street.

Commissioner Frank Wacha reported that the area at Warner Creek and Commercial Street not be classed multi family, and that the Warner Creek area should be acquired by the state to protect the outlet of the Jensen Savannas. Other properties should not have more than two units per acre, Wacha added.

As for the planned park, Wacha said he had not received the cooperation of land owners in donating land to the park, so he felt he had not quarrel in changing the commercial designation along Commercial Street.

He also said that he felt that it might be a better move to allow multi family dwellings along U.S. 1, rather than all commercial designation in the north county plan.

LONG LINE—Autos stretch down Skyline Drive from Commercial Street, waiting for their turn to get gas at Skyline Standard Station. The gas crunch has forced many station owners to limit purchases or reduce hours of sales. (See editorial, page 6.)

FUNDS FOR FIREMEN—The Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department's annual fund drive got a real boost last week when Ocean Breeze Park owner and mayor Gene Hoke, right, donated $2,500 to the cause for the residents of the park. Shown accepting the check is Chief Joe Luciano. The firemen are dependent on local contributions to keep operating, and say that if the department was on a paid, rather than volunteer basis, the cost to taxpayers would be much higher. EVALUATING NET LEASES

QUESTION I am considering investing in a net-leased property so that I will not have to be bothered with management. However, I am having trouble evaluating the few net-leased properties that I have been able to consider. What are some of the factors I should think about before purchasing a property leased on a long-term basis to a corporate tenant?

ANSWER As I am sure you have discovered, properties which are net leased to corporate tenants come in various sizes, shapes, and degrees of risk. Net leases make excellent investments for investors who want to minimize their time involvement in real estate holdings. There are virtually no time requirements involved in the ownership and operation of such an investment.

A property net leased to a major tenant is often a free standing building which is occupied by that tenant. The tenant not only pays rent but, also, if the property is a pure net lease, pays all of the operating expenses such as real estate taxes, insurance, utilities, repairs, and upkeep.

The process of evaluating a net lease is, in many respects, similar to evaluating the purchase of a corporate bond. The financial strength of the tenant is one of the primary considerations; this can be determined by analyzing the company's balance sheet. The second major consideration in the makeup of the lease itself. You should ask such questions as: What is the duration of the lease? What expenses are paid for by the tenant? What are the obligations of the landlord? Are there any provisions for increases in rent tied to a cost of living indicator? The third consideration is the construction and the location of the property. Surprisingly, this is often the least important consideration, since the eventual residual value of the property 20 to 30 years from today, when discounted back to current value, becomes significantly less relevant than the safety of your capital and the return generated during the term of the lease.

I would be happy to discuss your investment program at any time with you.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0717, or stop by:

Questions brought answers

The long promised HCCC/Health Cost Containment Committee) survey was made, Sat. Jan 19 at different locations around the County. Although no tabulations can be offered at this time, many interesting things were observed at the Jensen survey spot. The questionaire table was 'manned' by Ada Baum, Ethel McWilliams and Ernie Curwen from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There were only 3 simple questions asked (remember comment last week on some senior questionaires being too lengthly and involved). They were: Number in household, monthly income over $1200 or under $1200, and Yes or No, do you have health insurance.

A rough estimate is that the average size of a family is 2 (quite a few 1's, and there were some up to 8 and 10). The income question was as expected, most of the seniors were under the $1200 and most of the young folks (working) were over th $1200.

Off hand, I'd say that most folks were interested enough to stop and make out the questionaire as soon as a sign "FREE" was put up and they learned the committee was concerned with controlling health costs. Many had stories to tell about runaway cost of up to $100,000.00 and said that even with Medicare and Blue Cross they were hard pressed to make up the balance due. They were the ones interested in Catastrophy Insurance. Then, there were some that went like this: "Had awful chest, neck and arm pains, no local doctor, finally found one who'd take me same day, but had to have all sorts of tests, etc. being a new patient" an "EKG" and $50 to $150 later, found it was only acute indigestion. These folks were interested in a walk-in screening clinic.

Listening to the different health problems did give the committee a rough idea on the type of services that would be the most needed in the near future, so a start has been made in the right direction. Anyone interested in working on this committee, call Dr. Chas. Bush 283-5769.

The Blood Pressure Clinic was booming last week, the Health Dept. nurses were still hard 'at-it' at 11:15 a.m., so this was an excellent place to find out what seniors were talking about, along with the many remarks made at the health survey.

Seniors were really irritated about Iran and Afganistan. Saying, that turning the other cheek in the past has led us into this mess, starting with the breaking of the Yalta treaty, some sinister force has caused "Folks in High Places" to do all the wrong things time after time.

Remember, in the past seniors have been darn well right more often than not, so it behooves them to write to their elected officials and let them know how they feel about these issues. Here's the addresses again.

Hon. Lawton Chiles, Dirksen Senate Office Bldg. Washington, D.C. 30510 Hon. Richard Stone, US Senate Office Bldg. Washington, D.C. 30510 Hon. L.A. Bafalis, 700 Virginia Ave. Ft. Pierce, Fla. 33450.

The Ol' Movies at the Environmental Center were foot stamping great last Wednesday night, Jan. 16. About 60 seniors and their friends paid a measly 50 cents for 1 1/2 hours of hilarious entertainment. Jay Jarrett, Director of Community Education, say that he will continued these old time silent movies as long as the attendance keeps above the break-even point of 60. Next show, Wed. Feb. 20, at 8 p.m.

CHAPTER EVENTS

The big event of the week was the Gen. Meeting, Thur. Jan. 17, where Mr. Foley and Mr. Jones of the Tri County Rehab. Center put on a Lions 'Leader Dog" demonstration, for the season's largest crowd.

Mr. Foley guided by Mr. Jones, his 4 year old Labrador Retriever, came up to the microphone with hardly an indication that he is visually handicapped. Mr. Floey then explained how the dogs had to go to school for 4 months, before they had a month of schooling with the man to see if they would work well together. He said that the class has from 20 to 25 dogs in training at a time and it cost about $5000 to train each dog. The matching course is critical. Often the failure rate is 80 percent and the overall average is 40 percent.

Before the demonstrations, Mr. Foley explained that Mr. Jones didn't approve of them, as he felt the responsibilities of his job and felt it wasn't for entertainment. However, the members did see how Mr. Jones prevented his man from stepping off the edge of the stage, and saw when commanded "Mr. Jones do this or that", he took charge and safely led Mr. Floey where he wanted to go. But, just the minute the harness was removed and he was given a toy to play with, he frolicked like a playful dpup. The excellent talk and demonstration was thunderously applauded.

Then, it was back to business as usual with the different Chairmen reporting their various activities.

Verna King, Travel Chm. reported that arrangements had been worked out with Quality Inn, to have AARP night, Fri. Feb. 8. There will be a special price to members, but the menu will be restricted to a veal, fish, or chicken entry. A show of hands indicated that there was a lot of members interested. Better get your name on the list at once, by calling "Chuck" 283-7838 or Verna 283-1650.

Leta Williams, president of MCCA (Martin County Council on Aging) announced that they would be taking names of those who would like to work (get paid) on taking the 1980 census. For details, call Leta, 283-2242.

Peggy Strasford was introduced as the new Corresponding Secretary and that Margaret McCoun, will again handle "Senior Information" by telephone at 546-5421. So, now folks can easily get in touch with the chapter members and the members in turn can get in touch with all senior events.

Ernie Curwen, Chapter Public Relations Chm. said that as his job was wide open and various, he gets his fingers into all sorts of things and the latest is BUY A BLOCK A MONTH club, whereby the member pledges to buy a Senior Center Building Block each month. A show of hands indicated that a dozen or more would take the pledge. For further info call Bob Maurer, 287-8569.

Just before meeting adjourned, a resolution was passed as follows: AARP Chapter 2223 Shall notify "National" that the chapter is in favor of a USA boycott of the 1980 Olympic Games in Russia.

Finally it was time for the drawings. First the Buy A Block with Oscar Helgerson (deceased) winning a $10.00 "Kermit's" Gift Certificate (It will be given to his widow Theresa). Then, $1.00 door prizes were won by: Marion Olsen: Ethel Rutan and Liby LaGuardia.

Minimums on gasoline

Long lines at the gas stations can be reduced if the county commissions of Martin and St Lucie pass an ordinance requiring minimum purchases of gasoline.

"Topping off" tanks is the cause for the long lines.

One gasoline station owner lamented, "This little old lady comes in and buys one or two dollars worth of gas every two days. How can I say no to her, even though I know that her tank is full?"

As the supplies of gas in South Florida become more acute, "topping off" will become more prevalent. Station owners have already gone to a reduced hours of pumping to allow their sales to be monitored daily. That way they don't run out of gas in two days, and can sell gas all week.

Collier County has passed such an emergency ordinance. Tanks must be half-empty before motorists can buy gas.

In Hawaii, the governor issued an executive order that sets an eight dollar minimum for motorists, excluding motorcycles and mopeds.

It is obvious that the people themselves will not refrain from "topping off." Perhaps it is time for the county commission to take action that will automatically reduce the lines at gas stations.

The planners move cautiously

Martin County Commissioners made a sensible move last week as they declined passing on the land use plans of various areas in the county, preferring to wait until the many elements of the overall plan are completed and combined with land use before approving the plan and sending it to Tallahassee.

Time is of essence, but haste would be foolish.

This was pointed out in the lack of transportation information relative to proposed planned zoning in land use.

Rocky Point was the perfect example, with the new overloaded road system looking at several multi-family designations that would potentially make the Port Salerno area another East Ocean Boulevard.

The Palm City plan also has its problems, though of a different kind. Residents there want to maintain the rural character of Palm City. Their effort faces a challenge from the development of Martin Downs.

The developers of Martin Downs want to develop their property. The key to that development is the three-plus million dollar road that Martin Downs built and gave to the county. It offers a master-planned development of commercial and residential character something that is very difficult to get on track unless there is vacant land to plan.

After a day of public hearings, the county delayed action so that residents and Martin Downs can get together to compromise on just how much development there should be.

Martin Downs will want to do the job right to protect the investment, and should offer a good plan. Residents of Palm City are keying opposition to having proper access, and that means another bridge from Stuart to Palm City.

The planning firm hired by the county suggested almost 50,000 housing units in the Palm City area. That has been trimmed down to 30,000 units. It may come down further, but it is almost unrealistic to suggest that Martin Downs go to the idealistic one unit per two acres in that development.

The two groups will get together and make their suggestions, and the delay the county voted will end up on the floor of the county commission for a vote. That is when the commissioners will get down to the wire and have to bite the bullet. It's a no-win situation, and no one will end up totally happy.

However, the caution shown by the commission is to be lauded. While the eventual master plan will not be etched in stone, it will be what we must live with for a long time, difficult to change.

Admiration Society speaks

I walked into Valentine's literary swap shop, carrying a couple of paperbacks, because I was hungry.

It's the kind of hunger I get particularly when I'm either sick or pregnant. Since I hardly ever get pregnant any more, it had to be the former, the kind of sickness that can only be satisfied by curling up with a good book, a nice light book of the kind that works better than penicillin on flu bugs and other frustrating intruders attacking my feeble interior.

It's the magic of mind over matter: if you can happy up your mind, the bug doesn't matter. And television, no matter how delightful or rib-tickling the program, is no substitute. You just get into the feel good mood of the show when on comes the commercial, telling you how to get rid of that painful arthritis, which up to the moment, you'd forgotten about, and what to do about the acid indigestion, subliminated by diversion until they remind you of it, and suddenly you're twice as sick as you were before you turned the darn set on.

No, it takes a good book in a commercial-less cocoon of a room to escape the slings and arrows of outrageous physical fortune. But it's got to be a good natured book — hopefully a funny one — to really work the trick. The man said it right when he said laughter is the best medicine.

I gave the lady my two trade books — a non-Travis McGee John D. MacDonald and a Harold Robbins scorcher (what else does he write?) — and began my rounds of the stacked shelves. I bypass an acre of romances and a yard of westerns, and wander over to the alphabeticals. I pick out a few with interesting titles, and drop them like hot coals after scanning the lead in paragraphs filled with black holes that swallow up civilization, vampire bats out to exterminate the human race, six tales of international intrigue all of which have at least ten four letter words in the first few sentences — including Nazi.

If there is one medicine I don't need to cheer me up it's sagas of Nazi horror.

Another has two rapes, three murders, and one graphic dismemberment, and that's on the first page. I can scare myself to death for free by turning on the TV and watching the news.

Whither, oh whither have fled the humorists of yesteryear? Dorothy Parker, Thorne Smith, Robert Benchley, David Dodge, where are you when I need you?

I'm about to give up when I get to the K's. My eyes light up with joy as they spot a familiar name — John Keasler. I have hit the jackpot. Keasler, that very funny philosopher of Miami News column fame, couldn't be bad or dull or dire or trite if he tried. John Keasler is my idol, one of the very few writers in today's wearsome world who could tickle the funnybone with the stock market report.

Besides, he owes me a cup of coffee.

I wasn't aware that John had ever turned to fiction, yet here it was, the answer to my prayer in a little volume entitled "Surrounded on Three Sides." It had to be the medicine I needed, if JKeasler wrote it.

I hasten to state that Keasler wouldn't know me from the porpoise that brought us together in correspondence some years back, but I have a letter he sent me in reply to a fan rave I wrote about his personal escort service he gave that porpoise across the Atlantic. It was one of the most delightful pieces of writing I'd ever had the pleasure of reading, and I wrote him to tell him so.

His reply, as gaily insouciant as his columns, included an invite to "stop by the next time you're in Miami and I'll buy you a cup of coffee."

That was back when coffee cost a nickel a cup. Think what it's going to cost him if I catch up with him now.

But he should be able to afford it, if the rest of his readers loved "Surrounded" as much as I have. Keasler, he of the left handed turn of mind, is as thrilling in on every page of his 216 page lampoon of Florida progress as he always has been in his daily scrivenings.

In addition to his consistently wild humor, he has proven to be more than somewhat of a poet. Take, for instance, his description of his locale "Flat City." "The moon was yellow and getting orange as the month got older and riper, the month of March. Peace is the color of a dark blue night, and Flat County had dark blue it hadn't used yet."

I've spent so many evenings looking at the night sky over the Indian River and have tried to put it into words. No wonder I couldn't find them. Keasler had the words.

Looking in the copyright page, I find that Keasler wrote that little book back in 1936, but it didn't see the light of day until 1974. I'm praying he doesn't take that long to hatch the next one. The world would be a better place with more John Keasler in it.

Now, Keasler, about that cup of coffee.

I've been having more than my share of hoobaa days of late. My most recent unpardonable crime was committed last week, when I got the name of one of my favorite musicians wrong.

She's Snookie Brown, who is known throughout the entire area for the swingability and danceability of her Senseibes quartet. In print, writing about her musical backup of the Nostalgia Follies, I called her Cookie, not once, but twice.

Sorry about that, Snookie. It's just that you look much more like a sweet cookie to me, and not a bit like a snook.

Changes on Mirror Hill

Many years ago, I climbed up the angled roof of the house and jumped up on the second story roof. The view was spectacular.

It is now called The Mirror building. I haven't been up there in a long while and as the workmen grind gravel underfoot over my head and throw the tarpaper and gravel off into the yard below, I think back to my plans of fifteen and twenty years ago.

We founded The Mirror in this building in 1961. Since that time we have used part of the building for office space, storage, newsrack repair, and just about everything related to the growth of the newspaper.

In the beginning, we had the editorial offices, advertising and circulation in what was a garage. As we grew, we added a press and printed The Mirror out there.

We soon outgrew just the garage, and moved downtown in Jensen Beach, still operating our circulation division and maintenance in that garage. However, my dream was to have the offices located in The Mirror Building. It took just ten years to reach that stage.

We remodeled what had been the home portion and made offices, using the garage for circulation. Two years of growth later, we are thinking of expanding by adding to the building and making the garage more offices.

The effects of Hurricane David have been evident. Some of the second floor roof was blown off, and it was taken these three months to get someone to replace the roof. They are up there now, getting it ready for the hot tar and gravel.

The Mirror Building was constructed in 1921, and is a classic building that has historical significance in the community. From the second floor office, I can see across Hutchinson Island to the Atlantic Ocean. My unobstructed view of the downtown area lets me know who is going to the post office, to the bank, if the pumps are open at the Gulf Station, and even who is having his hair cut at Virgil's barber shop.

But, I can't get that roof out of my mind. If you think that the view from the second story office is magnificent, standing on the roof is even more fantastic.

I had planned to install a shallow wood deck, and clear glass around the parapet to keep people from falling off. A circular stairway up from my office would offer access.

From there, we could take photos of just about all of Jensen Beach, from miles around U.S. 1 would be in view, as would the nuke plant seven miles up the island. With a telephoto lens we could take pictures of the beaches, of fireworks on the Causeway, and of the Commercial Savanna Road intersection.

Perhaps we may be able to do that some day. The changes on Mirror Hill are just beginning to take form.

Porter Lumber, at the bottom of the hill, is expanding below the Mirror with a new parking area now paved, and the retaining wall being installed. Once in, we plan a wall across the property line, and some parking in the front of the building.

The character of the building remains the same. The new sprinkling system has brought the beautiful orange tree to fruition, and it is presently laden with some of the sweetest oranges in town.

If there is one thing about the property, it lends well to the changes without injuring the character of the classic Mediterranean look.

I know that eventually we will outgrow the location. It is just a matter of time. When we move out it will be perfect for a professional building, doctor's offices or an engineering firm.

But, until then, we are going to enjoy the building, and keep it beautiful making only those changes that enhance to structure. It's a fun place to work.

'Hilanders' vs flatlanders

Last year, I wrote a column gloating about how glorious it is to live in south Florida — especially in the winter when folks up north are freezing.

In that column, I rubbed it in a bit, and said I didn't understand how my brother and sister in law and their two children could stand to live in Connecticut.

My sister-in-law, Jean, thawed out her hands enough to operate a typewriter and wrote a rebuttal, going on about how nice rosy cheeks are and what a special joy it was to enjoy the change of seasons.

Of course, I couldn't let her get the last word in, so I rebutted her rebuttal.

Since then, I haven't given up my column space to anyone else.

But the other day, I got an unusual letter in the mail from Bob Cato, a good friend of our family, and he attached a little piece he'd written.

As he explains, "We were back to the mountains in November and your Dad told me of your outing (during my vacation to North Carolina in October) with him to climb to the top of a nearby mountain. That gave me the idea to put together the attached:

"To Flatlander Bob Fryer

I'll never tell what was at the top of that mountain, but I want to set the record straight. You see, I have nothing against mountains, per se. I love visiting my parents' place in NOrth Carolina in the summer. It's even nice in spring and fall. But in winter?

Sorry, anything north of Fort Pierce is just too cold for me. But if — could just move one of those mountains down to Jensen

Legion to honor chaplains who died in WW II

Chaplain Harvey Hiltz, Jensen Beach American Legion Post 126, and Fr. Jonathan Coffey, All Saints Episcopal Church, are jointly sponsoring a church visitation on Sunday, Feb. 3 to honor the heroic deaths of the four Army chaplains who perished in the sinking of a troop transport during World War II.

When the Dorchester was struck by a German submarine's torpedo in the early morning darkness of Feb. 3, 1943, most of the 900 troops aboard were asleep. When the ship sank beneath the storm-lashed waters 25 minutes after the torpedo hit, 605 drowned.

More than 200 survived because of the life jackets distributed by the four chaplains. Four of those were given a chance to survive because the chaplains removed their own life jackets and shared them.

Those who last saw the four padres remember them with arms linked and praying as the doomed ship sank. Two of the chaplains (George L. Fox and Clark V. Poling) were Protestants, one (John P. Washington) was a Roman Catholic, and one (Alexander D. Goode) was a Jew.

This selfless act will be celebrated by Fr. Coffey at the 11 a.m. service. Legionnaires are asked to meet outside the church prior to the service and enter as a group. Everyone is invited to attend this observance.

Variety of cultural events are on tap at Elliott

A lecture titled "Oral Interpretation of Literature", a visit by a British polar explorer, a one-man art show, "An Evening with Will Shakespeare", and the completion of a new building are all on tap soon at The Elliott Museum.

Martin County Historical Society Director Janet Hutchinson reports the society has been extremely busy this season, and that patrons of the arts will be having a number of exciting events to look forward to in the coming months.

On Tuesday, Feb. 5, Dr. William Adams will begin a lecture course titled "Oral Interpretation of Literature". The course will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and there is no charge for it. However, the class is limited to 15 persons, so those wishing to join it are urged to call the museum at 225-1961, to register.

Local artist and craftsman Pat Kenny will open a one-man show at the museum on Monday, Feb. 11, and there is already a waiting list of persons who would like to buy his paintings. His painting "Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge" was reproduced as the cover of the society's book, "History of Martin County".

Additionally, Kenney is constructing a double-ended, clinker built surfboat to be added to the collection of artifacts at the House of Refuge. Kenney, a longtime friend of the society, has built a number of items for the society's museums, and, to prove he is as skilled at building boats as at painting them, a launching of the new craft is planned in the Atlantic.

On Friday, Feb. 22, British polar explorer John Green will present an illustrated lecture titled "Journeys over ice and snow".

Green, a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, is presently on assignment in the Antarctic, but will return in time for the lecture.

He has been a consultant on the "World Discoverer" since 1977, when the vessel made her first cruises to Iceland, Spitsbergen, Greenland, and Amazonians, and Antarctica.

For a dozen years he lived in the Flakland Islands and was head of operations of the British Antarctic Survey, has made 35 cruises to Antarctica, each from three to five months long, and he led the New Zealand Ross Shelf Survey and the U.S. Ice Depth Sounding Survey on Skelton Glacier.

Green's lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. and admission is $5. Seating is limited to 120 persons, so call the Elliott Museum early to reserve one.

Another future event, to occur in March on a date to be announced later, is "An Evening with Will Shakespeare" by actor Richard Lake.

Lake had previously presented "An Evening with Carl Sandburg" and "An Evening with Richard (Lake)". He recently was tapped to do national commercials, so he may not be around here as much as he has in the past.

Still another event which Society members are hoping will occur in March is the completion of a new wing of the Elliott Museum. Mrs. Hutchinson reports progress on the building is coming along nicely.

In addition to future events, Mrs. Hutchinson reports one of the society's previous events, the 15th annual Christmas Eve Open House at the Elliott, was highly successful. She began the open house in 1965 on the first Christmas Eve she was director of the society, and each year it has attracted more persons. The first year, eight persons attended, and the most recent one attracted more than 750 local residents.

The open house featured fruit punch, cookies and Christmas caroling.

Orchid Society to hold workshop

The Martin County Orchid Society will feature a workshop program on potting and dividing orchid plants at their next meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 24, at the Agricultural Center on A1A south of Stuart.

Members are asked to bring their own cattleya plants for their own use in the demonstration. Mrs. Victor Haube is program chairperson for the meeting. A table of blooming orchid plants will be on display, and refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

Palestinians are Unitarian topic

The Palestinians Key to settling the Arab-Israeli Conflict" will be presented in the form of a reading by Mrs. Davis Freedman for the Indian River Unitarian Universalist Fellowship on Sunday morning, January 27, at eleven o'clock. Meeting place is the Community Room of the Park Terrace, 601 Avenue B, Fort Pierce.

Mrs. Freedman, a winter resident of Spanish Lakes, Port St. Lucie, said that the original talk was given by the minister of the U.U. Church in Petersborough, N.H., for "U.S. for Justice in the Middle East." She added that visitors are invited to attend and to participate in the talkback to follow during the coffee hour.

Wood displayed at Elliott Museum

- BY EMELINE K. PAIGE -

Wood is in evidence in the current exhibition in the Martin County Historical Society's Elliott Museum art gallery, where it may be seen during museum hours each day from 1 to 5 p.m. There is no charge for admission to the gallery.

Weathered wood sculptures by the distinguished winter resident, Denise Monteux Lanese (Mrs. Thomas Lanese), are on standing pedestals draped with soft green material, and woodblocks are the basis of the works by contemporary Japanese artists on the gallery's paneled walls.

The Lanese sculptures have grace and rhythm, strength and beauty. Her "Yearling" is alert but trusting, her streamlined greyhound moves at top speed; her dancers are poised ready for the next step – truly arrested motion. Her birds have just landed on their sometimes precarious perches, and her mothers and children are endearing no end. Her "Flight into Egypt" puts before the viewer an translation into substance of the new Testament verses attributed to St. Luke and St. Matthew. Garments on her figures are fluid, gestures restrained but purposeful.

It is to be expected that "The Conductor" was fashioned from a lifetime of watching her father at work – for Pierre Monteux's life's work was a combination of conducting orchestras (including the Boston Symphony) and teaching others how to do it. Mrs. Lanese's brother, the well-known flutist Claude Monteux, continues the administration of their father's famed school at Hancock, Maine, to which the world's conductors journeyed in summer to hone and temper their skills.

Asked why, from such an accomplished musical background, she turned to another form of expression, Mrs. Lanese says, simply, that unless she could conduct or play the flute or the piano as well as other members of the family did, she would concentrate on something they couldn't do as well as she did . . . and it happened to be sculpture.

While many of the pieces on view at the Elliott Museum are "Not For Sale," being part of the artist's collection, several are "up for adoption" by purchasers who value fine art – and beauty – in small sizes. Measured in inches, there's nothing "heroic" in the Lanese show. "The larger works refused to travel in our small car!" . . . but there are unforgettable pieces which make a visit to the museum on Hutchinson Island a rewarding experience.

The two words that come to the average Western mind at the mention of "Japanese prints" are "Hiroshige" and "Okioye." The first is the name of the Japanese Turner or Rembrandt or Picasso, who lived from 1797-1858; the second, a word which translates as "passing-world picture," is the name of a school which "broke with the orthodox Buddhistic attitude and concerned itself with contemporary piebeian life, its shows and festivals and favourites of the hour – " to borrow a compact explanation for Arthur Davison Ficke's "Chats on Japanese Prints." It has, he explains, "a more human and lovable beauty, and a power of design no less notable than that of the aristocratic masters."

Just as this break with entrenched tradition took place a couple of hundred years ago, another change began early in this century, known as the Sosaku Hanga, or creative print. The work of 28 contemporary Japanese printmakers, part of the private collection of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Godsey of Atlantic is being shown at the Elliott Museum through February 8. None of the framed prints hanging are for sale, but the explanatory notes beside a number of them indicate that examples of that particular artist's work may be purchased – some already matted, others not. There are prints available by 20 of the artists exhibited, which will be shown to those interested by staff members or volunteers on duty at the museum.

Many of these artists are young – at least one being in his early 30s. Two are women, one of whom is considered (by collectors and critics) to be Japan's leading artist today. Like horse racing: art appreciation is a matter of differing opinions, but sometimes the so-called experts are right. This observer's favorite is not for sale – a small owl in a large golden meadow. There are two other owls available by the same artist, however. But one individual's optnion of the pick of the show is a woodblock of a group of paired passengers aboard Noah's Ark. The expressions on these furred or feathered creatures are what make it a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

First Federal assets increase 21% in 1979

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Fort Pierce announced, at a recent board of directors meeting, record assets, as of Dec. 31st, 1979, of over $36,000,000.

This represented a growth of 21% over the prior year.

Savings deposits increased by almost $50,000,000 to a total of $29,000,000. Mortgage loans increased by over $57,000,000 to $291,000,000.

T. Kevin Walsh, Senior Vice President Finance, attributed First Federal's growth to "our continued effort to provide funds to the local mortgage market which typically enables us to gain the 'savings deposits of new residents.'" During 1979 First Federal recorded over 1700 local real estate loans totaling almost $71,000,000 for the calendar year.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Fort Pierce is currently serving Martin, St. Lucie and Indian River counties with eight locations. First Federal has recently received approval from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Atlanta to open two more offices in the coming year. One new facility will be at Walton Road and U.S. #1 in Port St. Lucie and another will be a facility located in Okeechobee County.

DEATH & TAXES

"Nothing is certain but death and taxes."
—Benjamin Franklin

This time of year there is no way we can avoid thinking about taxes. But most of us prefer to avoid discussing the topic of death.

Yet death is one of the certainties of life. It will come as surely as April 15, yet never quite as expectedly. And if you haven't had the foresight to prepare, the result is your family is left in a state of confusion as well as sadness. They will have to make tough personal and financial decisions at a time when least able to think about them rationally.

You can avoid this. Forest Hills Memorial Park has special gardens available — Veterans, Catholic, and non-sectarian, in addition to cremation niches and mausoleum internment available now. And while it may seem strange buying crypt space when you're healthy and full of life, you should make important decisions while you are calm and clear-headed. You also avoid the added cost inflation will certainly tack on to burials over the years. (If Benjamin Franklin were alive today he would probably add inflation to his list of certainties.) Procrastination will only force your family into purchasing in the future, when available facilities will surely be more expensive and less selective.

We have a trained staff of counselors who can help you with your burial plans. In addition, we offer a free Family Portfolio Record File, a guide that can help you assemble the kinds of essential information that becomes immediately necessary on death. For more information, or to make an appointment to tour our mausoleum and beautiful cemetery, fill out and mail the coupon below. Or call 287-7450. As Benjamin Franklin also said, "Never leave that till tomorrow which you can do today."

Screaming with delight and excitement, Lillian kept pulling them in one after another, causing everyone to come running to the waters edge to watch, while Bob kept trying in vain to hush her. It was quite an experience. The wild life in the area is filled with an abundance of deer, some bear, wolves, fox, beaver and muskrat. Many duck, quail and loons with the many usual bird life including the pileated woodpecker. What a fascinating place to live!

Cruising on the Caribbean Sea for the first time, Alice and Floyd Reynolds have returned from a memorable experience. With the balmy tropic climate the waters were beautiful with their changing colors. Their exotic three Ports of Call, Puerta Plato in the Dominican Republic, San Juan, Puerta Rico and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, were excitingly different with an abundance of people. The towns were very clean with a profusion of shops. Breath taking was the scenery with all the unusual flowering shrubs and bamboo trees, banana trees WITH BANANAS and a problem of flowers dazzling to the eye. One night in San Juan was spent in different hotels to see and hear the snapping fingers and entrancing heel work of the Flamingo dancers and the Calypso dancers in their exquisite costumes.

The Reybold's daughter-in-law having a cousin in St. Thomas, the whole family was invited to their home for dinner and to go scuba diving in the tropic waters which were warm and clear. They all just had a delightful time.

One could easily be spoiled by the life aboard ship. The Indonesian room stewards and crew were so very helpful and waited on one hand and foot. A very happy people. A uneventful crossing with a clear, calm sea encouraged the enjoyment and participation of all shipboard activities.

Alice and Floyd's son and family returned here to Venture Three for a short visit and then on to the Keys for more scuba diving before returning to Maine.

Children treated to a visit by Jensen firemen

"At some point in their lives, it seems every youngster dreams of becoming a fireman (or, if you please, a fireworman).

For students at Jensen Beach Community Church, those dreams were kindled last Friday when members of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department dropped by the church for a visit.

The firemen brought along a shiny red fire truck and gave the students an up-close view of their vehicle.

Little eyes stared in wonderment at the gas masks, rolls of hoses and chrome plated fittings on the trucks. As they stared, the firemen got in a few brief lessons on fire prevention.

The students seemed to enjoy their inspection of the truck, but that treat was surpassed by an even larger one: a chance to operate a fire hose.

A few of the students found the control on the hose a bit hard to pull, and some seemed to be intimidated by the experience, but most considered their turn at the hose to be the highlight of the day.

The communities of Jensen Beach and Rio are both blessed with outstanding volunteer fire departments whose members are highly dedicated to the community service they perform.

Currently, both departments are conducting fund drives. The volunteers, who give of so much of their time, ask that all local citizens give a little of themselves too, in the form of a contribution to their department. Afterall, if it weren't for the volunteers, the cost of fire protection for local taxpayers would be much higher.

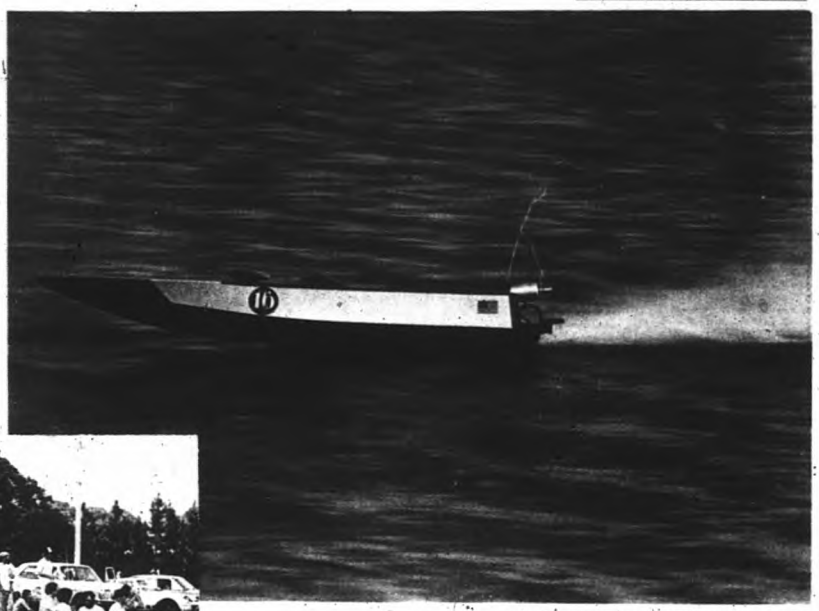
HYDROPLANE—Conditions were too windy for thishydroplane to keep pace with the deep-V hulled model boats on display at a Sunday afternoon gathering of model boaters in Port St. Lucie. But that didn't stop the boat's owner from enjoying giving the boat a work-out, nor did it stop the many spectators who assembled to watch the model boats from enjoying the sight.



NO DRIVER—If it weren't for the fact that there is no driver in this boat, it might be mistaken for a life-sized boat. But it's one of several model boats built by Treasure Coast Racing Association president Gus Johnson. He's been a model boating hobbyist for about 10 years, and says the popularity of the hobby is growing rapidly. In fact, he's so sure it's going to catch on in this area that he recently ordered $7,000 in model boating equipment so he can set up a shop at his Port St. Lucie home.

Model boat popularity grows

Although the Treasure Coast Racing Association only has five members in its organization, the group's president, Gus Johnson, says it may well be the largest club of its type in the county by the end of the year.

The club just started at the beginning of the year, but already it has attracted a lot of attention.

"All you have to do is put a boat in the water and start running it around the pond and people start flocking in," Johnston says.

The club consists of hobbyists who build and race radio-controlled model boats.

Each Sunday afternoon, around 1 p.m. they have been taking their boats to a pond opposite the Port St. Lucie City Hall at the intersection of Port St. Lucie and Airoso boulevards. And, when they start running their boats, passersby stop to see what's going on.

"We just formed the club and haven't even gotten our charter back yet, but when we do, we'll start accepting new members. We have 14 on the waiting list already," Johnston said. A few minutes later, a man came along to become the 15th person on the list.

Johnston has been racing model boats for about 10 years now and recommends it as a good sport for persons of most any age to get into. He says to "go first class", it costs about $500 to buy a boat, motor and the radio controls.

He says the club members have boats in two hull classes, deep Vs and hydroplanes, both with inboard motors, but he said some members may soon start running model outboards. And, he said there are three different size engines commonly used.

The tiny engines run on a special fuel and their sizes are measured in hundredths of cubic inch displacements.

In spite of their size, the engines are powerful and are capable of moving the boats along at surprising speeds. When Johnston and other club members put their boats in the water last Sunday, the boats roared around an oblong course, shooting up rooster tails several feet high. A number of spectators commented that they didn't see how such small boats could move so fast.

Johnson and another club member, Jack St. Clair of Jensen Beach, seemed to have the two fastest boats, but they were unable to match them in head to head competition, as they were both using the same radio frequency. But Johnston said he would change components to a different frequency for next week.

Right now, the club has what Johnston calls "impromptu" races. But, he said starting soon the club will have trophy races once a month.

Though only five members are in the club, membership ranges from Palm Beach to Fort Pierce. Johnston says he expects many more persons to get involved.

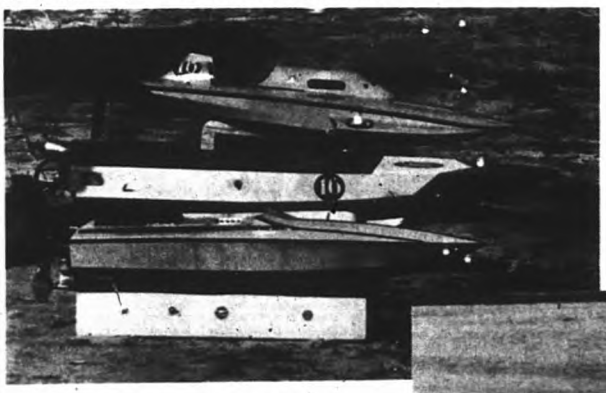
One obstacle for many clubs is a lack of available modeling equipment. That should not be the case with the Treasure Coast Racing Association however, as Johnston says he just recently sent off for $7,000 in model boating equipment to be delivered to his Port St. Lucie home.

Though he says he's retired twice already and doesn't want to get involved in a full-time business, he says he plans to build model boats and to offer his stock of supplies for sale to local model boating enthusiasts.

SPECTATORS lined the shore of a pond opposite Port St. Lucie City Hall Sunday afternoon to watch members of the Treasure Coast Racing Association run their model boats. A club member said as soon as they put their boats in the water, they always attract a crowd of curious onlookers.

PIT STOP—It looks like King Kong is the mechanic for this racing boat, but it's actually the boat that's small, not the man. This boat, owned by Jack St. Clair of Jensen Beach, was one of the fastest ones on the pond Sunday when the Treasure Coast Racing Association gathered to give their crafts a work-out.

ON A PLANE—Just about all of this boat except a small portion of the stern is out of the water as it races around a pond opposite the Port St. Lucie City Hall. The craft, owned by Jack St. Clair of Jensen Beach, was one of, if not the, fastest on the pond. Powered by a small engine, the boat appeared to be running around 40 miles per hour.



RACING FLEET—A collection of model boats were assembled for racing last Sunday at a pond opposite City Hall in Port St. Lucie. For about $500, you can get into the sport on a competitive basis, says Gus Johnson, president of the Treasure Coast Racing Association.

Titus 23... Toomer 22... Washington 18... Cobras 98

A look at late at the Fort Pierce Central scorebook would seem to indicate that the Cobras are doing their scoring in touchdowns, not baskets.

The high flying St. Lucians continued their assault on the nets Saturday night, bulling past the Okeechobee Brahmans, 98-59 in a high school basketball game at the Cobra Cave.

Guard Wayne Titus led all scorers with 23 points, but received plenty of offensive help from six-foot, seven inch center Mike Toomer, who had 22, and Central's leading scorer, Wilbert Washington, who totalled 18.

Postman Luther Sandifer, who played only in the second half, as Head Coach Bill Wright gave Robert Nelson an opportunity to run the offense show, added 15.

Titus' 15 points sparked a 34 point Cobra eruption in the third period, leading to Okeechobee's fourth quarter stalling tactics, an attempt (and a successful one, at that) to keep Central under 100 points. It was the second time in three games and five nights that opponents had tried it. West Wood, FPC's cross-city rivals, stalled through the last six minutes of a 102-62 loss on Tuesday night.

"Why don't they just play basketball," asked Wright after the blowout. Still, the two fourth stanza Randstills last week kept all of Central's few fans in the stands until either the 100th point or the end of the game.

Okeechobee (3-11) used a spread offense (not a stall) early in the contest to keep the score close, and James Boswell's jump shot from near the foul line tied the score, 16-16, with 2:20 remaining in the first quarter, forcing Wright to spend a time out.

But the Cobras' reeled off eight unanswered points to go in front, 24-16, and they never looked back.

Subsequent bursts of eight, four and 11 points in the second period flattened the visitors from the West, as Central led by 21 at the half, 47-26. "we said we needed two good practice sessions to get ready for Leonard," Wright said of his halftime remarks about the team's crucial Suncoast Conference Eastern Division battle with the Lancers last night (Tuesday). "We agreed that we would treat the second half as one of those two practice sessions."

The Cobras repertoire of full court and half-court presses gave the Brahmans fits all night, forcing 35 turnovers, but it destroyed them in the third quarter, when Central seemed able to score at will. Toomer connected inside for two of his three slam dunks, while Titus had one of his own.

After Chubee slowed the pace down in the final eight minutes, the Cobras began to intentionally foul in an effort to regain possession of the ball, leading to seven of the visitors' ten free throws and a virtually even fourth period.

Nelson performed well in his second start of the season, though his shooting was slightly off (two of eight), securing six points and grabbing three rebounds. Toomer led in that department with 12 boards.

He played a pretty good first half," Wright observed of Nelson's play, "and he got a lot of valuable experience. I really don't see anyone else being the point guard next year."

The coach credited the recent offensive spectacular to a rare lull in the team's schedule. Still to come, though, are several major powers, including Twin Lakes (twice), Lake Worth, Leonard again, Martin County North, Leonard again, Martin County North, Friday night as well as AAA power St. Augustine in a non-conference game.

Horton adds luster to Sandpiper event

Jim Rhodes, John Cornelius, Richard Gewell and Ronnie Shade are not the kind of golf names that make me want to leave my newspaper full of Super Bowl hype and dash to Sandpiper Bay for an interview.

But glancing down the list of 167 professionals who made Sandpiper their winter home for two weeks, one name did pop out.

"Yes, I would agree," responded Tommy Horton, when confronted with the theory that his was the most recognizable name on a list of otherwise no-name golfers.

Horton was a part of the Second Sandpiper International Pro-Am, held at the local golf resort last week.

Never mind that the 38-year-old professional from the Royal Jersey Golf Club in Royal Jersey, England first known as a tax haven, was not a factor in the pro event, shooting a 73-145 over the 36 holes for fifth eight shots behind David Huish. This was just a vacation for the popular Englishman.

Still, there's no getting around the fact that Horton has not played well of late, failing to qualify for the British Ryder Cup team in 1979 for the first time in three tries and finishing 25th overall on the European pro tour.

"I got off to a bad start last season," he claims, "and so when they totalled up the points for the Ryder Cup, I didn't have a very good chance.

"Of course, lately, my putting has been off and I haven't had much confidence in it. I guess that's the most popular complaint of the professionals."

"This is one of the best complexes I've seen," he muttered, "and the weather is perfect. It's not too hot and you don't get burnt, but then again, you're just the right color when you go back to England. The greens here are so beautifully maintained. There's no excuse for bad putting on this course."

In a way, it was a shame that, last week's events were not witnessed by anyone. There were no galleries, because it was not intended to be a public showcase. But any local golf aficionado have gone gaga over Huish's opening round 65 on the pro-am's par-three course, just one shot off the Sinner's record of 64 held by Hermaa Baron.

Then again, besides Horton and perhaps Huish, who once led the British Open at the halfway mark, there weren't any names that would have drawn the public's attention. There is virtually no publicity of English or European golfers here, and judging from the recently sagging television ratings, the American tour may need an infusion of some fortissimo.

So the question was posed to Horton. Is golf on its way down?

"Not in the UK or in Europe certainly," pipped Horton, almost surprised to hear of such a startling notion. "Perhaps America needs a new superstar. The players are not exciting to watch.

"It just so happens that our best player (Sev Ballasteros) is quite a character, as well. The last few years, he's played so well that everyone wants to see him. Unless you're best player has charisma, you're going to have problems. I know some funny guys over here, but they're not winning.

That may be pure truth, but at Sandpiper last week, it was a label that fit Horton perfectly. And the worst part about it was that Horton was as perplexed as anyone.

"I played in Phoenix, Tucson, and Andy Williams and the Crosby tournaments a few years ago, but it wouldn't be worth it to try to qualify for the PGA tour here. We've got four million dollars in Britain this year, so why move?

Remember, Horton is 38, and in a day when Jack Nicklaus is almost over the hill in his forties, the Englishman realizes his days are numbered.

"I like the life, but if I start making a loss, I'll pack it in. I think we're looking at four or five years, but I doubt if it will be any longer than that.

So Tommy Horton will now return to England to worry about his putting. I'll pick up that newspaper again, and you can try to explain to me how the Rams were ahead after three quarters.

SANDPIPER BEAUTY—This great white heron surveys the atmosphere of the second annual Sandpiper International Pro-Am golf tournament, held last week at Sandpiper Bay in Port St. Lucie. The tournament's pro competition, held on Wednesday and Thursday, was won by David Huish, who shot a 137, including a scorching 65 (just one shot off the Sinners course record) on the first day. In any event, no one lost their ball to the heron, the alligators or even the sandtraps too often, as the entourage of golfers from Britain concluded their two week stay.

Pledges "continuity"

Jones is new MCHS coach

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Pledging "continuity" in the Martin County program, Gary Jones Tuesday night assumed the duties of Head Football Coach at MCHS, ending a search of slightly more than a month for a successor to Fred Chase, who resigned December 16.

All parties involved seemed to stress the continuity theme and school Principal Dale Cryan said that no one was interviewed for the job from outside the existing program.

"We were concerned with establishing some continuity within the program," said Cryan, that started under Coach Chase. In essence, we were looking for someone who had the technical knowledge required to field a competitive football team, but also has the values, ideas and standards embodied in our educational philosophy."

Jones was rumored to have beaten out in-housers Fred Hardison, Terry Coxe and Dan Alley, while former Martin County coach Gary Preisser's name was mentioned as a candidate. Cryan's statements, though, seemed to discredit rumors about the latter.

The 37 year-old Jones has been coaching for 14 years, beginning with a one year term in the Philadelphia area, where he was playing semi-pro football at the time. In the next eight years, he was an assistant at Taylor University (his alma mater), Findlay, Ohio, and Cocoa High in Florida. After his four year stay at Cocoa, Jones was named the Head Coach at Cocoa Beach, where he was located for only a year before joining Chase's staff at Satellite 1976. He and Assistant Coach Bud Beakes came with Chase from Satellite to Martin County in 1978.

"I'm not sure I can add anything that Fred didn't already contribute," Jones commented. "I'm a different person, a different individual, though, and my goal will be to continue the progress of the program. We haven't reached the pinnacle, obviously, since we didn't win the state championship and didn't go undefeated last year. So we have a way to go. Then again, it's not as if I have to save a dying program."

GARY JONES

Former coach Wayne Bowling, the Department Head for science in the school expressed satisfaction with the selection.

"There should be continuity, and it's very important to have that," he stressed. "The players will know how the program is structured, and since Gary was a part of Chase's staff, he has knowledge of the program... Of course, he will have a few ideas of his own, but generally the concepts should remain the same."

It will be evolution without revolution, Bowling added.

Athletic Director Clayton Mc[illegible] Kinnes was also pleased.

"I think he'll do a good job," he offered. It would be kind of foolish to change a winning system. Obviously, Chase was a winner, and Jones was

Warming Up

Martin County's basketball team may not be the state championship contenders that they were a year ago, but still, you can sense that Don Wallen's crew is getting restless. Above, Wallen argues over a call made by the officials, while below, the Tiger players nearly become involved in a melee with the scrappy John I. Leonard Lancers. The short-lived loss of tempers occured in the fourth quarter, and the Tigers went on to lose to the highly-regarded squad. Their chance for recognition could come Friday night, when the once-beaten Fort Pierce Central Cobras (14-1) invade the Tiger Den at 8 p.m.

Aycock's bombs PW & Sons, 6-0

Aycock's Gang took six giant steps Saturday in their Upper Division Jensen Beach youth soccer champion ship quest.

Those footsteps left the PW & Sons goal in a shambles, as Aycock's Gang's six-goal second half did in the previously once beaten league leaders, 6-0.

Aycock's entered the week up by a point (two for a win, one for a tie) in the standings, but PW & Sons had temporarily regained the top spot with a Wednesday night victory over Carpet Corner, 4-2. Also important in the Aycock's PW struggle is the number of games played by the teams, as PW & Sons' two game advantage (they had played two fewer, thus giving them a better opportunity to pile up points down the stretch) became just one at week's end.

In other action last week, Stuart National zapped Baum Realty, 3-0 and Action First Realty nipped Clemons Realty, 1-0 in Lower Division play; Certified Carpet Cleaning tipped Ernco, 2-0 and Randy Universal shut out Fischer-Olds Cadallac, 2-0 in the Middle Division.

The two Upper leaders offenses were shelved in the first half of Saturday's showdown, while the ball bounded from one end of the field to the other. It was a clean half, as well with only one foul.

Bruce Tucker's first two of three goals provided Aycock's with all of the offense they would need in the first seven minutes of the second half, but the parade wasn't about to end.

Eddie Richardson, Tucker, Richardson again and finally, Lisa Gannaini continued the assault at five-minute intervals until the devastation was complete.

Two tactical errors may have cost Carpet Corner a chance to upset PW & Sons Wednesday, as goalie Mike Grzelka's goal kicks were twice intercepted by Eddie Justice, who converted both of the miscues into goals, bringing PW & Sons back from a 2-1 deficit for the win.

A pair of first half scores by Steve Huffaker had given Carpet Corner a 2-1 lead at intermission, and the teams battled evenly through the first 20 minutes of the second half without a goal, until Justice broke through.

Mark May and Ken Gary secured in Certified's 2-0 whitewash of Ernco, while Ryan Konkus and Brent Teal kicked home goals for Randy in their win. Joey Grzelka and Konkus split the Randy goaltending chores, each playing remarkably well.

As a result, Certified moved to within one point of seemingly unbeatable Fran Con Construction, while Randy took sole possession of third place at 3-3-0, four points behind Fran Con, 5-0.

While Lower Division leader Hartman Real Estate took the week off, Stuart National Bank provided the front runners with some help in the form of their 3-0 upset of Hauss.

William Weir's two goals gave Stuart National the early momentum, as the Bankers raced to a 3-0 halftime advantage. Adam Smith scored their other goal, as SNB, still in last place in the division despite the fine showing, improved its record to 2-3-0.

Baum fell into a second-place tie with Action First at 3-3-1, just two points behind Hartman, as the Lower Division promises a wild finish.

Brian Lapinacca's second half goal gave Action First their 1-0 victory over Clemons.

Youth soccer action continues tonight Wednesday as the program launches its ninth week of competition.

Jack Nicklaus designs Sailfish Point course

"Our intention is to build a great golf course from the back tees and a beautiful and playable course from the others."

In those few words, Jack Nicklaus captured the essence of his design for the 18 hole, par 72 golf course on Sailfish Point. Constructed upon Hutchinson Island's southernmost tip, Sailfish Point's course presents a rare challenge to Nicklaus.

"This is a totally original course," Nicklaus said. "Every contour of the land; every tree, rough area and grassy knoll is specifically planned — we're not building around anything."

The most outstanding feature of Sailfish Point's course will be the oceanside setting. Touring the links, golfers will play among pines and palms laid out along bodies of water in the midst of, or adjacent to, 17 of the 18 holes. The "window on the sea," the 18th green, is a fitting climax to a magnificent course. Elevated ... a height of 12 feet above sea level, it will afford a spectacular view of the ocean.

The "window on the sea" at Sailfish Point golf course's million-dollar hole. Probably one of the most expensive golf holes constructed anywhere in the world, the value of the oceanfront green area alone is estimated at over $875,000. Land and construction costs for the remainder of the 18th hole bring the price tag to well over $1 million.

Fewer than 800 owners will enjoy over six and one-half miles of water-front, including more than a mile of beach, the par 72 golf course, extensive country club facilities, and the largest sea walled private marina in Florida. The community will be comprised of single family residences, townhouses and condominiums, which will overlook the ocean, Indian River, St. Lucie Inlet, marina, as well as a 60 acre sheltered harbor and the golf course.

Sailfish Point's course will have four tees on every hole: the pro tees, men's tees, senior tees and ladies' tees.

The average player will have to contend with many water hazards, but on most of the holes, the water is on the left. "That's as it should be," Nicklaus said, "If the water were predominantly on the right, the average player would be penalized because of his tendency to slice the ball."

Sailfish Point's course will be approximately 6,850 yards long, according to Nicklaus, and both the fairways and greens will consist solely of Bermuda grass. All of the rough will be planted and moved to different heights, and bunkers will be strategically placed throughout.

Sailfish Point's golf course is expected to be ready for play by September of 1980.

apart of that. They did have an excellent program."

One notable absence from the list of candidates was Beakes, who said "I would have had to have wanted the job very much to do anything that might have even possibly interfered with Gary getting the job. He was very much interested in the job, and I'm sure he'll do a fine job."

Beakes also confirmed that he will be leaving the school, probably for a smaller school- at least, if he stayed in coaching.

"I like smaller schools, and I would be happier, personnally in a smaller school. I like to be able to take a little more time with individual people on a team. But this school is so big that if you're not careful, you become impersonnal. I prefer it the other way around."

Beakes, 45, pointed out that "the parents and the community has bee just great, and I've been fortunate enough to work with great people every day. I have nothing but good feelings toward this town...I'm probably going to coach for four or five more years, and I'd really like to go to a 3 A (AAA) school."

Jones was asked if he felt being in the same district with Merritt Island, the AAAA state champions, might place any added pressure on him to "beat Merritt Island or else."

"I thought we were at the level to beat them this year," he responded. "We didn't, though. They didn't make any mistakes, and we didn't make many, but we didn't make the big plays. If you're going to win at this school, you're going to have to beat them, and I don't see any decline in their program over the next few years.

"Still, you've got to set other goals besides beating Merritt Island. I don't feel people should necessarily judge our success by whether or not we beat them. You've got to set other goals. Sure, one of your goals is to win the state title, but it can't be the only one."

Ninth annual "On the Green" art show is this weekend

Artists from throughout the nation will gather on Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 26 and 27, at the Lawnwood Recreational Complex in Fort Pierce for the Fort Pierce Art Club's ninth annual "On the Green" arts and crafts show.

A total of 202 artists, including eight from Port St. Lucie and five from Jensen Beach, have signed up to exhibit their work.

This year the show has been moved from its traditional location by the Indian River to the Lawnwood Complex on Virginia Avenue to provide more free parking.

A total of $2,650 in prize money will be awarded to the artists, with judging in the following categories: oil, water color, acrylics and mixed media, graphics, drawings and pastels, sculpture, photography, creative crafts, and best overall display. A Benny Backus award of $50 will go to the most outstanding work of art by a Fort Pierce Art Club member.

The public is invited to the show, and it will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

The Port St. Lucie artists signed up for the show include Gladith Danis Dorothy Harper, Isabel McElroy, Nadley Krone, Edith O'Laughlin, Joe Pavin, Jackie Peck, and Joe Peck. Those from Jensen Beach are Al Termini, Ruth Bowman, Audry Shine, Catholine Conn, and Vernie Hall.

Ocean Village announces plans for outdoor art show

The natural beauty of Hutchinson Island will be the subject again this year for the third annual outdoor art festival sponsored by Ocean Village, the island's 120 acre oceanfront community just south of Ft. Pierce.

Joe L. Krehnak, general manager of Ocean Village, has announced plans for the art competition and show to include categories in both amateur and professional photography and painting. The event is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, March 15 and 16. Cash prizes in each category and a $250 best of show award will be given to winners selected by an independent panel of judges. No fees will be charged for entry in the competition.

To enter the competition, artists and photographers must depict a scene on location at Ocean Village in at least one of their entries. According to Krehnak, the native birds, animals and ocean breakers found along the 3,000 foot dunefine should provide an interesting array of subject matter for local artists.

All works will be on display for public viewing and sale, offering a special interest to those wishing to purchase original art highlighting the area in which they live.

Over seventy artists displayed creative photographs and both oil and watercolor paintings at last year's event, several of which were purchased for Ocean Village's private collection.

Ocean Village, a joint venture community of Gulf Oil Realty Company, is announcing plans at this time to provide contestants sufficient time for preparation. Interested persons should contact Karen Dye at The Impact Group, which is handling the event for Ocean Village. The telephone number is 287-1990, after hours. Interested parties should call 464-9285.

Deadline is extended for discharge review

The Veterans Administration announced today that April 1, 1981 has been set as the new deadline for former military personnel separated before January 1, 1965, with undesirable discharges to apply to the Department of Defense for discharge review.

The old deadline was January 1, 1980.

Without the extension, the former members would have been precluded from seeking upgrading by the Discharge Review Boards because of the normal 15-year statute of limitations prescribed by law.

Department of Defense extended the deadline because of the significant number of applications being received.

Applications for discharge review, DD Form 293, can be obtained from VA Regional Offices, Veterans Service Organizations and Military installations.

James Hutchinson exhibits

James Hutchinson, widely acclaimed Sewall's Point artist, is having a one-man show of his work at the Fort Pierce Art Gallery through the end of this month.

Born in Buffalo, N.Y., Hutchinson came to Florida when the family moved here in 1945. After attending high school, junior college and Florida State University, where he majored in art, he married and moved to Port Salerno, where various off jobs allowed him to develop as an artist. A growing interest in the American Indian, led to permission for the Hutchinsons to live with the Seminole Indians on Brighton and Big Cypress reservations. A total of four years was spent among these people, regardless of outside activities such as lecture tours and trips to Western states to study and paint the Zuni, Apachee and Navajo cultures.

In 1971 he received a five year grant from Arthur Vining Davis Foundations and private funds, to execute fifty paintings describing the history of the Florida Indians from 1720 to 1980. The body of this work is housed in the Lowe Gallery on the campus of the University of Miami. In 1975 Hutchinson was appointed by Gov. Reubin Askew for a two year term to the Governor's Council on Indian Affairs.

In this exhibition he shows that he is interested in portraying not only the Indian but also the "average" man, French peasant, or Salerno fisherman.

Gallery hours are 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Friday. Admission is free. The public is invited.

Dinner Cruise on calendar

An evening almost as enticing as the main event is being offered by the Martin Memorial Medical Ball Committee, on Feb. 16—a three hour dinner cruise aboard the pleasure vessel East Chop.

The cruise will include a buffet dinner, dancing to the music of the "Refuge" band, and a cash bar. Take-off time from the point of embarkation north of the Roosevelt Bridge will be 7:15 p.m. sharp. Tickets may be obtained from the Jack & Jill Shop in Monterey Plaza or the Town Shop, or from any member of the MMH auxiliary.

All proceeds will go toward the $100,000 goal of this year's ball and fund drive. The ball itself, to be held March 15 at Sandpiper Bay, will have a Chinese theme. The money raised will be used to purchase technologically refined equipment for the hospital.

Gas shortage: It's a disaster!

GAS JAM—Cars lined up all along Skyline Drive in Jensen Beach late last week to get what little gas was left before the weekend. The lines caused a minor traffic problem, but everyone involved soon discovered that patience was their most valuable weapon against the delays.

"What do you say? It's a disaster," moaned one gas station owner in Jensen Beach Tuesday, when contacted by The Mirror.

In a survey of gas stations serving the Jensen Port St. Lucie area, The Mirror found as much groaning and griping among the owners as you'll find in the long lines awaiting their turns at the few pumps still lucky enough to have gas to sell.

"It is a chain reaction of gripes; the customers are griping because they have to spend hours in lines or can't get any gas at all; the station owners are griping because of alleged discrimination on the part of distributors, and the distributors are griping at the government.

According to most distributors, the critical situation is hitting this part of South Florida more intensely than in any other part of the state.

"We're a very high tourist area, with a high growth factor," Buddy Lyle of Martin County Oil told The Mirror. "And we're getting only 80 percent of what we did in 1978. Taking the growth into consideration, we're actually losing 40 percent of what we were getting before."

Lyle seemed a bit miffed that the retail customers aren't taking their frustrations out on the dealers and distributors.

"The distributors and service station people have nothing to do with the shortage," he said. "We're not making any excess profits. We're just puppets; yet we're getting all the blame. The federal government is the one responsible."

The dealers, he said, have shown their responsibility and concern by unpumping their own daily rationing, for the benefit of the public.

"They could get their monthly allotment and be completely out on the 15th, and shut up shop for the rest of the month," he commented. "Instead, they're selling for just a few hours a day so they'll have something for everyone. They're doing the best they can to help."

Hunk Hartman of the Texaco distributorship, called Texaco Inc. a "strange organization."

"We have what's called the daily pacer program," he explained. "We have gas every day through the month, but not much."

Since the Texaco stations are dealer-owners, it's up to the individual how much he chooses to pump each day, and when it shall be pumped.

Hartman, too, bewailed the shortage as being a matter of short sightedness on the part of the government, in its failure to foresee and prepare for the crisis.

"We're having a meeting with (Coog Skip) Bafalis' representative on Friday, to show them the plight is bad, and that there ought to be a larger allotment for this area," he said.

The distributors contend that county government is also partially responsible.

"We went to the county commission in August or September and told them we expected it to happen," said one. "Nobody believed us and nobody did anything about it."

Meanwhile, lines continue to pile up behind pumps where gas is obviously available, blocking traffic and sanding tempers short. Contacted Tuesday morning, the tabulation showed:

Ray Station in Jensen: Little gas, pumping only in mornings for a few hours.

Skyline Standard: "Terrible! Pumping mornings. New allotment due Thursday."

Merchants: Pumping until 12:30 p.m.

Phillips 66 on 707: "No gas, and don't know when we're going to get any."

Riverview Gulf: "Ran out in two hours. Probably no more gas til Monday or Tuesday."

Shop'n Go on St. Lucie Blvd.: "Pumping. Just got it in."

Parents seek expanded schools in Jensen area

BY DICK CAMPBELL

Parents of children attending Jensen Beach Elementary School took their case to a state survey team this week, seeking expanded school facilities to keep children from being bused to schools in Stuart and Port Salerno.

The mothers of seven youngsters from North River Shores and Palm Lake Park attended the hearing Tuesday also, attended by school board members, school superintendent Jim Nawitsky, and school administration planners.

The elementary school was designed to have a population of 762 students in the 1982-83 term; it now has 832 students attending classes.

It was in 1977 that Dale Clark, principal of Jensen Elementary, contacted Nawitsky suggesting that the school be expanded. The school presently used ten of the twenty acres of land on the site, and Clark suggested that it would be economically feasible to expand into the unused area.

Clark suggested that the present kitchen, water, sewer, and media center would be adequate to handle double the capacity of the school at that time. His recommendation was included in a presentation of materials offered to the survey team by the mothers.

The presentation by spokesperson Gail Harrell included a map that showed the entire north county area and its potential growth, including subdivisions now in construction and areas that are planned for the future.

In their presentation, the parents of Jensen Elementary School students explained that they wanted an alternative to busing students across the Roosevelt Bridge to Stuart and Port Salerno. They cited the neighborhood concept of education and asked, "Please do not deny our neighborhood the right to remain a unit. Do not split us up."

One of the major points of the mothers related to the fact that North River Shores, recognized as a retired area, was converting to younger families as older persons moved to condominiums to avoid high costs of maintenance of lawns and land areas of the large lots in the subdivision.

The main argument of the concerned mothers dealt with the fact that the entire north county area is separated from the remainder of Martin County on the west and south by the St. Lucie River, making it a common interest population area.

The president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, Dick Campbell spoke in favor of future planning of elementary school facilities in Jensen Beach, citing the proposed General Development 1,700 acre plan for 2.3 units per acre, or 3,900 potential homes in single family and multi-family units.

He also cited his experience as editor of The Mirror newspapers and seven years as president of the Martin County Resources Development Board in estimating the growth of the north county area. In that, he pointed to areas on the north county map as not yet having been approved for construction that could possibly add several thousand housing units to the area growth.

Development of the Pop Tilton Industrial Park was also a factor cited by Campbell as adding to growth that would demand more elementary school space.

The survey crew took an air trip over the north county area following the meeting, and then visited the Jensen Beach Elementary School property.

The survey, taken every five years, evaluates public input on needs of the educational community. An oral report on the findings of the survey team will be made Friday at 10:30 a.m. in the instructional center on East Ocean Blvd., in Stuart.

Judy Van Curen, one of the organizers of the committee of mothers, said she was cautiously hopeful following the meeting. She said that the survey team praised the research of the group as being the best report we have seen in all these years.

MARK HAZARD, 12, of Jensen Beach, lost a Super Bowl bet and as a result had to eat not only crow, but also a little dirt. Or so it seems. Actually, he's pushing a penny down the sidewalk along Commercial Street for making the mistake of picking the L.A. Rams and 10 points. He made the bet with Sandy Pazey of the Village Corner, who allowed Mark to call it quits after only about half a block and a few photos.

Checks and credit cards featured at Chamber meet

The second in a planned series of Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce monthly social coffee to be held Tuesday, February 5, will feature a program on fraudulent credit cards, bogus checks and stolen traveler's checks, it was announced today by Dick Campbell, president.

The program will feature Lt. Bill Scott, special projects officer for the Martin County Sheriff's Department.

The social coffee will be held at Susie's Ice Cream Parlor, beginning at 7:30 a.m. The program will begin at 7:45 and end at 8:15 a.m.

Sponsors of the monthly coffee are Susie's Ice Cream Parlor and The Tiger Touch Gift Shop.

God and Country Day conducted by bishop

The Right Reverend Charles Lee Burgreen, Suffragan Bishop for the Armed Services, will be the featured speaker at the sixth annual God and Country Day ceremonies at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 24.

The event will take place at the auditorium at the Jensen Beach campus of Florida Institute of Technology, and is being sponsored by All Saints Episcopal Church and by Jensen Beach American Legion Post 126.

The patriotic, non-sectarian service is open to all persons, regardless of race, creed or color.

The Martin County High School band will perform, and all area civic, patriotic, fraternal and service organizations, as well as all churches and schools in the county, are urged to participate in the ceremonies. Last year, a total of 70 organizations were represented in the grand procession at God and Country Day, and the sponsors hope for even greater participation this year. Interested groups are asked to contact the sponsors for further information.

Bishop Burgreen was ordained a priest in the Episcopal Church in 1948 and served several congregations in Florida. He spent 22 years in the U.S. Army and retired as colonel.

When he retired from the Army in 1973 he took on the post as executive assistant to the Bishop for the Armed Services, and in 1977 was named Bishop Suffragan for the Armed Forces. In 1978 he was appointed Bishop in charge of the Episcopal Church in Micronesia.

He is in charge of recruiting, screening and training Episcopal chaplains and serves as endorsing agent who recommends potential chaplains for commissions within the services.

Some low-life person stole fire truck gas

In the "Of all the low-life, dirty things to do" department, Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Chief Joe Luciano reports that someone recently siphoned gas out of two fire trucks.

"I hope that guy needs us sometime and we're out of gas and can't get to his house to stop it from burning down," Luciano said, then cooled off a bit and urged that whoever took the gas not to do it again, as a life or a house may really be at stake the next time firemen hop in their trucks to respond to a call.

FIGURING OPERATING EXPENSES

QUESTION: I have been looking for an apartment house for several months, and most of the financial statements that I have seen leave a lot to be desired. Some of the statements simply provide income with no reference to operating expenses; others include such expenses as real estate taxes, but don't elaborate on the cost of the utilities, insurance, etc. My question is this: How can an investor evaluate the amount of expenses which should be allocated to an apartment house investment.

ANSWER: Obviously, the types of expenses and the amount of expenses that are involved in the operation of an apartment house will vary from area to area and from building type to building type.

The expenses which generally can be buttonholed deal with real estate taxes, utilities, insurance, and services provided to the property. Those which can be more difficult to determine deal with upkeep and repairs. For example, while one owner might have spent very little for repairs and maintenance in the course of the previous year and therefore may quote you a very insignificant figure, another owner may have conducted a major repair campaign on the property and consequently may quote you a much higher figure. It is quite possible that neither of these numbers is realistic in light of your proposed ownership.

The expense allocation for repairs should be based on your best judgement of what will be required to keep the property in good operating condition. Any allocation for capital improvements which will enhance the value of the property should be separately considered, should not be expensed as a repair item and should be capitalized.

Cold winds discourage anglers, --but whiting are biting

The whiting are biting, hooray, hooray!

Although the chill winds out of the north have been discouraging fishermen during the past few days, the fish are out there, according to reports from all over.

Joe Humbera, one of the area's most avid anglers and inventor of the Chum Fun pot, says he and his beautiful wife Marilyn were out over the weekend, and came home with the nicest whiting I've seen in our 12 years here." The largest, he said must have been 16 to 18 inches long.

READ THE MIRROR.
It's a reflection of you.

The surf is also producing nice messes of blues, according to Don McLean at Anchorage Marina.

"It was slow over the weekend," McLean told The Mirror. "But we've had reports that the sails are breaking, and one man came in with 65 blues."

Captain Pete Robertson, of the Outrigger Marina, says the charter boat business has been light, during the recent adverse weather.

"I had the Evenrudes out for the Sailfish tourney," he told The Mirror, but we didn't do any good. We raised a couple of sails, but couldn't get a hook in 'em."

They spotted several dolphin and kingfish, too, he said, but couldn't get them to the bait.

The Isaac Waltons of the area are predicting better fishing weather for the next several days, with calming seas and warmer temperatures. The consensus is that it will be a good time to go out after the blues.

In the river, several fishermen have reported good trout catches, particularly in the backwaters. The best fish recorded was an 11 pound Jack Crevalle.

FRED KELLER, owner of the Paint Shed along Commercial Street, wasn't a very happy man on Tuesday morning. It seems his car bottomed out as he tried to drive out of the parking area of his store. Keller says Dickerson, Inc., which is finishing up a road improvement job to the Commercial Street-Savanna Road intersection, made a dip leading into his store too deep, and he says he's afraid others will have the same problem when visiting his store that he had. Keller called for the firm to fix the dip.

Girl scout troop 84 to sell cookies

Jensen Beach Junior Girl Scout Troop 84 will kick off the annual sale of Girl Scout cookies Saturday, Feb. 2, in front of the Best Buy Drug Store at Commercial and Savannah Roads in Jensen Beach.

Best Buy's Manager, Lynne Engel, has been most cooperative to allow the girls to use the property just outside the store for this endeavor.

Girl Scout cookies are being sold this year from Thursday, Jan. 31 through Monday, Feb. 11. The money from the cookie sales supports an abundance of Girl Scout activities; also a certain percentage benefits the bank account of each troop individually according to what the troop sells. The cookies are priced at only $1.25 per box and will be sold between 9:00 AM and 4:00 PM.

Junior Girl Scout Troop 84 is especially interested in having a skating party and has plans for a troop campout in April.

The girls are presently engrossed in making puppets, thanks to the assistance of Victoria Johnson, a professional puppeteer in the area. Mrs. Johnson's husband made the puppet theaters for the troop. The girls expect to put on puppet shows later in the year based on the legends and customs of the peoples of different countries. They are writing their own plays and will use songs and dances to enhance their shows. Mary Busby, a dancer from Port St. Lucie, has helped them learn several international dances.

Last Saturday, many girls from Troop 84 enjoyed the musical, Fiddler on the Roof at the new Smithfield Theater. This week, the troop will be hiking to Langford Park as part of their badge requirements. A snack and fruit punch will greet the girls after this experience. Another hike is planned a few weeks later and leaders are hopeful they can locate a biologist to point out different animal and plant life along the way.

First Wednesday sets island talk

Florida's barrier islands will be the topic of the First Wednesday presentation at the Environmental Studies Center scheduled for 8 pm Wednesday, Feb 6. Frank Pittman of the Center staff will conduct the program.

Included will be a discussion of the formation of the islands, their ecological significance, beach dynamics and vegetation patterns. His talk will be illustrated by a film on longshore currents, sand transfer, effects of inlets, groins and jetties as well as periodic changes in summer and winter beaches.

Local conditions will be illustrated by aerial photographs of Hutchinson and Jupiter Islands and by a demonstration of wave action on the Center's wave table.

The program will also serve as a prelude to Pittman's annual presentation of the six week course, Martin County Ecosystems, which begins on Thursday, Feb. 14 at the Center. Registrations for this course can be made following the presentation. There is no charge for either the barrier island lecture or the ecosystems course.

Millage rollback

It would make it a simple matter if we could trust everyone. Unfortunately, it is not to that way. That is why laws are needed to regulate things.

We support the proposed millage rollback bill being promoted by Rep. Chuck Nergard. The state has mandated 100 percent assessment of property. The constitution of the state demands it, but assessors have been reluctant to follow the law.

If the assessments are raised to 100 percent, the counties and cities could increase their tax dollars as a result.

The millage rollback bill would require the counties to roll back the millage in proportion to the increase in assessments.

Of course, cities and counties oppose the bill, as any assessment increase will bring a windfall of potential taxes to the governmental bodies.

The people would support total assessment if they were guaranteed a millage rollback to maintain the present level of taxes.

However, two things are necessary to achieve equity in the state. All counties should be forced to assess at 100 percent. Those that do not, should be penalized by the amount below 100 percent they assess.

Also, a millage rollback bill should affect all counties to remove the windfall taxes for contention.

Then, all assessment levels would be equal and the state properly taxed with favor to none.

Support Rio Firemen

Residents of Rio have received their requests for help from the Rio Fire Department. We hope they respond generously.

We have watched the growth that small fire department into an excellent service, offering protection to an ever expanding area. The equipment is good, and the volunteer firemen are well trained.

Making a volunteer program work for the benefit of the people is difficult enough, without the pressure of fund-raising. The people themselves should take that task from the shoulders of the volunteers, responding to the appeal with an outpouring of funds to enable the firemen to continue their good work.

Feeding the bookworm

The St. Lucie County library at Port St. Lucie needs $35,000 to meet a $180,000 goal for expansion. A drive to raise the $35,000 should do the job of getting enough money to expand the library.

One important asset to a community is its library. It is a center of education and information. It is entertainment and culture.

The people and businessmen of Port St. Lucie should support the library fund drive. It is a most important resource.

Impossible Lundin

The "Impossible Dream" was realized last weekend with the opening of Lundin Hall in the Port St. Lucie Community Center. The new meeting room and service areas represent an investment that is now easily valued.

The inassessable value of community pride is enormous. Many worked to produce the center. Many volunteers did what would have cost thousands of dollars to get the center ready. They earned a place in their community, a part of their community.

Spearheading the drive was Dick Lundin, a garrulous taskmaster who let it be known early that he would brook no interference with his drive to get the necessary funds and volunteer labor to get the job done.

What has resulted is the Lundin Hall, valued at $175,000, and the entire $295,000 community center plant on land valued at $175,000.

Many called Lundin's imaginative and aggressive plan "impossible," including some of the members of the board of the community center. But in the end, all went along, working together for a common goal.

All who participated, all who contributed in time of money, were enriched.

And, the community was enriched with the addition of a facility that offers cultural, educational and social activities to the residents.

The Impossible Dream Ball last weekend was the finishing touch to celebrate the work of many. Lundin would be the last to single himself out to praise for the work of so many.

But, someone had to do organization, the scrouging for money, the begging for the many things that were all brought together with the dedication of the hall. The Impossible Lundin worked the impossible dream.

When Dick Lundin retires as president of the community center as his term ends, he will take with him the grateful thanks of a community that is better for what he has done.

Is it time for a war?

With the taking of the hostages in Iran, and that pipsqueak country thumbing its nose at the United States, a long awaited reawakening of the American patriotic spirit came about.

It has been a long time coming, and we enter the decade of the eighties thirsting for an opportunity to cement our patriotism and pride by smashing something.

It could be Iran. Those religious nuts certainly deserve retaliation for smearing our noses in camel dung.

It would be no problem. They have been fighting each other, arab against arab, Moslem country against Moslem country, ever since the first camel spit across a tribal line.

They are worse than the Africans.

It could be Russia. The federal government certainly is doing a lot to build American fervor against the Soviets for taking over Afghanistan. Boycotts of grain sales, technological equipment and advice. Olympics, throwing out diplomats. The government is doing a lot to show those Commie punko Russians that we won't stand still for them taking over a defenseless country that did them no wrong. And, now the draft?

The SALT agreements have down down the drain. Who can trust the Soviets? We have never been able to trust them anyway.

It is a shame that the Russians did, what we should have done in Cuba a long time ago. Hey, maybe we could still do it.

We might send aid and advisors to Pakistan. No, they don't want advisors. They want money.

With the Russian Bear breathing over their borders, the Pakistani government wants money. The first offer of the Carter administration of a few hundred millions of dollars was referred to as "peanuts" by the Pakistan president.

We've got to aid the Pakistan government, even if they are developing a nuclear bomb, and even if they thumb their noses at us.

Our allies have told us that they support our actions. They say so, but don't want to become involved. Maybe a few little things, but they don't want to offend Iran. They might get their oil cut off.

Our NATO allies want us to provide the greatest share of expense in defending Europe, give the newest weaponry, and keep a batch of our soldiers over there, but they don't want to get involved in the BIG picture.

It's like they support us in every way, but they don't want us to marry their sister.

The American people are in a new mood of patriotism.

It's not like the war in Viet Nam or Korea. This is the setup for a popular war; like World War Two — the BIG ONE. Rosie the riveter, collecting balls of string, newspapers, tin cans, bottles, gas stamps, "A" and "B" gas ration stickers on car windows, are all in vogue.

We CAN have a fun war. Just wait and see. We CAN fight a war to win. We'll get the USO back in gear. After all, we still have Bob Hope and Frances Langford to entertain troops and sell war bonds.

Or, we could move to isolation, save the lives of many of our boys, bring everybody home from wherever, and help only those who believe with us, like us, and will stand behind us.

Think of the billions we would be able to use to relieve American hunger, rebuild cities, develop mass transit, and repave South Savanna Road.

I have tried, God knows how hard I have tried, to make some sense out of what is happening and why our government operates in a vacuum of leadership and National purpose. I have tried and failed, due to the intricacies of interwoven international political expedience.

Things need to be simplified. A popular war could do that. It could offer our leaders direction.

Maybe it is time for a war.

Summer Wind becalms

The voyage of the Summer Wind is over, and its crew dispursed to the four corners of the globe. But the zephyrs will still be floating on the ether of memory for several people in this area for some time to come.

The Summer Wind, as many of you will remember, is the 77 foot sailing yacht of the Bob Rodmans, which took off for parts and ports unknown from Linkport nearly two years ago with a youthful crew of family, relatives and friends. Bob and his Gale are so well known along the Treasure Coast area he was "founding" general manager for Ocean Village for nearly five years that I began an intermittent chronicle of their trip, as reported by the silver tipped pen of Bob, an excellent writer as well as any navigator.

So many of you have expressed interest in the voyage of the Summer Wind that I have to share the latest, and possibly the last, of those superior, sometimes hilarious reports.

To bring everyone up to date, the goal of the Summer Wind was to circumnavigage the globe over a two year period, making it by sail alone whenever and wherever it was possible. The crew included three of the Rodman's grown children, their (then) four year old daughter Summer for whom the yacht was named, Nat Harrison III, Captain Gerry Hood, and a handful of other young and eager tars bent on hardy adventure.

They got it, all right, including the "adventure" of experiencing some of the rarer diseases extant around the world. In this first article, Bob writes:

"As the afternoon sun nestles into the yellow Sahara haze, Port said, the northern terminus of the Suez Canal, merged into the indistinct horizon and we bid a relieved farewell to Egypt and all it hadn't meant to us. The date was September 28. A few physical reminders of our Egyptian sojourn remained with us — Karen's sore throat (sarcophagus esophagus), my bronchitis (camel dung lung), a number of cases of diarrhea (mummy tummy,) and several hundred pounds of yellow Sahara dust which enshrouded Summer Wind from waterline to masthead."

They had sailed from the Seychelles, some 300 miles south of the equator in the Indian Ocean, on Aug. 18, loaded up on water, fuel and food with the expectation of making the 3,000 mile trip to Egypt non stop. They proceeded with some trepidation, being well aware of the reports that yachts had been fired on along the coast of Socotra and Somolia and other countries lining the shores of the Gulf of Aden and the Red Sea.

The crew by then had shifted in nature somewhat, with only Gerry, Gale, Summer, Bob and his two elder children Karen and Greg, and Nat Harrison III left of the the original bunch they'd started out with. They'd been joined by a Tahitian high priest, a Canadian, an Australian and a Rhodesian along the way.

The Seychelles, Bob writes, had been one of the peaks of grandeur found on their itinerary great hotels "catering to newlyweds and nearly deads," beautiful beaches, fabulous mountains. The political situation was a bit sticky.

"We found it uncomfortable at our first anchorage to look over our stern at a battery of quad 50 calibre machine guns a few yards away, manned by African soldiers actually brandishing automatic weapons. We moved."

The first 1,000 miles of the Egypt bound trek were a breeze, but then the wind died and they found themselves becalmed. However, Bob Rodman has a way of falling into the pot and coming out covered with honey a convenient sea going tug came along, and they bummed a free tow for several hundred miles.

Rodman doesn't recommend the Red Sea and the Gulf of Suez to northbound marine traffic.

"For two days we rode at anchor as gale force winds roared unabated through the strait...the last 170 miles up the Gulf of Suez were the toughest. With only five or ten miles of sea room for tacking, winds seldom less than 30 knots on our nose, oil platforms everywhere, intensive ship traffic including unloaded southbound super tankers and an occasional mine field, we spent two final days and nights of tense, rough slogging before reaching Suez at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 12, 23 days, 13 hours and 40 minutes out of Mahe (Seychelles). Though not the longest passage in terms of distance, it was our longest time at sea. The log reflects our pleasure at having arrived: 'WE MAKES IT!' "

One of their misadventures beginning in Egyptian waters was a misadventurer, "Prince of the Red Sea," a native who wangled his way into service as the Summer Wind's Suez Canal agent.

"Meester Bob, I want you to be happy," was the rogue's theme song. They made the mistake of entrusting the care of the yacht to the "Prince," later to be re-dubbed "Prince of Darkness," while the voyagers toured Cairo and surrounds.

"We returned to Summer Wind on Sunday, Sept. 23 to discover that the minions of the Prince, had dealth Summer Wind a blow. The hull was badly marked by black tire marks left by careless launch drivers. The inflatable dinghy was a shambles, its floorboards knocked apart. A small fire had burned Paul's and Karen's surfboards. Dinghy gasoline was missing. Varnished cockpit combings were hacked. The interior was a filthy shambles — everything had been gone through and personal possessions displaced from one cabin to another. The weapons had been played with; a glass bathroom fixture was smashed. The salt water pump was burned out from having been left on; the tane deck was shot.

The Prince, needless to say, disappeared shortly after on his magic carpet.

Bob concludes: "As I sit here in the lower saloon basking in the warmth of our fireplace (on a yacht, yet!) I reflect on how sad it was to see everyone leave. We had become so interdependent and so together as a crew. But there's always next summer and the trip back to the States. In a few days I too will be off for Florida.

"But I'm confused — am I going home, or leaving home?"

Bob is now in Tampa, troubleshooting for his mother in law's plant there, and Gale is in California. But the four winds call. Our hat is he and she will be back aboard once more, to produce the conclusion of what should be an all-time best seller.

Paradise lost

I guess it was a recent visit from a couple of long lost fellow residents of Seminole Shores that brought back the memories of the place.

For six years I lived at The Shores, a 500-plus acre paradise at the southern tip of Hutchinson Island.

Today, the land is known as Sailfish Point, and over the next few years Mobil Oil Estates, Ltd. has plans to transform the property into one of the plushest developments in the country.

As far as I'm concerned though, the place will never be as nice as when I knew it.

I had to beg to get into the place, as the property manager really wasn't much interested in renting out the handfull of apartments there.

It was in September, 1972 that I approached him about renting an apartment. He told me he expected the land to be sold very soon and that I'd probably have to move out by Christmas. And, he told me it would be tough to find a place to live in the middle of the tourist season if I did have to move out.

I knew he was right about the difficulty of renting a place in mid season, but I figured it would be worth it to live next to the ocean, even if it was only going to be for a few months.

After much persuasion, he agreed to rent me a place on the condition that I'd move out on short notice if the land was sold.

I, as well as the other residents of Seminole Shores, had some close calls with the possibility of having to leave, but it wasn't until October, 1978 that we have to leave to make way for development of the land.

It was, without a question, the best place I ever lived in my life.

Much of that is because of the sheer beauty of the place. But much of that feeling stems from the close comraderie that developed among us residents of The Shores. Afterall, as with anything of beauty, it's beauty is enhanced when it is shared with others.

We were a small community. During the six years I lived there, our population ranged from a low of five to a high of 13. We didn't think of ourselves as residents separate unto ourselves, but as members of one large family. We were all welcome in each other's place, and whenever anyone of us caught fish or brought in lobster, clams or conch from the surrounding waters, we shared them.

We played Frisbee on the beach together, fished and skin dived together, took walks from Rand's Pier to the inlet and back together, and even fought off the nonseums and mosquitoes together.

No day at The Shores was ever like any other day, yet virtually all of them were delightful.

The ocean was a constant source of changing beauty, and the sunrises, moonrises, and sunsets were spectacular.

Each season held its own special elements. In the spring, we marveled at the abundant wildflowers that covered the land. The summer gave us glorious, sun-drenched days on the beach and monster snook in the river.

Outsiders may have considered The Shores as less than perfect, for the apartments were aging, the palm trees were untrimmed and the land was overgrown with weeds, sandspurs and wildflowers rather than the neatly manicured lawns most folks are used to. And, mosquitoes and noseeums drove many curiosity seekers back into their cars within minutes after they ventured past the gate.

But for us, it was paradise, and I'll never be able to regard that which Mobil Oil is creating to be as nice as it was during my six years there.

The other day I got a press release from the Sailfish Point folks announcing that they plan to make the place over into one of the poshest developments in the United States. Just one hole on their planned 18 hole Jack Nicklaus-designed golf course will be worth more than a million dollars on the basis of the cost of the land and the construction of the course.

Though hardly one tree of the hundreds of acres of palms and Australian pines that covered the land when I was there still stands today, the press release described the land as "unspoiled."

When they finish with it, it will no doubt be the haven for millionaires that they plan it to be. But when the jet-setters move in, there will be about 800 of them, and they'll probably pay more for their places there than I'll ever make in a lifetime.

When I lived there, my rental payments ranged from a high of $150 to a low of $37.50 a month. And though they will be paying more for it, I doubt any of them will ever love the place as much as I came to love it.

Energy saving tips from Bafalis

By Congressman Skip Bafalis

Energy costs aren't going down. Of that, we can be sure.

So, it is incumbent upon all of us to get the most from the dollars we do spend on energy. For that reason, the Department of Energy has compiled a number of low cost and free energy saving suggestions which I'd like to pass on.

- Check the thermostat on your hot water heater. If it's set between 140 and 160 degrees, turn it back. If you reduce the setting to 130 to 120 degrees, you'll save at least $20 a year on electric water heaters and $10 on gas heaters. The lower the setting you can accept, the greater your savings will be.

And most water heaters have instructions for changing the settings posted on the front, and the dials are either numerical or bear the designations "high", "medium" and "low". Reset the thermostats to 110 degrees or low.

Check your washing machine. It takes about 35 gallons of water to do a full wash and rinse. Yet, you can regulate how much of that water is hot. A hot wash and warm rinse combination, the highest setting on most machines, requires 25 gallons of hot water. And, if you do just one load a day, the cost is $100 a year at least in homes with electric water heaters. Change the setting to rinse the clothes in cold water - which experts say doesn't effect the results at all - and you save eight gallons of hot water a day, or $25 a year. Change the wash setting from hot to warm and you save another $25 a year.

If fact, you might experiment with a cold water detergent and wash and rinse in cold. If you can do it, you'll save still another $25 a year.

Take a look at your fireplace, if you have one. It's not unusual to find a gap of an inch or more in a fireplace even when the damper is closed. Since this gap create major air leakage when the fireplace is not in use, stuff the gap with insulation. Or, if it's too large, cover it with a piece of cardboard. You'll have to remove the insulation or cardboard before using the fireplace, but that's just a minor inconvenience since installing it will save as much as $75 a year in heating and cooling bills.

Insulate your hot water heater. By cutting the heat loss from the hot water tank, you can save $20 a year. And you can buy enough insulation and tape to do the job for less than $5. Be sure to wrap the heater with the foil side of the insulation out. And don't cover the drain faucet, thermostat access panel or relief valve on the top of the tank. Also, be sure the insulation is taped securely so it won't slip.

Don't forget caulking and weather stripping. And don't stop with just the windows and doors. Most of the heating and cooling loss doesn't come through windows and doors. Up to 90 percent escapes underneath base boards, through wall outlets, through holes where plumbing pipes and telephone lines enter the house, through holes around exhaust fans, around dryer vents and around sink and bathtub drain pipes where they exit in the house. These holes should be caulked or stuffed with insulation.

In addition, be sure to keep filters in furnace and air conditioning units clean. A dirty filter makes the fan work harder and wastes energy.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Your column in the January 16, 1980 Mirror, "Little things mean a lot" was quite good. It reminded me that other little things are important to Jensen Beach as well. Things such as litter, high weeds and junky, homemade signs ruin the attractiveness of Jensen's commercial area in many instances. If each merchant would make an effort to clean-up his own area it would go a long way towards improving Jensen Beach.

The weed-choked, sloppy appearance of the Winn-Dixie shopping center is a good example of what I'm talking about. Sloppy stores are not good business. Who wants to shop in a place that looks unkempt. The merchants would be doing themselves (and all of us) a big favor by cleaning-up.

It has been shown that litter attracts more litter. People are reluctant to throw junk in a place that looks clean and attractive. On the other hand, they feel no compunction about adding more junk to an already littered area.

As I said, these are little things. But they DO mean a lot.

Sincerely,
Joan Beckley
(Mrs. B. J. Beckley)

To the Editor:

How in the world did the DOT manage to spend so much money and produce such a horrible job at the Savanna Road - Commercial Street Intersection?

My memory suggests $332,000.00 as the initial price tag, and we have very little to show for it. Why the deep ditches with standing water to provide breeding places for mosquitoes? How will the slopes of the ditches be maintained? Why were pipes and catch basins omitted?

The ditches are dangerous to both motorists and pedestrians. And the banking of the curve on Commercial Street is so steep it looks like it was designed for a 70 m.p.h. highway. This makes entry to the store parking lots on the north side very difficult, and, apparently serves no useful purpose.

The spraying of chopped hay or straw on the seeded areas was a terrible waste of time and money. Very little remains. Why not sod - at least in the essential areas?

At this writing the lane markings have not been applied, but it appears that a little more width would have made turning much safer and easier.

If I were a property owner on the east side of Savanna Road, I would be distressed by the amount of stone left on the spaces which the owners will have to mow (if grass ever does grow).

The comparison of this project with the two projects completed recently in Stuart - the intersection of St. Lucie Boulevard and E. Ocean Boulevard, and the intersection of Sewall's Point Road and E. Ocean Boulevard - would seem to indicate that the DOT people consider Jensen Beach to be a third class area, and they mean to keep it that way.

Sincerely,
Harold W. McCrone

Mark your valuable items

THE OBP Night Patrol is on the job, dusk to dawn, reporting any suspicious actions to the County Deputys, who respond in a few minutes and make a thorough investigation. It is doing an excellent job and has been very effective, however in case of burglary, the recovery of stolen articles would be easier if they were marked with identifying number also, numbered items would be less likely to be taken! Therefore, Ray Stewart is making a drive to have all valuable items marked (park office has a marker). See Ray for details, he needs 5 Street Captains to help everyone on their street get valuables marked, who'll give him a hand (334-7412)

It was a bit chilly at times last week, so what! It just makes us all the more appreciative of our normal balmy Martin County weather. Add by the scarcity of rioted up mobile homes and lack of ins and outs at the park office, it looks like we are all here now, just in time for some very special park events, that will be announced below.

There have been numerous inquiries about the Free Senior Citizen Tax Aid service. That worked out so well for the past few years, therefore we are glad to announce that it will again be available. For details, see the AARP column.

PARK EVENTS

CLASSES are going full swing, but I'll have to admit, I don't know just what they are doing. So, it would be greatly appreciated, if the different instructors would give me an item, now and then.

SQUARE DANCERS had a live caller, Joe Hallenbeck for their Tuesday night dance, Jan. 22. What a crowd, seemed like old times to have 8 sets on the floor. It was 4 sets of experienced dancers, 2 sets of beginners, and 2 sets of mashes. Joe at times had them all form a big circle and put them through routine calls that were simple enough for those without previous experience. Also, he had some "singing call" dances for those who like to kick up their heels at a fast tempo.

This free fun dance got quite a good crowd, so next week some other novelty will be tried out.

CAMERA CLUB members went on a train trip across Canada to Vancouver, under the guidance of Dorothy Elliott (with only one assist from husband Tom). The slides were brilliant and very colorful and so was the commentary. Next week, Pres. Nina Zigelhofer will take over with her "Western Highlights" and OBP scenes after. David (the mean ol' hurricane) battered its way through here last September.

Nina announced that the annual election of officers would be held Thurs. Mar. 13, with their installation at the annual dinner, Mar. 20. The dinner will be the same as in previous years, a meat supplied pot luck and although it wasn't easy, the price of the tickets will be kept at $1.00. The dinner is for members only, but it is easy to be a member, just see Freda Peterkin, See/Treas. Cost, $1.00 for as long as you live in the park.

SHUFFLERS got rained out last week, so had to play at a later date. However, Buckaroon did get to play and posted the following: P.T. Mathy leads with 9 games, Pete Hillman and Syl Garing, tied at 8; Ralph Bailey has 7, and Bun Miller, Ken Smith, George Lebon, Clay Turner have 6.

Next event of interest will be the Hoke Memorial, Mixed Double, Feb. 7,8 & 9. Drawings to be different this year, so that 'A' players will have a 'B' partner in all cases.

GOLFERS have become of age and officially formed a club. They started Dec 1 with 35 OBP golfers assembling for fun matches, Sat. 8:30a.m. at the Holiday Country Club, now there are 45 of them. So, on Jan. 23, they had a formal meeting and elected the following:

It is to be called Ocean Breeze Golf Club; President, Merle Bender; V.P., Joe Rallighoff; Sec/Treas. Henry Habitzreiter, and Registrar (5), H. Leuffgen, B. Lefine, R. Sutton, W. Osgood.

They are fortunate in having an OBPer who ran a golf school and he has offered his services as instructor, 9 a.m. Thurs. in Clement Hall. Instructor, C. Moss. 39 SW 6th St. says "You all are welcome."

COMING EVENTS are often secret and mysterious and we sure have one coming up on March 2. Rumors galore but facts are few and far between. Let's hear what you have heard!"

HOSPITAL & OBITUARY

The following are in the hospital: Stan Hazle (Rm 413), 14 SW 10th St.; Gene Eisenbarth (Rm 309), 4 Westend Dr. Hilda Giblin (Rm. 529), 23 SW 6th St. Harry Jewsberry (SNF/U), 10 Mango Dr.; Ralph Tucker (Rm331), 16 SW 9th St. Ranie Heaton (Rm 211), Jack Heaton's wife.

Larry Brammer, 30 SW 5th Ave. died Sat. Jan 26 in Martin Memorial Hospital. Majorie Griffin, 1 Officer of 20 Arborvitae, died Jan. 29 in Chicago Hts., Ill. Nathan Smith, brother of Willie Kelly, 2 NE 4th Ave. died in North Carolina 10 days ago.

CARD WINNERS

Duplicate, Jan 26, N-S, Mike Dryer and Val Wells; Clay Mitchell and Ginny Whitehead; Don and Iva Cross. E-W, Marie Beutel and Lura Mayer, Gladys Gilbert and Mildred Skinner, Peggy Burks and Roxane Gill.

Contract, Jan. 22, Flora Beer, Mildred Stevenson, Ness Moore, Rhoda Pettit.

Pinochle, Jan 21, Mildred Epler, Evelyn Hillman, Louis Dodge, Ralph Dritt, Ed Sheleski.

Pinochle, Jan 26, June Malpass, Gladys Baer, C. Wiedenmann, Nina Zigelhofer, Ness Moore, Harvey Hill, Ruth Troger, and Adele Garrison.

RAMBLING AROUND

First a couple of remarks. So many items of interest come my way from the Old Section, without much effort, that I don't get to ramble in the new Section, so it would be appreciated, if items from that area would be called to my attention. Also, again this week, there are more items than can be used, but all items will be used in the near future.

Jim and Willie Kelly, 2 NE 4th Ave. are just back from a flying trip back to North Carolina to attend funeral of Willie's brother. It was a 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. struggle some of it through rain sleet and snow. So, they are darn glad to be back here for the rest of the winter.

This is their second season with us and like it very much and as they originally came from Richmond, it's easy to guess who enticed them here. Yep, Jim's uncle Luther Weeks. Jim was a claims executive with Travlers Insurance for 25 years and Willie was with State Employment Commission. They now have a 150 acre place right on the North Carolina coast, where they garden, fish and play golf. But right now, after Jim gets his boat ready, he is all set for a lot of R & R.

Walter and Kathryn Seider, 10 Skipper St. are down here from Manahawkin, N.J. and figure this is the place for them. You see, 2 yrs. ago they visited Pine Lake Village, then last year they toured all of Florida and decided that this area was by far the best and that friendly OBP was where they wanted to be, so here they are.

They have 4 children, 11 grandchildren (with 2 more on order), therefore it isn't surprising that they will have at least one daughter and a few grandchildren down to visit them in February. Walter is a fisherman from way back (had fishing boat in New Jersey) and in 1976 was on TV here, "most fish caught in one day." Now, besides fishing he is interested in stained glass and shuffling, while Kathryn does some shuffling and takes in bingo games when she gets a chance.

Irvin Keith of 4 Vista Dr. is an ardent fisherman, boat fishing with Luther Weeks or wading in the river. Well his kid sister, Dale Orr, who celebrated her 80th birthday on Jan. 21 came to visit just in time to console him on getting bit by a fish for the first time in his life.

It seems while wading and fishing for trout, Irvin hooked onto a 4 pound blue and while trying to get him off a tripple hook in waste deep water, the darn fish almost took the end off one finger. Being a die in the wool fisherman, he kept right on fishing, blood dripping n' all. However, later he got a tetanus shot.

CARD OF THANKS!

I want to thank all my wonderful friends and neighbors of Ocean Breeze Park for all their cards and visits to the hospital, they contributed to my remarkable recovery. Also, I want to thank the Doctors and Nurses of Martin Memorial Hospital for their splendid service. Thank you all very much.

Leonard Brunt

Here's one way to stop passing the buck.

Buck-a-gallon gasoline. It's a reality. And they say it's going to get worse. For most of us, this means changing our driving habits. The less you drive, the more you save.

We can help. Our new Gas-Miser Program is a package of services that can eliminate dozens of trips to the bank. The program includes direct deposit of regular payments, such as Social Security and stock dividends; telephone transfers of money from checking to savings, and vice versa; deposits by mail to checking and savings (we pay the postage both ways) and more.

Our trained personnel have all the Gas Miser details. They'll help you stop passing the buck for non-essential driving.

The Gas-Miser Program: fewer trips to the bank; more to where you need or want to go. Become a Gas Miser at any office of Stuart National or Port Salerno National Banks.

Senior tax aid program is listed

There has been a number of inquiries about the Free Senior Citizen Tax Aid program, so the details will be given again. Starts Mon. Feb. 4, at the Stuart National Bank on East Ocean Blvd., 9 a.m. to noon. Mon. thru Fri. until Apr. 15; for info. call Marie Martin, 286-0790. Also, starts Tues. Feb. 5, at the Anchorage Boatel Office, 1012 NE Anchorage Ln. (Rio): Tues. and Thur. 1 to 4 p.m. and Wed. and Fri. 9 a.m. to noon, until Apr. 15, for info. call Dick Wisner, 334-6142.

Seniors took Pres. Carter's "State of the Union Message" in stride, it seems they were so obsessed with the local gasoline situation they couldn't be bother with events miles away. So, we better listen in on them.

Gemal Mary, a 75 year old, who takes folks to the hospital or West Palm when needed, wanted to know, "How am I going to be sure I have gas enough to meet the planes next month, when I have to scout for hours to get enough for 'hospital trips'? Rationing is what we need, then at least we could plan ahead."

"You're right", barks spry and salty Capt. Joe, "it's time we found out what's going on around here. Big Oil admits to huge profits last year, at the same time it has big price increase and while the government says consumption is down, we have long lines, or "No Gas" signs. I say let's have rationing, then a good conserver could make a buck or two along with Big Oil by peddling unneeded coupons."

"Again I say", butts in Ethel the 78 year old 'gal' who reads up on things, "some one is always making the wrong decisions, that put most of us in a bind. It looks like more gas and oil is going north, than needed, while more people than ever are coming south with their gas gobblers."

Then, Jim a vigorous 80 year old fellow, jabs his cane at some imaginary "Folks in High Places", and says, "If these darn bureaucrats would spend less time figuring how to get another raise and better offices, they'd have more time to watch what's happening in their back yards and jump in quickly to correct bad situations, like 'no gas' here. What do you think?"

"Wrong decisions, hum!" adds Capt Joe, "at least the President isn't sticking with them. Now, it looks like a complete turn around. More military strength, get ready for draft; forget other country's internal policies; increase our over sea forces and even restore power to CIA so it can again be an effective weapon." And, shaking his finger under Jim's nose, he continues, "And, it's about time, seniors have been telling him about these things for years, but it took the Iowa caucus, to show him that he better pay attention to what voters are thinking."

"I'm sure glad the president is finally going our way, but still that doesn't put any gas in my tank", says ever practical Ethel, "let's start a letter writing campaign; how about it, let's go whole hog, for Gas Rationing; Wage & Price Controls; Catastropic Medical Ins., and a rap on all health costs. Who'll join me in getting folks to write?"

"Ya, that's a dandy idea, but I'm going to be tied up with visitors or I'd be glad to help out", pipes up a by stander (you know who)

Here are some random items that were chewed over recently. The nurses and teachers were upset because truck drivers and sanitation workers make more money than they do. They could trade jobs? Why should nice easy, clean interesting jobs be entitled to more pay than the hard dirty jobs? Some folks are qualified for the nice jobs, but that doesn't make 8 hours at hard labor any easier.

The Star Spangled Banner controversy pops up every so often. Here's our side. It seems that everything we do, belittles the traditions of our country. Take the inspiring Star Spangled Banner; even though we may not be able to sing it well, when we hear it, we do get proud tingles. Let's not go for those milk toast hymns that some folks are advocating. Let's have the good ol' blood tingling anthem, that lets the whole world know that we are proud of our heritage and we are going to keep it that way, so beware.

CHAPTER ITEMS

So a chapter member can get a years subscription and a family membership to the chapter for the price of the mirror alone. Send checks for $9.50 made out to the chapter, to Treas. Doris Cass, P.O. It's not too early to start thinking about the Martin County Fair, as the chapter will have a booth there the same as it has on previous years. Plan to attend Senior Citizen day, Tues. Mar 11, and meet your AARP friends at the booth. Also, Colonial Penn Ins. rep. will be there from 1 to 6 p.m. See you at the fair.

Looking for the full story? You'll find it in THE MIRROR

Some snow birds don't have 3rd class mail forwarded; so here are a few interesting items from January, National News Bulletin:

Golden Age Passports that entitles seniors over 62, to free admission to National Parks, etc. and 50 percent discount on camping, etc., can be obtained at your nearest regional office of the National Park or National Forest Systems. You know, this is a senate sponsor project, as some wrote to folks in high places' back there in the 50's advocating this plan. So it isn't always futile to take your pen in hand.

Another grass roots idea is percolating to the top. That is a special cost of living index for retirees. Older people spend a greater share of their income on health, housing, food and fuel and these items are increasing faster than the general cost of living; which is used to determine the Social Security 'C of L' increases each year. National AARP is working on it.

Martin County, Health Cost Containment Committee may benefit from a study on HMO's (Health Maintenance Organizations) being conducted by the Andrus Foundation, as they have been considering something along these lines. Also, this same committee can get some food for thought from an article on "National Health Fair Week" which state that older persons will be able to obtain free 'screening test' during that week at some American Red Cross locations. Such things as: eye, hearing, blood pressure and anemia screening, pap smears, breast checks and a variety of community referrals. Article says see your Red Cross for April dates.

The chapter bulletin article on some "ice cream" isn't fit to eat (page 10, Jan issue) has caused a stir. Spare copies had to be supplied. If you can't get a copy, here's the grist of it. Some ice creams contain chemicals used in anti freeze and paint thinner; dyes for rubber; ingredients of rubber cement; paint solvent; leather cleaner and lice killer. Some folks may be allergic to some of these chemicals, I was. Long before the article, when I use to eat hugh quantities of ice cream at noon, I found that within an hour, I'd have disturbing indigestion. Cutting out the ice cream resulted in instant relief (and to cheek, when ice cream was eaten again, indigestion again, immediately). So, this article cleared up a point that I had wondered about. Thanks Boyd for the clarification.

Jensen Firemen answer two calls

Jensen Beach Volunteer Firemen have been kept busy lately with two recent fires, but in both cases, damage was not heavy.

On Saturday, Jan. 26 firemen were called to the home of A.J. Weinbecker, 3305 N.E. Hylane Drive, Jensen Beach, around 6:30 p.m. to put out a fire in a storage shed.

Fire Chief Joe Luciano said the fire apparently started when fumes from a gas can were touched off by the spark of a pump turning on. He said that since the shed door was closed, the fire did not have much oxygen and did not spread much. He estimated damage at about $200 to $300, and said that four baby chicks in the shed apparently survived the fire.

On Monday morning firemen responded to a call that a car was on fire on Pine Ridge Street at 22nd Avenue. Luciano said the fire was contained to an area under the hood and dashboard and said his men did an especially good job not to cause extra damage to the convertible car while putting the blaze out.

The 1970 Chevrolet Malibu is owned by Mike Lowry, 1876 N.E. River Court, Jensen Beach.

THERE'S STILL TIME TO SAVE ON TAXES

IF YOU'RE EMPLOYED AND HAVE NO PENSION OR PROFIT-SHARING PLAN, YOU MAY OPEN AN INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT OR CONTRIBUTE TO AN ESTABLISHED ONE, PRIOR TO FILING YOUR TAX RETURN — UP TO APRIL 15, 1980 — AND RECEIVE FULL TAX BENEFITS.

The IRA allows an annual contribution of $1,500 or 15% of wages, whichever is less. You and your non-working spouse may contribute $1,750 ($875 each) or 15% of earnings, whichever is less.

Now is a good time to open a Keogh Plan for tax savings next year, if you're self-employed and have no other pension or profit-sharing plan. You may make annual contributions of $7,500 or 15% of net earned income, whichever is less.

IF YOU'VE HAD A KEOGH PLAN SINCE DEC. 31, 1979, YOU MAY CONTRIBUTE TO IT UNTIL THE TIME YOU FILE YOUR TAX RETURN — UP TO APRIL 15, 1980 — AND RECEIVE TAX BENEFITS FOR 1979.

Yes, you can have that tax-break right now and what's more, you can watch that saving grow in a retirement fund that pays 8% interest, compounded daily, in special 3-year certificate accounts. By meeting certain requirements, your funds may also be invested in one of our Money Market Certificates for even higher earnings.

There is no service charge or administrative fee for opening retirement accounts.

Presbyterian concert Sunday

The First United Presbyterian Church of Stuart, located in North River Shores, will continue its 1979-80 concert series with an artist's concert on Sunday, Feb. 3, at 4 p.m.

Featured will be Martha Oestreich, flutist, Philip Mendell, M.C., clarinetist, Ken Mauger, bassoonist, and Brenda Hickey, pianist. They will play compositions by Gluck, Mozart, Beethoven, Handel, Saint Saens, and Bath.

Mrs. Oestreich is a graduate of the Univ. of Missouri and received her Master's Degree from the Eastman School of Music. She is a registered nurse at Martin Memorial Hospital, a music and physical education teacher at St. Michael's School, and a seasonal musician at Disney World. Dr. Mendell is in private practice as an internist in Stuart. He studied music at the Juilliard School and performed as a Dixieland clarinetist while in college with a recording to his credit. He graduated from Hobart College and the College of Medicine at the University of Rochester, and has done research and teaching in Europe, at Harvard University, and at the University of Miami. Ken Mauger was band director at Martin County High School for the past 11 years. He received his Bachelor of Music Degree at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, and his B.S. Ed. at the University of Cincinnati. Brenda Hickey received advanced piano training at the Cleveland Institute of Music and taught piano in Ohio for ten years. She performed as soloist and duo pianist with the Cleveland Fortnightly Concert Group. A registered nurse and former school nurse, she is currently on the staff of Martin Memorial Hospital. Also performing in this concert are Willa Jo Mauger, organist at the First United Methodist Church of Stuart, and Hazel Morey, organist-director at the host church, who will perform two piano works: Mozart's Concerto for Two Pianos, K.V. 365, and the Saint Saens "Carnival of the Animals", with Kay Larson reading the Ogden Nash verses. Children are welcome; a nursery is provided for babies and toddlers. The church is at 1715 North West Pine Lake Drive in North River Shores, just north and west of Stuart.

WILDLIFE LECTURE—Steve Maslowski will present a film and lecture titled "Wildlife by Day and Night" at a meeting of the Martin County Audubon Society on Thursday, Jan. 31, at 8 p.m. at the Stuart Woman's Club building in Stuart. The public is invited.

Audubon presents film and lecture Thursday

Steve Maslowski of Cincinnati, Ohio, will give the second Wildlife Film and Lecture, WILDLIFE BY DAY AND NIGHT, presented by the Martin County Audubon Society at 8:00 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 31 at the Women's Club of Stuart.

Steve and his brother, Pete, have been working in still life photography and cinematography from the Arctic Circle to Mexico since their high school days with their father, Karl Maslowski. This joint Maslowski film is a chronicle of the ceaseless activities of the creatures, great and small, in midwestern waters, fields and forests.

The first Wildlife Film filled the Woman's Club to be next to last two seats, and thoroughly delighted the crowd. The friendliness, enthusiasm, and professionalism of these speakers, plus their beautiful films is a combination hard to beat. Tickets are available at the door for the public.

Vincent Price to judge IRCC student artwork

Vincent Price, the famous star of scary movies, has agreed to comment on artwork by Indian River Community College students on display in the lobby of the Riverside Theatre in Vero Beach.

The art show, which began on Jan. 24 and will run for approximately three weeks, coincides with "Diversions and Delights," a one man play by John Gay that features the life of Oscar Wilde. Price will impersonate Wilde in the production, set to run Feb. 3 and 4 at the Riverside Theatre.

Price, a noted art historian and painter, as well as an actor, will evaluate the students' work, selected from paintings, prints, drawings, and graphics done in IRCC art classes.

Price's comments will immediately precede the play, which will begin at 8:15 p.m. on both nights. Only reserved seats will be sold for the production.

President's Report

In 1979, a year of difficulty for financial institutions nationwide, First Federal Savings of Martin County maintained its substantial rate of growth. Impressive gains were made in total assets, deposits, mortgage loans and the number of savings accounts added.

As of December 31, 1979, total assets for your association stood at $188,275,339, up $32,592,157 or nearly 21 per cent over the previous year's assets of $155,683,182. At the close of the year there were 22,128 savings accounts with deposits of $151,514,834 compared to 19,978 accounts containing $131,862,924 the year earlier. The Association credited $10,332,388 in interest on these regular and certificate accounts during 1979.

In serving the local housing and construction market your Association made 901 loans with a total dollar volume of $42,443,325, increasing our outstanding mortgage loans by 22 per cent from $126,140,434 in 1978 to $154,089,956 at the close of 1979.

Demonstrating the financial strength and health of your Association was the second straight year of outstanding net income which increased the Association's net worth to a new record of $6,780,350 compared to $5,579,481 last year.

As rewarding as 1979 has been for your Association, I look forward to the opportunities and challenges of the 80's. In 1980 we will move ahead aggressively on our plan to bring more and better facilities to our customers. Construction is now underway on a large new drive-in facility at our main office on U.S. 1 and, during the next few months we will open branch offices on Monterey Road and on East Ocean Boulevard.

In spite of a cloudy economic future for the nation, I am confident that these facilities as well as the dedicated efforts of your Association's employees, officers and directors will make 1980 a year of progress.

William T. Wallis

WINNERS—Judges of the science fair projects at Jensen Beach Elementary School say they had a tough time picking winners among so many good entries. A total of nearly 200 students turned in 185 projects, and the group above was picked as first place winners for their grade level. They are, from the left: Adrienne Feinman, kindergarten; Tamara Abate, first grade; Matthew Burford, second grade; Jeffrey Wissel, third grade; Shawna Biddle, fourth grade; and Brian Teal, fifth grade. The overall fair winner for the best project in the school is Helene Feinman, who is kneeling by her entry.

ORGANIZERS of the highly successful blood drive at Outdoor Resorts of America on Hutchinson Island were all smiles due to the tremendous response from residents to their appeal to donate blood. A total of 96 pints of the precious fluid were donated, and organizers were so pleased with the turnout that they say it will probably become a yearly event. The blood was credited to an account for use by anyone who lives at the park. The organizers are, from the left, Fran Swenson, Julie LaFortune, and Ron Sipperley.

BLOOD DRIVE—Residents of Outdoor Resorts of America on Hutchinson Island turned out in force last week to donate a whopping 96 pints of blood to the Central Florida Blood Bank. It was the first organized blood drive at the park, but the response was so good that those putting the drive together said they'll likely make it an annual event. Can-can clogging

Cloggers bring the mountains to Florida

Florida is a long way from the mountains of North Carolina, but at the Stuart Youth Center last week, a group of Carolina college students brought a bit of mountains here.

Last Friday, the Bailey Mountain Cloggers from Mars Hill College in North Carolina presented an exhibition of their clogging talents.

Clogging is a form of dancing that's been practiced in the Carolina mountains for years. It is akin to Scottish dances, probably a distant relative to the Highland Fling.

In recent years, clogging has gained popularity on a more widespread basis and judging from the reaction of the audience at the Stuart Youth Center, its popularity will increase here.

Actually, clogging is not really new to many local residents. Sally Rhodes has been teaching the dance to young and not-so-young folks here for quite some time, and she says interest in her Sailfish Cloggers group is on the rise. Before the Mars Hill students came on to perform, the local cloggers put on a very credible performance of their own.

The Bailey Mountain Cloggers visited Stuart as part of a tour of the Florida east coast they've been conducting, and when Mrs. Rhodes made inquiries to find out why Stuart was selected as a stopover for the touring students, she found that one of them, Cheryl Hall, hails from Jensen Beach.

Cheryl is a junior at Mars Hill, majoring in Elementary education and specializing her studies in math. Until she began attending the college, located in Mars Hill, N.C., she says had never heard of clogging. But she caught clogging fever and signed up for try-outs for the clogging team last October.

Though most of the Bailey Mountain Cloggers were born and raised in North Carolina, Cheryl learned the art-form quickly and made the team. "It has really been a fun being a part of the group, and it's been educational too," she commented. She is the daughter of Bob and Peggy Hall of Jensen.

The Sailfish Cloggers will be performing at Jensen Beach Elementary School at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 6, and on March 21, local Elks Lodge 1870 is providing buses so the cloggers can travel to the Harry Anna Crippled Children's Hospital in Umatilla, Fla. for a performance.

Three teams tied for first place

JB Lower Division youth soccer race turning into a mess

BY DONNIE WILKIE

When you recall some of the world's great soccer championship chases, the Jensen Beach Optimist youth soccer's Lower Division race won't rate among them.

One must first consider that the league's purpose is to provide area youngsters with experience in the game, but how's this for excitement?

11 Until last week, all five teams in the Lower Division were within reasonable striking distance of first-place Hartman Real Estate.

And 2) Now, though the bottom two squads are clearly trailing the pack, there is a literal mess at the top, with three teams- Hartman, Baum Realty and Action First Realty - tied for first place.

Action First exploded for four goals only one less than their previous output for the season's six games in a 4-1 drubbing of Stuart National Bank Saturday, while Baum joined the pack with a 1-0 squeaker over Clemons Realty Sunday, before area rainfall forced the postponement of two games.

Included in the soakers was the game between Hartman and Stuart National, which was tied, 0-0, when the clouds opened at halftime. Also a victim of nature was the Upper Division match pitting Carpet Corner against Winner's Circle. Carpet Corner led, 2-1, when play was called after 21 of the first half's 35 minutes. Both rain delayed games will be completed tonight (Wednesday).

In other action, Fran Construction shut out TNT Appliances, 3-0, Fischer-Olds Cadallic blasted Ercco, 9-0, and Certified Carpet Cleaning edged TNT, 3-2, in Middle Division games; and Angelo's Plumbing won a pair of Upper Division contests, shutting out Winner's Circle, 2-0, and slumping PW & Sons, 4-0.

Matty White's two goals overcame a 1-0 Stuart National first half lead, as Action First's four-goal second half dumped the Bankers. Jason Pittman's early score had given SNB their advantage, but after White's tallies, Patrick Pacacha and Nestor Sala added the clinchers for the winners.

David Phipps' goal after 15 minutes of play in the second half was all that Baum needed in its victory, which gave the team a 4-3-1 regular season record. Action First's in the same, but Hartman, though tied in point standings, has a game at hand on both Baum and Action First, carrying a 4-2-1 record into tonight's second half of its game with SNB.

In the Middle Division this season, the biggest question has not been whether Fran Con can win, but rather by how many goals they will win. The undefeated, untied division front runners bombed TNT behind Mathew Collins' two early goals and later kicks by Brian Polhemus, Laurie Henry and Richard Billings.

Yet despite their unblemished mark (4-0-0), Fran Con is being challenged, if only because they have not been given a chance to stamp it out personally, by scrappy Certified.

The Carpet Cleaners have neatly vacuumed the rest of the league, minus Fran Con, of late, including their most recent work, the 3-2 conquest of TNT. Jen Gary scored all three of Certified's goals, giving his team the lead on each occasion. Kirk Haynes and Dan Klimek offset the first two, but the third was the winner.

Fran Con (3-4, goals scored, one allowed) belted Certified, 4-0, on December 19 in their only previous meeting. The only other mark on Certified's 5-1-1 record is a 3-3 tie.

It was a three person show when Fischer Olds disposed of Ercco with surprising ease. Chris Strausbaugh (four goals), Pete Doersam (three) and Louise Richardson (two) did all the damage in the rout.

Meanwhile, Ray Wooley had a hot hand (er, foot) in Angelo's Plumbing's two victories. Wooley scored three times in the Plumbers' 4-0 win over PW & Sons, the week's biggest upset.

Wright mad, Alley glad over sites

The reactions varied at local high schools Monday, less than 24 hours after the Florida High School Activities Association (FHSAA) announced the sites for district basketball tournaments around the state.

Both Martin County High School's coaches, the boys' Don Wallen and the girls' Dan Alley, had cause to celebrate, as the Lady Tigers were awarded the District 10-AAAA tourney, while Vero Beach, not Fort Pierce Central, was given the boys' event.

The north Cobra boys' coach Bill Wright was understandably shaken.

WRIGHT

"I was shocked," Wright said of his immediate reaction. "I figured the highest ranked team would get it — that's the way it's been in the past. I'm not saying that's right or wrong, but that's just the way it is."

Wright's Cobras upped their record to 18-1 with heart stopping victories over Lake Worth Leonard (54-51 in overtime) and Martin County (71-62) last week, leaving their only loss of the season, to Gainsville, sandwiched between a pair of nine game winning streaks.

How far can Central, ranked sixth in the latest state AAAA poll, go?

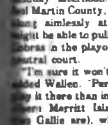
At least 16 miles, I told Wright, informing him of the bright side of Sunday's decision.

"It has all of a sudden made Vero Beach a major factor," remarked Wright. "They have been one of the most inconsistent teams in the state this year, but playing in their own gym can only help them attain the consistency.

"But I still feel that Martin County is the second best team in the district, no matter how much Wallen wants to cry the blues," he said last week before the teams' second meeting. "I have to feel we'll be seeing each other a third time."

There were no blues in Stuart on Monday afternoon. Many observers feel Martin County, though wandering along aimlessly at 6-11 in 1979-80, might be able to pull off an upset of the Cobras in the playoffs, especially on a neutral court.

"I'm sure it won't upset Vero say," added Wallen. "Personally, I'd rather play it there than in Brevard (County, Merritt Island, Satellite and Ft. Gallis are), where travel might become a factor."



ALLEY

But as much as that decision made sense, the announcement that the Lady Tigers (7-6) would host the girls' event was downright amazing. No one, Alley included, ever expected MCHS to get the tournament.

"Certainly didn't want to drive all the way up there and back every night," said Alley, "although that's a long way for them to come to get here. I couldn't believe it. We put in our application for it, but I just never thought we would get it.

"We've got a pretty solid team if we can get everyone together. If we do that we'll be tough. They (Mt. Gallie

Tilton gets turbo ride at 24 hour race

BY BOB FRYER

The 24 Hours of Daytona marathon auto race this weekend just won't be the same this year.

For the past five years, Jensen Beach racers Rusty Bond and Ren Tilton have teamed up in a Porsche 911 to make impressive showings at the twice-around-the-clock race.

This year, Tilton will be the only Jensen driver in the race, and he'll be doing it in another car.

As a result of a grinding crash at Daytona last November, familiar number 60 Bond-Tilton Porsche won't be entered.

The Bond-Tilton car was one of 15 that got smacked in a pile up when a sudden storm dumped a heavy rain on the track.

Tilton was driving at the time, and said the car only had minor damage from a glancing blow against another car by the time he got it stopped. Tilton got out of his car and had just finished extracting a fellow driver from another car when he turned around and saw a car slam into the number 60 Porsche. That blow spelled at least a temporary, perhaps permanent, end to the Bond-Tilton team effort.

The Jensen racers had planned to sell the Porsche and fix up a Mazda RX-7 to compete in the 1980 International Motor Sports Association series of races in the small engine (GTU) class. They had found during the 1979 season that their Porsche was great for endurance races, but was becoming increasingly less competitive against the new wave of Mazdas that were taking the GTU class by storm.

The crash ended those plans though, as they unhappily concluded that there just wasn't enough money to repair the Porsche and prepare the Mazda.

For Bond, it means he'll be attending the race for the first time in six years as a spectator, rather than a competitor, and the feeling isn't him will no doubt be akin to what Ben Parks will feel this year when the Miss America Pageant will be held without him.

Though the crash in November means Bond and Tilton won't be racing as a team, and that they won't be shooting for a top 10 spot in the seasonal driver's standings, Tilton has what he terms as "a very good ride" for the 24-hour event.

Two friends Tilton made in the racing business called him recently and asked if he'd like to share driving duties at Daytona in their Porsche. Tilton jumped at the chance.

Since the 24 Hours of Daytona and the 12 Hours Sebring are the only two races on the IMSA circuit long enough to warrant three drivers per team, it looks like Tilton will, at best, get two rides this year.

"I don't know about Sebring yet. I guess it depends on what happens at Daytona. But with some luck, we could do real well in the 24-hour race," Tilton said.

Tilton will be teaming with Jack Refenning of Fort Lauderdale and Ray Mummery of Miami in a 934 Porsche turbo.

Unlike the number 60 Porsche 911, the 934 Porsche will be in the next highest, GT, class. The car is painted black and will bear number 24. Last year, it was the European champion car in its class, and Tilton says if enough 935 Turbo Porsches in the next highest, GTX, class break down, the car could possibly come out as the overall winner at Daytona.

"Last year, a lot of 935s broke down and a 934 was first in the GT class and second overall at sunrise, but then it crashed coming out of the pits," Tilton said.

The 911 Tilton is used to driving has a much smaller engine than the 934 he'll drive, and he says the fact that it has a turbo charger will mean a major adjustment in the way he will have to drive. "When the turbo comes in, it automatically boosts the horsepower from 200 to about 550," he said.

What that means in terms of speed is that the 934 can complete the 3.8 mile course at Daytona in about 1 minute and 55 seconds, compared to 2 minute and 12 second laps that Bond and Tilton were in the habit of running in their 911. The 911 would reach top speeds of 175 to 180 mph on the backstretch, but Tilton says in preliminary testing the 934 was hitting 208 mph on the backstretch.

Since the 934 arrived from Germany just after Christmas, Tilton, Refenning and Mummery have been preparing it for the race, and Tilton said earlier this week that it's just about ready to go. He also said that the team has a good supply of spare parts and an excellent pit crew.

"The hardest thing about the race will be putting up with the cold. It's nearly always very cold at Daytona, and I imagine this year will be no exception," he said.

Tilton said he probably won't get much sleep during the race, but says if it's like past races, he won't feel tired until it's over. "I usually try to lay down when I'm not driving or working in the pits, but I'm rarely able to fall asleep," he said.

In addition to the excitement of racing at Daytona, there may be something else keeping Tilton awake. At last check, Tilton's wife, Sharon, was still expecting to deliver a baby "anytime now." In fact, she's overdue, so she just may be spending this Saturday and Sunday laboring as much as her husband.

The race begins at 4:30 p.m. Saturday and ends at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Baseball, softball signups Saturday

Jensen Beach Optimist Club officials announced last week that the first of four sign-ups for baseball will be held at Langford Park Saturday.

There will be three weekend sessions, beginning with Saturday's from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Optimist Activities Building. The new building is located just east of the football and soccer fields.

The season will begin on Monday, March 24, with Citrus League (JB girls' softball) league play starting on March 17. Tryouts for baseball will be held on March 8, with the girls meeting on March 1.

After Saturday's sign-ups, which are for boys and girls, there will be registration on February 9 (10 a.m. - 1 p.m.), February 14 (7 - 9 p.m.) and February 16 (10 a.m. - 1 p.m.). There is an insurance fee and proof of age is required.

The Optimist Club is sponsoring play in baseball for ages 7-16 and in girls' softball for ages 8-18. The club also wishes to stress that no youngsters will be denied a chance to play in the program.

Meetings for interested coaches (Activities Building, Feb. 14, 7 p.m.) and umpires (A.B. Feb. 19, 26 and Mar. 5, all 7:30 p.m.) will follow in the weeks ahead. Anyone interested in volunteering their services as scorekeepers or concession stands operators should contact Dale Adams at 878-1299.

Vaccarella signs with Tennessee

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Graduating Martin County High School defensive Tackle Mike Vaccarella signed a regional letter of intent Monday night in Stuart, inking a full scholarship offer from the University of Tennessee, where he will attend and play football.

Tennessee Head Coach Johnny Majors was in town for the signing along with UT Assistant Bob Rankin. The letter only is binding in the Southeast, including the Atlantic Coast and Southeastern Conferences, as well as all major independants.

National letters of intent may be signed beginning February 20, though it seems clear that Vaccarella's decision is final.

"I felt comfortable up there," said Vaccarella of his visit to the Knoxville campus. "They also had better facilities than some of the other schools I visited. They've got an indoor practice field, and everything seems to be in one building."

Vaccarella was one of the most highly recruited defensive players in the Southeast, and was named to the Miami Herald's College Blue Chip Prospects list along with Martin County teammate Greg Wright, also a defensive tackle. Wright has not yet made his collegiate intentions known, though many feel he will wind up at the University of Texas.

In using five of his allotted six visits, Vaccarella traveled to Wake Forest, Carolina and Tennessee. The choice, he said was difficult.

It was a really tough decision to make," he remarked. "We (he and new MCHS Head Coach Gary Jones) sat down with my mother and father and looked down the list. Tennessee came out looking the best."

Jones was satisfied with Vaccarella's decision, but he was quick to point out that he did not try to influence the player's choice in any way.

"That's one area where a coach can overstep his boundaries," noted Jones. "I can't tell a kid where to go to school. He has to make that decision on his own, considering what he wants and what will make his happy. A coach can literally ruin a kid's life by trying to make the decision for him."

"I tried to just answer questions and to give any kind of advice that was necessary."

Tennessee was 7-5 in 1979, including a post-season bowl victory, but most importantly, Vaccarella felt it is a program on the upswing.

"There's definitely an advantage," he responded when asked if he looked for an improving program, rather than a major superpower such as a Notre Dame or an Alabama.

"If I went to a real power like Alabama, I'd be sitting on the bench for two seasons before I ever got a chance. I know they started the seniors and two juniors on offense this year, so you can see I wouldn't have had much of a chance as a freshman."

Jones feels that Vaccarella can start for any school in the nation, including Alabama and Notre Dame.

"Mike's got the ability, if he sets his mind to it, to play anywhere in the country if he wants. But it takes that inner drive to do it. If he gets that kind of intensity, then he'll be great."

Vaccarella all buy shunned the Florida schools — or should it be said that the Florida schools shunned him.

"I didn't like the University of Miami or Florida State," he said. "In Miami's case, it was just because of where they're at (nowhere), and in Florida State's case, I didn't really like the coaches very much."

"The University of Florida hadn't even talked to me lately."

Jones explained that in the case of Vaccarella, "they (Florida) had only 30 scholarships and got 30 guys who were ready to sign. They had to get Vaccarella to make up his mind, but he wasn't ready yet."

As for Florida State, Jones added that "if Bobby Bowden (the Head Coach) did all the recruiting, they wouldn't lose a single player from Florida. But unfortunately he doesn't do it all."

Vaccarella anchored a defensive line in 1979 that only improved as the season progressed, in the ninth game allowing eventual state AAAA champion Merritt Island only 14 points in a 14-0 loss. Wright played opposite Vaccarella at the other defensive tackle slot, and together they became the most highly recruited pair of defensive tackles from the same team in the history of the Southeast.

FFMC, Hughes already planning for state title

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Saturday morning the parade is scheduled to begin to Langford Park, where over the next four weeks, hundreds of youngsters will sign up to play either baseball or softball. There is no conflict as the two sports peacefully coexist at the park like Florida and Georgia do in the United States.

The formula is simple. With few exceptions, boys play baseball and girls play softball. You can't argue with it because it is a formula that works. Yet if Frank Hughes had his way, baseball and softball would be played, with both boys and girls playing in both sports.

Hughes is the mastermind behind Jensen Beach's 16-18 year old junior softball team, sponsored a year ago by First Federal Savings and Loan of Martin County (FFMC, for short). He claims that, contrary to what many believe, softball and baseball can and do mix.

"It's got a lot to offer as far as its competitive nature," said Hughes Monday night, already gearing up for his team's 1980 assault on the 16-18 year old championship of Florida, a title that barely eluded the Bankers in 1979. "It hasn't hurt anybody as far as I can see. In fact, it may have helped some people. Defensively, it has helped everyone."

Hughes, who coached baseball at Langford Park until a lengthy illness forced him out of it three years ago, then returned to lead the band of mostly Jensen Beach youngsters who decided they needed a coach, is a firm believer in the sport of softball, especially at the junior level.

Many of the original crew will be playing their final year in 1980, having turned 18. So Hughes will attempt to plant the seeds for what he hopes will be a healthy softball program.

"It's going to be tough after this year," Hughes commented. "That's why I'm starting a 13-15 year old team this season. We want to get some kids interested in softball, then we'll be going strong. On the 16-18 year old team, I'm going to carry 15 players, and try to work in a lot of 16 year olds."

Hughes is hoping that FFMC picks up the squad's sponsorship again this year, but even if they do, he'll need another one for the younger team. As far as players go, he's got more than he ever dreamed of.

Most of last year's second place team will be back, though third baseman Malcolm Delancy and outfielder Henry Harrel will be gone. Hughes feels the most important improvement that must be made involves the infield.

"We need to find some strong infielders," Hughes stressed. "We need some real heavy hitters that play the infield. Strength will be very important this year. Chris Crook is one player who has gotten a lot stronger, although Gregg Sprauer lost a lot of weight so he can play basketball (at Martin County). We'll have to fatten him up."

Last year, First Federal was 5-8 in tournament competition, but the figures are deceiving. Subtract a pair of heart thumping defeats to the state champions, Starke, and the rest were against men's teams. FFMC played in three men's tourneys before their trip to Satellite Beach for their ultimate challenge one that turned into a partial success. The Bankers left Cocoa, Coral Springs and host Satellite in their wake with losses to Starke in the first and final rounds on each end.

First Federal, assuming their name is still the same, has been invited to Tifton, Georgia, where they will play in a tournament in early June. But Hughes adds that by then, we want to have about two tournaments under our belts." FFMC will also get a crack at Starke, which will complete the two team invitation list from Florida.

"We'll play in the men's tournaments again," said Hughes. "There aren't any junior tournaments in the state except for the state championships. We may try to host one ourselves, and we may even try to get the Fireworks tournament. There aren't too many people left that want to run that.

First Federal, a solid defensive team that suddenly came around at the plate during last year's state tourney, rates as an early favorite to capture the state title and advance to the National Championships, hosted last year by St. Louis, where Starke finished seventh.

"It'll be a lot of hard work," added Hughes. "It will require a lot of fund raising (beginning with a rummage sale in May), but it's a good thing we've got going. A lot of guys at the high school have expressed an interest in playing this year, and if they don't pick up the state tourney over there somewhere in the Bradenton area that region gets this year's first option), we might even get that."

To celebrate 5 decades of shopping pleasure

IT'S PUBLIX 50TH ANNIVERSARY SALE.

1930 1980

There was never a tougher year to start a new business than 1930. It was the Great Depression.

But George Jenkins believed that a "better idea" could survive even the roughest road to success.

And he was right.

The better idea that launched the first Publix Market in 1930 was a simple one. Make shopping a "pleasure" instead of a chore, and customers will come back.

Now, 50 years and 238 markets later, customers all over Florida keep coming back to Publix.

And Publix wants to say, "Thank you, Florida" for letting us grow through 50 years with you.

We'll work harder than ever to make the next 50 years even more of a pleasure for you.

LUCKY SYMBOLS—Charles and Ruth Salisbury, owners of Charles Studio, are hoping these Chinese symbols will fulfill their meaning for the annual Martin Memorial Hospital Ball, to which they are again contributing their services. The ball theme "Chin Hua" means China Flower, and the symbols represent Good Fortune, Longevity, Happiness, and Good Luck. The ball will take place March 15 at Sandpiper Bay, with proceeds to furnish needed sophisticated equipment for the hospital.

QUESTION
How and where does rust start?

ANSWER

Rust starts anywhere. Rust is formed by the union of oxygen in the air with iron or steel by a process called oxidation. Moisture is an important agent in producing the change. Anywhere you have unprotected metal parts, oxygen, and moisture, you can and probably will have rust, but rust may not always be evident. Rust can form inside hollow metal parts, below metal surfaces, and inside hidden seams.

St. Lucie sailor Peter Commette is an Olympic hopeful

BY MICHELLE NASPINSKI

Despite President Carter's recent ultimatum regarding a United States boycott of the 1980 Olympic games, one Port St. Lucie sailor is training daily for the eventuality that the games go on with U.S. participation.

Peter Commette is a 26 year old Finn sailor who placed 11th in the 1976 Olympic games for the Laser class. With a good deal of work and an equal amount of outside sponsorship, he hopes to make the 1980 Olympic team for the Finn division.

The Finn is one of six sailing classes traditionally represented in the Olympics.

Commette learned, however, that all the Finns, Lasers and tramps in the world cannot get an American athlete into the games if he lacks sponsorship.

According to Commette, some $10,000 was already spent in financing his upward battle toward the elusive goal of Olympian competition, and another $6,000 is needed for a tightly budgeted effort.

Although his sister, Joyce Melton, is heading a campaign for small contributions from her home in Ft. Pierce, Commette explained that this effort could not possibly provide all the funding necessary to make the team.

In addition to training and living expenses, and upkeep on his boat, Commette revealed that there are steep fees for each Regatta (or boat race) he must participate in.

Commette recently contacted General Development Corporation for a possible sponsorship, but GDC head of corporate communications Otis Wragg said Thursday that the corporation has never entertained such a suggestion in the past and no decision has yet been reached on Commette's request.

Although a native of New Jersey, Commette has lived either in the back of his van or in his parent's home in Sandpiper Bay Commette trains daily in Sandpiper Bay Marina and in similar facilities in Ft. Lauderdale.

A graduate of Tufts University in Medford, Mass., Commette had taken a year off from his post graduate studies at John Marshall Law School in Chicago to train for the Olympic games.

While he is certainly hoping the United States will participate in the 1980 games, Commette said he will be satisfied with whatever decision President Carter reaches.

Separation of the Olympics and politics is an ideal but only that. The Olympics and politics are inextricably caught up with each other," Commette commented. whatever is politically sound would dictate whether we participate or not.

Still, Commette has an impressive list of sailing credentials that he would undoubtedly like to top with an Olympic gold medal, and at 26, the 1980 games are probably his last chance to accomplish that feat.

Although he was sailing competitively while still in high school, one of Commette's first big wins came in 1973, when he placed second in the World Championships. In 1974, Commette won the World Championships in Bermuda for the Laser Sailing class, and in 1975 he won the North American Interclass Sail Championships.

Commette swept the North American Junior Championships in 1976 and won the Finn Olympic trials. Three days after he made the U.S. Olympic team for the Laser class and finished 11th.

Commette's sailing record continues up until the present, as he won the 1979 United States Yacht Racing Union North American Single Handed Championships. The Port St. Lucie sailor will be facing Regattas in Tallahassee, Miami, Nassau and Balboa, California in the upcoming months.

With sponsorship and a good showing in these races, Commette may have a fair shot at Olympic competition.

Unfortunately for Commette and scores of other American athletes, commercial sponsorship money, as advertised by some corporations on national television, does not become available until after an Olympic hopeful has made the team.

Getting cheesy, explained Commette, "you have to divide your time almost equally between training and soliciting funds.

"If they (companies that sponsor athletes) were as philanthropic as they advertised, the money would be distributed to worthy potential Olympic athletes in the years preceding the trials."

Commette said that too much of the sponsorship money is spent on expensive uniforms and making athletes comfortable at the Olympic Village. If the funds were spent on promising athletes, Commette believes the improvement would be noticeable.

"We might not be as well dressed at the Olympics," he concluded, "but then anyone looks good in gold."

Holiday Out Shufflers now tied for second

After eight weeks of play in the Central Shuffleboard League, the Causeway team still leads the pack after posting a 4-0 win over Wispering Creek on Wednesday, Jan. 16.

Holiday Out moved up into a tie with Orchard Acres for second place as a result of a 3-1 win over Port St. Lucie.

Orchard Acres split with Spanish Lakes, leading Spanish Lakes in fourth place.

Ocean Breeze Park lost 3-1 to Fort Pierre, but OBP remained in fifth place.

Stuart, Fort Pierce, Pine Lake Village, and Whispering Creek are all bunched closely behind the leaders.

and Satellite) play a little tougher competition in that area, but we should hold our own."

The Lady Tigers certainly proved they could do that Monday night, though they lost a Suncoast Conference Eastern Division game to Forest Hill, 69-59. Crucial turnovers and missed opportunities cost the Aerailers a chance for a win. Nevertheless, it was an improvement over their first effort against the Falcons (6-5 overall, 6-3 in the East), a 63-32 defeat.

Alley's squad had earlier defeated Fort Pierce Central, 48-44, and lost to Glades Central, 59-33, in the Glades game. All-State candidate Joy Burroughs blistered the Tigers for 22 points, while Gloria McIntyre led the home squad with 13.

Nettles Island golf scramble

The Nettles Island Couples Golf Scramblers played Sunday, Jan. 27 at the Holiday Country Club. Several couples cancelled out due to 50 percent chance of rain but the die hearts played. Believe it or not all holes were played through a shower or two.

Low gross scores for the day were Jack White and Pat Hawthorne/62. Second low gross was Betty Reardon and John Zinser 67.

Port St. Lucie Anglers will view movie

Those in attendance will be entertained by a movie entitled "Treasure Salvors of the Florida Keys", when the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club meets on Tues., Feb. 5, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will take place at the North Port St. Lucie Marina on Prima Vista Blvd. Fishing reports are always discussed.

Remember to purchase your tickets for the coming installation dinner dance to be held at the Stuart Elks Club on Colorado Avenue, on Thurs., Feb. 14. The Tune Toppers will furnish the music. We cheerfully welcome visitors and prospective members to our meetings. Refreshments will be served following the meeting and movie by host and hostess Floyd and Clara Gillem.

Sandpiper pro-am

A pair of vacationing pro golfers shared top prize and top money in the bi-monthly Sandpiper Bay Pro-Am event staged on the championship Saints course Friday when each posted like tallies of two under par 70's. Collecting top money of $90 each were Stan Brion of Michigan and "Cookie" DeAndrea of Middletown, N.Y.

Host pro Chuck Johnson reported that 160 golfers competed including 45 pros and 115 amateurs with play continuing from dawn to dusk. The next scheduled Pro-Am will be played Friday, Feb. 8, again on the Saints' course.

Two teams finished in a tie at 24-under par 120 in the Pro-Am two Best Ball. Billy Close, asst'r pro at Indian Hills C.C., Fort Pierce, led Ken Snow, Jack Hudson and John Wozneski while Vince Pompa of Boca Raton showed the way for John Vecler, Jim Stark and Ray Klinke.

One shot off the pace of the winners included teams led by Rob Cruso of Sandpiper and Joe Ennis of Long Island. The amateurs were Dan Smozanek, Jack Early, Harry Mingus, Jim Patterson, Mike Sandy and Howard Hickman.

Vero Beach assistant pro Steve Napoli had Tom Chapman, Jack Luby and Russ Barban together for 22 under par while a pair of teams finished deadlocked 21 under with pros John Bucik and Larry Rinker paving the way for Dick Gralka, Fran Pearsonsgbt, Frank Volgstadt, Mike Feltz, Bill LoBrutto and John Dreyer.

Greg Carulli, asst'r at Sandpiper finished one shot out of the money despite a closing nine of 33.

BROKEN SEAWALL—Plans to repair this Hurricane David damaged seawall at Ocean Breeze Park have drawn objections from two groups. Though OBP Mayor and owner Gene Hoke only wants to replace a 600 foot long section of the seawall, a mistake in a Corps of Engineers description of the project says the plans call for replacing 1,760 feet of the wall.

Bus line may come to Jensen if public shows it's needed

BY BOB FRYER

Treasure Coast Bus Lines president Jake Reddick says he hopes to extend bus service from the Fort Pierce area into the south St. Lucie County area, and on Tuesday morning, he said he is considering the possibility of bringing the service into the Jensen Beach area.

Last week bus line officials met with several civic groups in Port St. Lucie to determine the need for service to that city, and so far, response seems to be pretty good.

Reddick says he has state permission to expand his Fort Pierce based bus line into the south St. Lucie County area within 90 days, and he commented Tuesday, "I hope we can do that within 60 days."

When asked about the feasibility of bringing the line into Jensen Beach, he said it is a definite consideration, adding that much depends on the demand in Jensen for the service. One 4 route now under consideration is to bring buses down A1A from Fort Pierce to the Jensen Beach Causeway, then route them up Indian River Drive to Fort Pierce. "I have had a number of working people along the drive who have expressed interest in getting a bus ride to work in Fort Pierce," Reddick said.

Fred Wiggin, an officer of the Port St. Lucie chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, has been working to drum up Port St. Lucie support for bringing the buses into the city. He said that a number of working residents seem to want the service in order to get to and from jobs in Fort Pierce.

Reddick said that in addition to bringing buses to Port St. Lucie, he is considering extending them beyond Port St. Lucie to Commercial Street, then down Commercial to the down town Jensen area. And, he said if enough mobile home park residents expressed an interest, it is possible the buses could make stops there. He said that no additional state permission is needed to extend the service up to three miles south of the south St. Lucie County line.

Ken Tilton of Paneluke Village said the response from that mobile home park to bus service would depend on where the buses would go. But, he said if park residents could conveniently get to and from the downtown area by bus, "I think they would definitely go for it. The park residents seem to be very conscious of the amount of gas they are using. They're sharing rides for shopping and even within the park they seem to be riding to events on their bikes rather than using cars as much as they did."

Gene Hoke, owner and mayor of Ocean Breeze Park, had a different reaction. "I doubt it very much," he said when asked if he felt the park residents would use the bus service. "It has been tried a number of times in the past and has never worked. The Council on Aging has courtesy buses the needs. Of course, with the gas situation the way it is, maybe it would go over here," he said.

Al Byrsad of Tropical Acres park said he did not know what the reaction of park residents would be to the bus line, but said he would check at a Tuesday night bingo game to see if they were interested.

Dick Campbell, president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the idea of bus service for Jensen.

"I believe any effectively and properly promoted bus service can be a boon to Port St. Lucie and Jensen Beach. The merchants of Jensen Beach would welcome an opportunity to have their customers in Port St. Lucie be able to come by bus. It would be an energy saver and would lessen traffic congestion," he said.

Campbell added, "I believe the people of Outdoor Resorts of America, Holiday Out, Windmill Village and the condominiums on the island would use the bus service to come to Jensen Beach if it were properly promoted and made visible that it would be feasible. The elderly would especially appreciate it, and I feel the residents of Riverside Village and Ocean Breeze Park would use it, just for going to the market."

When Reddick discussed bringing bus service into Port St. Lucie and Jensen Beach, he said the possibility of doing so, and the decisions on what routes to take, depend very much on the demand area residents show for the service.

In an attempt to determine the local demand for bus service, a questionnaire appears in today's issue of The Mirror. If you are, or are not, interested in bus service for your area, please fill it out.

Ocean Breeze Park seawall plans draw two objections

Although Ocean Breeze Park Mayor Gene Hoke says that what the objectors are objecting to was never planned to begin with, the objections will still be registered.

If that sounds confusing, don't worry, because confusion seems to shroud what Hoke figured would be a fairly simple request to repair Hurricane David damage to his park.

On Labor Day, 1979 David slammed into the Jensen Beach-Ocean Breeze Park area and left the communities devastated. Included among the havoc wrecked was damage to a seawall at Ocean Breeze Park along the Indian River.

Hoke says he wants to replace the damaged portion of the seawall with a new one before the next hurricane season comes. So, he hired engineer Ken Ferrari to survey the damage and come up with plans to fix it.

Ferrari says about 800 feet of the old seawall is damaged too badly to repair, so he submitted plans to the State Department of Environmental Regulations and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for construction of a new seawall for the damaged 600 foot section.

Ferrari says the DER received the plans and described those plans accurately in a notice to the public seeking comments on the project. However, the DER was to send a copy of the plans to the Corps, but apparently lost the plans. So, Ferrari says he sent plans to the Corps and that when he received a notice to the public from the Corps, there were mistakes in the description of the project.

Ferrari called Corps project manager Jim Bajek in Jacksonville and says, "I told him what they'd done wrong and he said to send him a letter and the Corps would send out an addendum to the greensheet (notice to the public describing the project)."

Instead, Ferrari says he got a message one day that Bajek had called to say no new greensheet would be issued, but that if anyone objected to the project, they could call him and he would explain the error in the greensheet.

But two local groups have gone on record objecting to the project, and the erroneous project description in the greensheet may have been the catalyst for bringing about the objections.

The greensheet states that the project calls for the building a new seawall for 1,760 feet, the entire length of the waterfront land at the park, and that the entire wall is to be built 20 feet farther out in the river than the existing seawall. On Saturday, the Port Salerno chapter of the Organized Fishermen of Florida voted to send an objection to the project to the Corps before the Feb. 13 deadline for sending them in. And, on Monday night, the Martin County Angler's Club took a unanimous voice vote to send in an objection.

Ferrari says as a result of those objections, he will now get an attorney to send a certified letter to Bajek asking for the Corps to send out a corrected greensheet. He added that the Corps has caused him a lot of frustration as a result of the error and indicated he felt there may have been no objections if the project description had been correct. He said the project as he drew it does call for moving the 600-foot section of the seawall 20 feet further out, but he says this is necessary in order to provide room for the work to be done.

"We need the extra 20 feet just so we can get trucks in there to dump the fill. Otherwise, it would require removing a lot of trailers that are secured to foundations or using a crane to lift fill over the trailers. The old seawall can't be repaired and the plan is to push it down and build a new one 20 feet out. We had FIT do an environmental study and they showed the river grass starts about 25 feet out, so we are planning to leave a five-foot buffer between the new wall and the grass," he said.

Bob Hemberger, president of Angler's Club said two club members contacted Hoke and learned of the mistake in the greensheet, but he said it was decided to call for the objection to the plans anyway. "We have no objection to his repairing the seawall to make it the way it was, but our attitude is to play it safe. If we didn't object to the plans as the Corps shows them, the project could have been built that way," he said.

Hemberger noted that he feels the club would object to the plans as Ferrari originally submitted them, stating, "Even the 600 feet we'd object to, but not as much as the 1,760 feet." Later, he commented, "We're being careful, not vicious, about it."

Ferrari said he did not know how long the project may be held up due to his planned request for a corrected greensheet, but he said Hoke was hoping to have the new seawall in by the time the next hurricane season rolls around.

"I live on the point, and the waves are splashing about eight to 10 feet from our place," Hoke said, adding that he fears if the wall is not in by the next storm season, some trailers may be lost.

Driver license is the key to checks-credit

BY DICK CAMPBELL

"Many people we put in jail have other people's credit cards on them," said Lt. Bill Scott. A driver's license with a picture on it is the best answer to stolen credit cards or bad checks, he added.

Scott made a presentation to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce monthly coffee club at Susie's Ice Cream Parlor Tuesday morning, outlining procedures to reduce the loss through fraudulent credit cards, bogus checks and stolen travelers checks.

Scott told Chamber members to watch persons countersigning travelers checks, making certain that the second signature line on the check is not signed, and watching to see that the check is not switched to a pre-signed check in the process.

He added that if there is any question in the mind of the clerk, a third signature should be required on the back of the check. He gave all attending a kit of materials from American Express showing how to prevent fraud in travelers checks.

In credit cards, Scott said to check the back of cards for the signature of the person charging. That, matched with the driver's license information and photo of the person on it should insure that it is a valid card.

"Many people locally go into debt, and start using credit cards to live. If someone starts doing that, check around so that you do not end up with a bad debt loss," he said.

Scott also urged the merchants to talk to each other and exchange credit information about suspect persons.

When told to "pick up" a credit card by the card company, Scott said that if the customer becomes belligerent to let him go with the card, remembering the description of the person and, if possible the auto and license number. Then, call the "911" sheriff's department number so that the deputies can follow up on the person.

The special projects officer of the sheriff's department said he was amazed at the low number of bad checks passed in Martin County.

On a check marked insufficient funds, Scott said that a call to the person usually brings an embarrassed return of the money.

However, stolen checks and closed account checks are a violation of the law, and such checks should be given to the sheriff's department for prosecution.

"Do not take partial payment, and of all things, do not take a pre-dated check. The state will not prosecute in such cases," Scott said.

He warned against letting a young person cash a social security check, and to warn the sheriff's department of the attempt without proper identification.

The Chamber coffee was sponsored by Susie's Ice Cream Parlor and The Tiger Touch gift shop.

TRICKS TO BE AWARE OF

QUESTION: A friend of mine said that he had been able to make the rent roll appear larger when he sold his apartment building a couple of months ago. My concern is this: If someone can magnify the rents that he is receiving from an apartment building through some devious means, how can I protect myself against this chicanery?

ANSWER: I understand your concern. Unfortunately, there are occasional sellers who will project a distorted rent roll by giving rent concessions prior to putting their property on the market. Knowing that investors in income property such as apartment buildings estimate the value of that property on its ability to produce income, these owners will give a rent concession to new tenants coming in. This is how it works.

The owner of the property, knowing that the market value of his apartment is $400, for example, will say to the tenant, "I will give you one month's free rent, which is like taking $400 off your cost of renting for the next year. In return, you will pay me $430 per month, so in the remaining 11 months you will pay me only an extra $330. So in the course of the year you are $70 ahead of the game."

Since the rental income appears on the surface to be $30 a month greater, the resultant annual income on the basis of this rent roll appears to be increased by $360. If, for example, there are 10 apartments in the building, then the overall rent roll will be increased by $3,600. In evaluating the worth of the property, an investor might end up paying thousands and thousands of dollars more because of this little bit of trickery.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0747, or stop by:

Venture Three

BY VIRGINIA SHINSKE

Venture Three "Bowling for Fun" had 24 bowlers this past week. The women have been sweeping the high games the last several weeks. Marion Asline showed everyone up with a 197. Top mens game went to Marv Russell with a 183. Marion and Doctor had Gloria and Ray Schindler of their home town, Bay City, Michigan visiting with them and brought them along. They had a good time bowling along with the Venture 3 bowlers. Doctor was also with them and cheered Marion on.

In the Jack Pot games, Marv Russell won first game with 183, Ray Schindler second with 167 and Elmer Mauer third with 159. On the new Bowlers List were Rita and Muriel Luzon, Laura and John Ansebit, also Sally Perres who was a guest of Cara Lee and Ward Irwin. Art Master who hasn't been out of the Hospital too long came down to join us. Another good cheering member showed up, Paul Guillette who is also recovering from a recent stay at Martin Memorial. Sure glad to see them both on the road to recovery. We missed Scotty Hiner this week who was down with the flu. Also missing were Red and Shirley Kerwin and Floyd Reynolds and Edna Wilson.

To all my readers I have been attacked by the popular 'Flu plus a secondary infection hanging on. Being bedridden and incapacitated over a week, I've been unable to gather or write my weekly news for you. Hopefully I will return next week. Your calls would be helpful.

Shacter sees coal, nuclear as solution to energy crunch

BY BOB FRYER

Unless our nation starts to rely more heavily on coal and nuclear power, rather than oil, for its energy needs, we are in serious trouble.

That seems to be the essence of what John Shacter, national energy coordinator for the Association for Cooperation in Engineering, is telling everyone he possibly can.

Shacter has been vacationing in the Jensen Beach Port St. Lucie area for the last few weeks, and even though he is on vacation, he has been busy spreading his message to the media and local organizations.

Shacter notes that the Association he represents is comprised of about 20 national engineering and technical societies with a combined membership of more than three-quarters of a million persons. And, he says polls at numerous conventions of those societies show about a 10 to one preference among engineers for coal and nuclear power as the means to solve our national energy crunch.

When asked if his prediction for the energy future for the United States was gloomy or optimistic, he replied, "It's not gloomy if we do the right things and utilize what we've got. The gloomiest part about it is we can do something, but we aren't. We're presently doing too little, too late."

As Shacter sees it, our national energy problem stems from the fact that while our population and our standard of living expectations are rising, the world's supply of oil is diminishing.

He notes that oil represents 75 percent of the nation's energy source, and says that most engineering estimates indicate that the world's supply of oil will run out in a matter of decades. "And, oil is not going to get any cheaper as the demand for it grows," he said.

"It's stupid and dangerous to talk about conservation and solar power to help ease the problem," he noted, explaining that the development of solar power on a practical basis for mass usage is too far off to help ease the problems over the next few decades and that even if we are conservative in the use of oil, the supply of oil is still likely to be used up in a relatively few number of decades.

"Coal and nuclear (power) are both sources which we have the technology to use on a greater scale today. We are one of the few nations blessed with an abundant supply of coal; enough to supply our energy needs for many decades. And, with breeder reactors, we would have thousands of years of supply," Shacter said, but then added that instead of increasing our use of those energy sources, "We're on a Jane Fonda strategy, without ever voting to take that path."

Shacter says he feels we need to develop solar power, geothermal power, wind power, and a number of other sources of energy, but he says we don't have the technology to make them feasible sources of energy in the immediate future.

He admitted that there are disadvantages to nuclear power and coal power, but he says they are the "most realistically available" sources we have with today's technology to reduce the nation's dependence on oil.

"Every other major nation is going nuclear, with breeder reactors. They have to because they don't have the coal. We have the option of going with coal awhile, then going nuclear," he said.

He said the "well motivated and highly emotional fringe that thinks we can go into the future with a perfect solution is extremely costly to this country."

"Nuclear (power) is more expensive in this country than it needs to be. It takes about 14 years from scratch to build a plant in this country and about one third of that time in other countries. The extra 10 years are enormously expensive," Shacter commented.

Shacter blamed the profession of engineers for not getting their message across on solving the country's energy problems, and he said it is the engineers who the nation must depend on to come up with realistic solutions. And, he said, in his judgment, the national media has also not scored well in explaining the energy situation.

Though automobiles are thought of today as causing problems by their dependence on oil products, Shacter says at one time the auto was seen as a solution to a problem that threatened us in another age. [illegible] wrote a paper on the problem of horse manure in New York City and concluded that at the rate horses were being used, there would, in the not too distant future, be no place to store the horse manure. So, we solved an environmental problem that threatened another age when we came up with the car, he said.

A library in Jensen?

Discussions are beginning toward the establishment of a branch of the Martin County Public Library in Jensen Beach. Initial responses to a request of Lee Hennings, librarian, indicate there is interest.

The location and size of the facility would be most important to the success it could bring. Hennings is researching the necessary information and should have a proposal within a few weeks.

In the meantime, the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce is discussing the project informally, and will take it up at the Chamber board meeting next Monday.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha has offered support to the project, and might key it to the further expansion of Langford Park, a most centrally located place.

At the same time, it is possible that the library might be coordinated with the excellent facility at Florida Institute of Technology, already available to the residents of the county.

There is much to be done before a branch library can be established in Jensen Beach. Most of all, public support and potential use must be shown.

Causeway cooperation

Problems with the intersection of Indian River Drive and Causeway Boulevard were partially resolved recently through the cooperation of Charles Carr, owner of Poor Bob's Restaurant and the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

It is that kind of cooperation that is an excellent example of how people can work together to solve community problems.

Delivery trucks were blocking the view of those motorists making right or left turns out of Causeway Blvd. into Indian River Drive. Carr was approached by the Chamber, and offered to have the trucks unload across the street in Poor Bob's parking lot.

Problem solved.

Many such minor problems can be solved by people working together in the best interests of the community. This is an excellent example, for which we salute the Chamber of Commerce and Poor Bob's Restaurant.

Let it be fair

Watching the long lines at the gas stations and the frustrated expressions on the faces of motorists these days makes it redundant to say that the current gas crunch is a pain in the neck. Nonetheless it is, both for the general public and for the general economy of the entire area.

And particularly for this area. Travelers returning from other parts of the state are reporting little or no difficulty in obtaining motor fuel, with gas station lines lanes open and service prompt. Let's face it, Martin County is a victim, not only of bad judgment but bad politics.

The basis problem, wholesalers tell us, is that the federal moguls arbitrarily set out quota at 80 percent of the amount consumed two years ago at the same time. They failed entirely to take into consideration that this is one of the fastest-growing areas in the state, and by the same token becoming a more populous tourist area.

In their shortsightedness, they also failed to consider one of our most important tourist industries — fishing. Without the fish, without the boating and the beautiful waters to sail on, our drawing power would reach a disastrous low, and the state of our economy even lower. Yet the marinas are suffering from lack of gas more than any other one segment of our economic populace.

As one marina owner bemoaned this week, "We got 1,000 gallons of gas last month, and only 350 this month. We can't help anybody."

We realize the county commission is doing its belated best to rectify the situation, and is enacting ordinances which they consider equitable to everyone. But are they? Are they giving enough consideration to the marinas, the charter boats? And if not, why not? Can't they be made to see that this segment of our population is as important, perhaps more so, than the people clogging the lines at the highway gas pumps?

It is to County Commission Chairman Maggy Hurchalla's credit that wheels have been set in motion. She has met with Congressman Skip Bafalis' aides and the Department of Energy to give them the message of need.

"We're trying to get an extra allotment for this county," she told The Mirror. "We got across our point that Martin County is the hardest hit, and in the greatest need of help."

But as yet, no promises have been forthcoming from DOE.

The only answer is noise, and lots of it, from you readers. If you have views, constructive or otherwise, on the current crisis, WRITE your congressmen. You, the voters, put them in office, and you, the voters, can usher them out again unless they find a fair way to solve our problems.

Letter to the editor

To the Editor:

I have just finished reading your January 30, 1980 feature editorial, "Is it time for a war?" Yes, I believe it is, but a nuclear war, OBLIVION. The perfect answer to all our problems.

Our D.O.D. (Dept of Defense?), (Dept't of Destruction?!), (Death on Delivery?) policy appears to be that we are all expendable, that we must destroy the world in order to save it.

Come to think of it the earthlike Rev. Jones of Guiana seems to have been a man ahead of his time — but not by much.

Uncle Stevie, please help

To: Steve Mitchell, columnist
Palm Beach Post
Palm Beach, Florida

Dear Uncle Stevie:

I read your primer on the training of ambassadors, and certainly did appreciate what you are doing to help the ambassadorial appointments of President Carter.

If Ambassador Richard Koenig had had the information you had in your primer, he certainly would have been better equipped to serve the best interests of the United States in Singapore — especially the part about the cannons facing the sea.

Knowing that all columnists are all knowing, and that your special knowledge of protocol in high places must have resulted in more than one primer for ambassadorships (what ever), I am going to accept your offer to write to Uncle Stevie.

I did what you said to do. I drew a picture of a cow, an island and a gun. I have done my homework.

I have just been asked by the Martin County Commission to accept the appointment as ambassador to Jupiter Island.

Jupiter Island is an island republic just like Singapore. It has the Atlantic Ocean on the east, the Intracoastal Waterway on the west, the St. Lucie Inlet on the north and Jupiter Inlet on the south. It is about fifteen miles long and from a half mile to a little dab wide, so it isn't very big.

Jupiter Island is inhabited by people who emigrate from bank vaults and large estates, mostly from New York and New England. They do speak English, though their primary tongue is Money.

Having done my home work I know that they are very conservation minded. They love the wilderness and have taken all the land on the south end of their island republic and made it into Blowing Rocks, and all the land on the north end and made it into a wildlife preserve.

North of that is a new state park that will be developed for people to come to visit the ocean.

Along some of the land on the Intracoastal Waterway, they have set aside beautiful grassed areas and will allow no one to build there. They play golf on it.

Jupiter Island is ruled by a queen, her prime consort and a city council.

As you can see, I have done my homework.

My problem is this: how should I approach the preparation if I decide to accept the ambassadorship?

I do not speak Money. I have tried. God knows I've tried to learn to speak Money, but I have failed.

I went to Mr. Evinrude, who knows the language, and said, "Speak Money for me."

He replied, "$$$ecs. OutbrdM, NYSE, MCCulloch, ctf$ 15⅛ up ⅛."

"Oh," I replied.

He then said, "Dow Jones, 30 Inds 875.43. AMEX 245,000. S&P 500 Index."

I said, "Sir, do you think it possible that I could learn to speak Money?"

"You either have it or you don't," he said, and rode away into the sunset on his Cushman with the Rolls Royce grill.

Thus, Uncle Stevie, I turn to you. You must have in your "great file of stolen column ideas" an ambassador's primer for Jupiter Island.

I would hate to go down there, cross the bridge, drive down that stately line of trees and walk into the Jupiter Island Club to present my credentials without have the right words to say.

Imagine the boo boo if I would say something like "ere$$ AMEX Kennedy."

The queen would probably throw me out on my portfolio.

Please, Uncle Stevie, I have never asked you for anything, so, if you please, send me the Jupiter Island Ambassador's Primer. I am enclosing a self addressed, stamped envelope, but the postman will probably steal it before it gets there.

Sincerely yours,
Dick Campbell
Ambassador to be

Heavy matter

If you combined the weight of all humans on Earth and compared it with the weight of all the insects on Earth, the insects would outweigh the humans by twelve fold.

That's a little gem I gleaned from a federal government conservation booklet that passed across my desk recently.

I get all sorts of stuff in the mail, both at home and at work, which contains all sorts of worthless information.

I mean, who cares if the roaches, mosquitoes, flies, beetles and all their cousins weigh more than we do? And how does the federal government know insects weigh, collectively, 12 times more than we do. I don't recall the hordes of insects around my place every hopping on my bathroom scales. They're more commonly found in my kitchen. And in Florida, no doubt the insect capital of the nation, I imagine if someone did hold an insect weigh in, the roaches would outweigh us humans 20 to one.

But again, who cares? As long as they don't gang up on us, we'll remain the fly-swatters and they the swattees.

I guess we all need a little trivia in our lives though. Afterall, what would this world be like if our government officials spent their time working to achieve peace or studying ways to enrich our lives rather than figuring out how much heavier the insects are than us.

So, in the interest of keeping our world in its present state of disharmony, I bring you a few more worthless bits of trivia.

Robert E. Lee, the famous Confederate general, was buried before he was born — or at least that's what I've been told. Seems his mom was pregnant, went into a coma while her husband was out of town, and was thought to be dead. She was buried, then her hubby returned, had her dug up, and she lived to bear Robert.

The St. Johns River in Florida is the only one in the nation which flows north.

Buttons on jackets are commonly thought to be merely decorative, but years ago, French soldiers started the custom when their leaders ordered buttons on soldiers' sleeves to force them to use a handkerchief, not sleeves, to cure runny noses.

A socialist was elected to public office in Birmingham, Alabama, of all places, in 1915.

George Armstrong Custer graduated 35th in a class of 35 at West Point in 1861. No wonder he lost.

Timothy Leary, LSD exponent in the 1960s and author of the statement "Turn on, tune out, drop out", dropped out of West Point in 1941.

Iran led the world in importing arms in 1975.

Napoleon Bonaparte was an insomniac, but simply learned to get along with only three to four hours of sleep a night.

A computer analysis shows that Illinois Avenue is the most often landed upon space in the game of Monopoly.

Here are some local ones:

Did you know that black bear once roamed Hutchinson Island. Word has it that a Jensen Beach resident killed the last one on the island in 1935.

At one time Jensen Beach was the largest city between Titusville and Key West.

Early maps of this area do not show Stuart or Jensen Beach, but rather, Eden, as the principal commay here.

At one time Hutchinson Island was regarded as a major farming area in this region. Beans were one of the big island crops, but when locals tried their hand at pineapples, they found the soil along the ridge between the Indian River and the Savannas far superior. The result was that in the 1880s, this area was the nation's largest producer of pineapples.

And, just as an extra, here's one of Dick Campbell's favorites: Yak butter is the principal export item of Tibet.

Help us remember

Brother-in-law Charlie has done it again. And this time, with an idea I think I'm going to try to purloin from him, with your help.

Charlie Champlin, as you may remember me mentioning on every occasion possible, is entertainment editor for the Los Angeles Times, one of the largest and most prestigious city dailies in the country. And recently, he sent me a copy of the Christmas edition in which, with a page-one first hand story he describes with great accuracy and nostalgia a trip back to the hometown of his childhood, Hammondsport, N.Y.

Charlie, superb writer that he is, wafted me back into Hammondsport where I spent so many young summers and early autumns, through the ephemeral blue purple haze which makes love to the lake country with its mystic touch at that time of year, into the wineries and vinyards, and introduced me to the people of his past, a repertorial ghost from another age revisiting the land of Time Stand Still. In his article, which takes up four pages of the Times including photographs, he glances over the shoulder of his salad days as if he had been born knowing every word, every fact, he wrote.

Most interesting was his story of the wine industry, in those low-lying history-laden hills. He should know it well — his great uncle Charlie Champlin for whom he was named was daddy of the Pleasant Valley Winery, from whence has come the great champagnes of America —, Great Western.

And Charlie is more tolerant than I with the pollution of urban-sprawl into the winter's art — the vast ugly pepes spewing mash from the hillside which once was the cave and soul of the little old winemakers who never turned loose of a bottle "before its time."

It was particularly personal for a lot of us on this area, because during his sentimental journey, Charlie made his headquarters with our Jean and Bob Davis of Holiday Out. Bob and Jean own a motel at the end of Lake Keuka, where nestles the little village of Hammondsport. Jean tells me the motel was full, so she put the area's Favorite Son up on their big house, a privilege particularly appreciated by Charlie.

His "piece," the city editor noted, was one of several to be written by members of the Times staff with the courage to make a liar out of Thomas Wolfe by proving you CAN go home again.

Unfortunately for The Mirror, with its four writers including that most intrepid of all, our boseman Dick Campbell, such a series would be sorely limited in number. And I've already burdened you with my woes of trying to relate to my hometown of Wellsboro, Pa.

You may remember, on my auto train trip of a couple of years back, I found it hard to swallow the desecration of my old homestead, first racked by religion when it was gutted of its beautiful interior staircase and outside columns by a church group, then further improvised on when it became the office of the school board.

the disappearance of the old O'Conner house next door which held me in alternate awe and terror. the disappearance of the old bandstand and tree to tree benches from "The Green," (which I always considered my own personal front yard), and word that its innocent smoochers have been replaced by muggers.

True, the little St. Paul's Episcopal Church built by Great grandfather John L. Robinson was still there, and the public library was still housed in the gracious two story mansion given by Andy Mellon to the town for that purpose. But I wasn't happy about the changes — great grandfather's marble-columned bank taken over by some crass institution of lower commerce — the big Sherwood house at the bend prostituted into a motel.

The only haven of enduring peace was the cemetery, where ancestors and "old friends by an lasting ease," inviolable and unperturbed by the welter of that element called progress moiling about them outside the picket iron gates. To those rolling hills, tall scurdy trees and tidily tended headstones I could go home again — but not until.

So I'm calling on all of you who, this summer, may be looking homeward. Go with eyes alert and memories sharpened, and bring your reactions and observations back with you in the fall. Take a camera — not that we could use all your pictures, but a photograph is worth a dozen notebooks in jogging memories. You see more, too, with a camera as part of your diary. Then next fall, with your help we can start a series on what your hometown means to you. You'll be surprised to discover how many others share parts of your memories.

Speaking of Dear Readers and nostalgia, I have an apology and a request for one of you. My problem all surrounds my desk.

You have to know my desk in order to comprehend my problem. I don't quite understand it, but where ever I've worked, my desk has been a living legend. As far as I know, it is the only desk that has had an editorial written about it.

You see, I know exactly where everything is — it's right there on top of the desk. All the material about the Medical Ball is over there in a little pile toward the back, information about fishing is slightly to the right of it, and all my notes on immediate things to be done are stacked messily but firmly on the side of my type writer.

I was out a couple of days last week because of a malevolent bug, and I return to find that desecration has been perpetrated. My "immediate" pile had disappeared. The spot was bare. And in the missing material was a nice note from a reader I had on my mind to follow up on — telling me about a trip they'd taken and some pictures they wanted to show me. It hasn't materialized since, despite all my digging through the tidy mortas accumulated on other parts of desk. So if you're the one I'm talking about, give me a call. I sincerely want you to know you're not being ignored. You're lost.

More shades of nostalgia were brought into our living rooms Sunday night by one of our very own, when Frances Langford appeared as one of the stars chosen by Bob Hope for his delightful look back at shows given over the years by his troupe for our servicemen overseas. She deserved top billing for the numbers she did, especially the Silent Night finale.

She was beautiful then, and it makes us tingle to know that she's now right here in our midst, as beautiful as ever. She is indeed the star in Jensen Beach's crown.

Publix celebrates 50 years of pleasure

Publix Super Markets, Inc., the Florida food chain that spans the state from Tallahassee to Homestead, has launched the celebration of their 50th Anniversary.

Founder George W. Jenkins, still active today as Chairman of the Executive Committee, opened the first Publix store in Winter Haven, Florida, at the height of America's worst depression, 1930. Today that one store has multiplied over and over to the chain's current 235 supermarkets.

Jenkins, a native of Harris, Georgia, gave up the management of a very successful chain store in Winter Haven to open his own independent grocery store. He called his new venture "The Publix Food Store," borrowing the name from a chain of movie houses called "Paramount Publix Theaters."

"In the very beginning," says Jenkins, "I believed that people wanted a better place to shop for their food needs. I just knew that our staff of five could operate a better food store."

On January 29 and 24 all of the Publix managers met in Lakeland to kick off their company's Golden Jubilee. "An anniversary is more than a birthday party," Jenkins told his managers. "An anniversary provides us the opportunity to review and renew. We must review those factors which have been responsible for achieving our successful record of growth and service, but we must also renew our commitment to provide the best in customer service, to employ and train outstanding people, to offer top quality products that represent a good customer value, and we must continue to keep our stores clean and well stocked."

The 50th Anniversary is launched this week with a major advertising campaign that features the decade of the 1930's. William Schnurer, Vice President of Marketing for Publix, said, "This year we want to remind ourselves and our customers of the historical milestones of the past 50 years. But more important, we want to let our customers know that our goal continues to be making our stores truly the place Where Shopping Is A Pleasure."

Getting ready for the show and bake sale

Not much news this week. Everyone is busy getting ready for hobby Show & Bake Sale at this writing. Hope we have warmer weather on Tuesday than what we're having over the weekend.

Our February meeting will be held Wed. night at 7:30 p.m. at the hall, date 2-6-80.

Happy birthday to Lena McClintock and Fray Johnson.

Notice the gas situation is keeping everyone a little closer to home and grocery trips are being made in groups to save gas.

If you were snuggled under the warm electric blanket at 20 to 9 last Saturday you didn't stay warm very long when the electricity was off. Think the power company would be prepared for such emergencies when cold weather is forecast.

Bingo cover all winners were Hazel Brown and Dorothy Shapton on Tuesday night and Vivian Walker on Friday night.

Have you noticed how close the stars seem when you look up at them on a clear night? Makes you stand in awe of all that God created for us beings.

Fishermen are busy around their homes or catching up on reading, T.V. or some much needed sleep as the wind continue to blow.

Bill and Pauline Hay have returned from a two weeks Caribbean cruise. They enjoyed every minute of it.

Save those coupons you don't use and bring them to Hobby meetings to share with others who may use them.

PARK EVENTS

The Square Dancers have swapped times with Camera Club, so they can have Dale McCory call their dance on Thursday nights. It will be from 7:30 to 10:00 and the charge will be $ 2.50 per couple, starting, Feb 7. Dale has been calling in this area for years, so has a "following" that through arrangements with the park management will be able to dance to his calling each week as usual. It will be at "Main Stream" level with something for beginners and workshop as needed.

All OBP square dancers are urged to make this a grand success, as they've been asking for a caller for years, and they have an excellent one, the price is right, and it's a no gas needed affair, so let's make the clubhouse ring with laughter of 8 to 10 sets, as it has in bygone times.

The Camera Club members were glad to accommodate the square dancers with a change of days, when it was explained that the caller only had Thursday as an open day. So, starting Tuesday, Feb. 5, the Camera Club will meet every Tuesday at 7 p.m. So, as you read, this, the slide tour of Central America by Ernie Curwen will have taken place (and it is hoped the word of the change got around in time). Last Thur. Nina Zgeilhofer, president, showed National Parks of the west and Dixie damage, and it was her usual, excellent showing.

Next meeting will be Tues. Feb12, when Mr. & Mrs. James Gunn, who always have good slides, will have scenes of northern Washington state. Then, the following week, Ed Pettit (Organist) will have a slide show on the art of staining glass and the final week of Feb. Ernie Curwen will be back with his Galapagos Island and Amazone Jungle pictures. Also, don't forget the March dates, have been changed. Election now to be held, March 11 and the annual dinner will be March 18.

Shufflers did it again. Ran off with top prizes at District Amateur Doubles at Port St. Lucie, last week. Ted Witmer and Ella Lee, first; Bill Jones and Fran Runyan, third; consolation, Pete and Evelyn Hillman, first. Not bad? Congratulations.

Buckaroos posted January winners, as follows: P.T. Mathis, 11; Ralph Bailes, Pete Hillman & Syl Garing, 10 Pettercoats, for January were Pearl Wheelock, first; Dorothy Elliott and Fran Runyan, second; Dorothy Glazier and Evelyn Hillman, Third. The Indian River team regained first places with 67 points, to Spanish Lake's 65.

Golfers are a hardy bunch, when the northwind gave a chill factor of 14 they drove, chipped, and putted as usual, with these winners. Closest to pin, hole 2, E. Farnham and W. Osgood. Closest chip shot, hole 15, J. Cullen.

Ceramic Class with Betty Dean instructor, meets every Mon. & Fri., 9 a.m. in the Ceramic room. The classes will continue to Sept. 29, and beginners can join anytime. Reg. fee $5.00/mo. students are each making their own thing, many Christmas gems for next year. Belva gives individual attention, anyone can start anytime.

Bubbs class with Mary Ann Blanchard instructor meets 9:30 a.m. every Tues. & Thur. (with 30-45 students making angels, macrame dolls, birdhouses, or whatever is required as gifts for friends and relatives and for the Arts and Crafts show in March.

Golden Wedding Reception will be 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 24, and the following have signed up: M-M John E. Faust, M-M Louis Dodge, M-M Dick Gladden, and M-M Alden Durham.

Masters Day, March 2 will be a day long remembered by OBPers, the Benders of NE tenth St. say. But, that is all they will say, so if anyone does have authentic information, let me know.

HOSPITAL & OBITUARY

Still in the hospital Hilda Giblin (rm. 333) of 23 SW 6th St.... Hary Jewsberry (rm. 327) of 10 Mango Dr., Larry Moore (rm. 305) of Board and Batten.

The primary idea in traveling to a foreign country is to experience and become acquainted with another culture. But even the most enthusiastic travelers are prone to occasional bouts of homesickness. When that feeling sets in it is helpful to know where to find the American attractions. If you are visiting Paris and tire of the Latin Quarter and Parisian nightlife, you will find an American style bar called the Parrott on Boulevard St. Germain. Draft beer is rather expensive but the juke box plays American rock and other contemporary recording stars.

We need some some horse sense

BY ERNIE CURWEN

The gasoline problem was upper-most, of course, but the seniors really got loud-off on this item. "Queen of England paid $60,000.00 for not growing cotton on her Mississippi plantation", and here's what some were saying.

It's bad enough for the millionaire U.S. farmers to collect for doing nothing, but when the richest, foreign Queen gets on the gravy train, that's the limit. National AARP with 13,000,000 members should have clout enough to get Falkl in High Plares, on the ball, earning those high salaries. Remember, for years they have been telling us the very high salaries were necessary to get very high caliber personnel.

Well, these high salaried, high caliber folks have sure got us into a fine mess at home and abroad, the worst this country has ever known. What we evidently need is some mediocre people with plenty of horse sense and a will to lead us out of this mess, even if they never get elected again. That's what some of the seniors were chewing about last week.

Then, the discussion turned to, people and here was one suggestion. Develop a class of professional statesmen, similar to doctors, engineers, lawyers, ministers, etc., who have to train for years and pass all kinds of fitness tests. They might be able to govern better than someone who's main qualification is a bag full of money and a pleasing TV appearance. Most seniors more or less agreed, that this would be a good idea, but said let's be practical, what can we do right now, they asked each other.

One senior had this to say. If we don't know any outstanding things an official has done or have any doubts about his integrity, vote for a newcomer, an unknown, they might be better and sure couldn't be worse. As we can see, seniors were fed up to here with: gas lines, Afghanistan invasion, hostages in Iran, and promises of recession, unemployment and continued double digit inflation and they went from one disagreeable subject to another.

Many gave some thought to the Star Spangled Banner mentioned last week, and carried it one step further with comments about the recent emphasis on ethnic groups using only their native language in schools and substituting study American heritage for their native one. The seniors can well remember when USA was considered the "Great Melting Pot" and some can remember how proud the emigrant was, when with his broken English he could read the Declaration of Independence and recite the names of all the presidents.

That's the policy that made this the greatest nation the world has ever known, and one or two warned us, this establishment of separate ethnic groups is just a communist trick, to divide and conquer. Another senior figured that it has already started, as he brought out the following point.

Too many students don't want to register. Lucky for them, their dads and grand dads didn't feel that way, or they would be now shouting "Heil Hitler" or grumbling "Hello comrade". The seniors, in their day weren't afraid to fight and fight hard, so these present students could have the good things of life. It's a darn shame the seniors say, that some young folks of today, don't seem to care if their grandchildren have a decent world to live in.

The seniors can vividly recall, when they were told that Chamberlain's appeasement would prevent a World War. Well it didn't, and many seniors feel that any more appeasement now, will make a nuclear war inevitable. Of course, USA is in a mess right now and our optimism is at a low point, but still this is the best place around and worth fighting for, as attested by the number of foreigners daily risking their lives to get here, by hook or by crook. Let's keep it that way, they say.

Generally items of special interest to seniors are mentioned here, so they can take advantage of the information, but in this case it is a request for further enlightenment. What is HR 777? It's reported to give the public service unions more power so that strikes by firemen, policemen, teachers, sanitation workers, etc, will be more effective. If it is as bad as it sounds, the seniors better get their congressmen busy voting against it. Let's hear the full story.

Reservations open for cruise

Reservations are still open for the dinner cruise aboard the East Chop, planned for Feb. 16 by the Martin County Medical Society auxiliary, a spokesman said this week.

The cruise, which will begin at 7:15 p.m. sharp from the East Chop dock north of Roosevelt Bridge, is to be a fund-raiser for the annual MMH Ball and Fund Drive, currently underway. The price of the ticket will include buffet dinner and dancing. A cash bar will be provided.

Tickets may be obtained from the Jack & Jill Shop, the Town Shop, or any member of the auxiliary.

Proceeds will go into the hospital fund, goal of which is $100,000 this year, to purchase needed equipment for the hospital. The Ball itself will be held March 15 at Sandpiper Bay.

DEATH & TAXES

"Nothing is certain but death and taxes."
—Benjamin Franklin

This time of year there is no way we can avoid thinking about taxes. But most of us prefer to avoid discussing the topic of death.

Yet death is one of the certainties of life. It will come as surely as April 15, yet never quite as expectedly. And if you haven't had the foresight to prepare, the result is your family is left in a state of confusion as well as sadness. They will have to make tough personal and financial decisions at a time when least able to think about them rationally.

You can avoid this. Forest Hills Memorial Park has special gardens available for Veterans, Catholic, and non-sectarian, in addition to cremation niches and mausoleum internment available now. And while it may seem strange buying crypt space when you're healthy and full of life, you should make important decisions while you are calm and clear-headed. You also avoid the added cost inflation will certainly tack on to burials over the years. (If Benjamin Franklin were alive today he would probably add inflation to his list of certainties.) Procrastination will only force your family into purchasing in the future, when available facilities will surely be more expensive and less selective.

We have a trained staff of counselors who can help you with your burial plans. In addition, we offer a free Family Portfolio Record File, a guide that can help you assemble the kinds of essential information that becomes immediately necessary on death. For more information, or to make an appointment to tour our mausoleum and beautiful cemetery, fill out and mail the coupon below. Or call 287-8647. As Benjamin Franklin also said, "Never leave that till tomorrow which you can do today."

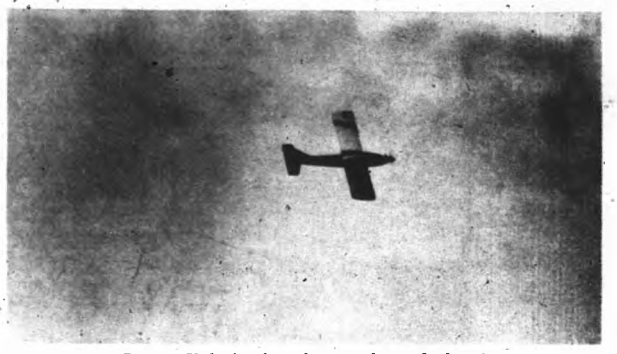
Taking off in Port St. Lucie



George Volin's plane buzzes through the air

M.C. Modelers soar the friendly skies

Marshall Mansfield and Dave Dickenson

Last week The Mirror brought you a feature on model boatbuilders.

This week, the spotlight is on airplane modelers.

For a number of years, airplane modeling enthusiasts took their crafts to Witham Field in Stuart to swap plane building ideas and give their aircraft a workout in the sky. But recently, when Grumman began expanding its facilities at the airport, the modelers were politely asked to find a new place to fly.

Presently, they're flying most every Sunday morning in western Port St. Lucie, but they plan soon to make a formal request to the Martin County Commission for a park area to be set aside for their hobby.

The modelers are members of the Martin County Modelers Club, but as club president John Cox explained, the club actually consists of members from throughout the area, from Jupiter to Vero. And, the club even has an associate member in The Hague in Holland who corresponds with them.

There are 38 club members as of the last count, and there is no typical age bracket or occupation that seems to categorize the members. Several members work at Grumman and Pratt and Whitney and one worked for Sikrsky, but others include a bank president, a bookkeeper and a carpenter. And, their ages range from 15 to several in their 70s.

"It's a sport for everyone, and for a lot of us, we get as much pleasure building our planes and sharing a spirit of comraderie as we do from flying the planes," commented Gil Stallings, club secretary.

Some of the members who have been flying model planes for years say the state of the art has vastly improved with the coming of the computer age. "When I first started we could just control the rudder. We had the old glass tubes in our radio controls," said George Volin of Sewall's Point.

Today, the modelers can control engine speed, ailerons, the rudder, elevators, and flaps and some even have devices for turning on and off lights, retracting landing gear or turning on smoke for skywriting. And, the materials for building planes have also improved over the years.

For anywhere from $350 to $550 you can get into the sport with pretty reliable equipment, and modelers say once you start, you're hooked.

The tiny engines are the same type the boat modelers use and are measured in hundredths of a cubic inch. They burn an alcohol, nitroglycerin and oil mixture and come in most any size. One club member built a plane with a nine foot wingspan, while another club member is working on an A-4 Skyhawk model that can reach speeds of 130 mph.

In addition to airplane modeling, many of the club members are also model glider hobbyists. The glider group meets Sundays in Palm City, and one club member said it's quite a challenge to get a glider up, then work the controls to ride the thermals.

So, next time you see a tiny object in the sky and you're sure it's not Superman, don't be so sure it's a bird.

Florida Institute of Technology impacts on the community area

BY DANIEL M. SASKOWSKY

This is the first in a series of articles on the impact that the Florida Institute of Technology has on the communities of Jensen Beach, Stuart, and the bi-county area of Martin and St. Lucie. Not only will these articles deal with hard facts and figures, but also with the intangibles of day to day interaction between the community and the campus.

Part One
The history

In August of 1972, Florida Institute of Technology acquired the entire campus of St. Joseph College in Jensen Beach.

The campus is situated on 84 acres on the banks of the Indian River in sub-tropical Martin County. Nestled amongst the Mela Leuca, Australian Pine, and a generous spattering of varios palm trees, are eighteen lecture classrooms, chemistry, biology, electrical and electronic laboratories, microbiology and medical technology laboratories, a photographic laboratory, an environmental laboratory, a lecture theater, machine and welding shops, diesel and outboard motor laboratories, and an ocean equipment and engineering laboratory. Two modern residence halls provide campus housing for students.

In addition to F.I.T.'s classrooms and laboratories, the school has a new dock reaching 750' into the Indian River. It is the home port for F.I.T.'s ocean vessels and river craft. Included in the fleet is the LCM-6, a 58' landing craft acquired from the Navy and modified to serve as a diver training vessel. The Aquarius, a 65' diesel powered steel research vessel, fully equipped and designed for long range ocean cruises, is docked here, also.

The campus also contains a modern library, a 26 meter swimming pool, a 20' deep diver training tank, and a diver training recompression chamber complex. The chapel, student center, cafeteria, tennis courts and athletic fields are all conveniently located on the grounds.

F.I.T. concentrates on developing skills in specialized areas of technology. F.I.T. believes in helping well motivated students to use every opportunity to learn self-reliance in developing their skills and knowledge to the highest individual potential. Reflecting a "hands on" approach to education, F.I.T. offers the following programs: Environmental Technology (Aquaculture or Science option), Oceanographic Technology, Medical Technology, Electronic Technology, Offshore Marine Technology, Underwater Technology, Engineering Technology- Petroleum Technology, and Photographic Technology. A Master of Business Administration course is offered in the evenings. Certificates are awarded in Outboard Mechanics, Welding, Diesel Repair, and Real Estate.

Employment, upon graduation, is a major consideration and all programs are developed in cooperation with industry. Over 75 percent of the students are employed immediately after graduation and are showing excellent progress in their careers. The combination of academic and practical technological skills is a contributing factor to their employability.

F.I.T. provides training and instruction in specialized areas. However, there are aspects of this institution that can not be confined by the walls of laboratories and classrooms. These 'secondary waves' flow thru the community, touching peoples lives on many levels.

Next week: The economic impact of f i t on the community.

Students react to draft registration plans of U.S.

With the cries of "Hell no, we won't go!" still a malignant memory in the minds of many U.S. citizens, the possibility of another draft looms as a distinct probability for many young Americans.

The students at F.I.T., like most college students around the country, are wondering how this new registration for the draft will affect them. Unlike the student deferments of the Viet Nam era, it is possible that a new classification system will be inaugurated that could eliminate any college deferments. Added to the new registration process could be the registration of women for the draft, an unprecedented occurance in U.S. history.

The current enrollment at F.I.T. this quarter is approximately 900 students. Of this number, there are about 600 male and 200 female students between the ages of 18 and 26. The remaining students are over 26 years of age or citizens of foreign countries and therefore not eligible.

An oral survey was taken on the campus at F.I.T. to determine the feelings of students to the possible registration. Slightly greater than 70% of the male students polled stated that they would register if ordered to do so. Over 50% said they opposed the draft but would register.

The majority of women polled stated that they could not offer themselves up to be drafted without the ratification of the 14th amendment, E.R.A.

"How can they (the U.S. government) expect us to offer ourselves up to the defense department when we can't get equal pay with men or exercise our rights over our own bodies!" commented one student who wished to remain anonymous.

Many students also brought up the point that if this country could push ahead with a program to become energy self reliant, then there would be no need to protect 'vital interests' in the Persian Gulf area which translates to 'oil fields'.

F.I.T. concert schedule

The Committee for the Performing Arts at F.I.T. inaugurated its third season on October 26th with a performance of the chamber ensemble, The Classici.

Continued financial support from the community, the Student Government Organization, and the Robert Lee and Thomas M. Chastain Charitable Foundation has permitted the Committee not only to improve the quality of the programs, but also to continue its policy of not charging admission.

The response from the community has been excellent. Almost 300 people attended the first concert and over 400 were present for the performances of the Woodwind Quintet of the Florida Philharmonic and the Christmas concert given by the Palm Beach Youth Symphony.

Dr. Gehring, the Chairman of the Committee, is particularly encouraged by the steady increase in the numbers of F.I.T. students taking advantage of this series. He feels that once these students get a taste of live performances by quality musicians, they will become dedicated concert goers.

Three exciting concerts remain in the 1979-80 season. The Miami Chamber Trio (flute, harpsichord and bass) with guest artist Arnold Grayson (recorder) will present a concert at 8 p.m. on February 22nd. The final two concerts will be given by the Chamber Collegium of Palm Beach Atlantic College on March 23rd at 3 p.m. and by pianist Susan Cohen on April 13th at 3 p.m.

These concerts are free and open to the public. Students, alumni and friends of F.I.T. are all encouraged to attend these concerts in the Frances Langford Evinrude Latin Theater.

Ecosystems class

Martin County Ecosystems, a six week survey of the plant and animal communities found in the county, is scheduled to start 7:30 pm Thursday, Feb. 14 at the Environmental Studies Center. This is the third year that the course has been offered by Frank Pittman of the Center staff.

Pre-registration can be made by phone to Jay Jarrett, Coordinator of the Jensen Beach Community Education Center at 334-1283 on weekday afternoons.

Super Sports still in Miami

BY DANIEL M. SASKOWSKY

The illustrious F.I.T. sports team traveled south over the past weekend to take part in the 3rd annual Budweiser College Super Sport Competition in Miami. 100 teams, composed of students from various Dade and Broward county campuses and FIT, participated in events such as volleyball, an 880 relay race, a tug of war, an obstacle course, and frisbee golf. F.I.T. senior Megan Davis, organizer of the team, said this is the second year that the team had signed up to participate.

F.I.T.'s super sports left the campus Friday afternoon for the two hour drive to Miami. "We are the team that has to travel the farthest," stated Frank Colcord, senior class president and Frisbee par excellence.

Every participant received a Budweiser College Super Sport T-shirt and an invitation to a free beer blast after the competition.

Usually a sports column includes the scores. However, in this case, no scores were received. In fact, no one has heard from the team since they left. Unconfirmed reports place them at Tiki John's Bar at Holiday Isle in Islamorada, sucking down Rum Runners and negotiating with a Columbian freighter captain. They couldn't have done that bad! Could they?

GED course

Enrollment is open for adults who are interested in acquiring the basic skills of reading, writing and arithmetic or for those who want to prepare for the GED test to gain a high school diploma.

The classes are held on Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday evenings beginning at 6:15 pm at the Stuart Community Education Center located on the campus of Stuart Middle School.

Locallers say: Let the Games go on - without Americans

BY DONNIE WILKIE

An unsure/belonging majority of local residents favor an American boycott of the 21st Summer Olympic Games, scheduled for Moscow later this year, according to a poll conducted over the weekend by The Mirror Newspapers.

However, of the 500 locallers polled there was an even split (241-241) on the issue of whether the Soviet Union should be allowed to send an athletic team into the United States for next year's Winter Games in Lake Placid New York.

A whopping 78.4 percent of those sampled indicated that they would favor a boycott of the Summer Games, while just 18 percent voiced the opposite opinion. Most of those who opposed an American boycott expressed the belief that politics and athletics do not--or should not--mix.

Jose Campo, the Head Wrestling Coach at Martin County High School, was firm in his stand that "the athletes have worked too hard already."

"They've (the athletes) worked their whole lifetime for this and now the United States government is going to say no for the lack of anything better to do against the Soviets?" he asked.

Campo also said he didn't think the mark dollars some athletes stand to forego from post Olympic endorsements don't appear to be a factor in their approach to the Games.

"Money is one of the benefits for so many years of hard work, but most of them want to be in the Olympic Games because of the chance to represent themselves and their country. I always hear about how much pride they have when they're standing on that victory stand, listening to their national anthem being played. Money isn't a factor in that."

Bruce Hood of Jensen Beach, was emphatic in his position. "That's not yes (that's definitely)" he exclaimed when asked if the U.S. should boycott the Games in Moscow, and whether President Jimmy Carter should take action to prevent the Soviet athletes from entering the country for the Winter Games.

"I think if all the countries stayed out of the Games, then the message might get through to the Russian people. They're the ones that aren't being told anything about what's happening in Afghanistan," remarked Elaine Taylor, of Sewell's Point, in explaining her answers.

But Taylor said that she would not favor a move to bar the Soviets from this country.

"No, let them come (to Lake Placid). Then they would know what's going on. The more they know, the better."

Tine Moore, of Hobe Sound, was against both proposed moves.

"I think they (the athletes) train too long for us not to send them," she explained. "Besides the Russians probably won't withdraw their troops from Afghanistan just because we're not going to the Olympics."

Others were blunt, to say the least, in their remarks.

John Kerry, of Stuart: "I don't want anything to do with any of them- over there or here."

Debbie Gee, Stuart: "There's enough of them here already."

Nevertheless, most of those in a hurry to get wherever they were headed seemed to do a double-take when asked about the possibility of preventing the Russian athletes from entering the United States. Most spent a number of seconds thinking it over, usually prec ding their answer with, "Gee, I hadn't really thought of that."

Thus, the dead-even finish, in which 48.2 percent went each way, and the same 3.6 percent that was undecided.

On the first question rounded off the poll.

President Carter has stated that if Russian troops are not out of Afghanistan by February 20, he will seek to withdraw the American team from competition in the Games, unless they are moved, postponed or cancelled.

The International Olympic Committee has already indicated that none of the three alternatives will occur.

Perhaps the attitude of many Americans on the subject was best summed up by one frenzied and shivering woman, who was coming out of a local supermarket.

"Please hurry up. My ice cream is melting."

TENNIS ON JANUARY 31?--That's right. It mattered not to these youthful hackers that a cold front--one that would stay all weekend as well as Monday and Tuesday, was on its way. They got in their fun before the cold took over. With their mother playing on an adjacent court at Langford Park, Greg Ern (left) and Scott Ettinger (right), both from North River Shores, battled fiercely, though neither seriously challenged the style of Jimmy Connors or Bjorn Borg. # Streaking Angelo's to play Aycock's

When a team is 1-4-1 through its first six games of a soccer season, it easily creates an environment favorable for the growth of — well, migraine headaches.

But when a team then comes back to win three games in a row, evening its record at 4-4-1 for the year, things often get a lot easier. In fact, Angelo's Plumbing Upper Division entry in Jensen Beach's Optimist youth soccer program, which has done all of the above in its nine games so far, is beginning to think a wonderful thought — CHAMPIONSHIP.

It isn't that far-fetched. Angelo's Plumbing's recent hot streak has created a panic among the division leaders, inactive (for two weeks now) Aycock's Gang and slumping PW & Sons. The Upper Division's most improved team, Angelo's can climb into the think of the pennant hunt with an upset of Aycock's Sunday. But a loss would derail their winning ways and deal a near fatal blow to their title hopes.

Sunday's Upper Division showdown between front running Aycock's Gang (4-1-3) and Angelo's (4-4-1) might prove to be a worthwhile afternoon for even the mildest soccer enthusiast, as two potentially outstanding goaltenders duel.

Scott Reynolds (Aycock's) has been consistent throughout the 1979-80 campaign, especially recently, posting two shutouts in his last three games. Only Dan Meyers of Angelo's has scored against him in those appearances, in a 1-1 tie between the two teams on January 13. That tie signalled the beginning of the Angelo's streak, as they are unbeaten in four games since January 6.

On the other end of the field will be Angelo's goaltender Jeff Van Curen, who has been even more brilliant in the last three games. The young goalie has not allowed a single goal in those games, and the last goal scored against him also came in that 1-1 tie, a tally by Aycock's forward Bruce Tucker, who gave the division leaders a 1-0 lead.

Sunday's game will begin at 3 p.m., and will be preceded by a Middle Division contest (1:30 p.m.) pitting Ernco (2-5-0) against TNT Appliances (2-6-0) in a battle for last place.

In games last week, Angelo's nipped Carpet Corner, 1-0 and Carpet Corner edged Winner's Circle, 4-3, in Upper Division play; Fran Cox blasted Bandy Universal, 5-0, and TNT Appliances shut out Fischer-Olds, 3-0, in the Middle Division, and Action First blasted Baum Realty, 4-0, while Hartman Real Estate and Stuart National Bank battled to scoreless tie, in Lower Division action.

Dan Klimak scored twice in TNT's second win of the season, an upset of fourth place Fischer-Olds. Kirk Haynes added the other tally for the winners, who also played excellent defense.

Hartman's 0-0 tie with Stuart National was a continuation game, as well, and the outcome was not favorable. Action First Realty, winners in their last six games after starting the season 0-2-1, pulled out to a three-point lead in the previously-scrambled Lower Division after their 4-0 whacking of Baum.

Patrick Pacacha opened the scoring, and Matty White's goal made it 2-0 at the half before Brian Lupenacci scored twice in the second half to round out the scoring.

Error in standings

It was brought to The Mirror's attention Tuesday that the Lower Division standings mentioned in last week's editions were incorrect. The division was not in a three-way tie- Action First had defeated Baum, 3-0 in a game previously reported to be a 2-1 Baum win.

Therefore, with this week's games added in, Action First is in first place with a 6-2-1 record, followed by Hartman (4-2-2), Baum (3-5-1), Clemons (2-4-1) and Stuart National (2-4-1).

We regret the error.

Crash turns leader into also ran at 24 Hours

BY BOB FRYER

A good shot at a first in-class victory and a finish in the top five at the Daytona 24 Hours turned into an also ran effort for Ren Tilton and his two teammates last weekend when their Porsche turbo slammed into a guardrail at Daytona International Speedway.

For the last five years, Tilton has teamed up with Jensen Beach racer Sonny Bond to compete in the 24 Hour race. But this time, when a wreck in November and a lack of funds to get their car back together kept the two local drivers from entering Bond's car, Tilton was fortunate enough to get a ride with a team from Fort Lauderdale.

He was the third member of a Porsche 934 turbo team that included Jack Refenning of Lauderdale and Ralph Mummery of Miami.

The car, painted black and bearing number 24, was entered in the GTO class, one class above the class Bond and Tilton are used to competing in with a Porsche 911 and one class below the Group 5 class which contained the fastest cars in the marathon race.

Refenning was driving the car when it crashed, and in spite of heavy damage to the car and a fire that broke out, he walked away uninjured, though somewhat depressed.

The car qualified for the race third in the GTO class and in 29th position overall in a field of 68 cars that took the green flag at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Tilton said the car ran better in the race than it had in practice. Outside of routine pit stops for gas, there were only two longer stops, Tilton said. He said he had to pit it once for tires, but that only took a couple of minutes. And, he said a brake problem caused about a 15-minute delay in the pits. "It may have been less time than that, but it was sitting in the car waiting, and it seemed like it took that much time," he said.

After dropping from third place among GTU cars at the start of the race to ninth place at the end of one hour and ninth place at the end of two hours, the car began making a climb up the standings. By the sixth hour the car was running second in GTO and eighth overall. It slipped to fourth in GTO for the next three hours, but by the end of the 11th hour it was the GTO leader and in seventh place overall.

The team held onto first place in GTO and had moved into sixth overall by 5 a.m. Sunday when Refenning came out of the backstretch, wound through a high banked turn and was headed for a short straight in front of the pits.

"Jack (Refenning) was passing a car when he came to a dip that the drivers refer to as the bump. The car always got a little loose at the bump, and he hit the wall and started spinning. He thought he could save it, but it slid down into a guardrail and that was it," Tilton said.

The Jensen driver said the car had heavy damage and would not likely be repaired for the 12 Hours of Sebring on March 22. However, he said there is a chance the team may get another car together for that race and said he was hopeful he would be asked again to share driving duties.

"There was really nothing Jack did wrong. When you're going 200 mph and you have about six inches to work in, it's not much room," he said.

For the rest of the race the team packed up their car and tried to console Refenning. Tilton said. When the checkered flag fell at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, the number 24 Porsche was listed in 37th place overall and 13th in GTO.

The overall winners of the race were Rolf Stommelen, Reinhold Joest, and Volkart Merl of Germany in a Porsche 935 turbo. Preston Henn, John Paul and Al Holbert, also in a Porsche 935 turbo, finished second, while 935 turbo drivers Ted Field, Danny Ongais and Milt Minter were third.

Amazingly, a Chevrolet Camero driven by Mo Carter, Craig Carter and Murray Edwards finished fourth. It is the best showing by an American made car in years, perhaps ever, at the 24 Hour race. Ironically, it took a Canadian team to do it.

Fifth overall and first in GTU was a Porsche 914-6 driven by Bill Koll, Jim Cook and Greg LaCava. The GTO winner, a Porsche Carrera, placed sixth and was driven by Tony Garcia, Alberto Vadia and Terry Herman.

Tilton and crew were leading class until crash

Cobras beat Twin Lakes, move up to fourth in AAAA

Fort Pierce Central overcame a lot of barriers Friday night.

Not only did they come from 11 points behind to clip previously unbeaten (Suncoast East) Twin Lakes, 67-54, but they posted their first ever 20-win season, moving up to fourth in the state AAAA poll, released Tuesday just prior to The Mirror's deadline.

It is the highest climb by a Fort Pierce Central team in history, making some people blink a couple times in reading the poll just so they are sure it's not football they're looking at.

Only top-ranked Lakeland, the only undefeated team left in Florida (but 20-1 overall with a loss to an out-of-state school), Daytona Mainland (20-1) and Miami Jackson (18-1) rank ahead of the Cobras, now 20-1.

Wilbert Washington scored 26 points in leading the Cobra victory over Twin Lakes (now 19-4 after losses to Central and North Shore), while teammate Luther Sandifer popper in 18.

But for much of the first quarter it appeared the Cobras playing before the largest home crowd of the year, besides the intra-city game with Westwood, would go the way of the Edsel.

Dwayne Turner, listed as a six-foot-seven center, went on a scoring spree that saw him score 16 of Lakes' 27 first period points. Only a 12-point qdarter by the shocked Washington could keep Central in the game as the Rams led 27-16 after eight minutes of basketball.

But Lakes and Turner cooled the Central offense heated up, and the fans, sent into a silence by the visitors' first quarter uprising, began to slowly turn the Cobra Cave into a madhouse.

Trailing by eight at the half (29-21), Central scored the first six points of the second half to make it a game again, and soon assumed their first lead, on a 15-foot jumper by reserve guard Robert Nelson. A quick scrap by Johnny Peoples tied the game at 43-43, but Mike Toomer's free throw gave Central a lead they would not relinquish.

Toomer added 11 points to the Central cause, while Turner, who scored only four points after the first quarter, finished with 20 to lead Twin Lakes Peoples contributed 13.

MCHS players doing their own recruiting on trip

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Ten Martin County High School football players, including Jensen Beach's Ron Parker, are proving this week, for the second consecutive year, that you can bring the "the mountain to Mohammed."

Led by Assistant Coach Ralph "Bud" Beakes, the troop is visiting several small colleges in the Southeast, in the hope that several of the players can receive grant-in-aids to attend one of the schools in the fall — and play football.

Parker played on the Tigers defensive backfield last season under now departed Head Coach Fred Chase. He is also a former member of the Jensen Beach youth football program.

"We try to take as many seniors as we can to several of the smaller schools in the Carolina Tennessee-North Georgia area," explained newly appointed Head Coach Gary Jones, who was unable to make the trip this season.

Last season, Chase, Jones and Beakes took a crew of seven on the tour, which saw all seven receive grant-in-aids. Five of them, noted Jones, were a direct result of the trip.

Tony Harris, who made a shambles of Twin Lakes in his final high school game by rushing for 334 yards in a 30-0 MCHS victory, is one of the ten players making the trip this year. Also included in the group are James Johnson, Glenn Giles, David Caswell, Cliff Beakes (Coach Beakes' son and an offensive lineman placekicker), Sherman Conrad, Chris Cherry, Paul Meyer and Chip Rice.

Conrad presents the most interesting story, in that he played in only two games for the Tigers in 1979 after injuring the tendons in a knee

During the 1930s, when George Jenkins opened the first Publix Market, times were tough. Now, over 235 stores later, that's still the Publix way of doing business.

Mike Wallen, son of MCHS coach, wins free throw contest

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Mike Wallen, son of Martin County High School coach Don Wallen, won the championship in the Florida free throw shooting competition, held at Winter Haven.

Wallen, a ten-year-old fifth grader at Parker Elementary School, made 23 of 25 attempts at the state competition, outdistancing defending national champion (in his age group) Dave Collins of North Miami by two shots.

"I wasn't totally sure that I'd go this far," said the Wallen youngster Monday afternoon, "but I thought I had a good chance. I lost last year in the Districts at West Palm Beach by one shot."

Wallen, who said he would like to someday play for a Don Wallen coached Martin County team, will participate in this weekend's Southeast Regionals at Tallahassee, Florida. If victorious there, he will advance to the National Championships at Indianapolis, Indiana.

The young Wallen has been practicing with his father after Martin County's practice each night, and often after MCHS home games, as well. He said that he usually shoots "about 200-300 free throws" per practice session.

"I'm not really nervous or afraid of losing because they give you time to warm up before the competition starts," he said. "Sometimes I have a bad start, but so far, I've always been able to come back."

Wallen's lowest total in competition has been 19 of 25 made, and his 21 in Winter Haven was his highest. Asked if he thinks he could match someone who made all of their free throws, he responded, "If he made all of them, I don't think I could get him."

"I'll have to practice hard this week because of the time," explained Mike, pointing out the biggest difference between last week's competition and this week's. "Last time I had about a month, but this time I've only got about five days to practice."

The Southeast Regionals include ten states in the region, including Alabama, Tennessee, the Carolinas and Georgia, among others.

Patty Tilton has baby girl

In a sports story last week about Ren Tilton's entry in the 24 Hours of Daytona, it was noted that Tilton's wife was expecting a baby any day.

The story erred by identifying Tilton's sister-in-law, Sharon, as Ren's wife, when, in actuality, his wife is Patty Tilton. On Friday, Patty gave birth to a seven-pound, seven-ounce girl. Both mother and child, Amanda, are doing fine, and The Mirror deeply regrets the error in names.

Lady Tigers lose to Lake Worth

Jill Baker, an all conference cinch though it is a toss-up as to which position she will be selected for, scored 21 points, ripping the Martin County defense to threads at times with her outstanding jump shooting as Lake Worth, the Suncoast Conference East co-leaders with Fort Pierce Central, hung on to beat Martin County 51-50 last Thursday in a girl's basketball game.

No one else scored in double figures for the Trojans, who ran their record to 9-3 with the victory over the inspired Invaders.

But Baker, the Pillyer of the Year in District 11 AAAA a year ago, controlled much of the game, bringing the ball upcourt, helping to break Martin County's full-court press, and stinging the Tigers with her jumpers from 20-or more feet. On defense, she was able to control the boards as a center, though defensively, she started the same as a guard.

Usually, you find a player who can shoot, but not dribble, or vice versa," said her coach, Don Kads. "But Jill can do it all and she's a heady ballplayer, too."

Nevertheless, until the fourth quarter, Martin County was doing a respectable job of keeping Baker off the scorebook. But her ten points in the final period helped rally the Trojans from a six point deficit in the final three minutes.

The Lady Tigers, who later upped their season mark to 9-7 with a 48-44 win over John Carroll (Fort Pierce), assumed the lead early in the contest, taking a 19-14 edge in the second quarter. A six-point spree by the visitors, capped by Baker's jump shot from the top of the key with 3:53 remaining in the half, gave Lake Worth a 28-19 lead before the Tigers scored six of the last eight points before halftime.

The Tigers, under Head Coach Dan Alley, still led 36-34 after three quarters, and opened that up to 46-40 with 3:56 left in the game, when Alley elected to try to freeze the ball, using a four corner delay. The tactic backfired, though, as his squad turned the ball over twice and missed several free throws down the stretch.

Gloria McIntyre led the Lady Tigers with 15 points, while Veronica Parks totalled 14 and Marsha Jackson had 10.

Williams, Tiger wrestlers improving under Jose Campo

Campo makes himself train hard, too

BY DONNIE WILKIE

"I really don't deserve any of the credit."

That's how Jose Campo explains his role in the success of the Martin County High School wrestling team in 1979-80, a team that has already won the conference tournament, is undefeated in their Suncoast East dual meets, and is currently 12-1.

It's really still russ' former coach Deanito team. Campo will tell you.

He's the one that taught them, and with as many good assistant coaches as I have and with the program being a winner already, anyone could have come in here and had success."

Whereas the Tigers have had success during all of the 1979-80 campaign, Jensen Beach's Chris Williams the only localler on the squad, has only recently begun to wrestle with the vigor that Campo knew he had. With a lopsided 29-0 decision over a Twin Lakes wrestler and a 6-2 verdict over Hialeah High over the weekend, Williams upped his overall record to 10-9.

Williams, 18, is a senior at the school, and it would be easy for him to feel left out of whatever Campo is building for the future. But one look at the Tigers' practice session dispels that notion, as the wrestlers exhibit perhaps the conference's most unified squad.

"Lot's of teams don't do that," said Williams. "Campo's really gotten us together. He's made it a real team effort."

Another says Williams is the unique style displayed by the Campo-coached Tigers who have brought a northern look into the Suncoast Conference.

Campo came to Martin County from Yale where he was an assistant coach for a year. But moreover, he came from his father's legendary wrestling program at Brentwood High in Brentwood, New York. In 31 years of coaching, his father has posted a 329-20 record, one of the nation's all-time successful programs.

"I wanted to come down to Florida," explained Campo. "It's just growing wrestling wise, and not too many people have heard of my father down here. I figured it would be a place where I could make a name for myself."

Campo believes too much emphasis is placed on football and basketball in the state, and that the publicity should be spread around.

"We're trying to build up wrestling in the state. But too much emphasis is placed on football, especially. That's why the University of Florida, with one of the top programs in the country, had to drop wrestling."

Worse yet, a lot of football coaches don't want their players to wrestle because they might get hurt. But football has the highest injury rate of any sport in high school. There's so many big football players walking around this campus, at least 20 over 200 pounds, and we've got four or five of them. Wrestling is a great sport for football players. It gets them in shape, builds up their stamina, and gives them a shot at being in that one-on-one situation where there's no one else they can turn to."

Williams, however, does not play football. In fact, wrestling is the only sport he participates in.

"What I like about it is the individual concept," said Williams. "It's not really a team thing, at least not when you're out there wrestling. When you lose, you have no one to blame but yourself, but when you win, you can say to yourself, 'I did that' and really be proud."

"At the beginning of the season, I thought I shouldn't have been at 157 (his weight classification, though he is actually more like 145), and I was going into matches with the wrong attitude."

"The reason he's wrestling one class up," noted Campo, "is that there's no way he can beat Lucky Taylor (one of the team's better wrestlers) at 145."

"He works very hard in practice, and he's a great guy." complimented Campo. "I don't really think his record says that much about him as a wrestler, because he's improving every match."

So how far can Williams go, once the regular season ends and the district tournament begins, admittedly a more individual concept?

"I can't say at what point I'll be satisfied," answered Williams. "I would think doing well in regionals would make me happy, but I'd really like to get to the state tournament somehow. Going to state is what everyone eventually wants to do, and it's my last year. I want to get there."

After school, Williams will probably attend a smaller school, though he's applied at Gainsville and Tallahas

"I'd like to wrestle at a smaller school, but I'm not seeking any kind of scholarship. I'd have to be a walk-on. I've applied at several schools with wrestling programs I like."

As for the Martin County program no one seems to think there is any kind of decline ahead. As Campo, who said he may only stay at the school for another year or two, noted, "Martin County has enough talent to have a great wrestling program for years to

"I do want to start the youngsters (middle schools) into the sport. We may have a tournament this summer after the season, and have all the wrestlers go back to their old middle schools as coaches, then have the tournament. I want to spread wrestling into the younger ages."

Ala Don Wallen. Or should we say ala Jim Campo?

Williams

...Area stations are ...running on empty

BY BOB FRYER

...Area motorists had best brace ...emselves for more long gas lines in ...coming weeks.

...At the end of January, as monthly ...locations ran out at many service ...tions, motorists formed blocks long ...es to fill up with what gas remained.

...The situation was so critical that the ...unty commission appealed to state ...d federal authorities for more gas ...d also enacted an ordinance banning ...rsons from buying gas unless their ...nks contained half a tank or less.

...With the coming of February ...locations, the lines at service ...tions have decreased markedly, ...ough it's still common to see 10 to 15 ...rs in line at the stations which are ...mping.

...Many stations have severely ...stricted pumping hours, and it's ...ard at times to find gas in the Jensen ...a on weekends.

...With the month reaching the ...f way point. The Mirror made a ...rvey of area stations to determine if ...e county ordinance was helping ...orten the long lines, and to ...termine what the prospects were ...r gas supplies in the final days of ...bruary.

...The consensus of station operators ...s that the ordinance has had no ...nificant impact on the gas lines, as ...t said there were very few persons ...ving off nearly full tanks before it ...s enacted.

...Unfortunately, some operators feel ... may be in for more long lines ...ward the end of the month.

...Here are the comments from some ...the area's operators:

...Bill Taylor of Skyline Standard said ...at after having a few problems ...tting folks informed of the ...dinance at first, most seem to know ...ut it now and don't mind it.

...As for gasoline, he says, "I just ...n't have enough." Like all other ...erators, his allocation is based on ...77 supply figures, and like all ...hers, he is only getting about 85 to ...0 percent of his average monthly ...ply for 1977. With the phenomenal ...owth of the population here since ...n and the roads jammed with ...rists escaping the frozen northern ...tes, that's just not enough.

...However, Taylor says by restricting ...urs of pumping and with new ...edules of gas scheduled to arrive on ... 15th and 26th, he probably won't ...t out.

...At Riverview Gulf, George Cole ...s, "The gas is tight and (by the end ...the month) will be tighter than a ...um."

...He said he has had some problems ...th gas hungry motorists who get ...impatient waiting in line, and offered ...at this reporter work one of the ...inds of pumps awhile "so you can ...e what sort of abuse we get." He ...id things are bad enough already ...at he doesn't relish the idea of ...ding to the problems by arguing ...r the half-tank ordinance.

...He, like most all others contacted, is ...ing pumping hours in an effort to ...e sure there is at least some gas to ...e pumped at the end of the month. ...d he urged motorists, "Please have ...atience and don't curse your service ...tion man. It's not his fault."

...Charlie Engle, owner of Jensen Beach ...rvice, said he has had no problems ... people complying with the ...half-tank ordinance.

...Still, he says he is almost out of gas ...days at the rate his application for ...rtion of the state's reserve gas ...ply is being processed), the month ...ll be over before he gets any extra ...s. "It doesn't look good" for the end ...the month, he said, and added that ...e has talked to many tourists who say ...ey're staying in their rental units ...t not going out on any unnecessary ...ips. "It's hurting businesses all over ...wn; people aren't shopping and ...veling as much," he said.

...Joe St. Onge said, "It looks bleak ...the end of the month" for his Lil ...ants stores, including the one in ...nsen.

...Still, he said since his pumps are self ...rvice, "I don't see how they can ...pect us to monitor it (observance of the half-tank law). Maybe we should ask folks to raise their right hand and swear they have half a tank or less."

His store in Jensen is one of few in the area that sell gas during limited hours on the weekends. He predicted things will remain bad through March.

Another store on the short list of places selling gas on weekends is the Lil General on SR 707 in Rio. Nancy Tooly said there have been no limits on hours of pumping, so long as there is gas to pump. But she said instead of her usual three deliveries a week, she has only been getting about one a week for the past month. This, she said, means limits on purchase amounts and hours of pumping may have to be implemented toward the end of February.

Lines aren't long at the store in the morning, but when other stations are closed in the afternoons and weekends, the lines get lengthy. Last Sunday three fights broke out among motorists, and at times cars blocked the entrance to the Rio Fire Department. Ms. Tooly said when those sorts of things start happening, the store operators close down the pumps.

The Cumberland Farms store on Savanna Road is open for a few hours in the morning and again in the evening on all days. The manager said if the pumps were open all the time, he could sell out his month's supply in three days, but said he limiting hours, he hoped he'd have some gas to sell through the end of the month.

The pumps at the Cumberland Farms store at the Savanna Road Commercial Street intersection have been broken for two and a half months, and the manager said in spite of promises to have the pumps repaired, she's still waiting for them to be fixed.

At the Gold Coast Tires Bay station, Cal Jones said there has been no problem with enforcing the half-tank limit. And, he said as long as the station only pumps half a day, there will be no problem making supplies last through the month.

At one station where the owner didn't want to be identified, he said the half tank limit was effective for making it look like the county commission was doing something, but he said it really had no impact because very few people were topping off before the law was passed. He said the commissioners should try exercising more clout in Tallahassee to get more gas for the area. He said he got a letter from U.S. Rep. L.A. "Skip" Bafalis saying the state gets 19 to 20 million gallons of gas per month in a "set aside" supply that is to go to areas with critical shortages, but he said we don't seem to be getting much of that here, and that all but about 2 million gallons aren't used by the state and are released to distributors. "Those distributors never pass that on to us though. When we get our allotment, that's it," he said.

The Snook Nook was out of gas when the survey was made, but Johnny Crawford said he expected a new supply Tuesday night. He reported no problems with the half tank law, but said the bait and tackle, shop is requiring purchases of either $5 or $10.

Two stations in Stuart were checked too. Carl Sovine said his Gulf station on East Ocean Boulevard was only pumping gas a few hours a day. He noted few folks topped off before the half tank law and that there have been no problems with compliance since it was enacted. He also said he expected to get less gas this month than last month.

Ed Earle of Ed Earle's Amoco on U.S. 1 at Colorado Avenue, said he had no problem with people topping off before the ordinance and has had no problems with people since the law was passed. He said he is getting only 70 percent of his allocation for February compared to the same month last year, but said he hopes a meeting of gas station operators with county officials on Wednesday will result in extra supplies.

A MOST MISERABLE BOY—This little tot, George Krauss, was by no means happy last Thursday when he visited the Jensen Beach Community Church with his Mom and Dad. His pop, George Krauss, is an ambulance attendant for the Jensen Area Samaritans. The elder George Krauss and Samaritan Nellie Conk, who is shown applying a bandage to the younger George Krauss, demonstrated ambulance equipment to children at the church's school. During the demonstration, young George fell and bumped his head. The injury was minor and a large bandage worked wonders to stop the flow of tears. At left is George's mom. (Photo by Bob Fryer)

Arson cause of fires

Local firemen are suspicious that four recent woods fires off SR 707A (Commercial Street) may have been the work of an arsonist.

The latest in a series of brush fires started Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 12, and consumed about half an acre of woods near the SR 707A-U.S. 1 intersection. Due to light winds and a quick detection of the blaze, the fire didn't spread too much. However, Jensen Beach Fire Chief Joe Luciano said he feels strongly that the fire, as well as three other recent ones, was deliberately set. He said all four fires have been in the same general area and all have started in easily accessible areas.

On Friday, Jensen Beach firemen responded to two more woods fires off SR 707A.

The first of those two fires was reported at 1:17 p.m. and resulted in a loss of two and a half acres of timber. The fire was just south of SR 707A and Chief Luciano said it apparently started very close to the road. "Had it not been for a large bare spot, and no wind, the fire may have claimed more woods."

At 8:20 p.m. Friday Jensen firemen were called to a fire at the Pinecrest Lakes subdivision. That one covered about three fourths of an acre before it was put out.

Luciano said that about $300 in damage was caused to fire trucks, due to bumping and scraping over burned out palmetto stumps.

"These fires can be costly to our taxpayers. It cost $40 just to fill one truck with gas and about $30 each for two others. Our donations for our annual fund drive are down a little compared to last year, so if anyone still hasn't made a contribution, we would sure appreciate it," Luciano said.

The chief said that anytime three fires start in a short period of time in the same general area, it is cause for suspicion.

Jensen Beach and Rio volunteer firemen put out a potentially dangerous woods fire last Wednesday, Feb. 6, in an area off SR 707A which only three years ago was ravaged by a blaze that claimed about 1,800 acres.

Jensen Beach Junior Volunteer fireman Jackie Giannini spotted smoke in the area and checked at the Jensen Beach Fire Department to see if any burn permits had been issued. None had, so chief Joe Luciano drove to the area and found a good sized fire going. He called for help, and before it was over the Jensen department sent 23 men and six trucks and the Rio volunteers sent three trucks and 14 men.

The fire was located north of SR 707A (Commercial Street) about a mile east of U.S. 1. A stiff wind was blowing from the west and Luciano said the front of the fire was at one time about half a mile wide. He estimated winds at 30 mph and said a total of between 18,000 and 20,000 gallons of water was used to put it out.

The fire was reported at 3:35 p.m. and was under control around 5:30 p.m. or 6 p.m.

He said for awhile the flames were about 20 feet high and that smoke was billowing at heights approaching 100 feet. About 110 acres burned.

Chamber is seeking traffic plan solution

The year-in, year-out confusion over the solution to traffic on Commercial Street from the railroad to the Indian River may be heading for resolution again.

The off again, on again problem of traffic congestion and traffic flow was discussed by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce board of directors Monday, and a committee w s formed to look into all solutions to traffic.

A request by the Chamber to the county commission for a left turn signal light for north bound SR 707 traffic turning west on Commercial brought a report by County Commissioner Frank Wacha that it would cost $7,000 for the light.

"In view of the cost, the Chamber might look into a more complete solution to traffic routing. The left turn signal would only be a temporary measure," Wacha told the board members.

Due to the lack of right-of-way, if four autos back up in the left turn lane the entire road is blocked for north-bound autos, closing off all through traffic. The heavy southbound traffic on SR 707 then blocks left turning and northbound traffic.

Chamber President Dick Campbell asked Wacha to submit a sketch of all alternatives to traffic flow for the committee's consideration. He added that he would meet with downtown merchants to discuss the alternatives, and seek consensus on one plan.

One plan would maintain Commercial Street as a two way street, with north bound SR/707 traffic rerouted to Ricou Blvd. and only right turns from southbound lanes allowed.

Another plan, perhaps the most controversial, would one-way traffic in a circle, with Commercial two lanes eastbound, Ricou two lanes west bound, Palmetto one way southbound, and SR 707 maintained in two-way traffic.

A third plan would make Palmetto one way south with other traffic lanes remaining the same.

A major objection to the one way plan, that of fire department access to Commercial Street, would be offset, according to Wacha, with the September completion of a new fire house on Savanna Road, and installation of a fire lane along the railroad tracks from Commercial Street to the fire house to enable volunteers to get to the fire house more quickly in an emergency.

Campbell brought up the problem with right turning traffic into the narrow lane southbound on SR 707 from Commercial Street. Wacha complained of the lack of right of way to widen the turn.

Last week, a semi truck turning to the right crushed the side of a car. In order to make the turn, large trucks must turn all the way into the north bound lane of SR 707, and often force autos to back up to allow passage.

Campbell said he would contact property owners to seek more right of way, and the moving of a power pole.

In other traffic concerns, Campbell reported that the traffic problem at SR 707 and Causeway Blvd. had been eased with the cooperation of Poor Bob's Restaurant. Trucks that blocked the driver view of traffic coming from the north have been told by Poor Bob owner Charles Carr to unload across the street in the parking lot. Wacha said he would provide Poor Bob's with a proper sign forbidding unloading on the east side of the street, and praised Carr's cooperation.

It was announced that Ricou Blvd had been restriped to provide direction to north and southbound autos in two lanes as they enter SR 707 eastbound into two lanes instead of one to separate traffic into left and right turn lanes.

Here's when stations are pumping gas

If you're like most folks, you've encountered problems finding gas at times. That's no wonder, because many stations in the area are only open in the morning and few are open on weekends.

Savanna Road fire station by Labor Day

County Commissioner Frank Wacha announced to Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors Monday morning that a new fire station on Savanna Road, next to Timberwick development, should be completed by Labor Day.

Now that road improvements along Savanna Road have just about been completed, Wacha says this clears the way for bids to be let for the fire station project in the near future.

The tract for the new fire station was donated by Sam Rhodes, developer of Timberwick, and excess dirt taken during the road job has been dumped on the site to make it more suitable for the fire station structure.

The station will be operated by the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department and will mean that the department will have two stations to work out of.

Jensen Beach Fire Chief Joe Luciano said the new station will be a great help in cutting the response time of his department to fires along Savanna Road and along the western portion of Commercial Street. The big plus is that firemen will no longer have to worry about delays in getting to a fire if a train is passing through town. "When the new station is built, we'll have one on both sides of the tracks, and that could save a lot of time in answering calls," He said. He also noted that about three fourths of the department volunteers live west of the tracks.

The station will measure 38 feet by 82 feet and will contain a squad room, a kitchen, two bathrooms, a utility room, and will have four bays. The chief explained that two of the bays will be used for firetrucks and that they will have doors on each end, so trucks can drive through instead of having to back into the bays. One of the bays will house a new 1000 gallon-per minute pumper truck and the other will house an older brush fire truck with a 1,000 gallon tank.

The other two bays will be used as a conference or meeting room for community events and will contain doors only on the front side, though it will be built so concrete blocks can be easily removed for doors on the other side at a later date.

The chief said the station will be called the Jensen Savanna Community Building, and he said it will serve as a community center as well as a fire station.

Luciano said the fire station will be a welcome addition because it is in an area which is undergoing a large housing boom.

While discussing the new station, Luciano also spoke about the current fund drive the department is conducting. He said response this year has not been as good as expected and said new residents are especially urged to make contributions. He pointed out that this area has excellent volunteer fire protection and that because it is done by volunteers, it is far cheaper than if we had a paid department.

"Costs are going up all the time. Gas is getting higher and equipment is skyrocketing. It takes about $400 just to equip one fireman," he said, adding, "Even if our residents can't afford much just five bucks per household would really help, and you can't buy paid firemen for $5." He said contributions could be made out to the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department and mailed to P.O. Box 233, Jensen Beach, Fla. 33457.

Fire breaks out in motor home

An electrical short in the engine compartment started a fire in a large motor home Tuesday evening in downtown Jensen Beach.

Robert Chandler of lot 952, Nettles Island and of Cape May Court House, N.J., said he was stopped on Commercial Street waiting for a train to pass. "The train went by and just as the gate came up the engine stalled and smoke started coming up. The smoke started getting to me so I grabbed my dog and cat and got out of there," he said.

Joe Emmick of Jensen Beach was in a van behind the motor home. He spotted the smoke, grabbed a fire extinguisher in his van, and ran to the motor home. He used that extinguisher and another one in the motor home to knock down the fire, and a short time later Jensen Beach Firemen were on hand to make sure it didn't start up again.

Damage appeared to be minor, though no estimate of it was available at press time. One fireman said it appeared the fire started near the distributor cap.

SPEED UP MORTGAGE AMORTIZATION

QUESTION: I own an eight-unit apartment building, and I have reduced the mortgage on it by about $7,000 over the past few years. At this point in time, I have some ready cash available. The interest rate on the mortgage is about three or four percent below what I would have to pay in today's market. My question is this: Do you think it would make sense for me to reduce that mortgage with the few thousand dollars of extra cash I have available?

ANSWER: Although it is nice to see a mortgage balance declining as time goes on, reducing the balance on a favorable interest rate loan doesn't appear to make good economic sense.

First of all, payments on account of mortgage amortization are not tax deductible as is interest. Because they must be paid in cash, you are, in effect, reducing your cash flow from the property with each payment on account of amortization. Further, you are not obtaining the tax advantages that are inherent with other operating expenses.

In an inflationary economy, the ideal mortgage loan is one which requires the payment of interest only with no amortization required. Naturally this type of repayment schedule is an investor's dream and is rarely available unless a purchase money mortgage is taken back by a seller of a property.

I would suggest that you put your spare cash to work either by creating an operating reserve account or by acquiring another property which will give you additional tax advantages while allowing you to enjoy the growth that is inherent in investment property.

Hope and relief offered by club for widows

The sixteen women who gathered last week at Indian River Community College knew that they had one tragic thing in common — the death of a spouse.

Most had been married for many years to the men their husbands died, and they met to come to terms with the strangeness of their lives, to relate feelings of alienation and loneliness, and to offer support to one another.

The first organizational meeting of The Widow's Club assembled January 23 in the Indian River Room at IRCC. The prospective members agreed that the group's main purpose should be to share feelings and compare solutions to problems faced by all widows. Although the women were eager for companionship and anxious to avoid the rut of solitude, they mandated that The Widow's Club would be much more than a social outlet.

They were not looking for a singles club. Instead, they were attempting to find answers to very real questions in their lives: how to deal with suddenly being alone, how to avoid overdependence on their children, how to cope with a sense of rejection resulting from married friends who feel threatened by the widows' single status, and friends who socially ostracize widows because they feel awkward about their bereavement.

"Most of us have the same problem," one of the women commented. "We work all day, and then come home at night to the television. It's lonely, dreary, and depressing."

The Widow's Club gives these women a chance to talk over their hurt and disappointment without shame, an opportunity to discover that they are not alone, that what they feel is not only common, but normal and healthy.

There was laughter at the meeting as the women talked about dating again after so many years, and somberness as they discussed the resentment and anger many of them felt as their friends quit calling them.

"Most of all, there was an atmosphere of hope and relief, as the widows realized that they had found others in the same situation, women who have much more to give and to gain from life, and who want a chance to share what they have learned.

The next meeting of the club has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 14, at Intracom Management, 3255 South U.S. 1 in Fort Pierce. Any widow, widower, or single person who feels they can benefit from a support group is invited to attend. Input, ideas and suggestions are welcome.

Future meetings will feature practical solutions to problems such as coping with stress, handling insurance and legal matters, and establishing a hotline to help alleviate loneliness.

The sixteen whomen who know that they have tragedy in commoo may not realize the other vital element that they all share — the courage and determination to pick up their lives and to get on with them, to admit that they need help and to offer what they can to others.

If you are alone, would like to find friends with similar problems, and are willing to make a new future for yourself, plan to attend the next Widow's Club meeting. You have nothing to lose but grief, and the rest of your life to gain. For more information, please call the Women's Program at IRCC, 464-2009, extension 229, 230.

Editor's note: Since the above story was written, the club has changed its name from The Widow's Club to Widows and Friends.

Death believed to be suicide

The death of James Warren Gass, 27, of 2353 N.W. Brennan Court, Stuart, is believed to be a case of suicide, according to St. Lucie County Sheriff's Chief Warren Alford, who said Tuesday that he is still awaiting a final autopsy test report.

The body of Gass was found in a wooded area in western Port St. Lucie about two and a half miles west of Port St. Lucie Boulevard, near canal C-24.

Claude and Richard McKuhen of Port St. Lucie told officers that they had been fishing and running their dogs in the vicinity of the canal when they entered a clearing and spotted a car in that area. They blew their horn but got no response, and as they approached the car, they spotted Gass sitting next to a tree.

The McKuhens said they left, went to the nearest house and called 911. Deputy Harvey Sharpe met the McKuhens and returned to the cleared area. The deputy said Gass had a gunshot wound to his head and a revolver was found next to him.

Gass was the son of Rio Fire Chief William Gass and was once a member of the Rio Fire Department.

Letter to the editor

To the editor

In a recent editorial you have mentioned you would like to hear from some one about improvements to Jensen Beach.

The following suggestion is an improvement to an existing condition. I am referring to the Portable Sign at the cross walk in front of the Jensen Beach Bank, which reads, "STOP FOR PEDESTRIANS CROSSING". I made a check up of this walkway several times at different hours of the day. Have observed considerate drivers who halted their vehicles to let pedestrians walk safely across, while a larger number of vehicles whizzed by or zigzagged around people who patiently waited to try and cross or ran across the street. Traffic on this street moves too great of speed.

The Portable Sign, which is only 5 ft. tall stands at the curb side on walkway across from the Bank. It has been struck several times out of shape and again repaired. The cross walk lane is painted with white stripes. Because of its size and position, it is invisible to traffic going West, and partially to those going East. Suggest new larger sign or signs be made mounted high on posts at curb or bush curbs each side. Visible from a distance of approaching traffic to cross walk. This would better acquaint the every day motorist using this road plus the out of state visitor, of the above sign.

CAUTION

The Florida driver's manual defines cross walks as follows: "If there are no traffic control signals you must always slow down or stop for persons within a marked crosswalk or at an unmarked cross walk at an intersection!

To the Editor:

I read in last weeks edition that bus service will be offered to the people of Jensen Beach by a Fort Pierce Company. This is commendable and thoughtful, I believe a bit late.

For the past 6 years your Martin County Council on Aging has been providing bus service. Since July of 1976 we have been providing FREE bus service 2 trips daily Monday through Friday to all elderly, not only Jensen Beach but to Rio, Stuart, Palm City, Port Salerno, Hobe Sound and weekly service to Indiantown.

The only requirement of our service is that you call a day in advance for scheduling. Mr. Hoke and all Ocean Breeze residents know of our service. I personally spoke to the Homeowners of Pine Lake Village recently and Advised them of our services, all Veterans organizations and their Auxiliaries, in addition to the Various churches of the area know our our service and I cannot help wondering why the sudden need for outside service.

A call to your Council on Aging at 283 2242 will bring a bus to YOUR DOOR, take you to your destination and return you to your home, helping you with any packages you may have.

A call on Tuesday will reserve you a trip to attend the Senior Activities Club that meets at the Youth Center each Wednesday afternoon from 1:00 p.m. till 4:00 p.m. A call on Monday morning will inform you of the Saturday trips available — to the West Palm Beach Mall, to the Circus, to the Omni in Miami, even to Disney World.

This service is also available for hairdresser appointments, doctor appointments, hospital visitation, shopping, bill paying — you name it — we have it.

Use your Council on Aging buses as often as is necessary by a free call to the office — 283 2242 — and for door to door pick up. We do not pick up unscheduled passengers or those standing on corners or waiting at bus stops.

If anyone has a question about the service or a request for service call our office, please.

Mexican fest at Monterey

Mexican merrymaking at Monterey Plaza is set for Thursday* through Saturday, Feb. 14, 15, and 16.

It's Fiesta de Monterey, an annual three-day festivity planned by the Monterey Plaza Merchants' Association for the public's enjoyment.

For the fiesta, two artists have been engaged to demonstrate the art of Mexican pottery and of hat weaving. Elizabeth Girard, potter, and Hal Horenberg, straw weaver, can be seen at work on all three days between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on the concourse.

The highlight of the fiesta is on Saturday between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. when the popular Mariachi Band from Lakeland will be strolling throughout the plaza for the people's entertainment. The drawing for prize winners immediately follows the band's performance.

Monterey Plaza is located at the corner of State Road 76 and Monterey Road in Stuart.

Fishery council will consider mackerel plan

On-going public hearings on the King and Spanish Mackerel Fishery Management Plan, as well as final review of the Coral Plan within the 200 mile limit will dominate the agenday of the Tuesday through Thursday, Feb. 26 - 28 meeting of the South Atlantic Fishery Management Council at the Holiday Inn in Fort Pierce, Florida.

According to Trudy Bernhard, council member from Tequesta, Florida and chairwoman of the Coral Committee, this plan should be ready to go to public hearings following final council action anticipated at the Fort Pierce meeting.

A highlight of the meeting will be the public hearing on the Mackerel Plan on Tuesday night, Feb. 26 from 7 - 10 p.m. in Fort Pierce at the County Civic Center which contains special consideration of the problems between netters and hook and line mackerel fishermen in the Fort Pierce vicinity. The plan which also contains management provisions for cobia is a joint effort of the South Atlantic Council and the Gulf Council. O. B. Lee, chairman of the Joint Mackerel Committee has stressed the application of the seven national standards as guidelines in resolving the Fort Pierce issue.

At the Fort Pierce meeting the council will also begin the review process on the public comments from the public hearings on the Mackerel Plan as recorded at Fort Lauderdale on February 20 and at Jacksonville Beach on February 21st.

Here's one way to stop passing the buck.

Buck-a-gallon gasoline. It's a reality. And they say it's going to get worse. For most of us, this means changing our driving habits. The less you drive, the more you save.

We can help. Our new Gas-Miser Program is a package of services that can eliminate dozens of trips to the bank. The program includes direct deposit of regular payments, such as Social Security and stock dividends; telephone transfers of money from checking to savings, and vice versa; deposits by mail to checking and savings (we pay the postage both ways) and more.

Our trained personnel have all the Gas Miser details. They'll help you stop passing the buck for non-essential driving.

The Gas-Miser Program: fewer trips to the bank; more to where you need or want to go. Become a Gas Miser at any office of Stuart National or Port Salerno National Banks.

Bluegrass is Saturday

"High 70's, low 80's, a sunny day" predicted F.I.T.'s Student Government Association vice president Bert Furman. This optimistic forecast is made for Saturday, Feb. 16, the day of the 2nd annual Bluegrass in the Bowl festival.

According to Furman, last year's response to the outdoor concert was very good. "This is an ongoing effort to provide quality entertainment for the students and the community.

Three top notch Bluegrass groups will provide the entertainment this year. The East Coast Boys, The Swamp Cats, and The Fester Brothers String Band.

The Swamp Cats are from North Carolina. They are a well known B/G group and have competed in the World Fiddler Championships in Union grove, North Carolina. They play a special brand of old time traditional B/G.

The East Coast Boys are from North Carolina, also, and are well known on the B/G circuit.

The Fester Brothers String Band is a local group. They play a New Grass style of music which is taking songs from groups such as the Allman Brothers or the Marshall Tucker Band and adding B/G riffs.

Admission to the all day concert at F.I.T. is $2.50 for students, $3.00 for senior citizens, and $4.00 for the general public. Raw or steamed oysters will be sold by F.I.T.'s Aquaculture Club. Beer and corn on the cob will be available, also.

Rain or shine, the pickin' and grinnin', fiddlin' an' foot stompin' starts at 12 noon in front of the student center.

FIT impacts $26 million on the community area

BY DANIEL M. SASKOWSKY

This is the second in a series of articles on the impact that the Florida Institute of Technology has on the communities of Jensen Beach, Stuart, and the bi-county area of Martin and St. Lucie.

Part Two: Economics

If F.I.T. were suddenly to close its doors, would there be any effect on the community? Aside from the loss of a fine academic institution, the community at large would receive a substantial blow to its economic foundation.

Of the nearly 1,000 students at F.I.T., 770 are full time undergraduates. A recent statistical study of the personal spending habits of these 770 students revealed that each student spent an average of $2,347 per academic quarter. During the three quarter academic year, this figure for each student is $7041. The following table indicates how the students spent their money.

The greater percentage of this money is spent in the two-county area. It is new money in the community, having come from outside the area.

F.I.T. has a current annual budget in excess of three million dollars. A portion of this figure represents salaries paid to 167 employees of F.I.T. including teaching faculty and non teaching staff. Again, this is money spent primarily in Martin and St. Lucie counties.

In statistical studies such as this, a standard re-spending factor is introduced. This represents the number of times the money "turns over" in the business community. In this case, the factor is three. This means that the $5,421,570 student expenditure becomes $16,264,710. Added to this is the $9,000,000 plus figure of F.I.T.'s operational expenditures. The total economic impact on the two county area is in excess of $26,000,000, or substantial sum.

This article has dealt with facts and figures and the effects on the communities' wallet. But, what about the intangibles? What about nourishing the inner person?

Next week: Filling a cultural void.

Super Sports return

The FIT super sports finally returned from the Budweiser College Super Sport competition in Miami. If you recall from last week's column, the team was sighted at an Islamorada bar, drinking heavily and negotiating possible passage out of the country. As it turned out, the team decided not to flee.

After camping out Friday night at a North Miami campground in bitter, sub 70 temperature weather (any thing below 70 degrees is bitter!), the FIT super sports were ready for action. Fortified with energy from Indian River oranges, the brave men and women from FIT ventured forth onto the field of combat to meet the enemy.

When the dust finally settled and the scores were tabulated, the FIT athletes found themselves on the short end of the results. Of the five teams that competed, only two collected any points.

The Coral Reefers won two volley ball games but were eventually eliminated. However, they did collect 3 points in Frisbee Golf. The Bobos amassed 3 points in the canoe event.

Community Church hopes to feed 5,000

"Most Americans want to help feed starving people overseas, but don't know how," according to Dr. John, DiGangi, pastor of the Jensen Beach Community Church at 3900 N.E. Skyline Drive.

"We are bombarded by the cruel statistics of hunger on a daily basis, and the average person feels overwhelmed by the size of a problem like global famine. "However, when Americans are shown a way to relate to the problem, said Dr. DiGangi, they help in the traditional unselfish way they have always responded to the needs of the less fortunate.

"People in our congregation are concerned, and are wanting to do something positive to combat hunger. In the process, we learned that a majority of the world goes to bed hungry and more than 10,000 people die every day from starvation," he said.

The church members have chosen to help by participating in a national "Love Loaf" program. Love Loaves, small coin containers, shaped like miniature loaves of bread, will be distributed to the families of the church. "These will be kept on the dinner tables," explained Dr. DiGangi, "as a reminder that while we have much, others have little or nothing to eat. I think it will also be a way parents can teach their children compassion."

As the family prays for the world's needy, they also put coins in the Love Loaf each day. Even the smallest child can participate. The Love Loaf containers will be left in the homes until Palm Sunday and then turned in. By that time each should hold over $10.00 in coins.

"It will be a modern-day version of Jesus' feeding of the 5,000," said Dr. DiGangi. "Our goal is to raise enough money to feed 5,000." The Jensen Beach Community Church has scheduled a Love Loaf Breaking Sunday on March 30th. At that time all the small banks should be turned in and broken.

Dr. DeGangi noted that sixty percent of the money raised will be given to Benevolence projects and the remaining forty percent will go to the emergency relief ministry of World Vision International, originator of the Love Loaf program. World Vision is a nonprofit, interdenominational Christian humanitarian agency that conducts programs of childcare, emergency relief, community development, Christian leadership and evangelism in 78 countries.

Dr. DiGangi said William and Olive Van Vliet, Doris Ogden, Herb Gardner, Edna Butt and Fred Spittles who are all members of the Benevolence Committee will be passing out the Love Loaves at both the 9:00 and 11:00 a.m. worship services next Sunday, Feb. 17.

DEATH & TAXES
"Nothing is certain but death and taxes."
—Benjamin Franklin
This time of year there is no way we can avoid thinking about taxes. But most of us prefer to avoid discussing the topic of death.
Yet death is one of the certainties of life. It will come as surely as April 15, yet never quite as expectedly. And if you haven't had the foresight to prepare, the result is your family is left in a state of confusion as well as sadness. They will have to make tough personal and financial decisions at a time when least able to think about them rationally.
You can avoid this. Forest Hills Memorial Park has special gardens available. Veterans, Catholic, and non-sectarian, in addition to cremation niches and mausoleum internment available now. And while it may seem strange buying crypt space when you're healthy and full of life, you should make important decisions while you are calm and clear-headed. You also avoid the added cost inflation will certainly tack on to burials over the years. (If Benjamin Franklin were alive today he would probably add inflation to his list of certainties.) Procrastination will only force your family into purchasing in the future, when available facilities will surely be more expensive and less selective.
We have a trained staff of counselors who can help you with your burial plans. In addition, we offer a free Family Portfolio Record File, a guide that can help you assemble the kinds of essential information that becomes immediately necessary on death. For more information, or to make an appointment to tour our mausoleum and beautiful cemetery, fill out and mail the coupon below. Or call 287-8647. As Benjamin Franklin also said, "Never leave that till tomorrow which you can do today."

The latest on the Log Cabin

Seniors are continually asking, 'What's doing on the Log Cabin Center that was going to be built last fall in Langford Field?" As it was a darn good question an investigation was made and here is what was found out.

Telephone conversation with Frank Wadia disclosed that David Damage to the play grounds will more extensive than first thought, but now that is "AOK" so next week they will see about getting new logs and start putting them in place. Leta Williams, Pres MCCA, says that the $15,000.00 worth of equipment is in air conditioned storage, so should be OK and that George Tsamaniakis Exec Dir Gulf Stream Council on Aging will not withdraw funding just yet, but must soon, as the money has to be used on a qualified project before Sept 30, 1980. So, that's the answer, as of now.

A letter was received from Senator Lawton Chiles, you know this column is clipped and sent to him at times. This was in regards to Martin County shortage of gasoline asking why there couldn't be an emergency supply held in different sections of the country, so when there was a sudden demand in a small area, it could be quickly alleviated. The Senator (or his computer) replied that they were working on a standby gasoline rationing program that sounds as though it might include this emergency feature, but also sounded as though enactment was months or years away. So, if seniors want some faster action, they better take pen in hand, or next year when more and more retirees come this way, there will be still less gasoline for each of them.

Of course, the seniors were talking their heads off last week as usual, but only a couple of brief items can be used now.

One senior remarked that Russia claims they had to move into Afghanistan for national security reasons, couldn't have unfriendly Moslems on their door step, so if that is the case, they'll have no objections at all if we occupy Cuba until a friendly government is established".

A senior remarked that he'd heard that inflation was 18 percent in 1946 and wanted to know what was done to get it back down to 2 or 3 percent in the 50's and 60's. Does any senior remember how it was done, if so they better tell today's economists.

Tax aid service is often needed these days, so local seniors are fortunate in having FREE counselling available Tues and Thur 1 to 4 p.m. and Wed and Fri 9 to noon, at Anchorage Boatel office, 1012 NE Anchorage Ln (Rte). Also, Mon-Fri 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Stuart National Bank, East Ocean Blvd.

Blood Pressure Clinic, Fri Feb. 15, 9 to 11 a.m. at Langford Field, by Martin County Health Dept. nurses, also nutrition counseling.

Treasure Coast Senior Services have been having some superb recreational program recently. Mondays, it's the Corn Huskers, strumming away, Fridays it's the Cavaliers entertaining with Glen Miller favorites and often there are specials, like last Tuesday, when a 14 piece Martin County High School Band, under the direction of Martin Boardman, made the rafters ring with some very snappy music. It's great to see today's fine youngsters proudly contributing to the enjoyment of the senior citizens.

CHAPTER EVENTS

A respiratory disease seminar at Langford Field last Thurs was well attended and the two shots very informative. Chapter president "Mac" MacIntyre outlined the program and West Palm American Lung Assoc president David Baker answered many questions, and brought out the following interesting points:

A common cold results in more time lost from work and more money spent on remedies, than any other illness. Some "of Grandma's ol' onion treatments were just as effective (or ineffective) as the 'off-the-shelf' nostrums of today. To repeat, a treated cold last about 7 days, and a non treated one, about 7 days. However elderly should be extremely careful and not let it develop into the flu or pneumonia. Here's the latest thinking on the 'rest business', yes 'rest' is a must, but too much lying down can lead to pneumonia.

Then, on smoking, there was this: Smoke from burning butts has 5 times the amount harmful ingredients, as the inhaled smoke, and as two-thirds of the population are non-smokers, they have a just case when they demand segregation of smokers in public places. West Palm and other counties are now drawing up such ordinances. Here's a new wrinkle, elderly don't breath as good as they did years ago and it's not the inhaling, that's off, it is the exhaling and an effort should be made to exhale twice as long as inhaling. There was plenty of 'huffin' and puffin' as they tried it out.

The dinner-musical at Quality Inn, Fri Feb 8, was even better than anticipated, according to the 32 AARPers that attended. They had the 3 ring side tables, so didn't miss a trick, even to doing the polka with the actresses. The meal was just great and service by pretty actresses and attractive actors was smooth and friendly, but it was the entertainment of the Indian River Community College music dept. students, that had them wildly applauding each number. A 14 piece orchestra played 'Big Band Sounds' for their dancing, then 'The Company' put on 2 shows, so it was something doing from 7 p.m. to 9:30 and later.

Use caution at the wheel

Chilly winds have reverted to our good ol' balmy breezes, but winter time traffic hasn't reverted to the lazy summer tempo so it behooves all Ocean Breezers to use extreme care driving, especially around the park. A couple of near misses have been reported and some new dents observed so everybody must help drive very slowly, observe the 'One Way', 'Stop' and 'No Left' signs.

PARK EVENTS

SQUARE DANCERS at last have their own live caller, Dale McCoy, and by their enthusiasm at the dance, Thursday, Feb 7, they were delighted. Seventy two gladly paid the $2.50 for Dale's expenses, etc. and 7 or 8 sets were on the floor at times, just like ol' times, the ol' timers were heard to remark, even to refreshments by park management.

So until further notice, there will be live-caller square dancing every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Something is being worked out so that the beginners can participate at times and so the dances that haven't been too active recently, will know when the next calls are to be used. All OBPers, their guests and Dale's guests are invited, come to watch at no charge, as many did last week.

CAMERA CLUB members took the change from Thursday to Tuesday in stride as it turned out for a trip down through Latin America from Mexico to Panama by Ernie Curwen's slides and narration. Ernie C. said it was a 'good show' and so did the others. You will have seen France Gum's northern Washington State tour by the time this goes to press, but details will be reported next week.

Coming up Tues Feb 19, Ed Pettit (before meeting organist) will tell about the art of staining glass. Then, Tues. Feb. 26, Ernie C. will be back with slides on Galapagos, Machu Picchu and Amazon Jungle.

SHUFFLERS strutted their stuff, last week, when the ol' timers and the novices teamed-up in the Hoke Memorial Tournament, with the following results. Main-line, Ruth Todd and Pearl Wheelock, Joe Jensen and Pete Hillman, Coy Miller and Evelyn Hillman, Grace Blow and Frank Runyan. Then, for consolation, Charles Martin and Tom Elliott, Len Blanchard and Dorothy Elliott, Norman Edgecomb and Hazel Olsen, Jim Ellithorpe and Kit Garside.

A CONCERT will be held at Shuffle Courts, Sunday, Feb 17 at 7 p.m. as John Leybeck, celebrates his birthday and wedding anniversary. He says, he don't know the 'numbers', but felt he would like to have the whole park in on it, so he is going to set up his Hi-Hi PA system.

LEATHER CLASS with instructor Mary Strohm is busy getting items ready for the March Hobby show. It meets, 1 p.m. every Mon. and Thurs. in the clubhouse with 20 to 30 students making hand bags, wallets, belts, etc. as presents. Beside, hanging away with their mallets, they have pot-luck parties, with the goodies served at noon, then back to work at 1 p.m. There will be classes until June 30, so it's not too late to join.

THREE-D ART CLASS with Melva Atchison instructing is off to a good start, every Tuesday, 1 p.m. in Clement Hall. Melva has 14 students right now making 11 3-14 Blue Bird Pictures, smaller panel pictures, all made from 'kits'. Look's facinating, in fact so much so, that husband Pearl investigated it last year and then got his wife Melva interested. The class would go for another 7 weeks, so it's not too late to sign up.

GOLDEN WEDDING reception is only 10 days away (Sun., Feb. 24) and still only 6 couples signed, as reported last week, so all couples that will celebrate their 50th in 1980 are urged to sign list in office.

MARCH 2 is the day that will be long remembered at Ocean Breeze Park, and the doings are more secret than ever, as Merle and Lillian Bender who have worked their hearts out on it, because of illness had to go north and turned the whole shooting match' over to their friends of Long standing, Paul and Peg Felton. The Felton's weren't sure just what could be told, but it kind of slipped out, that there would be something doing from 2 p.m. to dusk, Sunday, Mar. 2 on 6th St. and something about famous troubadours and an organ. See you all then.

GOLFERS reported that they did get frozen out the other Saturday, so no prizes were given, even if 23 die-hards did show up. Back to normal this week with over 35 teeing off, winners listed next week.

Riverside Village

BY M. JOHNSON

Our Hobby Show and Bake Sale was a huge success. $400 was raised from our little park for the Jensen Beach Ambulance. We wish to thank all you nice people who donated baked goods and those who bought them. Without you both such a donation could not have been made.

Our monthly Association meeting was held last Wednesday evening.

In the event that 4 or more people in Riverside Village are interested in forming a small group to learn more about the game of CHESS. Mr. Frank Rabjohn of 309 Third St., would be happy to meet with them to cover the necessary preliminary instructions and assist with the games as they develop. If Frank happens to be out riding his bike when you try to contact him leave a note for him to contact you.

Ken and Irene Bigham spent this past Thursday at Lake Worth with Irene's sister and brother. All enjoyed a dinner at the Holiday House.

Gert Hume is spending a few days over on the other coast, visiting her nephew and wife, Ray and Eleanor Hume.

It was Van Der Beke night at Bingo last Tuesday. Jerry was calling "BINGO" about every third game and then Mary won the cover-all. Betty Frantz was the lucky cover-all winner Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeRosa and her sister, Lillian, of the State of Washington visited with the Henry Johnsons and Leslie Johnsons last Saturday. Dorothy and Lillian grew up with the Johnson families in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Tales of old times or happenings were followed by laughter as childhood was relived.

The DeRosas had a hard time locating a park in the middle of the night they arrived, so spent part of the night in a parking lot "out in nowhere". They have now found a location and will be in the area for several days before heading for the Keys.

CARRY IN dinner will be held tonight. Menu sounds good, can't wait to taste the food.

Ray Shumate has returned to the park.

I see by the papers and heard it on the fish line that Francis Karker caught a 5½ pound pompano. Congratulations. Now all the other fishermen will have to try harder!

Twenty seven people enjoyed themselves Saturday night for GAME NIGHT. Uno, Cribbage and Euchre were played. Everyone is encouraged to take part in this social event. Tables are played both by singles and couples, so there's a card game every one can play.

It would be nice if we could get a Cribbage Tournament started. Do we have enough interest to start one?

Don't forget tomorrow is Valentine's Day. LOVE makes the world go round. The more you give of LOVE, the more you receive. HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY to all.

Sorry to hear that Helen Coleman is in Martin Memorial Hospital again.

Several ladies in the park are busy making Calamondin marmalade. Surely smells delightful!

Bergman expert in gas; he tells it where to go

BY SALLY LATHAM

Steve Bergman almost attains uniqueness in a field uppermost in the minds of the world these days -gas. He heads an independent consulting firm on the design and construction of gas pipelines to companies on all parts of the globe.

Bergman, brother in law of Mrs. J.G. Bergman of Cedar Pointe was in the area this week visiting the many members of his family who have settled in the Stuart Jensen area, between flying trips to Washington, Puget Sound, Minneapolis and other cities where his present work is taking him.

Like so many others in government and in the gas industry, his main preoccupation is getting fuel gas from the points of availability to the consumer as rapidly and at as minimum cost as possible.

The current project the expert is involved in is the Northern Tier line, a 1,500 gas line running from Puget Sound to Minneapolis.

The origin of the gas, he explained to The Mirror, is in Alska, where fuel gas is plentiful.

"The trouble has been," he said, "that is has been sent by tanker through the Panama Canal, where it has to be trans-shipped into smaller vessels to get it through the locks."

This process, of course, leads to greater cost and more cumbersome delivery to the consumer. The point of the Puget Minneapolis line is to get swift delivery to the middle west, and which when complete will ease the crisis for consumers in other parts of the country.

The type of gas Bergman was speaking of is what used to be nuisance gas, of the kind that issues as bubbles from an oil field.

"In the old days, they used to burn it to get rid of it," the expert said. Now it is recompressed and shipped through with the oil, the re separation process taking place at the other end.

A second type, "dry gas" comes up from a porous rock formation, and is full fled gas from its inception.

Stephen Bergman has been a gas man all his adult life. A graduate of Michigan Tech with a chemical engineering degree, he got his start with the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline in Kansas City.

"Back then, for all companies gas was a problem," he recalled. "If they drilled a well and found gas, they were extremely disappointed."

By 1948, however, the oil people had changed their tune, perhaps seeing the handwriting on the wall re the law of diminishing returns.

"We went to the Gulf of Mexico to research the feasibility of bringing natural gas from the ocean floor into the Panhandle system," he said. "At that time, there weren't any offshore drillings. We came back with a yes — the one problem being safeguarding the pipelines from the shrimp boats."

Shrimpers, he explained, drag the bottom of the Gulf with hooked nets, thus presenting the hazard of breaking the lines. The problem was solved by going deeper with the pipes and burying them.

In 1963, Stephen's job with Panhandle became "too much of the same old thing," and he decided to break away to establish his own consulting firm, Stephen A. Bergman Inc. It turned out to be a propitious move, because at that time, there were no other such independent services avaiabie to gas and oil companies. Since that time, he has been kept busy with jobs for firms all over the world, sharing his expertise and know-how in pipeline construc-tion.

One major thorn in his side has been the over governmentalizing of control in the gas and petroleum industry. He cites as one of the biggest debacles resulting from it, the Alaskan Pipeline.

"We have more and more federal regulations," he said. "Congressmen have run for office and been elected on the platform that no one company can be producer, refiner and retailer. And John Q. Public insisted. What we're getting is what we asked for. If the government would send 1,000 Federal Energy Research Commission members home — even if they paid them — we'd be better off."

He bemoans the decision of congress in scuttling the Alaskan pipeline.

"Carter wrote the Presidential decision on the Alaskan Natural Gas system in 1977," the engineer said. "He said, in effect, that when you get ready to come up with a coat of seven or eight billion dollars, it can go ahead. If it costs more when you're through, the rate of return will be reduced accordingly."

It has now been delayed so long, he said, that the cost would be in excess of $20 billion. He sees little chance that the comparatively economical conveyance of fuel from oil-rich Alaska will ever be accomplished.

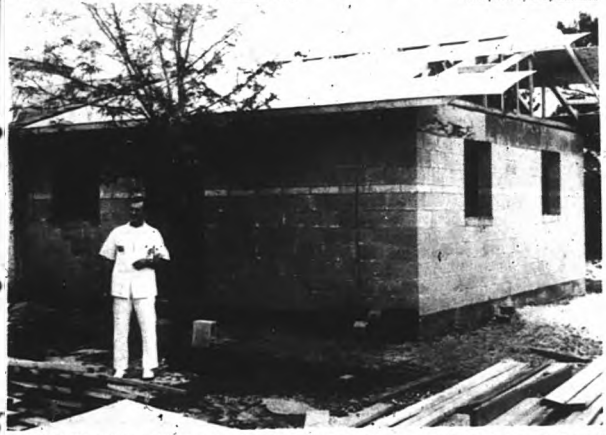
Steve's travels have taken him all over the world, and on occasion his wife Mary Alice accompanies him. They lived for a while in Iran, and spent another happy stint on the Isle of Maui in Hawaiian Islands, where they own a ranch growing Norfolk Island Pines, the Hawaiian Christmas tree.

But for the most part, Mary lice is happy to stay behind, at their winter home in Naples, Fla., or their summer place in Kansas City. "There's just too much to do and enjoy here," she told The Mirror.

High among Steve's hobbies, when he has time for any, is music.

"He wrote some of our best arrangements," says his niece Peggy Meissner, now of The Mirror but formerly of the "Doleens," a singing group which during the forties and fifties was the equivalent of the Dinnings Sisters of the Midwest.

Music reigns supreme in the Bergman home, and when his coattails can be caught, "Uncle Steve" is very much a part of it.



GOING UP—The addition to the Jensen Area Samaritans headquarters on Samaritan Drive is rapidly reaching completion, thanks to the generosity of the community. The wing, which will contain two bedrooms, an office and shower, has been paid for by donations from benefactors throughout the area.

Bicycle path no longer a dream

Last Friday morning the ribbon cutting ceremony changed a dream to reality. Sometime agao residents of Spanish Lakes and Spanish Lakes Riverfront felt the need for a bicycle path that would give access to banks, stores, and post office without the need to use the family car especially with the price of gasoline rising almost everyday.

Under the co-chairmanship of Mildred Seaman, Spanish Lakes, and Dick Jugenheimer, Riverfront, a committee was formed to change an idea, a dream to reality. When no public funds were available, the committee approached Spanish Lakes Management, and they agreed to underwrite 50 percent of the cost if the committee could raise the rest of the needed funds.

The committee was expanded to include Dick's wife Lois, Bill Attridge, Irene and Herb Germap, and John Murphy from Riverfront. The Spanish Lakes representatives were Blanche Carpenter, Harry Freudenberger, Charles Gehrmann, Rose Kent, Alice and Russell Lighty, Henry Lorenzo, June Penny, George Picchiotti, Jack Rosenstein, Dorothy Sankovic, Gertrude and Clarence Smith, Anne Schonfeld, Corky Volant, Chester Wilson and Kay Woodman.

The committee got busy publicizing the need and contacting residents for contributions. The committee has already raised ¾ of the funds needed and hopes to complete their contacts this week and as a result collect 100 percent of the fund needed.

Meantime the path is already a reality. At 10:30 Friday morning Tina Wynne, Joel's wife had the honor of cutting the red ribbon and opening the bicycle path to full residential use. The path runs along the west side of US 1 from the Riverfront entrance to connect with Entrada.

Many of the Spanish Lakes and Riverfront residents came to attend the ceremony, wearing their Bike and Bank T-shirts. Also present were many members of the committee as well as George Price, Chairman of the County Commissioners, and Chester Wynne, Joel Wynne, Harvey Newman, and Pat Owens of Spanish Lakes Management. George Nemeth and Michael Nardone represented the Homeowners Associations.

A bottle of champagne made the path opening official and the residents wasted no time to put the bike path to immediate use.

The committee wishes to thank all the residents for their support and contributions, and also the staff at the Recreational desks for their assistance.

They also wish to remind all residents that they may still make their contribution by contacting the various committee members.

Celeste Jugenheimer, Dick's daughter-in-law, presented Mrs. Wynne with a bouquet of flowers donated for the occasion by Helen Roberts of the Port St. Lucie Florist.

Enjoy it, but be careful.

The Spanish Lakes Homeowners Association held its regular meeting last Thurs evening. The meeting was very well attended and comments seemed to indicate that those in attendance had a pleasant and worthwhile evening.

In addition to the regular order of business, those in attendance were brought up to date on the changes in the income tax law by the treasurer, Jim Chester, who has just completed the AARP and IRS training program for volunteers. He talked about many of the law provisions of special interest to Senior Citizens and stressed that the assistance offered by the trained volunteers is free. In our vicinity, the volunteers will be available on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon at the First Federal Savings and Loan Bank in the Port St. Lucie Shopping Center.

The representatives speaking for the various clubs brought the audience up to date and mentioned some of the upcoming events for Golf. Lee Fisher mentioned that the next meeting of the Golf Club will take place at 7:30 p.m. on March 18th. By laws revision and election of officers will be the order of business.

George Glover urged all residents to come out for the big game on Sat. Morning, Feb. 16. The Spanish Lakes Softball Team will meet the challenge from the Spanish Lakes employees team. It promises to be a great fun event. April 5th is the date for the annual dance.

Toby DeWiegler said that the intra-park shuffleboard teams are doing very well. The standings are very close. In the Port St. Lucie League Spanish Lakes is tied with Ocean Breeze and we hope that this coming week we'll move ahead.

Marion Aurell mentioned that the ladies Bocce teams are doing well, that the team games are coming towards the end, and that in March they'll be playing Riverfront. Management will supply a trophy.

Ralph Fenster brought those present up to date on the present impasse with management on the building of an additional tennis court, and promised continued effort in this direction.

The Recreation Director, Mill Phillips announced that the Mixed Chorus is working very hard to prepare for the Spring Concert which will take place on March 30, 31 and April 1. She also said that the Homeowners Annual Ball will take place on March 2, and it promises to be an outstanding affair. Tickets will be on sale for $2.50 in the Lounge on Fri. Feb. 15 from 10 AM to 12 noon and Feb. 18 from 12 Noon to 2:00 p.m. A Las Vegas nite is being planned for March 22. Volunteers are needed to make this a success.

Kay and Wes Frank were telling about the great time everybody had at the 5th annual Ground Hog Day Dance which was held on February 3rd for Pennsylvanians and their friends. About 225 attended it and the price continued to be kept at $1.50. For the third consecutive year, Will Ratcliff at the organ kept everybody hopping. The Joy Gould Dancers from The Dancing Studio in Fort Pierce received an enthusiastic welcome and applause for their excellent, fast-moving routine. "The South Will Rise Again."

The numerous door prizes added fun to this wonderful affair.

When I went to the auditorium on Sat. night to see how the Valentine Dinner Dance was coming along, I saw many people licking their fingers, and they told how good the chicken dinner was. I stopped by Elmer Carpenter's table to kid him along as usual. After being there awhile I told him that he hadn't offered me anything to eat, and he had just kept on stuffing his mouth. He then picked up something from his plate and laughingly offered it to me. At this point, I couldn't resist telling him that I didn't live in a pet section. We all had a good laugh.

While the reports on the dinner were good, the reports on the band were mixed.

This Sat. night, the Italian American Club will hold its annual Carnevale Dinner Dance with baked ziti, salad, chicken cacciatora, rum cake, coffee, wine and door prizes. Music by the Yachtsmen. President Al Napoli and his committee have been working very hard. It should be a fun evening.

On Sunday, February 17th, the members of the club will hold the regular monthly meeting in the Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. It is a very important meeting because plans will be finalized for future activities such as the Luau and the Snowbirds Pool Party. During the evening, Dr. Nardone will show movies of past Club activities including the Christmas party and some slides of European countries. Refreshments will be served.

El Circulo Espanol has planned a number of activities for its members. On Sunday, Feb. 17 at 3:00 P.M. they will attend the Greek Festival at 2525 S. 25th St. Ft. Pierce. They have also planned their annual Fiesta Night Dance for Sat., March 8th, but the tickets will go on sale in the Lounge on Monday, Feb. 21st from 1-4 p.m. and on Mon. Feb. 25 from 10-12 noon for members only. As per park regulations, a percentage of the tickets will go on sale for other residents on February 25 from 12 noon to 2:00 p.m.

Fresly Fradd, IRCC Art Teacher, will give an art demonstration at the regular monthly meeting of the Spanish Lakes Art Group which meets promptly at 7:30 p.m. Wed. Feb. 20 in the Arts and Crafts Room. A social hour will follow the meeting and demonstration. All artists are invited to attend.

There were 7 tables at the Sunbird Bridge Tournament on Sun. Feb. 10. The honors went to Marjory Lindsey, first; Isabel Grant, Second and Maude Weightson, Third.

Brenda Agalos from E. Islip, N.Y. is visiting with not just one, but three aunts in the Spanish Lakes Communities. She is visiting with Dorothy and Hank Porter, Indigo Lane; Edna and Howard Dunkly, Mediterranean North, and Margaret Bennett in Riverfront.

As I have mentioned before, Ed and Marie Liable have been entertaining their son Bob and his family. From what I hear, they have been having an exciting time. They went to Disney World and Spook Hill in Lake Wales. Then the highlight came with a day of fishing on the Skipper II with Capt. Ray Parker, Port Salerno. The catch of the day included 8 dolphins, 1 albacore and 4 sail fish which were tagged and released. Jack Strother was also a member of the fishing party.

Some people sing for their dinner, the Fasciana's howl for their breakfast. Last Thurs. Feb. 7 Tom bowled the high game, and Angie bowled 44 pins above her average. As a result, each won a free ticket to the Lions Club Flapjack Breakfast which will take place in the Community Center this Sunday, February 17.

Saturday, Bernie Weissberger was a marshal at the golf course and had the pleasure of entering a hole-in-one in the book. The lucky player was Frank Guttormsen, of Spanish Way. He made it on the 3rd hole. As Frank told me the ball took on short bounce and dropped in the cup. Frank is an old hand at holes in one. He has had one at No. 7, and one at No. 8.

There weren't many holes-in-one at the 3rd hole. Frank and I, were trying to remember, and we could count only three others during the last five years. When we tried to figure out the odds of a hole-in-one (a) the basis of 4 holes-in-one, with an average of 200 attempts, 4 days a week over a period of 5 years, we arrived at the odds of 1 in 50,000. Something to feel good about. Congratulations!

Enrichment class learns the ins and outs of weaving

BY MICHELLE NASPINSKI

Enrichment students at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School had the opportunity to learn the in's and out's of weaving this week as they were treated to a demonstration by a professional weaver.

Some 32 4th and 5th graders at the Elementary School are academically qualified to take part in the after-hours Enrichment Program, which is operated by teachers Kathy Bastle and Sandra Marshall.

Eligible students meet twice a week after class is over to work on special creative projects, listen to various area professionals speak, or plan cultural field trips.

As the students had been learning to weave on their own makeshift cardboard looms, Marshall asked professional weaver Ruth Tornic to demonstrate her art before the group on Thursday.

Tornic has been weaving for nearly six years and she has shown her work in a number of local arts and crafts shows. When she sat at her loom, the Ft. Pierce resident sells educational materials.

While Tornic said "it makes me feel good when people spend their money to buy my weavings because that means they like them very much," she mentioned that it is difficult to make a living from weaving, as it would be too expensive to charge what the weavings are actually worth in time spent to make them.

Tornic, a New York native, said she started weaving as a method of relaxation.

"I felt the pressures of life and I needed a hobby to let go," commented Tornic. "I find it very relaxing."

Tornic designs her weavings as she goes, and generally does not follow any standard pattern. For the Enrichment class, she continued the weaving of a rug that resembled an ocean scene in shades of blue and beige.

As Ruth Tofnic and her husband Elias, a leather worker, have traveled extensively in Mexico and the Midwest, the local weaver became especially interested in Navajo designs.

For the benefit of the students, she came dressed in an authentic Navajo skirt and Indian jewelry.

Although she operated her loom with ease and demonstrated for the children each step in the weaving process, Tornic said weaving is not a craft which can be easily self-taught.

"I took courses at the Brooklyn Museum," she explained.

The inspiration provided by Tornic combined with the opportunities of the Enrichment group, however, may be just the impetus that is needed to give the students a head start in learning the complex craft.

Enrichment students are exposed to many projects like the recent weaving exhibition, however, they are not required to take part in all of them.

Exceptionally qualified students are invited to join the class and they remain in it out of choice. The projects they undertake while in the class are of their own choosing.

Presently, some of the enrichment students are writing and dramatizing puppet skits, while others are acting as reporters and photographers for a student newspaper.

The group is also putting the finishing touches on a paper mache liberty bell for the upcoming county fair.

With the diversity of opportunities open to these students, it is no wonder that there is a lengthy waiting list of students wanting to join. Teacher Kathy Bastle explained that at the end of every nine week period, enrichment students may opt to continue in the group or drop out.

As yet, however, all the students have indicated that they wish to stay.

On February 22, the enrichment class will be attending the Barn Theatre production of "The King and I", and on March 25, they will visit a Rogers and Hammerstein show at the St. Lucie County Civic Center.

Due to the efforts of Sandra Marshall and Kathy Bastle, who meet with the enrichment class in their own spare time, 32 Port St. Lucie Elementary School children are gaining a scope to their education that few will be able to match.

AARP to stop 'scare stories'

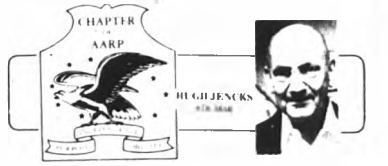
AARP members who haven't paid their 1980 dues should look into it. Those who haven't paid up by the end of March, which isn't too far away, will be dropped from the membership rolls.

The possibility of a public meeting for older members of the community in April was discussed at the February AARP board meeting. Possible topics for this meeting would be a discussion of the national health care program endorsed by the national AARP organization and an in-depth review of Social Security. Will the SS program run out of money? That's a burning question, to which most experts answer "No". However, no one denies that there are plenty of problems connected with the program. With respect to health care, Frank Alexander, who has devoted considerable study to it, observes that there are many "scare" stories about current proposals and a number of sedulously circulated myths that should be laid to rest. The purpose of the public meeting would be to puncture the scare stories and the myths and provide people with sound information on which they could base their opinions.

A series of minor changes in the chapter's standing rules and by-laws will be presented to members for their approval at the February meeting. The changes are recommended by the board. All are of a "housekeeping" nature, except one that would remove the limitation placed on the number of members. It will be recalled that when meetings were held at the Marina, a membership limit of 450 was decided on because of the limited facilities there. In the more ample reaches of the Community Center, this limitation is no longer pertinent. In addition, there is a strong feeling among the officers and directors that a drive should be made for new members. The Vero Beach chapter, not much older than ours, has 1900 members, as compared with our 398.

Valentine Day is also the day of the East Chop coastal cruise down to Jupiter for which, according to Travel Chairman Jim Kearney, 51 people have signed up. This is a pleasant luncheon trip, leaving from Stuart at 10:15 a.m. and returning at 4:30 p.m. Jim says that the next excursion on the calendar is the Black Hills Passion Play at Lake Wales on March 27, for which 36 people have indicated participation. Jim said he will begin selling the Black Hills trip tickets at the Feb. 21 meeting, so have you money or checks ready. The tab is $46 per couple. In the offing are possible trips to Busch Gardens and the Kapok Tree Inn in Tampa, and to Sanibel Captiva Islands in a three-day deal.



One of those popular covered dish luncheons, preceding the membership meeting, is to be held in May. Preparations have been started. Details later.

Gordon Long, our driving insurance chairman, reminds any who are interested that the second "55 Alive" course of the year will be offered Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 25 and 26, at the Community Center. The classes run from 9 a.m. to 12:30 each day. Those who complete the course receive a diploma worth a 10 percent discount on your automobile insurance premiums with Colonial Penn. Some other insurance firms also grant a 10 percent discount to those who have completed the course, but Gordon says he has no official word on which ones other than Colonial Penn do so.

The basic objective of AARP is to be of service to others. This is a point to remember when some over-zealous eager beavers start talking about confrontations with other sectors of society and about "getting what we're entitled to." The theme probably will be touched upon at the February meeting by Lucy Evans, representative of RSVP, who will describe the opportunities that exist for being of service to those who need help.

Hudley to speak to PSL Anglers

Program Director Ray Mink has arranged for Mr. Walter M. Hudley of the Florida League of Anglers Executive Director, an enthusiastic recreational fisherman of Orlando to speak when the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club meets on Tuesday evening February 19, 1980 at 7:30 P.M. at the North Port St. Lucie Marina on Prima Vista Blvd. Mr. Hudley's topic will be "What has happened to our fish and what we can do to save them."

oalies shine despite four goals

Aycock's, Angelo's brilliant in 2-2 draw

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Many expected Sunday's Aycock's Gang-Angelo's Plumbing game to be a scoreless tie.

But whereas goaltenders are not always perfect, there was one quite evident statement to be made about Upper Division junior soccer action at Langford Park. When it was over, the score, or at least the outcome, was exactly what it deserved to be, a 2-2 tie.

The expected battle between goalies Matt Reynolds (Aycock's) and Jeff Van Curen (Angelo's) did not materialize- at least in the first half, with a couple near-fatal mistakes by talented youngsters produced three goals.

The second half was, however, a goals five minute piece of art. Only one goal was scored-- the typing one by the foot of Robin McBride-- and it seemed as if that one took 20 minutes in getting up.

"The two goalies played a fantastic game in net all," said Aycock's Gang's coach Wayne Geier, whose troops sit in first place in the Upper Division with a 4-1-4 record, two points ahead of Ace & Sons and Angelo's.

Geier, though, felt his team should have won.

"I didn't think my team played the game they should have," he remarked. "They were out of position a lot and I had to keep yelling at them. I would be a lot more content if we had been focused and had tied it, but since we were ahead, I'm upset that they tied.

"Still, I'd rather be two points ahead of Angelo's than two points behind. I like the position we're in. The tie today didn't hurt us, because we're in first place and they have to catch us or beat us.

"From that standpoint, anyway, Sunday's tie did a lot to cool off the hot Angelo's crew, which still has a lengthy (five) unbeaten streak, but is faced with making up two points on a team that has one more scheduled game than they do remaining on its schedule.

"I think the two of us are fairly even now," said Angelo's coach David Skiles. "It was just a super game, and it was the second time in a row we've tied them. I don't think you'd want to see a better soccer game.

"The thing that makes me the proudest about this soccer team is the way they've come back. They could have quit a long time ago (with a 1-4-1 start). We're not going to cry about a tie. We wanted to win them all down the stretch, but we'll take the tie."

McBride's first-goal (McBride's two and Bruce Tucker's two were the only goals of the game) after about five minutes of play in the first half gave Angelo's a quick 1-0 lead, but two goals by Bruce Tucker would give Aycock's the edge before halftime.

At least one of the goals was the result of an error on the part of Van Curen.

The first tally, at the 20:00 mark of the half, was a hard boot on a direct free kick that caught Van Curen going the wrong way. Consequently, the ball zoomed into the corner of the net, tying the score, 1-1.

Five minutes later, Tucker was on the prowl again, this time during play and launched a quick shot toward the upper crossbar. Van Curen was unable to handle it, and it skidded into the net.

"The ball just spun right out of my hands," explained Van Curen after the game. "It was coming too fast and I knew I couldn't catch it, so I though I'd try to deflect it over the post. But it was just coming too hard."

For much of the second half, it appeared that Van Curen's inability to handle that ball might cost Angelo's the game, though they were on the offensive for almost the entire period.

After 20 minutes of blown opportunities, Angelo's finally succeeded in tying the game, as McBride took a pass in front of the goal after a teammate had stolen the ball in the corner, and, without looking, launched a shot backwards - a bicycle kick-- at Reynolds.

The awkward nature of the shot confused Reynolds, in that the ball shot skyward instead of taking a direct path to the goal. Letting it go, Reynolds watched as looping ball's course ended with a bounce at the goal line, and a skip through the posts.

Reynolds could barely believe it.

"I should have done something about that shot," he said later. "But it looked like it would go over the goal-- not even close. I guess I was wrong, because it came down perfect, right into the goal."

Aycock's assumed the attacking posture soon thereafter, but could not score a go-ahead goal.

The tie left Angelo's at 4-4-3 for the season, and with two games left, the pursuers would have to win both of them and hope Aycock's is held to no more than a single point in its three remaining contests if it wishes to win the championship outright.

"I think we've got it (the championship) now," said Reynolds. "I feel we're the best team in the league. Our line up front is great. I thought today their tem (Angelo's) was playing a little better than they have before against us, but they weren't passing the ball. It was pretty easy for me to go out and take the ball away from them, because they would just come in toward me and go one-on-one."

The 14-year-old Reynolds has developed a reputation as one of the league's bravest goalies-- in that he often does come out of the goal area to strip the ball away from attackers who often are too confused by his tactics to do anything about them.

"He's a tough kid," commented Geier. "He's been kicked in the head a few times doing that, but he can take it. But we're doing a good job in front of him, too. Our teams work has been tremendous lately. The teams that are winning are doing it lately- playing team ball. The leading scorers are all from the losing teams, except for Bruce (Tucker, one of the League's best attackers and ball-handlers)."

"Scott hasn't played in goal all season. We didn't use him in there until after the PW & Sons loss (a 3-1 win for PW & Sons). I didn't think our goaltending was too good, so I made the move to Scott. He does a lot of good things for us. I think a goalie may be the hardest man to find on a team."

Skiles said he felt "both goalies are definite candidates for the All-Star team," or the traveling team that will play Stuart and perhaps Port St. Lucie after the season is over, though many feel that Carpet Corner's Teresa Gilbert is the most talented keeper, despite a higher goals-against average.

Van Curen, (I shared goaltending duties with David Duncan at the season's start, but gradually played his way into a full-time role. He has yet to lose a game in which he has played all the way.

"We started practicing a lot more and playing a lot better," noted Van Curen, giving the only explanation he could offer for Angelo's Plumbing's sudden turnaround. I still think we've got a chance to win this thing (the title), but we have to win our two games. They (Aycock's) can be beaten and all that has to happen is for them to lose a couple."

Two of Aycock's Gang's three remaining contests are with Winner's Circle, the fourth place team. Record wise, it would be difficult to envision not one, but two upsets, but weirder things have happened.

"I think they're going to have something to say about the outcome," piped Skiles. "Defensively, we couldn't be playing any better. We've still got a chance."

Beakes off for Sebring, accepts head coaching post

BY DONNIE WILKIE

Ending three weeks of speculation as to his destination, Martin County assistant football coach Ralph "Bud" Beakes announced Monday that he has accepted the job of Head Coach at Sebring High School, pending the approval of the Highlands County School Board.

Beakes was given permission by Martin County High School Principal Bill Cryan to leave the school January 29, and he will begin his job at Sebring on March 3.

Mr. Cryan was very gracious and generous in allowing me to leave, so I can get settled down and get some things started. They (Sebring) don't have a weight program (something I always considers a top priority) and that will give me a chance to get to know a lot of the players."

Former Martin County coach Fred Akins, who Beakes worked under at Stuart High and MCHS, took a circuitous route when he arrived in the fall of 1978 at the local school, moving over spring practice so he could establish his system (Chase even worked out pro pay at that spring practice), then Beakes assumes command of a team seemingly headed nowhere. The Sebring squad went 2-8 in 1979, losing at least 27 of its 40 players to graduation. Neither piece of information is the kind that brings coaches to Martin or even remotely provokes interest.

But if everything had been going as they wouldn't need a coach," added Beakes. "I'll just have to overcome those obstacles and get on with the right track."

"I really feel I've been fortunate," he said. "I'll always have a warm spot in my heart for the people of the community. They've been real nice to me and my family. But this area is just getting too big for me."

Beakes told the new Sebring coach like to be a game with Martin County, although the Tigers are presently moving into the same schedule every year. Sometime in the future?

"But we were at the point where we could compete with them, yes," he replied. "But I've said all along that Gary (Jones) will do a fine job and that they should have a very good team. So we would have to be invited then I'd like to play them in a game.

"I've been talking to them off and on for the last three weeks, and I went up yesterday (Sunday) and worked out the final details. I talked to a few other schools, but I liked the looks of Sebring and I liked some of the answers I got from the athletes. It's the kind of school and community, I was looking for."

Sebring is a city of about 15,000 people.

"I'm a little sad about leaving this area, but I'd rather it be that way than if I wished I had left a week ago."

The 45 year-old Beakes, who joked that "I only plan to have four or five more birthdays, then I'll quit having them," told The Mirror three weeks ago that in all likelihood, he would not be staying at Martin County.

It's showoff time: Central vs. Westwood, Augustine in Deland

If there is any one time in the Fort Pierce Central basketball season where showing off is acceptable, it may be this week. But since Head Coach Bill Wright feels that his third-ranked Cobras have been doing that in the last week, this weekend's games with intra-city rival Westwood and St. Augustine (in Deland Saturday night) may serve only to put the St. Lucians in a serious mood.

Last week, the Cobras laughed their way past Lake Worth, 64-53, and Forest Hill, 79-72, expending little effort while they rolled up leads of 24 and 16 points, watched them disappear, then hung on for their 21st and 22nd victories of the season.

In the latest poll of Florida newspapers, Central is rated third, behind Lakeland and Daytona Mainland.

Is Central as good as Lakeland and Mainland?

Yes, I think we are," conceded Wright. "We've found a way to win 22 games, and there aren't too many teams in the state who have done that. The important thing is that we've won big games on the road. That's what the top teams need to do."

In fact, so far Central has yet to lose at home or in their enemy's gym. There is one catch -- their only loss, to Gainesville, came on a neutral court, in Orlando.

"The one thing we haven't been doing is running up any big scores on inferior teams," noted Wright. "The two teams in front of us have been blowing people out."

An example is Lakeland's 102-50 plastering of Alachua Santa Fe Monday night at the Lakeland Civic Center.

"Westwood will press up and play zone," scouted Wright. "Their zone is more conducive to their fast breaking style of basketball." The Panthers (13-12 entering the week) have an extremely quick team, meaning they have to run to beat FP Central. But that's like throwing yourself into the jaws of a killer whale, as Westwood discovered in its 102-62 munching by the Cobras last month.

Wright came to Central from Deland, where he was an assistant during what he termed "the glory years of Deland basketball, even though we never won a state title." So the second year Cobra mentor would like nothing more than to blow St. Augustine out of Deland, in front of his friends, as well as the Stetson coaches, who have shown a sudden interest in six-foot, seven inch center Mike Toomer.

"We need to get the ball inside to Wilbert (Washington) and Toomer a little bit more," analyzed Wright. "We've been taking that outside shot too often. If we can force the other team to play some defense against us, we'll do even better."

Some may consider the weekend games with Westwood and St. Augustine as warmups for the real show -- next Tuesday's showdown with Twin Lakes for the Suncoast Conference Eastern Division lead, but St. Augustine is a respectable AAA team, having been rated as high as sixth in the state AAA poll earlier in the season.

But he has developed in about the worst situation you can put a young player in. We had no intention of having him on the varsity until we had all the problems. He should have been able to play junior varsity ball and not have to worry about productivity.

"But right now, he has to worry about producing for the team.

Last year, Foreman led an 8-7 Jiddiantown Middle School team to the Area Championship, upsetting Stuart Middle in the final. SMS only lost in two years. He was virtually the "franchise" for the westerners, scoring as many as 47 points in a game.

Still, Wallen stressed patience — especially when it became evident late in pre-season practice that Foreman and SMS standout Mike Bethel would have to play against ball as freshmen. Moses Johnson was the last player to do that, and he has since scored 12 points in a college game against South Carolina.

In other words, the expectations were high.

"I don't think they expected too much," answered Foreman. "It's my first year on varsity, and most of them waited and stuck with me pretty good."

In some of his early appearances, Foreman more resembled a 10,000 pound piece of granite than a swift basketball player. Against Fort Pierce Central, he seemed rigid in every way, drawing a charging foul) for stampeding a defender and taking a timid shot that bounced innocently off the front of the rim.

"I was scared of doing the wrong thing — of taking a bad shot," reflected Foreman. "I looser now than at the start of the year. I think that watching the other players from the bench has helped. When someone makes a mistake, I would notice it and try not to do the same thing when I played."

Soon, there were signs.

A neat 18 footer in a crucial situation against Leonard, two sparkling drives to the basket against that same Central team in their second meeting, and finally, 17 and 18 points, respectively, in last week's games, a victory over PB Gardens (84-72) and a loss to tenth ranked AAAA Twin Lakes (83-68).

"He's coming around," noted Wallen. "The biggest thing is his playing time has tripled, giving him a better opportunity to do things. He seems more relaxed now, and has started taking the ball in to the basket."

The one area that concerned Wallen before was Foreman's inability to snare rebounds, despite his tremendous jumping ability. Now, though, the guard is picking off seven or eight per game, and Wallen is beginning to sense a little more often.

"He might have been a little unsure at first," observed Dan England, his coach at JMS. "It's a little more physical in there than what he was used to, and it took him some time to get used to it. Jeff's been thrown into a situation where he has to play, and learn from his own mistakes on the floor. That's a difficult position to be in.

Nevertheless, there are reminders of Wallen's warning about patience. After one bad shot in practice, with a JV player all over him, the coach growled, "Jeff, you're not going to shoot 20 percent if you take all your shots with someone's hands in your face."

Still, I can't wait until he records his first dunk during a game, and then the crowd goes wacko. The house will come down, said one coach.

Patience, everyone — patience.

Accessory storage buildings for the purpose of storing garden lawn care equipment and similar pieces of household equipment, provided such building is attached to the rear of the principal structure, except as herein provided.

(4) The accessory storage buildings must be landscaped on three (3) sides.

SECTION 2. Each Application to locate an accessory storage building away from the principal structure shall be accompanied by a fee of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars.

Up With People wows locals

Up with People is a whole lot more than a whole lot of music.

That slogan is approven to be true on Wednesday night at Martin County High School and again on Saturday at the St. Lucie County Civic Center.

On those dates, at those places, the International musical group Up With People turned on Martin and St. Lucie audiences to the idea that "people are the energy."

The one hundred 18 to 26 year olds that comprise the case of Up With People radiated that energy to more than 42 countries last year, with Stuart and Ft. Pierce being the group's latest stops.

The show was more than music, more than dance, more than audience participation, although all of these were a part of it.

It was a celebration of twentieth century life on earth, a positive expression of being.

The show was more than good-it was joyous.

Watching the audience reaction to Up With People was a show in itself.

Filling the gymnasium of Martin County High School were elderly people in wheel chairs, wide-eyed youngsters holding the hands of their parents, teenagers sitting amid their pals.

None were out of place. No individual seemed to belong more than any other. The show they were about to see was designed to be universal. Up With People was created for every age, race and class of people on the earth.

Included in the cast were men and women from over 30 nations, each bringing with them a taste of their own culture.

This was particularly evident in the International Medley portion of the show, when Up With People brought the music and folk dances of Poland, Canada, the United States, Ireland, Belgium, Spain, China and Mexico to local audiences. Where possible, the medleys were introduced by a cast member of the nation to be recognized.

The enthusiasm of the Up With People cast is infectious.

Ten minutes into the show, members of the audience were clapping, singing, and parading on the stage along with the cast. Smiles claimed the faces of spectators, and concern over world problems was soon forgotten-at least temporarily.

Following a final chorus of the Up With People theme song, cast members interviewed young spectators who expressed an interest in joining the group.

The five Up With People casts change every year, giving 500 new youths annually the opportunity to travel across the globe and become acquainted with a myriad of different peoples and cultures.

On Monday, following the Ft. Pierce show, the cast of Up With People left the area to begin a tour through South America, with Venezuela being the first stop.

Stuart and Ft. Pierce audiences were not left empty hearted however. They received a message that will reach thousands of persons all over the world in 1980.

If more people were for people, all people everywhere, there would be a lot less people to worry about and a lot more people who care.

That is the simple message that is so effectively "projected" by Up With People.

The Martin County High School Band will preform a concert beginning at 2:30 p.m., and a colorful Grand Procession starts at 3 p.m. Many local civic, religious and service organizations will march in the procession.

American Legion Post 126 Commander Thomas Flanagan will lead the Pledge of Allegiance, and Harvy Hiltz, Post chaplain will give the invocation.

The Rev. John Coffey of All Saints will welcome the audience and participants, and Dick Campbell, president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will introduce the guests.

When he retired from the Army in 1973, he took on the post as executive assistant in the Bishop for the Armed Services, and in 1977 was named Bishop's Suffragan for the Armed Services. The next year he was appointed Bishop-in-charge of the Episcopal Church in Micronesia.

Following Bishop Burgreen's address, there will be a Massing of the Colors, then a benediction by the Rev. Gerald Morris of St. Martin de Porres Catholic Church in Jensen Beach.

DOT seeks traffic answers

BY DICK CAMPBELL

...Wacha responded to requests of the ...nsen Beach Chamber of Commerce ...the tie-up of traffic on SR 707 ...dian River Drive) at Confimercial ...ve, and potential solutions.

Also ...er consideration would be ...mmercial two-way traffic with the ...turn omitted from Indian River ...e northbound, and the left turn ...uted on Ricou, and other ...inations of one-way and two-way ... with lights used to facilitate ...e moving.

Greenamyer said that he hoped to work out a solution using a side road to bring about the DOT-requested angle for traffic.

A potential solution to the intersection of Indian River Drive and Causeway Blvd. has north and southbound traffic making a stop at the road with east and westbound traffic off Indian River Drive having the right of way. The problem with this is that the Causeway road is maintained by the county and SR 707 is maintained by the state.

Greenamyer said that in most cases, the county is subservient to state roads, but soon, he added, the Causeway Blvd. would become maintained by the state.

Chamber of Commerce officials must wait until DOT traffic studies are complete before offering them to the people.

Winter tourist season booms in spite of gasoline shortage

With the threat of a recession just around the corner and with a shortage in gasoline supplies in the area, you'd think business here would be lousy.

But a Mirror survey of some businesses in the Jensen Beach area indicates that most everyone contacted is having a whale of a winter season.

Several merchants reported this is the best season ever, while many others said it has been as good as they expected, even though in some instances they say folks are calling to make sure they're open before coming to their stores.

At the Art Mart on SR 707 in Rio, Bob Kelly reported, "My business has just been wild. It has never been as busy as this. It amazes me, because you would think it (the gas shortage) would have an effect, since I'm somewhat off the beaten path. But this is the best season ever."

Sandy Pazay at the Village Corner in downtown Jensen was also elated over business this season. She noted this has been their third season in business and that this one has topped the two previous winter seasons. "It's been good, just ask my feet," she said.

A spokesman at The Paint Shed on Commercial Street said business has been "pretty good" and that the gas situation does not seem to have affected sales.

At Poor Bob's Restaurant by the causeway, a spokesman said the gas shortage has not affected business, but at the Villa Capri Restaurant on SR 707, Gene McKillop said things have been quieter than they usually are in a winter season. "We haven't had as many people coming here from Port St. Lucie or Stuart as we used to have," he said, and added that business has not only been slow all winter, but was also slower than normal last summer. He said he felt the gas situation was the major factor.

At Hers by Tina, a spokeswoman said the gas shortage does not seem to have affected business, but she said people are calling to make sure the store is open or that the store has the item they're looking for before they come.

K. Clayton Mills of The House of Hearing in the Sun Coast Plaza said business has been pretty good lately. However, he said it was not very good in December or January. December was his worst ever, and he said, "January is normally one of my better months, but it was very poor this January. This month hasn't been bad at all though," he said.

Mills said his is the sort of business that "runs hot and cold" but he said "I can't say gas has been a deciding factor."

"I have had people call me to ask if I'd be here so they wouldn't have to waste gas coming here if I wasn't open," he said.

Al Chapman of T-N-T Appliances on Commercial Street said business this season has been "fantastic." He said the gas shortage has not affected business at all, but added, "Ours is mostly service calls, so we go to them instead of them to us."

Roy Nuttall of Ebb Tide Apartments and Effeseencies on Indian River Drive said business was "very quiet in December and January, but we're full now through mid March." He said he is normally full from December through March, "but I wouldn't say gas is the main concern." He said he felt business was slow at the beginning of the season because it was warmer than normal up north, so folks didn't come down until it got cold. He had only one cancellation due to the gas situation and he said most folks staying there seem to do as much shopping as they normally do.

At the Outrigger Resort on Indian River Drive, a spokeswoman said "Business has been pretty good. We've had no vacancies for some time and it looks like we'll be pretty full through this month and next."

A woman at Coral Reef Motel on Indian River Drive said she has the same tenants year after year and they're here, as usual. "Some are disgusted that they are having trouble getting gas to go places," she said, but said until there is no gas, it shouldn't affect business.

At the Bridge View Motel on Indian River Drive, business was slow in January but there has been only one night in February when there was a vacancy. A spokeswoman said traffic on the drive in front of the motel doesn't seem to be as heavy this year as some others, but said business at the motel looks good through Easter.

And, at the Holiday Inn Oceanside, a woman said business has been good and should continue to be so through this month and next.

Gas drives some back home early

Though area merchants seem to be pretty much in agreement that this has been a good winter tourist season, that doesn't mean all our tourists are happy with the state of affairs in Jensen Beach.

Dale Engle of Jensen Beach Texaco reports that in recent days he has talked to seven people who say they plan to cut their winter stay in Jensen short.

"Of the seven people who told me they are leaving early to go back north, one said it was because of our weather and six said it was because of the gas situation. They said they're tired of having to wait for gas and that they hear there are no problems with gas back where they came from," Engle said.

When told that a Mirror survey of area businesses indicated that the tourist season seems to be as good or better than most businessmen expected, Engle replied, "Yes, I'd have to say it's been that way for me too. I've done a good business this season. But, I don't know how it will hold up if a lot of folks leave earlier than normal."

Dr. Penick heads Jensen Art Festival

The 14th annual Jensen Beach Outdoor Art Festival, planned for March 1 and 2, will be headed by Dr. Richard Q. Penick, it was announced this week.

The event is sponsored by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and features artists from all over the United States, plus many local artists. Over fifty artists have already pre-registered for the event to be held at Langford Park.

Penick invited artists in South Florida to display in the show. Interested artists can register by mailing their name and address, and $3 registration fee to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce Art Festival, 1910 Commercial Street, Jensen Beach, Fl. 33457, or by coming to the Chamber office to register.

All paintings must be an original, executed by the artist, in oil, acrylic, water or pastel. There will be no judging, but if offered for sale, must be priced on a 3-by-5 inch card bearing the name of the artist.

Exhibitors can request display space along the ball field fence, or bring their own display panels to erect on the ball field.

The art festival committee, consisting of Penick, Ernie Baker, Jayne Peterson, and Dr. William Hogan, will meet Wednesday afternoon at 5 p.m. at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant to discuss final planning for the festival.

Sewall's Point delays decision on lot split

The Sewall's Point Commissioners recently held one of their last meetings before the new slate of officials are elected on March 4. The only incumbent running will be Mayor Edward H. Gluckler, with Clinton Towl remaining until '82 for the duration of his tenure.

Those whose names will appear on the ballot are: Dr. Vincent Miraglia, 58; H. Dale Hoffa Jr., 53; Gilbert Scrubell, 76; William E. Barton, 42; and Mayor Ed. Gluckler, 68. Dana De Windt was the only candidate for the two year term left vacant by John C. Guenther's resignation. Although the ages vary considerably, the election is, for all the candidates with the exception of Gluckler, an introduction to politics.

Under discussion last week was a proposed lot split by Dr. David Nehme. The irregular riverfront piece which has 200 feet on the water and is over 400 feet in depth, does not meet with the town's minimum 120 feet necessary for a lot split.

Commissioner Earl Crawford, apparently upset when it looked as though the proposal might be approved, said he felt that to pass such a measure was a flagrant violation of town ordinances. Other commissioners seemed to agree that by allowing this items to pass, the town would be open to further deviations from residents. After considerable discussion, the commissioners decided to turn the issue over to the next upcoming work session for further debate.

Nehme, defended his position contending that his lot was purchased before the issuance of the new ordinance, and said that now he was being told he couldn't implement his original intent to divide. Nehme wanted to know if games were being played, noting that his request for a lot split had been tied up for several months.

To date, Nehme has filed suit against the town, challenging its basic zoning ordinances.

Brought before the commissioners at the meeting was the problem over several projects that require maintenance, such as the Archipelago bridge, various streets, and the Knowles culvert. Since most of the commission are felt the town was now becoming large enough to require the full-time services of a contractor, city engineer Richard Hellstrom, approached Dickerson, Inc. on the matter. Hellstrom relayed to the meeting that Dickerson, although willing if need be to help, did not have the manpower to drag crews away from large projects in lieu of Sewall's Point odds and ends repairs. According to Hellstrom, a Dickerson official said he could make more money and have more fun selling pencils on the street corner. Commissioners have decided to look into finding a small run outfit and possibly putting them on retainer.

Treasure Coast may seek to run buses in Martin County

BY MICHELLE NASPINSKI

When you move people around they spend money; when they stay at home, they don't.

That is what former Port St. Lucie city manager and current representative of Treasure Coast Bus Lines Elmer Cox called "the name of the game" in the busing business.

Cox appeared before the Port St. Lucie city council Tuesday to request an exclusive five to ten year franchise for the Ft. Pierce company within the city.

He also mentioned that the company is seriously considering bringing the bus service into Jensen Beach and possibly Stuart.

At present, Treasure Coast has a Public Service Commission certificate that enables the company to service all of St. Lucie County. A modified PSC certificate would have to be obtained in order to extend service into Martin County.

If enough interest in going south is shown, explained Cox, Treasure Coast may approach the municipal and county government bodies for necessary approvals.

Although the Monday "trial run" of the buses through Port St. Lucie was less than triumphant, Treasure Coast president Jake Reddick said the company will "try again" in the near future.

"We were an hour and a half behind schedule and for that I have to apologize," explained Reddick, "our driver got lost from the starting point."

Both Reddick and Cox named Port St. Lucie's expansive 70 square miles as the major cause of Monday's foul-up.

The bus was supposed to leave 25th Street in Ft. Pierce at 7 a.m. and make its first stop at the Methodist Church on Prima Vista Blvd. in Port St. Lucie. From there it was to run down Airoso to Port St. Lucie Blvd. to Westmoreland, and then Morningside to Sandpaper Bay.

The return [illegible] was to run to Morningside to U.S. 1, following U.S. 1 to Midport Road, on Midport to Port St. Lucie Blvd., then north on Floresta to Prima Vista and back to the Methodist Church. The bus was then to take U.S. 1 to the two Spanish Lakes recreation centers, north to the St. Lucie Plaza shopping center and then north to Ft. Pierce.

The bus was also to pick up anyone hailing it from one of the major U.S. 1 intersections. The one-way fare for this ride was tentatively set at $1.35.

Cox called upon the council to publicly recognize the difficulty of setting up a transportation system in a city the size of Port St. Lucie and he apologized for the muddled trial-run.

"I can see why this trial was unsuccessful," commented Mayor William McChesney, "there was absolutely no time table. At least have key points so people know when they can expect to see the bus."

Cox mentioned the "very good possibility" of constructing a bus station in Port St. Lucie, so as to alleviate some of the confusion.

"It depends on the demand," said Cox, "we may have one in Port St. Lucie in three months to a year."

Cox revealed that Treasure Coast has received over 2,000 indications of intent to purchase monthly bus passes from residents in the general Port St. Lucie area if the proposed franchise can be obtained from the city council. Cox said that routes may be formalized and buses put into operation very soon.

"This will be a first class transportation system," said Cox, "it will be an asset to the whole area."

Similarly, a map of Port St. Lucie [illegible] may prove to be a valuable asset to the Treasure Coast bus drivers who are assigned to the new PSL route.

700 S. FEDERAL HWY., STUART.
WHERE ROUTE 714 CUTS OFF TO PALM CITY

We invite every freedom loving and concerned citizen who is sick and tired of watching our great country go down the drain because of what we have in Washington. We should never again elect an unknown without thoroughly investigating his background, his history, his organizations and past records. TV commercials that say nothing and handshaking doesn't necessarily guarantee the best choice. Analyze the records!!

Our resources are depleted; our energy is dwindling, we are fast losing our friends that have been tramped on while we pour millions into enemy countries. When, in your lifetime, do you remember the U.S. admitting our military inferiority? Let's not let the king-makers pick a President again. We allowed it before, and look at what we got. Bureaucrats and Politicians are stealing us blind.

You can help elect RONALD REAGAN: Join us! Come in or call! Make some phone calls, address mail, stuff envelopes. If you can't help physically, campaign contributions can always be used to inform the public. Friends, we just may be fighting the fight to save our great Country, and the freedoms our forefathers gave us, from perishing.

Phone us for Reagan info, schedules and speeches. He'll be speaking at an open meeting in West Palm Beach on Feb. 22, Palm Beach Junior College, 10:30 A.M.

The Jensen Beach Art Festival will be held on March 1-2 at Langford Park. In conjunction with it, the Jensen Beach Lions are planning a breakfast pancake feed for the Sunday of the show.

The art festival will be one of the major events of the Chamber this year, and is an insight into the good works and artistry of not only our residents of St. Lucie and Martin Counties, but also of the many who come to Jensen Beach from many states in the Nation to display their works.

The Lions Club joins in to provide a food service that benefits their good works.

The following week there will be the annual Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Chicken Fry at Langford Park. Kiwanians use the ever-popular Frances Langford Outrigger chicken recipe to prepare over 1,000 dinners. Profits from the chicken fry go to the youth projects of the Kiwanis Club.

On the 15th of March, the annual Martin Memorial Hospital Ball will be held, with a goal of over $100,000 to provide more equipment for the hospital, a non-profit operation.

The Martin County Heart Fund tennis tournament will be held on March 1 and 2 at Indian River Plantation, another benefit where fun is combined with a good cause to raise money.

God and Country Day is not a fund raiser, but a raiser of religious and patriotic fervor. It is free and an impressive and uplifting occasion held at Florida Institute of Technology on this Sunday, February 24.

Soon to come are other events, including the annual Jensen Chamber of Commerce turtle watches. The annual Independence Day celebration on the Jensen Beach Causeway, would be even more spectacular than that of last year.

It is important to remember that all these events are the work of many volunteers giving of their time and money to make the community area better. They are a sign of a healthy community.

That is why we love living here.

Rain, rain go away

Enough is enough.
We realize that the rains good for the grass, that the colder weather makes the sugar run in the citrus and that the days and days and days of sunshine can sometimes get boring here in sunshine-land.

But, enough is enough.
We have had the rain up to here. Too much.

All join together.
Rain, rain, go away. Come again some other day.
I wish I may, I wish I might. No, that's not right.

Semper Fidelis

The Legion and a Church, today,
Have proved by their endeavor
That Faith in God and Country
Prevails as strong as ever.

But Faith must never waiver.
If our ideals are to last,
And our future is to be as bright
As our historic past

A Penny-ante clothes horse

At the risk of making all the retail shops in the area mad at me, you don't have to spend a bunch of bucks to be well-dressed these days. All you need is a map of the thrift shop route.

In the past few weeks, I have acquired two elegant vests, three shirts, and a pair of slacks, any one of which would have originally been beyond the scope of my slender purse, at a total cost of less than ten bucks.

In addition, I am now the proud possessor of a handsome table lamp, a couple of extra good looking lamp shades, a knife sharpener and a lovely set of buttons, for my 12 year old winter coat, a john seat cover, several books and a jigsaw puzzle, with the whole tab coming to just under $15.

And that's not even to mention the two sturdy end tables, a real splurge at $20 for the two. If I keep it up, at this rate I can crowd myself right out of the house for the price of a tank of the gas it is taking me to make it from thrift shop to junk store to thrift shop.

The buttons were the biggest find. I'd lost every button from my ancient and honorable fake fur coat, which had cost me $35 at a Three Sisters when the first snow storm I'd experienced after ten years of the good life in Florida hit Chattanooga.

In this era of zippers, have you tried finding any good looking buttons lately? Having spent one entire summer of my life, while working in my mother's antique shop, sorting, matching and carding a barrel full of antique buttons, I took it for granted every dealer in antiquities must be up to their Spode spittoons in buttons.

Hence, when I first started my search, I automatically began on the antique shops, fully prepared to pay for through the nose for whatever I found.

But I drew a blank. People either just don't collect buttons anymore, or they're all collected up by private button squirrels, because within a radius of 50 miles, I couldn't find a dealer who had any or was interested in getting any. The button market, it would seem, is buttoned up.

I'd just about given up on my quest when the other day, hospital business took me into the vicinity of St. Mary's Episcopal thrift shop, a trove I hadn't explored before. The first thing that hit my eye was a box full of buttons. And surfacing right near the top were a couple of beauts—just the kind I'd been looking for. Excited, I began fishing, and found three more like it—just perfect for my coat, and obviously taken from a garment of far more elegant origin than the junk fur I had in mind for them.

How much? Five, I repeat, five cents apiece.

The buttons are already on my coat, thereby assuring no more fur coat weather for the rest of the winter.

Another new blessing in my life came to me from the Community Church Thrift Shop on Commercial Street. Until lately, I've been a consistent hold-out on electric can openers, considering them effete, overmechanized destroyers of good old American initiative. Sally, I kept telling myself, anything you're too lazy to open with a hook can opener, you don't deserve to have.

Since my operation last year, though, my tune changed. All that good Yankee strength drained out of my wrists, and I found myself running crying to the neighbors for help. But I was still too cheap or too broke to dash out and spend 15 bucks for one of the little mechanical crutches.

I was browsing my way around the Commercial Street shop, already having snatched a 50 cent shirt (which had to have cost at least $20 new) and a stunning vest that looked like Sachs Fifth Avenue for $2, off the rack, when I spotted the electric can opener. How much? $2. I've been off and running with it ever since, and now open cans for a hobby instead of playing solitaire.

By now, I had the second-hand fever. Friend Eve and I went swooping across the junk shop landscape like the Vandals through Rome, sacking every thrillery in our path — a lamp for five bucks from the Catholic shop on Savanna Road — an amber tooth pick holder from the Lighthouse Mission — dishes and a jigsaw puzzle from the Animal Attic — there was no stopping us.

It was at the Animal Attic that I found out you'd better be careful what you put down, anywhere in sight. Two nice lady volunteers had been on duty during our visit, and one was just preparing to leave.

"Where's my purse?" asked the gal who was leaving.

"What did it look like?" asked the other. "I think I sold it."

The clothes at all the shops were so attractive and temptingly cheap that it was hard to resist anything that fit. I came away with stacks.

Of course, I recognize the hazard of wearing them. Any day, I expect someone to come up and tell me she knows just where I buy my clothes, because she gave that shirt to the thrift shop.

I'm ready with an answer:

"Isn't it nice, my dear, that we both have the same good taste?"

Gaffe: a social blunder

Why me? Why can't I just be the kind of person who stays in the background. Why can't I just keep my big mouth shut?

Why? I'll explain.

When I was a child, my father once said to me: "If you can make one person smile each day, you will not only live an enriched life, but will also enrich the lives of many others." I was so impressed with that it kinda became my philosophy.

Last Saturday, after tennis, we were sitting in the bar. One guy was in a wheelchair, a paraplegic. I had just finished my scotch, and he his Bloody Mary, and I said: "Let's have another. After all, you can't walk on one leg."

See what I mean?

Recently, I was stood up for lunch, and several days later the guy called me.

"I'm sorry, Dick, but I couldn't make it for lunch."

Good grief. I sat there for two hours waiting. You could have called, or did you just forget?" I said impatiently.

Well, you see, Dick my father died.

I paused, embarassed, and said, "You'll do anything to get out of having lunch with me."

Another time, I was introduced to a nice lady whom I recognized but didn't remember. I tried to think at what social affair I had seen her, but couldn't. As the introducer said, "You remember, Mrs. so-and-so, don't you?", I countered with, "Oh, yes, we've had several affairs together." A few days later, her husband offered to punch me in the nose.

It is obvious that some people think that "affair" is the same as "affaire."

When I was introduced to the new president of the Chamber of Commerce in Stuart, I said, "We'll have to have an affair some time." Ray Navitsky shook his head and said, "Don't mind him, he's a nut."

One of the best was when I was in Washington, D.C. I had ridden up there on the phone with Skip Bafalis. He noted my broken leg, and offered me a ride to my hotel.

Skip explained that he had to rush to the House for a committee meeting, and his driver would drop me off afterward.

As we drove toward my hotel, I questioned the youth behind the wheel. He was a political science major at Washington University there, and was from Florida.

Somehow the discussion got around to our then Governor Claude Kirk. I said I felt he was a power-mad jerk who had acted like a clown in office, and set the Republican Party back four years by his actions.

"Yes," said the young man, "Some people feel that way about Dad."

It even extends beyond me and into the newspaper. Perhaps the biggest gaffe perpetrated by The Mirror had to do with a savings and loan.

I had designed an ad with the headline: "The Best Business Partner I Ever Had." It showed a man dressed in a business suit pointing to the headline. It had a lot of white space in it.

When we shot the pages on the camera, one ad on the previous page, advertising a bowling alley south of Stuart, stuck to the glass on the camera. When we put the page on with the ad for the savings and loan, the bowling alley ad seated right in the white space, looking for all the world like it was a part of the advertisement.

Unfortunately, the savings and loan association had just filed foreclosure on the bowling alley.

If I could just control the knee-jerk reactions to situations, in which I blurt out without thinking, I would keep more friends. But, afterall, they have put up with me for a long time, and recognize my comments for what they are.

A few weeks ago, I learned that the Golden Greek had leased the former Yates Funeral Home building at Commercial and Savanna Road, and were moving Greek One Liquor Store there, adding a lounge with music.

"Is it going to be 'live' music?" I began.

Women and the draft

Ever since President Carter said women should be registered for the draft, there has been a lot of public comment on the issue.

So, I may as well throw in my two cents worth.

I'm against women being drafted, or even registered for it.

But for a different reason than those who say our nation's men should do the protecting and our women should stay at home.

Women are extremely complex and I must admit I've given up trying to figure them out. But, underneath all their complexity, there is at least one thing that can be said about them all: they're humans.

So far as I know, only two types of humans inhabit this world, male and female humans.

For ages, the men have done the fighting, and have, for the most part, been the breadwinners. Until very recently, the typical family consisted of a working man and a woman who remained at home — barefoot and pregnant.

Since the Women's Liberation movement gathered steam and began making inroads in the way we think about the roles men and women should play in society, the barefoot and pregnant notion about women has become less popular. On many fronts, women have broken new ground.

A host of occupations which were closed to women only a decade ago are now open.

One of the arguments I've heard repeated often in recent weeks is that since women are now earning equal rights, they should bear equal responsibilities.

I agree with that logic. Women should assume equal responsibilities in exchange for equal rights.

But in spite of the inroads women have made toward gaining equal rights, they have still not achieved their goal. Sure, they can now hold jobs that only men held a decade ago. But that applies only in some cases, and all too often, they don't get equal pay for the same tasks their male counterparts perform.

The mere passage of the Equal Rights Amendment would not automatically put women on an equal footing. It takes years to change attitudes. But it would be a major step in that direction. And until women are legally granted equal rights, I can't buy the argument that they should have to share equal responsibilities. Pass the ERA first, then I can agree with sticking women with burdens equal to men.

But there is more to the issue than just equal rights or equal responsibilities. And that's the draft itself.

Regardless of whether or not women are included in the draft, the idea of resuming it is frightening to me.

Too many good lives were lost in Vietnam in a war that I think history will show was not a war our people were behind. The war tore our nation apart, and we're still feeling the repercussions.

And it not been for readily available quantities of American troops, the war would not have lasted as long nor cost so many lives.

And it scares me that if we amass another great quantity of young bodies in military suits, the temptation to use them will be greater.

Lately, world events have served to bring the nation together and to put us in a mood to beef up our military. We're tired of being pushed around, of having some third rate nation humiliate us, and we're determined not to let the Soviets run rampant over the world.

In fact, some folks are fed up with what's been happening to our nation that they seem to be itching for a chance to strike out; to attack most anything or anyone just to show we are a strong and mighty nation.

It's hard not to get caught up in the tide that's sweeping our country, and I'd hate to have my comments construed as unpatriotic.

But forcing our 19 and 20 year old young men and women to serve in the military may be more of an invitation than a deterrent to war. I hope the draft is used only as a last resort, and not as a means to rattle our sabers.

If our nation is genuinely threatened, I think you'll find no shortage of folks signing up to fight. But I think in the wake of Vietnam, it's going to be awfully tough to draft men or women without making it clear that the sacrifice they would be making is worth it. And, without showing that the entire nation, and not just those unlucky enough to be 19 or 20 years old, are willing to make equal sacrifices.

QUESTION: I am curious. I am sure that in the course of your daily routine you run into many questions that you don't have ready answers for. Where do you get all of the information on the questions that arise relating to real estate? Do you have a huge library, or is there some other source?

ANSWER: There is a source that is available to me as a Realtor which is extremely useful. DEATH & TAXES

"Nothing is certain but death and taxes."

—Benjamin Franklin

This time of year there is no way we can avoid thinking about taxes. But most of us prefer to avoid discussing the topic of death.

Yet death is one of the certainties of life. It will come as surely as April 15, yet never quite as expectedly. And if you haven't had the foresight to prepare, the result is your family is left in a state of confusion as well as sadness. They will have to make tough personal and financial decisions at a time when least able to think about them rationally.

You can avoid this. Forest Hills Memorial Park has special gardens available. Veterans, Catholic, and non-sectarian, in addition to cremation niches and mausoleum internment available now. And while it may seem strange buying crypt space when you're healthy and full of life, you should make important decisions while you are calm and clear-headed. You also avoid the added cost inflation will certainly tack on to burials over the years. (If Benjamin Franklin were alive today he would probably add inflation to his list of certainties.) Procrastination will only force your family into purchasing in the future, when available facilities will surely be more expensive and less selective.

We have a trained staff of counselors who can help you with your burial plans. In addition, we offer a free Family Portfolio Record File, a guide that can help you assemble the kinds of essential information that becomes immediately necessary on death. For more information, or to make an appointment to tour our mausoleum and beautiful cemetery, fill out and mail the coupon below. Or call 287-8647. As Benjamin Franklin also said, "Never leave that till tomorrow which you can do today."

Miami Chamber to perform

The Miami Chamber Trio and guest artist, Arnold Grayson, will perform at 8:00 p.m. Friday, Feb. 22 in the Frances Langford Evinrude Little Theater on the F.I.T. campus.

This will be the fifth concert presented this season by the Committee for the Performing Arts at F.I.T. Once again, there will be no admission charge.

The Trio consists of Christine Neild (flute), Michael Scherperel (harpsichord and piano), and Mik Groninger (bass). Guest artist, Arnold Grayson, is world renowned for his performances on the recorder.

A varied program ranging from Bach's "Flute Sonata in E Major," and "Telemann's Quartet in D Minor" to an arrangement of Japanese folk songs is planned.

This is the second performance by the Miami Chamber Trio in this area. Two years ago, they proved the highlight of the first season presented by the Committee for the Performing Arts at F.I.T.

Prior to the concert, photographs by faculty and students of F.I.T. will be on display in the auditorium adjacent to the theater. Concertgoers are urged to take advantage of this exhibition.

The committee suggests that those desiring good seats should plan to arrive early. The concert series has become so popular that some latecomers were unable to find seats at the last concert. Car pooling is also urged to alleviate parking problems as well as conserving gas.

FIT Campus News

By Daniel M. Saskowsky

CLOGGING—Saturday's bluegrass festival at FIT was pretty much a come as you are event, but a number of girls celebrated the music and warm weather by wearing typical "clogging" attire. The gathered skirts and western boots have come to characterize the popular folk dance form.

Filling in a cultural void at F.I.T.

BY DANIEL M. SASKOWSKY

This is the third in a series of articles on the impact that the Florida Institute of Technology has on the communities of Jensen Beach, Stuart and the bi-county area of Martin and St. Lucie.

When FIT opened its Jensen Beach campus in 1972, the administration recognized a need not only for technical training, but also for a broad general education in the humanities.

This opportunity to become familiar with the arts is offered to the students as well as to the community.

Why, in this technological age, is an emphasis being placed on the study of humanities? According to Dr. Blaine Kauffman, Humanities professor at FIT, art appeals to the technical mind. The ancient Greeks considered art to be a branch of mathematics. Throughout history, scientific events have influenced art. "Every art is the result of applied science," Kauffman stated. It is a vehicle to express human experience."

Students at FIT, although training to become technicians and technologists, are given the opportunity to study the humanities. An introductory course in humanities is required for all students. Courses such as Bronowski's "Ascent of Man" series or Allistair Cooke's "America" series are offered as electives. College has to be more than job training. It must include awareness of the world: past, present and future.

In the opinion of Dr. William Gehring, Academic Dean at FIT, it is the moral responsibility of a teaching institution to present cultural events and opportunities. An atmosphere must be created for those who want it. As the only private college or university in the two-county area, FIT has recognized its responsibility to provide cultural events for the community. The Committee for The Performing Arts presents seven concerts annually. These concerts are free and opened to the public. The FIT library, a federal depository, is open to the public, and its technical and cultural collections provide a valuable research and literary source for individual citizens, business enterprises, and other organizations.

Society requires people with sufficient education to take part in decision making. As we approach the second millenium, important decisions will have to be made that will affect the quality of life for years to come. FIT provides an institution for students and the community to educate themselves for the important task of shaping the future.

Next week: Continuing education.

FAMILY GATHERING—FIT's recent Bluegrass music festival was cause enough for some to gather the family together and head out to the grassy "bowl" where the concert was held. The clear skies and warm temperatures of Saturday made the day even more perfect for bluegrass lovers.

Fisheries management students at FIT are conducting a creel census

If, while out fishing, you are approached by an FIT student who asks you about your catch, he probably has more than a casual interest.

In fact your answers to his questions about fishing will be used by the FIT fisheries management class for assessment of sport fishing in the Martin-St. Lucie-Indian River county area. But this is no isolated effort. Dr. Randy Hogg and Dr. Mike Hartman, who teach the fisheries management course to senior Environmental Technology majors, have arranged to have the class participate in the nationwide "survey being conducted by the National Marine Fisheires Service of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Not only are the students authorized agents of the Federal government but they have taken part in a training program and passed a fish identification test given in Ft. Lauderdale. FIT is the only Florida school participating in this national survey of fishing (called a creel census) and students will gain valuable experience which may help them obtain jobs after graduation.

Students will interview fishermen who are completing a fishing trip and will gather data on hours of fishing effort, place, and time of fishing, species, lengths and weights of fish caught and cost of the fishing trip. The survey has recently begun and will run for at least the next four months.

All data gathered by this survey and an accompanying phone survey will be computer analyzed by Human Sciences Research, a Virginia based consulting firm, and then used to formulate national policy on sport fishing. Mr. Michael Walsh, Florida creel census director with HSR says that this is the largest survey of any kind being conducted this year in the country with the exception of the U.S. census.

Tony shows the proper way to set up for a long-distance cast

Tony Battaglia demonstrates surf casting skills

The chance of a fish surviving in local waters will undoubtable be diminishing in future weeks, as scores of local residents are learning more about how to bring the big one home.

The Martin County Angler's Club and the Jensen Beach Community Education Center are sponsoring a five-week course on how to catch fish, and response to the course has been overwhelming. At the first lesson at Jensen Elementary, it was standing room only for 230 people. Will Bowman gave tips on bridge fishing and Tony Battaglia spoke on surf casting. Then, on Saturday, Battaglia gave a demonstration of surf casting techniques at the beach.

A crowd of 106 persons gathered to watch Battaglia show off his skills, in spite of overcast skies.

In the past few years that Battaglia has lived here since moving down from up north, he has earned a reputation as an expert surf caster, and he showed the crowd why on Saturday. Consistently, he got off long-distance casts, and, he said, the secret is in letting the pole, not the angler, do the work.

Many folks in the crowd seem to have learned valuable tips on surf casting. That should make for happier anglers and unhappy fish. As if to prove that point, when Battaglia was wrapping up the demonstration, he made one last cast and brought in a good-sized bluefish.

Short of gasoline? Take the Council on Aging bus

Seniors are coping with a short supply of $1.25 gasoline and of course gripping plenty, but some sans relief in Rana Conser's letter to the Editor last week, explaining the MCCA Courtesy Bus service. The bus on 24 hour notice will take those over 60 without "wheels" to the doctor, hospital, shopping etc. 283-2242. However, the car less widows under 60 and those 1980 retirees with old vintage gas guzzlers in the yard, do not qualify and will still have to rely on neighbors and car pools.

There may be some relief by expanding the use of the local Treasure Coast Senior Service bus, that at present is used to transport participants to the nutritional meals at Langford park. It can be used for escort service mornings and for trips, nights and weekends, if some details of chauffeuring and scheduling can be worked out and modifying of qualifications, as those who's budget won't stand another $10.00 for ½ tank of gas, will be eligible.

"Inflation" is a "hot" item again and one 1980 retiree remarked that 20 years ago, they thought they were "sitting pretty" and now they are behind the 8 ball and hopes that the present 1980 retirees in 20+ years (2000 A.D.) won't have the same sad awakening. So, having a new calculator, he came up with the following fantastic figures.

Making these conservative assumptions, a couple that just retired has expenses of $6000 yr.; income $6480 (Soc. Sec. $4800 & fixed $2800); leaving an unspent balance of $2400. Remember this is a no frills case, but it does look pretty good as 25 percent of their income is left over.

But, there is a 10 percent or better inflation to contend with and according to many economists, that's what it is going to be for a long while, or worse. So, that $6000 expense will grow to $40,000 by year 2000 (hard to believe, but true). The Soc. Sec. which follows inflation each year, will have grown to $32,400, plus the fixed income of $3600, making the total income of year 2000 only $36,000, or $4000 less than needed, leaving the 1980 retiree, like the 1960 one of today, way behind the 8 ball.

The break even point will be reached in 1981, so futile as it may be, the 1980 retiree should plead with "Folks-in-High-Places" to take the drastic steps necessary to curtail this rampant inflation, for here is what is going to happen. There will be 30 million retirees by year 2000, each receiving at least $36,000 per year in Soc. Sec. benefits, making an amazing total of $975 billion.

Of course, wages and dividends will be increased in proportion, making the taxes rise to meet the burden, so the employed and government will be as solvent as ever(?). But, as the 1960 retirees said in letters to Congress, back there in 1973, if drastic steps are not taken, soon a wheel barrow will be needed to tote the dollars to the market place, and a frustrated public will let another Hitler take over.

Therefore the senior with the new calculator says now is the time for the 1980 through 1980 retirees to close ranks and make sure all elected officials are actually going to do something about curtailing rampant inflation and not just make soothing noises before election.

CHAPTER EVENTS

A mighty effort is to be made to get the Senior Center project back on the track, as there is still no action at the Log Cabin site. The "Buy-A-Block-A-Month" is catching on with many joining the few that pledged last year. Gimmicks to get project off dead center are needed, so the Jensen Beach Mirror has renewed its offer to contribute a $9.50 subscription, that can be raffled off each month to a lucky holder of a Block (they are numbered) and Kitty Perry man has obtained some gift certificates from local merchants. 800 chapter members surely can think up some novel ideas, phone Bob Maurer 287-8589.

The Martin County Fair will be here before we know it. So Wendy Morris and his committee are busy with plans to have the booth more attractive than ever. Those who can spare a few hours tending the booth during the week of March 10-15, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., phone Wendy at 334-3339. Remember Tues. March 11, is Senior Citizen Day, seniors get a reduced price and the Colonial Penn Insurance consultant will be there, 1 to 6 p.m.

Regular monthly membership meeting will be held, Thur. Feb. 21, 1:30 p.m. in the 1st Presbyterian Church with Sheriff Holt and Lt. Bill Scott, talking about senior security, in the home, car and on the street. Also, Agnes Berg and her helpers will have refreshment ready when needed. This will be a good chance to get your 1980 dues paid up, collect your new membership card and sign up for the "Block-A-Month" club.

Tax Aid is going strong at both sites Mon. Fri., 9 to 1, at Stuart National Bank, and Tues. & Thur., 1 to 4, Wed. & Fri., 9 to noon, at the Anchorage Hostel (Rio).

Stang to talk about energy

"Are we really running out of energy?" is the title of a speech to be given at 8 p.m. Friday, March 14, by Alan Stang, at Howard Johnson's on U.S. 1 in Stuart.

Stang, an investigative reporter and a radio commentator, will speak about energy and the nation's future. His speech is sponsored by the Stuart Power Committee.

A poster about the speech states, "America has vast coal, oil and natural gas resources. Our nuclear power potential is almost without limit. Yet--because of contrived energy shortages--we are being asked to 'get by with less', to pay more, and to submit to even more government controls."

Detroit, 13 and snow. Chicago, 16 and snow. Buffalo, 9 and snow. Boston, 38 and sleet, reports the TV about every morning; so, no wonder there are more snow birds than usual, and no wonder there are lines at the gas pumps. However, Ocean Breezers are learning to deal with gasoline in short supply, by using their bikes and walking to Super-marts.

However, there is a lot of traffic to contend with and only the agile should attempt it, until there are 'bike paths' or sidewalks all the way. Also, there is a possibility of local senior citizens bus service, soon; see AARP column for details.

PARK EVENTS

THE SQUARE DANCERS kicked up their heels to the 'calling' of Dale McCory from 7:30 to 10:00 Thurs. Feb 14 and had a 'ball' with beginners getting a good work-out on 'Star-by-Right' and intermediates had a chance to review 'Relay-the-Deucey', then everybody got acquainted doing the 'Left-Footers-Onestep' and the 'Bingo Mixer'.

All who are interested in 'live caller square dancing' are urged to attend next Thurs Feb 21, 7:30 p.m. in the clubhouse, as there must be 10 or 12 sets to make it worth while for Dale to come down here from Melbourne.

THE CAMERA CLUB members are finding no problem with the shift from Tues to Thurs as the usual crowd of 100 attended Tues., Feb. 12 to hear France Gum tell about and show slides of their recent trip to Washington and Oregon. The snow capped mountains were awesome and the commentary sparkling.

Next week (Tues Feb 26) Ernie C will show slides of Galapogos, Machu Picchu and Amazon Jungle, then the following week, Doc Roberts will take the folks to Alaska.

Now for some details about the annual dinner, 6 p.m. Tues, Mar 18. There's a rumor floating around that at last the high mucky-muck officials are going to be put to work on the serving, instead of getting first chance at the 'goodies'. Here's what the members are to bring, a serving for 4 last names starting, A-J, salads, K-R, desserts, S-Z, vegetables, fund for their $1.00 ticket, they'll get a ½ baked chicken (all those who volunteered to bake the chickens, see Nina Zigelhofer). Tickets now on sale, bring $1.00 to next meeting, and see Nina, Freda, Sparky or Ernie.

There is a chance to have a special movie, the week following the dinner (Mar 25), all those interested, tell your officers and if there are enough to make it worth while, Freda will order the film.

THE SHUFFLERS were rained out at Whispering Creek, but will try again Thurs Feb 21. Central league posted 3 won for a 20 total and Indian River League won 8-2, but are still tied for 1st place with Spanish Lakes Round Robin, Feb 9. Peter Hillman, Ken Smith, Al Colby and for Feb 10: Bea Beyer.

Coming events: OBP Novice singles, Feb 21 and 22, then that outstanding feature, the battle of the sexes, Mar 27 and 28.

THE GOLFERS of the Ocean Breeze league, drive and putt regardless of weather, to come up with the following winners, Feb 9, C. Moss, B. Osgood, E. Frankam, H. Leuffgen, P. Felton. And for Feb 16: H. Fisher, J. Faust (2), B. Osgood, E. Moss.

THE ART CLASS is very active this year with Helen Smith, the Instructor. There are 16 to 20 students hard at it every Wed. 9 a.m. at Clement Hall, working on landscapes, seascapes, flowers and trees for the annual Art Show in the clubhouse in March.

GOLDEN WEDDING RECEPTIONS, that outstanding Ocean Breeze event will be held, Sun Feb 17, starting at 2 p.m. Each of the following couples will have their individual hostesses: M-M John E. Faust; M-M Louis Dodge; M-M Dick Gladden; M-M Alden Burham. All Ocean Breezers are invited.

STREET FAIR, Sun Mar 2, is what all the rumors were about, and now it can be told: from 2 p.m. to dusk, on 6th St. there will be popcorn, hot dogs, games of skill and chance, bingo, everything to make an afternoon of fun. Music, too, for there was this notice: "Do you play a musical instrument? Meet in Club House with your instrument, 3 p.m. Sat." signed Mar. 2 committee. So, save your pennies, nickles and dimes for the Street Fair, as any funds after expenses are paid will be donated to Ambulance or Fire Dept.

We're Giving The Power Back To The People...
The people of New York State have had it with foreign interests controlling the cost of energy. No longer will they settle for ever escalating costs of oil, over two-thirds of which now flows from foreign sources . . . a figure that converts to over 40% of New York's total energy use . . . but even more importantly, a figure that clearly imperils the future of the State of New York.
WE'VE GOT THEIR COMMITMENT...
NOW WE NEED YOURS
ENGINEERS
We need qualified, dedicated junior and senior engineering personnel with the academic credentials and on-job experience in the following disciplines through our New York State, to help us make this, the decade of deliverance from foreign dependency.

• QUALITY ASSURANCE ENGINEERING • INSERVICE INSPECTION ENGINEERING
• CIVIL STRUCTURAL ENGINEERING • NUCLEAR FUELS ENGINEERING
• MECHANICAL ENGINEERING • LICENSING ENGINEERING

OPTIMIST AUCTION—The Jensen Beach Optimist Club is planning an auction on Saturday, March 8 from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Langford Park in Jensen Beach. The auction is to raise money for a variety of sports the club sponsors, and donations of times to be auctioned off are sorely needed in order to make the event a success. Space has already been set aside to store items for the auction, and a club member will pick up those items for you. Two donated items that will be auctioned are a painting by Ruth Bowman and a color photo by Chris Perry. In the photo above, Mrs. Bowman displays her painting of a scene in the Savannas, and auction chairman Ed Funk displays Perry's photo.

Optimists still need items for auction

The Jensen Beach Optimist Club will conduct an auction from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 8, to raise funds to support a variety of sporting events for area youngsters.

Kids who like baseball, football, softball, soccer and cheerleading will benefit from the auction, and participation by all local residents, and parents of young children in particular, are urged to support the auction.

The club needs donations of items to auction off, and has already secured a place to store the items. And, club members will even pick up donated items for you.

All donations are tax deductible, and most any item that would be of value to anyone is needed. So, if you're cleaning out your garage, settling an estate, or just looking for a good excuse to get rid of an item you no longer need, call a club member to set up a time your donation can be picked up.

Ed Funk, chairman of the auction, said an upright piano has already been donated, but says many more items are needed. A painting of a scene in the Savannas by Ruth Bowman and a color photo by Chris Perry are also included in the list of items that will be up for bids at the auction.

One of the best auctioneers in the area, Roger Chaney, will conduct the bidding.

If you have an item to donate, call Funk at 334-0606, Dick L'Heureux, 334-1723; Herb Seal, 334-5271, or Frank Fitzpatrick, 334-4162.

Riverside Village

BY M. JOHNSON

Muriel Freebury has had company from Michigan, first her sister-in-law for several weeks and then her son and daughter-in-law.

Henry and Fray Johnson had their granddaughter, Connie, and husband, John Morgan, of Clarkston, Michigan surprise them. Connie and John enjoyed Carry-In dinner.

The "Sore Throat Monster" and his cousin "Coughing Goblin" are visiting in the park. I guess we should do as they do in China and wear masks over our mouths at all times. Drink lots of water and get your rest and stay away from crowds may prevent or help on the road to recovery.

Roy and Dorothy Corey have returned home to New York state after spending several months with her mother, Inez Karker. Inez has returned home with them.

Nel and Vicki Van Der Beke of Mishawaka, Ind. visited with Jerry and Mary Van Der Beke for several days. They have left to visit in Avon Park.

Charlie Christopher Cocary won Cover-all Tuesday night and Orpha Woodring and Lena McClintock shared Cover-all Friday night.

D. W. Mickey and wife are visiting his parents, Pete and Morean. Also, happy birthday, Norean.

Arlo and Bernice Trace celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last week.

The Hobby Ladies are planning a Bake Sale for the benefit of the Jensen Beach Firemen on March 8th. Exact time of day not set yet.

The Hobby group is also planning a pot luck luncheon and Penny Bingo for March 3rd at 12 p.m. This is becoming an annual affair with the ladies and it's always a delightful surprise at the many different dishes that are served.

A big "THANK YOU" to Pat for fixing the light on the shuffle court.

Several ladies from Riverside attended the noon luncheon and fashion show at the Community Church on February 13th. Hazel Brown was the only one of the group to win one of the many prizes. Ethel Noggle and Ruby Sausaman made some of the sandwiches and helped serve.

Hobby hostesses so far in February have been Marie Nawrocki and Louise Appel. Lena McClintock and Sarah Cox.

A "THANK YOU" to all friends in the park for their kindnesses of my second operation of January 22nd. I am now well on the mend. Florence Marks.

$500 WINNER—Sue Johnston, district manager for eight local Lil' General stores, won the company's $500 Mr. Clean award, for having the cleanest set of stores in a region from Orlando to Homestead. Sue is shown above accepting the check from division manager Stan Norman.

GREAT LISTENERS—Mariann and Fred Carter are found in a very l spot these days -- on the phone at their gracious Sandpiper Bay home. The corner is part of a large family room which overlooks the patio pool.

RITE LOUNGING SPOT—Dr. and Mrs. Fred Carter, when they find the pend it in the living end of the pool patio, or in the water. Dr. Carter is a or-health buff.

L GREETERS—Co-chairmen of the MMH Medical Society cruise ning welcome aboard some of the scores of guests taking advantage of g of fun. They are Mrs. Allen Hirshfield in dark shirt and Mrs. David n white sweater, seen checking passengers aboard. The fund went to 0 goal set this year for the annual drive which will finance new equip- the hospital.

Carter lured here by friends, golfing

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles about interesting homes in and around the Jensen Beach area, and of the fascinating people who inhabit them.)

Mariann and Fred Carter have known each other "forever."

Dr. Carter and his wife have very little time to live in it these days, but they own one of the most livable and attractive homes in Sandpiper Bay, where they take full advantage of the golfing and the fishing. They also put to full use their patio swimming pool, where they admit to occasional skinny dipping when no one is looking.

Dr. and Mrs. Carter, in their five years as Lucielanders, have been giving more than fair share of themselves to the community they have adopted. A member of the Martin Memorial Medical Staff, Dr. Carter is president of the Martin County Medical Society, a member of the key long-range planning committee for the hospital, and representative for the district in the Florida Medical Society.

In addition to being the perfect housewife and hostess, Mariann is active in the Port St. Lucie Women's Club, and was presented with a silver service for her outstanding work as its membership chairman.

As nearly everyone knows by now, Dr. and Mrs. Carter are co-chairmen with Dr. and Mrs. Duane Stemle for this year's Hospital Ball, and the Lord Himself couldn't have picked a more compatible team for the job. In the first place, they share the same enthusiasm for the well-being of the hospital, and in the second place, the two doctors are brother Sigma Chis from Indiana. Age difference has no meaning to fellow Sigs.

And they enjoy golf together, the distaff side of both couples playing approximately the same type of game. Their classic record was a six hour round.

"The girls could have kicked the ball farther than they could hit 'em," the quiet but jovial Dr. Carter says.

The Carter home on Ginza in Sandpiper Bay, is "one of your ordinary run of the mill mansions," from the outside. But the interior is a showcase, filled with beautiful furniture enhanced by personal treasures. Oriental rugs on the wall-to-wall carpet mark the conversation areas for both living room and formal dining room, and the sofa is personalized by pillows, needlepointed by their daughter Catherine (Mrs. Bill) McGary of St. Petersburg.

Most of the family's relaxed living is done in the family room spanning the back of the home and overlooking the contoured pool, which also has an entrance through the master bedroom bath. Brass beds give character both to the master bedroom and the guest room, where the children are put up when they visit.

A third room, originally meant for a bedroom, is Dr. Carter's hideaway, his desk sharing honors with a television set and gun cabinet. Among other things, the doctor is a Nimrod, and is equipped for everything from quail hunting to skeet shooting.

Mariann and Fred were evidently fated for each other from the beginning.

"I first knew him in fourth grade," she recalls. "Our parents and grandparents were all good friends in Hammond, Ind."

The marriage of Mariann and Fred Carter, who received his medical degree from Indiana University, produced three children, all of whom they are rightfully proud. In addition to Catherine, who is president of the branch bank in St. Pete, they have Carol (Mrs. Rene) Gautier, a paramedic in Toronto, Canada, and son Jeff, an insurance risk specialist in Michigan County, Indiana.

They chose Port St. Lucie, they said, because they had been visiting friends for years and "coming down for the golf."

Martin County can be thankful for that choice.

WORKERS RELAX—Dr. and Mrs. Duane Stemle, co-chairman of the annual Martin Memorial Hospital ball with the Dr. Fred Carters, take time out for relaxation on the down-the-river cruise on the Hy-Line cruiser, given by members of the MMH Medical Society Auxiliary. Doctors, nurses and paramedics turned out full force for the evening of cruising, dining and dancing.

THE CAPTAIN BOLD—Capt. Eddie Sullivan gives the Mirror camera an engaging smile from his high post during the (no)-moonlight trip down the river, to benefit the Martin Memorial Hospital Ball Fund. Capt. Eddie kept things lively by spotlighting herons, egrets and an occasional eagle nesting for the night in the treetops.

ERS—Both dancers and foot-tappers were oard the East Chop Saturday night, during ise down the river aboard the East Chop, by wingable and singable songsters who entertained throughout the evening. The fun-for-funds was for the benefit of the Martin Memorial Hospital Ball fund, and sponsored by the Martin Memorial Medical Society auxiliary.

HOSPITALITY HOUSE—The home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Carter could very well have the official "hospitality house" label, with all the people passing through its portals these days. The Carters and the Dr. Duane Stemles have half the populace swarming through their doors in preparation for the annual Martin Memorial Hospital Ball, which will take place March 15 at the Sandpiper.

Shop Publix Italian Food Festival

where shopping is a pleasure

Prices and Coupons Effective Thursday, February 21st, thru Wednesday, February 27, 1980. Quantity Rights Reserved

Shop Publix Italian Food Festival because the taste of Italy has always made good sense. Spaghetti, manicotti, ravioli ... these are the dishes Florida cooks learned to love back in the 1930s. Their families loved them, too. Because hearty pasta dishes smothered in sauce were as economical as they were delicious. It's still that way today. Especially since Publix has all the ingredients you'll need to make an Italian feast a taste sensation at your house this evening.

The Haas Museum of St. Petersburg, generously provided the antique items appearing in Publix weekly television commercials.

Stuart National's Northside opens on US 1 in Jensen

Stuart National Bank's Northside branch, on the east side of U.S. #1, just north of 707A, opened for business recently. Residents of South Port St. Lucie, North River Shores and those living along U.S. #1 will have the convenience of Stuart National's innovative banking ideas without the inconvenience of making a special trip to the downtown office.

John R. O'Neill, a resident of Port St. Lucie, has been named manager of the new branch. O'Neill, who has 12 years banking experience and formerly managed the Stuart National branch at 1500 East Ocean Boulevard, said, "Every service that has made Stuart National noted will be available at Northside."

Access to the bank will be from U.S. #1 and from Jack Williams Way, a new street constructed in conjunction with the Northside branch. Williams, president of the Stuart National Bank, pointed out, "Northside is one more step in our campaign of determination to meet every need of our customers. The fact that residents in the area of the Northside branch will now enjoy the convenience of banking north of the Roosevelt Bridge reinforces the tenets of our Gas Miser program."

The Gas Miser Program was conceived to meet escalating gasoline prices, and to save customers time, travel and inconvenience.

Stuart National Bank has put together a package of time and travel savers such as automatic transfer agreements, drive-in mail deposit of regular payments, and taking advantage of banking services by telephone. The entire package is designed to reduce the number of visits an individual must make to the bank.

Northside, as well as the main office of Stuart National at 301 E. Ocean Boulevard, and the full service branches at Monterey Plaza, Indian River Plantation and 1500 E. Ocean Boulevard will be full participants in the Gas Miser Program.

The new Northside building contains 3,300 square feet including a spacious lobby, safe deposit boxes, a night depository and five drive-in windows. Weekday banking hours will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday hours will include 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the lobby and 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the drive-in windows.

Genealogy seminar is February 25

A genealogy seminar will be held at the Martin County Library on Monday, February 25, at 1:30 p.m. The speaker will be Mrs. Eileen Willis who has been head of the Genealogy Dept. of the Orlando Public Library for thirteen years.

Mrs. Willis background, education, work experience, the organizations to which she belongs, the workshops she has attended all prove that she is an authority in her field.

The lecture is open to the public. It is being sponsored by the Stuart Workshop of the Palm Beach Co. Genealogical Society, which meets monthly at the Martin County library, and also by the Halpatiokee Chapter of the DAR.

Priest to talk at Holiday Inn

A missionary priest just back from the Holy Land and Europe will speak on Our Lady of Fatima's Third Secret this Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Holiday Inn on U.S. 1 in Stuart.

The public is invited and the talk is free. Those attending are urged to bring their Rosary.

Improvements completed at JD State Park

A $287,000 program to expand and upgrade facilities at Jonathan Dickinson State Park, and allowing for better use and protection of park resources, has recently been completed.

Improvements include a paved access road, two new paved parking areas at the picnic area, boat ramp extension and stabilization of the road leading to the boat ramp. New water, sewer and electric lines were also installed.

The 10,284-acre park consists of sand pine scrub, pine flatwoods, mangrove river swamp and the Loxahatchee River. Visitors can observe unique animals such as the bald eagle, scrub jay, manatee, red cockaded woodpecker and Florida sandhill crane.

The Loxahatchee River is an excellent resource for swimming, canoeing, fishing and nature study. The park also offers picnicking, horseback riding, bicycling and camping.

The park was named for a Quaker, Jonathan Dickinson, who was shipwrecked in that vicinity in 1696. Administered and operated by the Florida Department of Natural Resources, the park is located about 12 miles south of Stuart.

Golf and tennis benefits to help fund Martin Memorial

Crane Creek Golf and Racquet Clubs are sponsoring the Martin Memorial Hospital Golf and Tennis Benefits the weekend of March 8th, at Martin Downs in Palm City.

Proceeds from the benefits will be used to purchase a Recovery Room Monitor for Martin Memorial Hospital in Stuart. The hospital's recovery room currently has only two of twelve beds monitored—two units less than recommended for a recovery room of that size.

The success of the First Annual Martin Memorial Hospital Golf Benefit held at Crane Creek in 1979, triggered the idea for an annual fund-raiser in tandem with the new Crane Creek Racquet Club. For a $50 tax-deductible entry fee per team, the public is invited to participate in the Crane Creek Golf Tourney on Saturday, March 8. Prizes for the First Place Team are one year memberships to Crane Creek Golf Club.. A 1980 automobile, courtesy of Ajmty Buick Pontiac in Stuart, will be awarded to the Hole-In One winner. Jetson Appliance Center has donated a microwave oven for the Closest To The-Hole winner. And, the player who wins the Longest Drive category will receive a gift certificate from the Crane Creek Golf Pro Shop.

The recently opened Crane Creek Racquet Club will host the Benefit's Tennis Tournaments on Saturday and Sunday, March 8th and 9th, for a tax deductible entry fee of $25 per person.

Each tennis division winner will receive a $50 gift certificate from the Crane Creek Tennis Pro Shop. A $25 gift certificate will be presented to each division runner up.

An awards presentation and cocktail party for both tennis and golf participants follow Saturday's events from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Crane Creek Golf Club.

Wanda Mabaraj, Crane Creek Racquet Club professional, and Jay Pyle, Crane Creek Golf Club head professional, have enlisted the cooperation of area golf and tennis pros to promote the benefits community wide.

Entry blanks and details of the events are available at local club pro shops. Checks should be made payable to Martin Memorial Hospital. All registrants will be contacted by the Crane Creek Club pros with information on starting times.

Martin Memorial Hospital, a private non-profit facility, has grown from 10 to 647 employees since its inception in 1969. It has a licensed bed capacity of 280, with an average daily census of 180 patients anticipated for 1980.

For more information on the Martin Memorial Hospital Golf and Tennis benefits at Crane Creek, contact Wanda Maharaj at 283-4416, or Jay Pyle at 286-3680.

Wild turkey convention

More than 1500 wild turkey enthusiasts and their families are expected to converge on Alachua County Fairgrounds when the Florida Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation assembles for the fifth annual convention Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Feb. 22, 23 and 24, in Gainesville.

Big-name turkey callers like Ben Rogers Lee, Tom Rogers, Rob Keck, and Fred Bear will participate in programs designed to educate members in conservation and proper methods of calling the wirey bird, how to conceal oneself, and of course, tall tales about the birds bagged.

The program will begain Friday evening with films and displays by exhibitors. Saturday will feature speakers like Rogers and Lee, game biologist, and three wild turkey calling contests. The Florida Junior calling contest will get underway at 3:15 p.m. followed by the Florida State Championship at 3:45, and the Southern Open Championship at 4:30.

Chapel services will begin Sunday morning with gospel singing and the convention will conclude with a business meeting of the Florida Chapter.

Tennis

By Tom Falkenburg

So many things have happened to me in the last two weeks, to me and very close to me.

One, the always cheerful editor Dick Campbell calling me and asking if I would write a tennis related article each week in this most progressive and reflecting Mirror.

This has not been a normal fortnight. February 1, 2 and 3, I was one of the lucky tennis pros invited to play in the Turnberry Isle Pro-Celebrity Classic.

I enjoyed playing against and beating Rod Laver (double grand-slam winner). Rod is an awfully nice guy, but his partner messed his second lesson.

Another match pitted me against Neis Van Patten and later, his father Dick (Eight is enough). Then I met his wife when I talked with long distance about a wild card in our American Express Tourney for son Vince. Boy, has he ever come along. Last May he had no points, and now has 43 in world ranking. Vince was also there and he thanked me for giving him his first break.

There were too many more pros and celebs there to mention all. One I must mention, my old Amigo Pancho Segura and Jimmy Conners walked out on my court to shake hands when I was rallying with Homer Green from Hobe Sound. Greene also played in the pro-am.

Coincidentally, thirty minutes later, Pancho and Homer were drawn as partners and Homer came home with the largest trophy. Homer has many trophies, but they are all for boat racing.

The three day merry-go-round of parties, tennis and parties were climaxed by Burt Reynolds and Carol Burnett arriving by helicopter, giving thirty minutes of banter and a quick exit again in the fancey low flying helicopter.

As soon as I arrived home, friends were calling to see if I had seen brother Bob on tv playing in the Bing Crosby pro-am. Unfortunately, I missed it as I was playing at the same time. The Bing Corsby pro-am is probably the best clambake I have ever witnessed. I was fortunate to have played in it in 1963 and 1964.

On Sunday, February 10, Connie and I went out to dinner, arriving home at 9 p.m. switched on the tube and there was Bob Hope talking with sister Jinx. Just like in tennis, timing is everything.

This also brought back many old memories. I ran into Jinx on three USO trips during World War Two, once in Rome, Italy, Karachi, India and Chunking, China. And then my commanding officer, Col. John McCrary said we had to get to Delhi right away. The urgent business was he wanted to become my brother-in-law in a hurry. Tex married Jinx, and two days later we were off photographing Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

I was the first person off the plane when we landed in Nagasaki, six days after the atom bomb was exploded. No one knew anything about radiation, and no it hasn't killed me yet.

I also saw one of our neighbors, Frances Langford on the Hope Show, and around the world.

Many people have asked, "Where is Jinx, and what is she doing?" She is still married to Tex, has two sons, lives in Manhasset, Long Island, and winters in Lyford Kay. She is on the board of Northshore Hospital, plays golf almost every day, and has been to visit here twice.

Next week, I am going to snoop around Nettles Island to see who won the big tennis tournament, then check out the action at Langford Park, and keep an eye on Indian River Plantation.

Ocean Village hosts annual tennis classic

From Jacksonville to Miami, club pros and touring pros are tuning up for the Second Annual Ocean Village Tennis Classic.

Terry Harper, the resident pro at Ocean Village, expects the draw to double in only its second year. "Last Year we had 32 pros competing," Harper said. "This year's tournament is scheduled to run from February 29 through March 2. The deadline for entries is 6 p.m. on the 23rd, and the way they're coming in it looks like we'll have a draw of 64."

According to Harper, tennis fans can anticipate three days of superb court action, and public admission to all matches is free.

Touring pro Mark Horner of Clearwater, the defending champion in the men's singles division, will be back for another shot at the $500 first prize.

Ron Lague, playing out of the Bay Meadows Club in Jacksonville, and Gordon Jones, playing out of Sawgrass in Jacksonville, are expected to take the court to defend their men's doubles crown worth $400.

Harper pointed out that he invites all area pros and selected F.T.A. (Florida Tennis Association) members. "The only qualifications you need to enter," he said, "is a $20 entry fee for men's singles, a $10 per player entry fee for men's doubles and a current U.S.T.A. (United States Tennis Association) membership."

Sanctioned by both the U.S.T.A. and the F.T.A., the Classic will be contested on nine of Ocean Village's 10 courts. The tenth will be used to construct center court seating with a capacity up to 500.

BEACH EROSION has taken a heavy toll on the north end of Jupiter Island where a state park is planned to open around the early part of 1983. For years, the sea has gnawed the beach, bit by bit, and as can be seen above, the erosion has resulted in a beach where Australian Pines once thrived. Once inlet improvements are made, officials hope installation of a new jetty will lessen erosion. And, there will be periodic beach renourishments as part of the inlet project. # Jensen Art Festival is at Langford Park

Artists from many states and throughout south Florida are preparing for the 14th annual Jensen Beach Outdoor Art Festival this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, at Langford Park.

The artists will begin setting up their displays early Saturday morning on the baseball field. Assignments for display space will be awarded by the registration desk, manned by Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce art festival committee members.

Dr. Richard Q. Penick, chairman of the Chamber-sponsored festival, said that a record number of artists have already pre-registered. Artists can register by signing the form at the Jensen Chamber of Commerce office at 1910 Commercial Street, Jensen Beach, or by mailing their name and address and $3 registration fee to the above address.

All paintings should be original works in oil, acrylic, water or pastel.

Exhibitors can request specific display space, but the spaces will be awarded on a 1st request basis, and other spaces to registrants on the site Saturday morning. The ball field fence is available for exhibits, unless the artists desire to bring their own display panels to erect on the field.

There will be no judging, but if the art work is for sale, standard 3x5 inch cards should be affixed to the painting with the price and the name of the artist.

"It really is amazing the fine works of art that people can buy at the festival," Penick said. The local doctor and his wife are both artists, and Penick said that he had acquired many over the fourteen years of the festival in Jensen Beach.

The art festival committee is Penick, Ernie Baker, Jayne Peterson, and Dr. William Hogan.

The Jensen Lions will be serving a pancake breakfast on Sunday.

DR. RICHARD PENICK, who is heading up this year's Jensen Beach Art Festival, shows a painting he bought at an earlier Jensen Art Festival. The clown was painted by Mrs. M. Kelly of the Melbourne area, and Dr. Penick says she'll be back this year. In fact, artists from throughout the nation will show their works at the festival this Saturday and Sunday at Langford Park.

Famous preacher will be at Community Church Sunday

One of the nation's outstanding ministers, Dr. Lewis Raymond, pastor of historic Old Stone Church in Cleveland, Ohio, speaks at the Jensen Beach Community Church, Sunday, March 2.

Dr. Raymond, pastor at Old Stone Church since 1958, is a close friend of Paul H. Goudell, chairman of the Official Board of the Community Church. The Cleveland pastor will speak at both morning services Sunday. Cleveland area people living or wintering in this area are invited to meet Dr. Raymond during the "coffee hour" in the Fellowship Hall between his pulpit appearances at 9 and 11 o'clock.

One of the country's leading news magazines has rated Dr. Raymond as among the top 10 preachers in the nation. He has traveled extensively throughout the states and abroad. He and Mrs. Raymond were sent by the Jewish Community of Cleveland on a study tour of Israel which was climaxed by a private audience with Pope Paul VI at the Vatican.

The Cleveland minister's civic contributions to Ohio's largest city are many. He is a past president of the Cleveland Rotary Club, second largest Rotary Club in the world, and is a 33rd Degree Mason, the highest elective honor in Masonry. His activities in Cleveland include membership on organizations which lead public opinion and progress in that city. Dr. Raymond has been chosen to give the keynote address next August in San Antonio, Texas, at the annual conference of Community Churches. In 1974, when the conference was held in Detroit, he was also the keynote speaker.

As the ninth pastor of Old Stone Church, founded in 1920, on Cleveland's Public Square, Dr. Raymond helped guide his congregation through the construction of a $1,300,000 Parish House. He works constantly with young people, has been the "Religious Emphasis Week" speaker on numerous college campuses, and has delivered more than 50 commencement addresses to graduating college students throughout the United States.

Jensen Beach Community Church plans Lent programs

Four Sunday evening special programs will feature the Lenten season in March at the Jensen Beach Community Church, 3900 N.E. Skyline Drive.

The series begins Sunday, March 2 with communion and a hymn sung from 5 to 5:30 p.m. followed by a Lenten supper and a program. In charge of the supper are Lillian Carbone and Kate Turbyne. At 6:30 p.m. there will be a program "China" by Gilbert and Lois Liebenow of Chicago who winter at Beachwood Villas on Hutchinson Island. The Liebenows were members of the South Church in the Chicago area when Dr. John DiGangi, minister of the Jensen Beach Community Church, was pastor.

The second Lenten program on March 9 will also begin with communion and a hymn sung from 5 to 5:30 p.m. and the Lenten supper at 5:45 p.m. will be hosted and served by the Men's Brotherhood of the church. Following the supper, a program "Winds of Change" by Dr. and Mrs. DiGangi will tell of the work of the Bible and Medical Missionary Fellowship in India and Nepal. Dr. DiGangi's brother, Dr. Mariano DiGangi, who spoke recently at the Jensen Beach Community Church, is Canadian director of the Fellowship and chairman of its International Council.

On March 16, the Lenten program opens with the communion and hymn sing at 5 p.m. and will be followed by the Lenten supper by the "Pairs and Spares" church group. At 6:30 p.m. the program given by the children's choir will include "Clowns for Christ." It will highlight mimes from Redeemer Lutheran Church in Stuart.

The series concludes March 23 with the communion and hymn sing again at 5 p.m., Lenten supper in charge of the Church Aid Circle, and a film "Journey To Jerusalem". Paul Goodell, chairman of the official board of the Jensen Beach Community Church will be coordinating the film presentation.

Report on diseased mullet to be given next Wednesday

Answers to questions concerned diseased mullet and other species found recently in the St. Lucie River and adjacent canals will be offered by the biologist in charge of the investigation at the next First Wednesday scheduled for 8 p.m. March 5 at the Environmental Studies Center.

David K. Nickerson Jr., biologist with the Marine Resources Laboratory of the Dept. of Natural Resources said he hoped to have "a few answers by then." The investigation was launched in January after large numbers of mullet and other fish were found to be suffering severe lesions and rotting fins and flesh. Researchers were quoted as saying it was a wonder some of the fish were still alive considering the extent of the lesions they suffered.

Nickerson intends to open his program with a film "Drop by Drop to the Sea" which, he says, "illustrates problems similar to those involved with the St. Lucie area mullet phenomenon." He will follow this with remarks about the local situation which he hopes to illustrate with color slides.

The public is cordially invited to the presentation. There is no charge.

Five charges against student

Wellesley S. Eldemire, 20, of Toronto, Canada, was arrested around midnight Sunday and charged with two counts of burglary, night prowling, battery, and exposure of sexual organs.

Eldemire is a student at Florida Institute of Technology.

Sheriff's officials alledge that Eldemire was prowling at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley of 1780 Media Street near the FIT campus and allegedly peered in a window and then exposed himself.

Sheriff's Deputy Rich Ruffo was called and a short time later Eldemire was reportedly found burglarizing the home of Richard West at 2008 Ridge Avenue.

Deputies report rolls of quarters valued at $50 were found in Eldemire's pocket and say he admitted to an assault and another burglary. Bond for all the charges totals $2,005, and as of Monday afternoon, he has not bonded out of the Martin County Jail.

Vasectomy up for bidding at auction March 8

If you're looking for a gift for the man who has everything, including a house full of children, you might consider going to the Jensen Beach Optimist Club's rummage auction on Saturday, March 8.

The Optimists have been out collecting items for the auction and last week came up with a rather unusual donation. A local doctor has agreed to perform a vasectomy for the person bidding the highest amount. So, if you want a vasectomy, or know someone who does, you might want to place a bid.

The auction will be held at Langford Park in Jensen Beach from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Roger Chancey will be auctioneer.

Each of the [illegible] among other items donated are a [illegible] able television set by Wilcox-Hardy, a sliding glass door, a love seat, tables, fishing rods, outboard motors, desks, tools and chairs.

The club has a $27,000 operating budget and the auction is to raise money for that budget. The club sponsors a variety of sports for area children, including baseball, softball, soccer, football and cheerleading.

2ND GRADERS at Jensen Beach Elementary participate in a Patriotic Day program at the school last week and have impressive performances. The students seemed to enjoy themselves, but to have learned a few lessons in American history too. Shown above, from the left, are: Stacey Ammons, Jeri VanCuren and Kerri Larsen. For more details and photos on the event, see inside today's issue of The Mirror.

Luciano fears house or life may be claimed by arsonist

BY BOB FRYER

Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Chief Joe Luciano said Tuesday evening that if an arsonist who has been setting a number of fires in the area over recent months isn't caught soon, someone could lose a house and possibly a life.

For the past few months, there have been a disturbingly large number of fires in the Jensen area that firemen are certain were deliberately set. The fires come and go in spurts, with sometimes half a dozen in a week, then a dropoff in activity only to be followed by a new rash of fires. For awhile the arsonist seemed to alternate, setting fire in a trash dumpster one night, a woods fire the next day, and a dumpster fire the next night.

The brush fires have mostly been set west of the developed areas of Jensen, either in woods off Commercial Street or Savanna Road. And the acreage burned is mounting up, probably to The last two fires really have Luciano worried.

"This person is getting very careless, whoever the person is is very inconsiderate of people's lives," he said.

Luciano explained that the last two fires set in approximately the same area west of Savanna Road, were both potentially very dangerous.

One fire was set Monday afternoon and the other around 4 p.m. Tuesday. On both days, the winds were high, and Luciano says in both cases they were definitely deliberately set.

It is the high winds that worries Luciano. He said in both cases if his men had not gotten there to stop the fires before they got too large, they could have blown into the Town and Country development and claimed a house, possible a life.

Additionally, the fires are costly to the department, as several trucks have been damaged trying to get through wooded areas to combat the fires.

The last two fires were started in woods behind the Coy and Deggler Construction trailer, west of Savanna Road. On Monday, five Jensen Beach and two Rio fire trucks were sent in, and on Tuesday, there were six Jensen and three Rio trucks dispatched to the blaze. The fire Monday claimed about five acres and Luciano said "quite a few acres" were burned Tuesday.

Luciano urged citizens to keep an eye out for anyone coming out of wooded areas. "If we don't catch this idiot soon, we could lost a house or a life," he said.
